OMB Won't Delay Hearing on Plaza

Zoning Issue Raised

By Donald Soutter

First round in the 'Great Shopping Centre Debate' went to the City of Belleville this morning when Ontario Municipal Board officials overruled a motion by counsel Robert Macauley that the hearing be adjourned.

The decision brought cheers from the spectators and a warning from hearing chairman R. M. McGuire that such outbreaks were not wanted.

Debate on the actual problem as to whether or not Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd., should be allowed to build a 187,000 square foot shopping plaza on North Front street at Highway 401 went a procedural merry-go-round for the first 75 minutes.

Crux of the matter was an opening statement by Thurlow township solicitor Douglas Bateman that an October amendment to its proposed township zoning bylaw was designed to rule out the construction of a shopping plaza in the area north of Highway 401 and south of Cloverleaf Drive. The complicating factor was that the Ontario Municipal Board had in May of 1969 given a temporary

Record U.S. Budget Raises Home Outlay

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — President Nixon presented a record United States budget for the 1971 fiscal year today, calling for expenditures of $200,800,000,000 and a surplus of $1,300,000,000.

The budget, Nixon's first is the first in U.S. history to climb over the $200,000,000,000 mark.

It calls for cuts in over-all defence outlays, foreign aid, "low priority" domestic programs and the space program, among other things.

But it seeks increased spending on seven home-front programs including welfare, anti-crime and anti-pollution efforts —"our most urgent domestic needs."

The president told Congress that his "anti-inflationary" budget begins the "necessary process of re-ordering our national priorities" and added that for the first time in two decades, the federal government will spend more money on human resource programs than on national defence.

National defence makes up 37 per cent of the budget while human resource programs, including education, health, manpower and income maintenance, commands 41 per cent.

Despite the money squeeze on the defence department, Nixon said his budget will enable the U.S. "to met our international responsibilities by seeking an honorable peace in Vietnam, by maintaining sufficient military power to deter potential aggressors, (and) by exploring with the Soviet Union possible limitations on strategic arms. . . ."

Despite aid cuts, the responsibilities would be met by "encouraging multi-lateral trade, expanded trade, and a greater measure of economic self-help for developing nations of the world."

He said the government will launch a "major effort to improve environmental quality by attacking air and water pollution . . . and by developing a better understanding of our environment and man's impact upon it."

To help make ends meet, Nixon announced a speedup, worth $1,200,000,000 in 1971, in the collection of excise taxes and incomes taxes withheld by employers.

At the same time he asked for other revenue-boosters, some of which are sure to meet heavy resistance in Congress.

These include a variety of "user charges," higher postal rates, a vast $750,000,000 disposal of commodities stockpiled by the government to meet defence emergencies and the sale of the government-owned Alaska Railroad for more than $100,000,000.

The two sales represent more than half of his intended surplus and if Congress balks at them his budget will be in trouble.

Nixon also disclosed that government costs increased in the current fiscal year to the extent that the surplus of $5,900,000,000 planned for next June has slipped to $1,500,000,000—with total government outlays in the order of $197,600,000,000.

Park Turf Damaged

Snowmobilers Told To Wait for Snow

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

Warmer temperatures and rain have put a damper on the use of snowmobiles at Zwick's Island Park.

A spokesman for the Parks Board stressed that since the temperatures and rain have eliminated much of the snow in the area, officials are requesting that the park not be used for snowmobiling at the present time.

He explained that because of the lack of an adequate snow covering, the use of snowmobiles at Zwick's Island Park is causing damage to turf areas, especially on the inclines.

"We are asking snowmobilers to wait until there is at least a three to four inch snow covering before snowmobiling is resumed at the park," he added, indicating that the use of the parking lots by snowmobilers for unloading purposes may be continued.

Argentine Rail Crash Kills Over 150 People

BUENOS AIRES (CP) — A speeding cross-country Argentine express train slammed into the rear of a halted suburban train near Buenos Aires Sunday night, killing more than 150 persons in one of the worst railway disasters in history.

Police said 102 bodies had been brought this morning to a police station in General Pascheco, a suburb 25 miles outside Buenos Aires. More dead were en route from the scene.

Police reported 300 to 400 persons were injured. Col. Eduardo Anibal Navas, police chief of Buenos Aires Province, said many of the injured were in critical condition.

Maximo Blanco, a signalman, was taken into police custody but no charge was made against him. Police said he had been working at a signal station near the crash site, a mile from the railway station at Pachecho on the lonely pampa.

A railway station three miles from the scene of the wreck was attacked 90 minutes before the crash, but the province police chief said the attack apparently had no connection with the wreck. He declined to say who the attackers were or to give any details, but anti-government terrorists have attacked a number of police and railway stations in recent months.

Officials of the state-owned Argentine Railways Co. said the 21-car express, en route from the northern city of San Miguel de Tucuman to Buenos Aires, plowed into the rear of a 10-car suburban train which had stopped due to mechanical trouble about a mile from a lonely stop on the pampa 25 miles west of the capital. The suburban train was jammed with passengers returning to Buenos Aires from a summer weekend in the country.

Radio stations in the Buenos Aires area broadcast emergency bulletins far into the night calling for blood donors and volunteers to aid rescue workers using blow torches and cranes to remove mangled bodies from the twisted wreckage.

It was the worst train wreck in Argentine history. The worst ever recorded occurred at Modane, France, on Dec. 12, 1917, when 543 persons were killed in the derailment of a passenger train.

There was no official explanation for the crash. But an unofficial report said a signalman had not warned the express, which was moving at an estimated 65 miles an hour, that the local train was stopped in its path. Another report said the express had been accidentally switched onto the same track as the local.

Eugenio Armando del Pine, a passenger on the suburban train, said smoke from fires in the area blanketed the halted train and could have hampered the visibility of the engineer aboard the express.

Officials of the General Mitre Line, which operated both of the trains, said the local train carried about 1,090 passengers and the express about 400.

The express derailed four of the suburban train's coaches and telescoped three of them. The express was running with two diesels and the first was split by the crash.

Both the engineer and the machinist aboard the express diesel were believed to be among the dead. The engineer of the suburban train was injured.

"We were going very, very fast when all of a sudden everything exploded and people went everywhere," said Maria Isabel Algodon, a 40-year-old housewife who was in a car near the middle of the express.

Prime Minister and Cops Are Running Lesotho

MASERU (AP) — "The prime minister and the cops are running the country," a highly-placed Lesotho official said today as police continued to round up political opponents of Prime Minister Chief Leabua Jonathan.

More than 30 men, most of them candidates or officials of the Basutoland Congress Party, have been arrested since Friday when Chief Jonathan declared a state of emergency in the tiny African country and suspended the constitution. On Saturday, he declared the parliamentary election last week invalid.

Jonathan's Basutoland National party and the BCP had each won 23 seats in the 60-seat parliament, the official count indicated, when the prime minister voided the vote. But BCP Leader Ntsu Mokhehle claimed 33 seats, a majority of six. He was the first man arrested.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A mass of very cold Arctic air is pushing rapidly southward and eastward across the upper Great Lakes. This cold air will continue to sag southeastward. Rain which has begun in southwestern sections of Ontario will spread rapidly northeastward but will change to a few hours of snow after the passage of the storm as the cold air up north floods southward in its wake. Tuesday's weather calls for windy very cold weather along with a few snowflurries for all regions of the province.

White Paper Seen Increasing Taxes

TORONTO (CP) — Federal proposals on tax reform are inflationary, unfair to provinces, municipalities and some sections of industry and amount to a large-scale exercise in tax-raising, Ontario Treasurer Charles MacNaughton said Sunday night.

The treasurer issued an advance copy of a statement containing the province's views on the federal white paper on tax reform. The statement will be presented by Mr. MacNaughton today at a meeting of provincial finance ministers in Quebec City.

Ontario's criticism, the statement said, is based on a computer study of the federal white paper which, although incomplete, shows that federal estimates of potential revenue gains have been "greatly underestimated."

"Ontario's analysis shows that the over-all tax increase in Canada resulting from full implementation of the white paper

Little Hope of Quick Accord Seen in U.S. Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hoping to avert a rail shutdown throughout the United States before a court-ordered cooling-off period expires next week, government officials worked today to arrange a settlement between industry and union negotiators.

Negotiators for both sides, however, saw little hope of a quick settlement from today's talks.

The dispute reached the brink of a nationwide shutdown Saturday night before a federal judge here halted a strike against Union Pacific Railroad by four shopcraft unions and the threatened coast-to-coast retaliatory lockout by the railways.

The 10-day postponement ordered by District Judge John J. Sirica gave the federal labor department time to call for more bargaining talks before it turns to other means to resolve the dispute, now in its 14th month.

Assistant Labor Secretary W. J. Usery arranged Sunday for new talks and top negotiators for both sides—William P. Winpisinger for the unions, John P. Hiltz for the railways—agreed to come to any meeting called by the government.

"We told him we are agreeable to meetings," Hiltz said. "As long as we are talking there's always a chance" of a settlement.

Winpisinger had said he saw no immediate prospect of breaking the deadlock.

On the surface, the administration remained optimistic that the parties will reach a settlement without congressional intervention.

If the Saturday shutdown had not been halted by court action, sources said, the administration was ready to seek immediate congressional action, presumably compulsory arbitration.

Thurlow Zoning Mixup Sparks Hearing Debate

approval to a bylaw which permitted such a development and to the subsequent issuing of a building permit in June to Harvey J. McFarland of Picton for the construction of a shopping plaza.

Mr. Bateman said the position of his council was that he was to attend the hearing and inform the board of the township's desire to provide adequate zoning. He related the steps taken from 1966 until the present in efforts to bring into law the township's first zoning bylaw.

The incongruity of Thurlow's stand "opened the door for Mr. Macauley to make his motion" said Cambridge vice president Ronald Ellenwood during recess when board members R. M. McGuire and A. L. McCrae retired to make their decision as to whether the hearing should continue.

Mr. Macauley was quick to attempt to take advantage of the situation and suggested the board was in a "silly position". He suggested it would be appropriate "the board recommend to Thurlow that the October amendment be circulated and then we should come back. I think we should adjourn. You can't proceed. I think it is unfair that through sloppy management at the municipal level we face a third hearing."

The relative good - natured argument of the eight - day first hearing a year ago seems to be breaking down this morning as the possibility of another delay loomed.

"Belleville should not be put into a position of waiting until Thurlow gets its bylaws in order," was city solicitor Guss Porter's rejoinder to Mr. Macauley's motion.

To Mr. Macauley's argument that the Quinte area was faced with the possibility of not one but two shopping plazas, usually mild-mannered Robert Robinson, counsel for Cambridge snapped sharply: "There has to be a time when a clear cut decision must be made for one and all.

"Mr. Macauley's position is understandable. For every six months of delay he can gain it is six months of benefit for his client. But every month of delay which is a gain for his client does too much harm to this community which wants a new zoning."

Mr. Macauley's concern also that "the first hearing cost my clients $40,000 and I think it unfair we should go through a second and then a third," brought equally short answer from Mr. Robinson.

"Options are expensive, too," he said. "And every month of delay costs my clients more and brings the possibility the options might not be able to be renewed."

Proving he was adept at handling criticism, Mr. Macauley reminded the board that the delay encountered since a hearing date of last October "was at the request of the city of Belleville at the suggestion of Cambridge."

Mr. Macauley's suggestion that the Quinte area could be faced with two shopping plazas again brought a quick answer from Mr. Robinson that "my client is not concerned about this possibility and the fact there is a building permit issued.

"Our site is the best. We don't care if there are three or four sites. My client is prepared to engage in competition with anyone. If allowed we will build and we will win the race and that will be the end of Mr. McFarland's shopping plaza."

Mr. Robinson has prefaced his remarks earlier by stating he doubted if the permit which had been issued "was serious and bonafide . . . as there has not been a shovel in the ground or a building started" despite a building permit having been issued for eight months.

Mr. Bateman replied to this "the permit was issued by Thurlow in good faith and was not a frivolous application." He said if "someone is willing to pay $1,200 for a building permit and to prepare plans" the council must consider the applicant serious.

This morning's debate on whether the hearing should continue did bring out one fact — the cost of last year's eight-day session. Oshawa Wholesaler's objection to the rezoning was pegged at $40,000 by Mr. Macauley. Cambridge Leasehold Ltd., invested about $25,000 in its presentation and the City of Belleville, which must make the rezoning application, had a tab of near $10,000.

There were suggestions this morning the second hearing could last even longer, which would escalate cost of coming to a decision on a shopping plaza for Belleville into the $150,000 bracket.

reform package would amount to $1,300,000,000 on the basis of 1969 incomes.

"By comparison, the white paper estimates total revenue gains—tax increases—at $630,000,000 on the basis of 1969 incomes."

Mr. MacNaughton said that since Ontario has tentatively accepted a federal estimate of $560,000,000 in additional revenue accruing from changes in the corporation income tax field, the difference in figures "arises in the areas of personal income tax and the mineral industries."

He said the white paper estimates Ottawa will receive an additional $70,000,000 under proposed changes in personal income tax, while Ontario estimates the increase will be $525,000,000.

The white paper contains no estimate of increased revenue under proposed changes in taxation of mining and oil industries. Ontario estimates this revenue at an additional $200,000,000.

A Mother's Helping Hand

Mrs. Robert Keane aids three-year-old son Kenny in lacing skates before taking to ice at Ameliasburg Kente School event Sunday. Skating party was first of three planned by school this winter — weather permitting.

Winter Carnival Shapes Up

The Belleville Winter Carnival has been planned with children in mind.

A quick look at the four-day program reveals that organizers have not forgotten the younger set.

There are enough events to keep even the youngest moppet busy till the end of the Carnival.

The Carnival kick off will see contestants compete for the title of Carnival Queen this Thursday night at Centennial Secondary School with events culminating Sunday at Zwick's Island.

Even if the children can't get actively involved in every single event, they can still watch.

Friday night, there is the torchlight parade and the barrel rolling contest — two excellent spectator events.

Saturday is the day for the children to get out for snowmobile rides. The rides will continue from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

In the evening at Memorial Arena city firefighters will line up against a team made up of secondary school teachers. For entertainment between periods, there will be square dancing on ice, and clowns for the youngsters to enjoy.

"It should be an entertaining 45 minutes of packed action, and a great addition to the program as a whole," said Jack Trembley, chairman of Saturday's events.

But Sunday is the day when the children will have a chance to enjoy a full afternoon of sleigh rides, skating races and a huge bonfire, planned just for them.

Organizers are scheduling skating races with prizes for first, second and third winners, for all children under 12 years of age.

The big wind-up will be two skydivers who will drop on the northwest tip of Zwick's Island.

"We are trying to make the carnival program as interesting as possible for the younger children — all without any charge," said O. F. Bradley, secretary of the Winter Carnival Committee.

Young People Top Talkers

Four young public speakers will represent Belleville at the Canadian Legion's District Public Speaking contest in Trenton, Feb. 15.

The branch competition, which was held the weekend of January 24th, saw contestants from public and secondary schools all over Belleville speaking on a variety of topics.

Four winners from this competition were chosen to enter the zone competition in Madoc held yesterday. The four Belleville winners emerged as top contestants.

From the grade one-to-six section was Suzanne Haggerty, second was Cindy Reid of Madoc. Winners in the grade seven-and-eight section were Billie Vincent and Lee-Ann Stapley of Stirling.

Other winners were from the grade nine-and-ten section — Sharon La Chappelle and from grades 11, 12 and 13 was her sister Lana La Chapelle.

The zone competition encompassed the legion branches of Belleville, Madoc, Stirling, Marmora and Tweed.

Winners at Trenton go to the area competitions, and finalists compete in the Provincial contest, to be held in Ottawa in March.

Music Important to School Show

Monty Emerson conducts members of the Centennial Secondary School band in a rehearsal of the school's first major musical production Bye Bye Birdie. The show, slated for early in March will feature as many as 200 students and 15 teachers.

Bye Bye Birdie on the Wing at School

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

The best way to describe Centennial Secondary Schools first drama production slated for early next month is "massive."

For, if the broadway musical now in rehearsal is only the schools first big stage attempt, at least Centennial is beginning its drama history in a big way.

Bye Bye Birdie is the name of the production, the first instance when the Centennial School band and the school's drama buffs have had an opportunity to get together on something big.

A broadway and movie hit, Bye Bye Birdie is the story of a rock singer who is inducted into the U.S. army. The plot surrounds the tribulations of the singer's agent who sees his funds diminishing with the induction.

He therefore develops an idea to ensure one more hit record from the singer. However, the agent's secretary has other plans for him — marriage!

"It's the ideal high school show," explained Leo Holland, one of the producers of By Bye Birdie. The characters in the play are really high school sutdents.

The production will employ roughly 200 Centennial students and 15 teachers at the school. There are 30 band members, 50 actors, 30 chorus members and even the 15 school cheerleaders.

Almost the entire school will get involved, even if it means only sitting in the audience. And yet one fifth of the school's population is actively participating.

Involved in the production of a broadway musical of this scale is a heavy rehearsal schedule. There are rehearsals daily after school and on weekends.

The rehearsals are, according to Mr. Holland, a matter of "everyone pitching in."

Murray Irwin, well-known in Belleville vocal music circles, is directing the chorus for the production. Monty Emerson is directing the band. Miss Mary Clarkson, theatre arts teacher at Centennial, is handling choreography. Barbara Bailey, a student, is stage manager.

Electronically, the production will spade new ground as new kinds of cable, lighting effects and sound effects will be used.

The props department has also been working overtime as properties for the show are difficult and detailed. Students have had to construct such things as houses and trains.

BERNHARDT — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather Marvel Galveston Bernhardt who passed away three years ago February 2, 1967.

Please God forgive a silent tear,
A fervent wish our father was here.
There are others, yes we know,
But he was ours, we loved him so,
Dear God take a message,
To our Father in Heaven above.
Tell him how much we miss him,
And give him all our love.

—Sadly missed and always remembered by daughter Gloria, son-in-law Allen, granddaughters Lori Ann, Mary Ann and Alanna Kim.

PRITCHARD — In loving memory of a dear brother-in-law and uncle, Joe Pritchard who passed away 3 years ago, February 2, 1966.

Through our troubles he helped us along.
If we live like him we will never go wrong.
God bless you uncle, you were one of the best.

—Remembered by sister-in-law Hattie and Elsie and Pete.

FROST — In loving memory [illegible] James Frost who passed [illegible] February 2, 1968.

What we would give if we could say,
Hello Dad, in the same old way
To hear your voice and see you smile.
To sit with you and chat awhile,
So you who have a father,
Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Till you see his vacant chair.

—Sadly missed by "The immediate family".

CALBERRY — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother Mrs. Myrtle Calberry, who passed away Feb. 1, 1965.

Oh how patient was thy suffering,
When no hand could give thee ease,
God the helper of the helpless,
Say thy pain and gave thee peace.

—Never forgotten by sons Peter, Raymond, Joseph and daughters-in-law Jean, Evelyn and grandchildren.

Rescue Plane At Accident

An accident involving one car on Highway 62 a half-mile north of Ivanhoe at 3 p.m. last Saturday, sent three men to hospital with injuries — and brought a rescue plane to the scene.

Driver of the southbound vehicle, Norman Miller, 24, Belleville, was checked at Belleville General Hospital and released the same day. Passenger Walter Swan of Belleville was treated for a jaw injury and released yesterday. The second passenger James Murray, Belleville, is still in hospital with back injuries and suspected chest injuries.

The accident was spotted from an air-search rescue plane from CFB Trenton and the crew landed in a nearby field. The servicemen administered first aid.

Cause of the accident is not known.

Livestock Lost In Barn Fires

An early-morning fire Sunday destroyed a large frame barn owned by Gerald Thompson, RR 6, Belleville on Thurlow township's second concession.

Lost in the blaze were 10 cattle, 42 hogs, including 35 shoats, milking equipment and a grain combine.

The fire was noticed about 4:00 a.m. by a neighbor living north of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway who drove to the Thompson farm and wakened the family. Vincent Meagher, chief of the Thurlow Fire Department, said the alarm was rung in at 4:10 a.m. but the blaze was too far advanced to save anything.

"There was nothing left but the foundation when we got there," said Chief Meagher.

BRIGHTON — Jack Reddom, RR5, Brighton, about a mile and a half east of the village, lost 8 pigs, 2,000 bales of hay and considerable farm machinery in a fire that destroyed his barn Saturday night.

Several cattle permitted to run loose in the stable escaped the flames through an open door.

The building was burning beyond control by the time Brighton volunteer fire department arrived.

Fire Chief Ed Boes said he understood the Reddom barn and contants were covered by insurance.

Prominent Bellevillian Dies

Active in the civic, business, musical and religious life of the city for many years, Harry Russell Moorman, 8 Isabel Street, died at his home early today in his 80th year.

Mr. Moorman was born in Thurlow township, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moorman but lived most of his life in Belleville. He was educated in the township school, Belleville Collegiate and later at Albert College.

In his early life he travelled for Perrin Company candy and biscuit makers and in 1929 he joined Leo Riggs in the car business. While employed with Riggs Motors he was business manager of the firm and in 1956 moved across the street and established the Volkswagen dealership, which he conducted until 1962 when he retired from business.

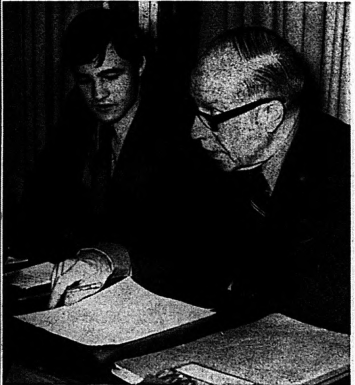
Mr. Moorman from his younger days displayed a love for music and was the moving spirit of many musical groups in the city. He sang in the Tabernacle United Church choir for over 40 years; he organized the minstrel shows put on by the Rotary Club in the old Griffin Opera House. He organized and directed a male chorus in the city for many years and he sang in a quartet for years and made radio appearances with CFCA in Toronto. He was a charter member of the Community Concert Association and manager of the Municipal Band.

He was a member of Tabernacle Church and was serving on the Board of Stewards at the time of his death. He also served on many boards of the church. Fraternally he was a life member of Eureka Lodge AF and AM No. 283 and a member of Rotary Club for 40 years and that club made him an honorary life member. He was highly respected by a wide circle of friends.

Surviving are his wife, the former Charlotte Sine, two daughters, Miss Dorothy and Lois Moorman and one son Ronald Moorman all of Belleville and two grandchildren, Paul and Beth Moorman. He was the last of his family, being predeceased by two brothers and one sister.

Mr. Moorman is resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home. Services will be conducted in the chapel on Wednesday, Feb. 4 at two p.m. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery with Rev. Robert Crooks officiating.

In lieu of flowers donations will be gratefully received for the Rotary Club Crippled Children's Fund.



City Management Knowledge

This week's Belleville Mayor-of-the-Week, John Marino of Nicholson Catholic College, learns about some of the duties of city manager J. R. Reynolds today. It's all part of the education process — under a Rotary Club youth program — whereby John and other high school students learn of all city departments, not just the mayor's office.

Farmers Organize Grievance Group

PICTON — Prince Edward County dairy farmers belonging to local 213, National Farmers Union, have voted to set up a grievance committee which includes Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties. The decision followed a meeting in Demorestville Hall featuring guest speaker, Hubert Earl, Leeds County dairy farmer who is chairman of the NFU's district 11 milk grievancec committee.

Addressing more than 50 Prince Edward farmers Mr. Earl explained that frequently the farmer seems reluctant to voice his grievances. For this reason grievance committees are formed to serve dissatisfied farmers hesitant in speaking out.

Mr. Earl was invited to speak at the meeting because of what one NFU member described as 'local milk problems. Methods of testing and grading milk approved by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board were questioned during the evening. Farmers also discussed the new system of receiving a monthly cheque in payment for milk, effective last month.

Mr. Earl suggested that a plan to test all milk in Guelph could lead to financial loss for the farmer because of the time element involved. He pointed out that it could take up to three weeks for a milk sample to reach Guelph and undergo the necessary tests. In this time period the milk ages and consequently tests differently than it would have earlier. The farmer's payment is based on the results of tests on a milk sample that could be up to three weeks old. Mr. Earl pointed out that payment could be higher, in some cases, if payment was based on a test made on a fresh sample. While he noted the accuracy of the ten testing machines in Guelph, he did not feel that they were able to calculate with compensations for the age of the milk samples being tested.

Discussing the new monthly milk payment plan Mr. Earl told local farmers that in his personal experience he had estimated a loss of $125 over a one-year period.

Although this is a relatively small amount when multiplied by the 17,000 dairy farmers in Canada, it totals a two million dollar loss annually, he said.

For economy purposes the Ontario Milk Marketing Board has decided to take a milk test once every two weeks, average the results and make payment on the basis of this figure. By sending cheques out to dairy farmers on a monthly basis, approximately $500,000 is saved in mailing costs and office work.

Mr. Earl commented that if the board would agree to make two payments a month the farmer could bear the cost.

It would be a worthwhile investment, and farmers would be spending $500,000 to save one-and-a-half million dollars each year.

Dissatisfaction in Prince Edward County concerning the milk grading procedure also was discussed during the meeting. Although farmers are notified if their milk produce is defective, notification usually comes after the milk has been purchased by the consumer. Use of defective milk in cheese making is not uncommon since the milk arrives cooled at the factory. In the days before immediate cooling of the milk became common practice, the cheesemaker could, by experience determine the grade of milk he used.

Now, he relies on a bacteria count to reveal whether or not the milk is defective. If the count is low an ingredient called Ristan can be added to the milk to activate the bacteria. A heavy addition of Ristan can affect the quality of cheese.

In fairness to the producer and to the consumer some county farmers feel that the method of grading should be investigated. Prompt notification of defective milk would alert the farmer to search for its cause at the time it was first detected, not several days later.

In demonstrating the functions of a grievance committee Mr. Earl told Prince Edward dairy farmers that sometimes a farmer receives a report of a sudden test drop only to have the test return to its normal level in a short time. This sudden difference could be the result of an error. He referred to one Prince Edward farmer who lost $200 in two weeks before his test returned to its normal level. Acting through a grievance committee Mr. Earl observed that farmers can, in cases of error, get their money back.

Ice Show Draws 2,000

A crowd of more than 2,000 applauded the Quinte Figure Skating Club's annual ice extravaganza held on the week end in the Memorial Arena.

"The show went off without the usual hitches with the perennial problem of acoustics in the Arena being solved by sound man Jim Ketcheson," carnival chairman Gord Hornsby said today.

Success of the show was due to many factors according to various guests who attended. Surprise guest Miss Lindsay Histrop, of the Granite Figure Skating Club of Toronto, said: "It was the biggest and best show that I have ever seen. The colorful costumes were excellent and added much to the show."

Club professional Gordon Crossland, Toronto stated that "of the many clubs in Toronto, possibly only three have as good or better ice surfaces than here in Belleville. It is the best ice that I have seen in Eastern Ontario."

Special Guest Janie McCutcheon, formerly of the Holiday Inn Ice Show said that she enjoyed the colorful and excellent show.

The success of this year's performance was due to "the terrific co-operation of the Arena staff, the support of the people of Belleville, and the unfailing assistance of the skaters' parents," Mr. Hornsby said.

Groundhog Day Doused by Rain

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
(Staff Reporter)

Pity the poor groundhog!

The folklorists' favorite seasonal indicator poked his head out from winter hibernation this morning to be smacked with a deluge of rain — expected to amount to a half inch over the day.

But Quinte skies were dark and overcast, ensuring that the sleepy critter won't see his shadow, and sentence the area to six weeks more of winter.

The weatherman had other ideas. With longer vision than the groundhog, he sees a storm approaching from the southwest, bringing near zero temperatures to the area about 10 o'clock tonight.

The cold front behind the disturbance dousing the Quinte district with rain starting about 7 a.m. today, has already hit the head of the Great Lakes. There, the cold front expected here tonight is already gripping the upper lakes in 20 degree below zero temperatures.

Duty forecaster at CFB Trenton is predicting a sudden drop in temperatures here this evening to 10 degrees above zero, with the same reading continuing on Thursday.

But the motorist will get a break. The way things looked this morning, no freezing rain will plague the district with the arrival of the cold front. The weatherman expects the rain to change to light snow and then taper off as the zero weather settles in.

Weather Cancels Snowmobile Race

PICTON — Track conditions at Picton Fairgrounds Sunday forced cancellation of a snowmobile race meet sponsored by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce.

Springlike temperatures during the past three days had melted most of the snow on the half mile track leaving a surface of mud and heavy slush. Following a drivers' meeting it was decided to postpone the races until next Sunday afternoon. Before cancellation of the race meet could be announced Picton fairgrounds had filled with spectators and competitors. One race official reported the arrival of 65 machines and added that 85 entries had been accepted for the six classes scheduled. All entrants except one agreed to return next week guaranteeing good participation.

Snowmobilers congregated at Picton harbor to offer children free rides. Snowmobiles closed the generation gap as parents joined their youngsters in the harbor. Prince Edward Yacht Club provided free hot chocolate for the winter sportsmen. A trail ride on Saturday night brought participants back to Prince Edward Yacht Club for a dance.

Cross-Country Ski Run To Highlight Carnival

TWEED — A cross-country ski run of 6 miles from Thomasburg to Tweed, by way of the Esker, i planned for Sunday morning, Feb. 15 as a part of the winter carnival program. Starting time is 10 a.m.

Persons wishing to take part in this event are asked to meet at the Tweed-Hungerford Community Centre prior to 9.30 a.m. It is also suggested by the committee in charge that they come in time for the Kiwanis pancake breakfast. Transportation will be provided from the community centre to Thomasburg for the beginning of the cross-country hike.

Persons interested in taking part are also asked to contact wither Grant Elliott, 478-2541, or George Stroempl, 478-3025 for further information.

A test run of the course will be made at 1.30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 8. Transportation will be provided. Skiers are asked to meet at Tweed Memorial Park.

The Communist Conspiracy

This is the so-called involved generation. Young people are more socially and politically conscious, aware of their power to influence events, often heedless and even contemptuous of parents who grew up in an earlier, less "turned-on" era.

This involvement covers the whole spectrum of political thought, including Communism, and to anyone who believes this contains no threat to Canada a recent Vancouver Sun article would be a rude awakening.

The article, by Sun writer Keith Bradbury concerns former University of British Columbia student Robert Cruise. A well-dressed young man, Cruise resembles not so much the revolutionary he is as the one-time student. Back in 1966 that same student rose in one of his law classes, denounced the Canadian legal system as a tool of the bourgeoise, and quit his legal education on the spot.

The change came within months of Cruise joining a far-left group at UBC known as the Internationalists, headed by an East Indian graduate student called Hardial Bains. Since then, according to The Sun article, Cruise has devoted all his time to Communist organizing, mainly — now hear this — in eastern Canada, along with a number of other people who came up through the Internationalists at UBC.

University students are an impressionable lot, and Cruise's conversion from a young man of conservative views to the Communist radical of today is a classic example. The danger now is that he and his kind are moving through university campuses across Canada spreading their evil gospel.

Cruise's brand of Communism is Maoist — that is, he is a dedicated follower of the teachings of Chinese party chairman Mao Tse-tung — and consequently, far more radical even than Russian Communism.

As leader of this Maoist group of young revolutionaries in Canada, Cruise is not content just to indulge in propaganda exercises. Within two years, he told Bradbury, his followers will launch a guerrilla war in Quebec and by 1976 all North America will be engulfed in civil war.

Ridiculous? Not, we submit, if Cruise's Internationalists have their way with the mass of Canadian university students. "I think one thing that is important to stress, "says Cruise, "is that we are consciously organizing and preparing for the armed overthrow of the Canadian government."

His aim? To establish Communist regimes in both Canada and the United States.

The young man is 26, son of well to do parents in Vancouver. "The 1970s," says Cruise, "will be the period of the bright red Communist movement in Vancouver."

His speeches are classics of Communist jargon. The United States is "imperialist," Prime Minister Trudeau a "lackey," and so on.

It is people like Robert Cruise whom the Canadian public must beware of. Perhaps the time has come to tell the Canadian public the full extent of the Communist conspiracy in our midst. We have had Royal Commissions into this and that, but never an investigation of the subversive elements in our society. Or must it be left entirely to the RCMP? The public should know more about what is happening in this regard, particularly among the younger generation in the universities — and, we are led to believe, in the secondary schools as well.

Uncaring Public?

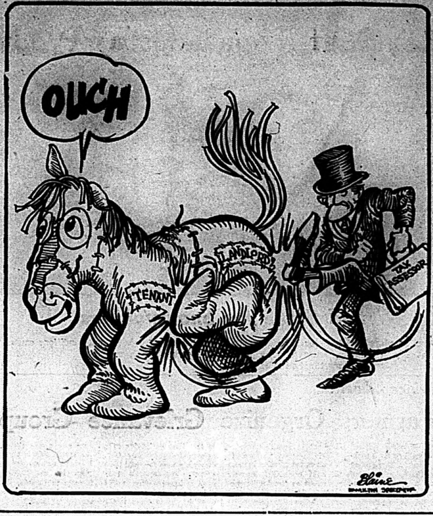
Are adults so accustomed to horror and violence on television that they are no longer shocked? And is this one of the reasons for misunderstandings with a younger generation that reacts with righteous indignation?

A Montreal woman television reporter said she believed this was so while speaking on the CBCs recent Thursday Night program — a 90-minute look at the news media in Canada reflecting the views of a cross-section of the population and the profession from farmers to publishers.

But before everyone from the age of say 15 to 21, what might be termed the cynical or critical years, starts blaming the adult population for all the sins of the world, they might pause for a moment and reflect that they too will mellow with the years.

True, as the years pass, and horror is heaped on horror — from the war in Vietnam to starvation in Biafra — there is a tendency to regard it as routine, something the average individual can do nothing about. But will the younger generation do any better? Do they have any positive answers to these problems?

Indignation, however righteous, is not enough. Nor is counter-violence in the streets, if it stems only from the emotionalism of the mob and contains no promise of youthful endeavor to right that which was apparently wrong. But no one group can accomplish this alone; all must work together for a better world.



Man and His Beliefs

Miracle of Life Transcends Materialism

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

We are living in a materialist age, no doubt about it.

Not long ago a well-known Swiss naturalist and scientist, Professor F. Better in his book Natur und Gesetz (Nature and Law) complained about the materialistic philosophy of the age, calling it unscientific and evil.

In the name of science, materialistically minded individuals, amateur scientists and political opportunists, for various reasons are spreading their own propaganda. The impressionable youth will accept almost anything. His character is molded by what he reads, hears, or sees. The healthy balance between Spiritual and material things is missing. Knowing this the younger generation becomes restless, many of them get confused or as St. Paul said, "unlearned" and contribute to their own destruction.

The purely materialistic and soulless outlook on life is not entirely new of course. In the past two centuries however, this kind of philosophy got a real foothold in Europe when promulgated by such personalities as Voltaire, Schopenhauer, Nietzsche, Huxley and in some ways by Darwin. In the schools of higher education they are widely-discussed and are eagerly followed by a certain group of young people. The old masters of science however, God-fearing men like Newton, Kepler, Herschel, Linne, Copernicus and others are left on the shelves. The theory of evolution has distracted not a few students of nature, (myself included in my younger days). Now, however, I would think that unbiased investigators of nature would not accept the old theory as it was taught formerly in most schools. Scientists now believe that progressive development did occur due to environment, also sudden replacements of one type of animals with another; but no proof could be found that a certain living thing has changed into something else. Those prehistoric animals were as complete and perfect, "after their own kind," as are the ones in this present age. This has been confirmed by archaeological discoveries.

It is not easy however for a person to change his views on important facts of life once his own pet theory has been established. Nevertheless miracles do occur from time to time that should make us reflect and try to accept science at its face value. Such miraculous discovery occurred some years ago in the laboratories of some German surgeons. These men, the doctors Benecke Huseland and Ennemoser, while engaged in their work dissecting skulls, noticed to their amazement that in some skulls the brain tissue. were partly decomposed and shrivelled, also that in one case the brain was completely missing. Yet these individuals were known to be completely normal and fully conscious until the day of their death. This seems to indicate (or more correctly to prove) that the human 'mind-soul-spirit was able to function in those exceptional cases without the use of the material brain. In another case during the Boer war a wounded soldier had a large part of his brain removed by surgery yet after the operation this man was as normal as before. Experts tell us that the pathological anatomy of the brain is a mystery and full of contradiction.

Besides the examples given here there are stores of material available in other fields of science to prove the illogical sophistry of materialism.

Students of nature agree that life as we know it and our own existence here is a continuous chain of miracles, and they will not hide the fact that sometimes a simple question of a child can baffle them.

Inflation And Those Phone Calls

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Did you know that a Bell telephone call, station to station, for three minutes between Stirling and Foxboro (Belleville), has increased from 20 cents to 45 cents, an increase of 125 per cent!

Now that's what I call really holding the line on inflation.

Mayor's Statement Under Fire

County's Role in City Prosperity

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It is with grave concern that I note utterances such as the one made recently by Mayor J. Russell Scott and others in the larger urban centres.

In speaking of the possibility of Trenton and Belleville and surrounding areas becoming one metropolitan area with a population of some 70,000, Dr. Scott was quoted as saying in part, "We have regional government in our school board, but we must get together or we will have legislation that will tie us in with the old ways and Trenton and Belleville will be part of the old county system.

"I don't think that the counties are qualified to run the communities of Belleville and Trenton. They have no experience in the construction of roads (except the occasional secondary road), in borrowing money or with urban problems."

• • •

We wonder whether or not the people of Belleville and their Mayor appreciate the fact that a great deal of their prosperity in the past has been provided by the taxpayers of Hastings county and who continue to pour monies into the pockets of merchants and institutions located in Belleville.

May I suggest to Dr. Scott that he review the income of Belleville as derived from the County Hospital, Hastings Manor county administrative buildings and many other facets of Hastings county business, which is conducted within Belleville by people living in Belleville and paid for by the people of Hastings county

Now that regional education is a fact and Belleville is again deriving most of the financial benefits, he feels that the Belleville - Trenton metropolitan area should divest themselves from the balance of the county and continue the feudal system in a more elegant manner.

Because education is the largest user of the tax dollar, I think that those who will pay alike, under the new assessment system, should "Share Alike". Is it possible that Dr. Scott is not paying enough taxes on lands held in north Hastings?

Dr. Scott states that other municipalities in Hastings haven't any experience building roads. They have the expert experience and advice of the Ontario Department of Highways. Look at our streets and then look at yours, Mr. Mayor.

Let the people of Hastings county beware of further intrusions into their rights and privileges.

DON BRISTOL.

Land Grab Threat Too

Farmers' Burden of Taxation

Farm and Country

As regional government looms farmers are asking themselves a number of questions. Will the structure create yet another tier of government without coming to grips with basic problems facing rural people? Is the proposed regional government program a substitute for action on education costs and assessment? Will it really stem the appetite of [illegible] or productive farming land?

[illegible] are needed quickly. [illegible]armers are getting restless. We doubt if they will wait much longer for relief from the crushing burden of property taxation. In some areas of this province farmers are faced with tax bills four and five times greater than their more wealthy urban neighbors.

Across the province farmers are groaning under a monstrous tax load. They are paying an excessive portion of the education costs, yet no action has been taken to help them.

And will regional government work without effective Land Use planning? Even if Metro Toronto or the Hamilton area are created regions, does this prevent them expanding? It may place boundaries on the jurisdiction of these modern city states, but it does not curb the activities of land developers and speculators. Without stringent zoning and designation of land for specific uses, farming land will continue to be chewed up at a frightening rate.

The Metro dweller can now drive from down-town Toronto to Aurora, 30 miles to the north, or Hamilton, 40 miles to the west, and have the comfort of knowing his highway is now hedged each side by stores, houses and factories. It is ribbon development of the worst type. And only a dozen or so years ago our politicians were sharply critical of the Americans for chewing up their countryside in this fashion. It could never happen here!

Will regional government stop this desecration? We think not. And will regional government as currently propounded give our young farmers the assurance of markets and stability in 10 or 20 years from now? Will it give them the assurance that they can commit $40,000 or $60,000 to new equipment and barn layout without jeopardizing their investment? In other words, does it give them a guarantee that they can plan well into the future without being taken for urban development? We think not.

Time Spent Helping Others

The Students Who Work—and Care

Regina Leader Post

We all know, when we stop to think about it, that most students are not engaged daily in campus violence, and that few are members of those well-publicized hate groups which, like their predecessors in Nazi Germany, close laboratories or bar their campuses to speakers with whom they disagree.

Occasionally we learn of the hundreds of thousands of students quietly going about the day - to - day work of helping other people.

A recent report dealt with this kind of old-fashioned activity at one campus — Stanford University — as compiled by a student, Sue Cribari, from Fresno.

What this young woman reported was that one-fourth of the Stanford Law School student body is signed up with the Stanford Legal Aid Society. They help men and women in distress who can't afford to hire a lawyer. Representatives work with outside legal aid groups at Redwood City and East Palo Alto under supervision of an attorney from the law school through a Stanford grant.

The Volunteer Services Centre at Stanford is a clearing house for such volunteering organizations.

One senior in economics, for example, apparently on his own, began a mathematics tutorial program for black transfer students at two nearby schools — Gunn High School Through the centre, students are steered to projects in which they help foreign students learn English, entertain blind Vietnam war veterans and hospital patients, help minority youngsters get temporary jobs, check into reports of housing discrimination, study suicide prevention, teach mentally retarded children to swim or join a tutoring program.

In the last year, the ce[illegible] has placed more than 600 [illegible]dents in activities helping their neighbors. But this is only a fraction of the student contribution. Many young people work directly through their own and Terman Junior High — with seven students from Stanford and 12 from Gunn as tutors in a variety of subjects. With a grant from the San Francisco Foundation the group has bought a mobile classroom.

Members of the Stanford Black Student Union spend up to 15 hours a week giving on-the-spot tutoring to floundering pupils at Ravenswood High School in Palo Alto.

One senior runs a seminar in social problems for 26 eighth-graders as part of a non-partisan tutoring program sponsored by the Stanford Young Republicans at Cri[illegible]den School in nearby Moun[illegible] View.

Wolfe Island Ferry

Safety Measures at Dock Criticized

Kingston Whig-Standard

Reeve T. D. O'Shea of Wolfe Island will ask the Ontario government to provide chain link barricades for the island's two ferry docks to prevent a recurrence of the traffic mishap at one of the docks recently.

Five persons were rescued from ice-clogged water, when an auto driven by Queen's University student John O'Shaughnessy of Kingston skidded ff the Dawson's Point dock.

"I'll ask the island council at its next meeting to request that the Ontario highways department install a chain-link barricade at both the Marsville and Dawson's Point docks," he said today.

Neither dock has any type of barricade to prevent autos from dropping over the edge.

"Islanders know the ferry docks are unprotected," Reeve O'Shea said. "They take the necessary precautions, but tourists or casual island visitors aren't aware of the dangers."

All motorists should be warned, the reeve said.

One of the passengers, Michelle Patenaude also a student at Queen's, was rescued by a 17-year-old Kingston high school student, Niles Gurnsey of 1260 Princess Street, as she floundered in approximately 17 feet of water.

Mr. Gurnsey, who stripped off his coat and shoes and plunged into the frigid water to save the girl, was one of five youths who helped in the rescue.

Mr. O'Shaughnessy said there was no sand on the road surface approaching the dock. He said he applied brakes but skidded on the slippery surface.

Sanding is the island c[illegible]cil's responsibility at the point approximately three miles west of the Marysville dock, which is the normal terminal at the island except during low-water periods.

A chain-link barricade is located on the mainland at the Brock street dock, but it is seldom put in place.

Kingston harbormaster Edward Phipps-Walker said he has "protested for two years" the "slackness" in use of the chain-link barricade.

"Accidents similar to that which occurred on the island last weekend could easily take place here," he said.

Jack Reed, superintendent of the DHO's maintenance division here, would not comment on use of the chain-link barricade on the Brock street dock.

He acknowledged there [illegible] now no safety measure at the Dawson's Point dock but said "Toronto authorities" would undoubtedly deal with the situation if it was brought to their attention.

Sales in Low Gear

Car Industry Lays Off Thousands as Production Trimmed

DETROIT (AP) — Some analysts use the term "recession." Company men say it's a temporary sales slump. But any way one looks at it, the auto industry is finding the going rough.

The Big Three have all laid off thousands of workers in an effort to trim production back in line with slumping sales.

General Motors and Chrysler Corp. have reported a decline in 1969 earnings.

January new car production is reported to be the lowest since January, 1961.

The question now is how bad will things get and how long will it last?

"It's pretty clear now that we are in a recession which is affecting the auto industry," said David Healy, automotive analyst for Argus Research Corp., a New York investment counselling firm.

George Katona, a director of the University of Michigan Survey Research Centre, said that the auto industry is suffering through a recession that began in the fourth quarter of the year, normally one of the best quarters since sales are stimulated by new-car introductions.

By the end of September, domestic sales for 1969 led the previous year's figures 6,303,146 to 6,275,829. At year-end the four major U.S. auto-makers were two per cent behind 1968 figures: 8,464,375 to 8,624,819.

With the softening of new-car sales, overtime virtually disappeared for production workers and in December the first of the extensive layoffs began.

The auto-makers have ordered extensive retooling for their 1971 models and will have to make the substantial payments to local die shops by mid-summer.

Labor negotiations and the expectation of higher labor costs cloud the second half of 1970.

More profit troubles were promised when U.S. Steel Corp. announced price increases for steel used in making cars.

Chrysler's earnings for 1969 announced Friday totalled $88,800,000, or $1.87 a share. A year earlier earnings totalled $290,700,000, or $6.23 a share.

General Motors released preliminary 1969 sales and earnings figures Thursday, revealed a situation in which the firm registered record worldwide sales of $24,300,000,000 while suffering a decrease in profits of $21,000,000.

Ford's sales and profit figures will be available about the middle of February. American Motors's fiscal year ends in September. AMC is the only one of the Detroit auto-makers forging ahead with production and sales, a fact generally attributed to introduction of its new sub-compact Hornet and a lengthy strike last fall which halted production.

GM officials blamed the firm's drop in earnings on the decrease in auto sales during 1969 coupled with strikes in the second and fourth quarters.

The trade publication Automotive News says that new car production in January was the lowest for that month since 1961 when 416,111 cars were built. Auto-makers have built 603,492 new cars so far this year.

Ford was the last of the Big Three to announce production cuts. The firm said Thursday it will close nine plants during parts of February, affecting 25,700 employees. General Motors announced earlier it will trim production at 21 plants with a total of 126,000 employees losing from two to seven days of work. Chrysler announced this week the indefinite layoff of 2,200 workers.

Thomson Papers Say They Gain Through Group

OTTAWA — The publishers of four daily newspapers; owned by Thomson Newspapers Ltd., told the special Senate committee on mass media today that their newspapers have all gained through group ownership.

In fact, said James B. Lamb, publisher of the Orillia, Ont., Packet and Times, "We could not exist in our present form without such ownership."

He said that only a group not dependent on immediate return could have launched a daily newspaper in Orillia in 1953 when the population was 12,000.

"Certainly if the paper were individually owned, it would in all likelihood still be a weekly publication."

The four briefs were submitted to the committee and were made public today. The publishers did not appear personally.

J. H. Monaghan, publisher of graph, said the purchase of the newspaper by Thomson Newspapers Ltd., in 1948 was a "definite boost."

"In a dwindling English community, association with a group such as this inspires strength and enables a newspaper to fulfill its obligation to the people it serves."

R. Garnet Dundas, publisher and general manager of the Woodstock, Ont., Sentinel-Review, said the association with the group "enables us to bring a much wider range of professional services to our readers."

"By using their assistance in staff training, local management techniques, improving and developing news coverage, ideas on bettering our service to advertisers and subscribers, production and printing improvements, we make every effort to improve our product and service."

W. J. Hancox, publisher of The Guardian and The Patriot of Charlottetown, said that in a small market area, such as P.E.I., the readers "enjoy a distinct advantage through group ownership."

Through the central office, he said, the newspaper is aware of all available news features and syndicated colums, and there is a pool of information on publishing problems experienced by small dailies.

"By drawing on this information we can overcome difficulties quickly and efficiently with direct benefits to the reader by providing a better product and more service."

..All four publishers said they have full responsibility for the editorial policy of their newspapers.

Mr. Hancox said that in 10 years of publishing the Charlottetown newspapers "I have yet to receive any advice from the company's central office with respect to the dissemination of news either local, national, international, nor any direction as to editorial policy."

Both Mr. Lamb and Mr. Dundas said they would be opposed to the establishment of a press council in Canada.

"We do not believe that any council of any kind can be a substitute for the conscience of the individual publisher," said Mr. Lamb's brief. "This newspaper is very much aware of its responsibility to reflect all sides of public controversy, and it welcomes and publishes, without deletions, every kind of comment submitted by readers, limited only by the considerations of libel and good taste."

He said the British Press Council has not prevented the British press from including "some of the most sensational and vulgar newspapers."

Mr. Dundas said that "we report the activities and opinions of men and women who may well literally be our neighbors, therefore communication is never a problem. . . .

Mr. Monaghan said the Chronicle-Telegraph has always had a unique role to play as an English newspaper in a predominately French city.

"The position, at all times, has been one of grave responsibility and occasionally, of no small difficulty. In the course of more than two centuries, with attendant vicissitudes, it is inevitable that there should have been some variations in editorial policy from time to time, but, on the whole and at bottom, it can be said that the Chronicle-Telegraph has adhered to its ancestral principles with remarkable fidelity and has discharged its mission in such a manner as to command the respect and confidence of both racial elements. . . .

Both Mr. Lamb and Mr. Hancox cited increased postal rates, and decreasing mail service, as an inhibiting factor in the operation of newspapers today.

He said that "to an increasing degree, we are having to find alternative to mail in the delivery of out-of-town newspapers."

Mr. Hancox said that despite the fact subscribers must pay more for their newspaper in rural areas, the mail service is deteriorating.

"In some cases mail bags are delivered to the wrong post office, and in a few cases are missed altogether."

He said television and radio have an advantage over newspapers in terms of fast-breaking stories.

"This, combined with a poor second-class mail service, has added a new competitive dimension to newspaper publishing which we are powerless to combat."

Canadian Balloonist Proves It

A Little of Hot Air Goes A Long Way

WICKLOW, Ireland (CP)— A Canadian balloonist succeeded Sunday in piloting a hot-air gasbag across the Irish Sea to Britain despite rough winds that took him far off his originally-planned course, an operations adviser for the expedition said here.

The adviser said Ray Munro of Lancaster, Ont., travelled about 150 nautical miles on the trip and stayed in the air four hours and 50 minutes, both of which he termed world records for this type of balloon.

Cmdr. Jack Sloan of Ottawa also reported that Munro was somewhat bruised in a landing complicated by the winds.

But the balloonist, 48, was kept only briefly in a hospital at Whitehaven, a community near the landing place in northwestern England.

Sloan said the balloon landed in the vicinity of the Vale of Ennerdale, western Cumberland County.

Munro, who returned to Ireland Sunday night by plane, had landed prematurely in the Irish Sea during a previous attempt at making the balloon flight last week.

He and a Canadian companion, Norman Jones, had to be rescued fro mthe chilly waters by aircraft and ships from Wales.

On the latest attempt, he made the trip without Jones. The idea was to reduce the weight in the gondola attached to the big balloon.

The Canadian team says it holds the previous distance record of 40 miles made under test conditions set by the International Aviation Federation for the type of balloon flown Sunday.

The previous endurance record in terms of time was one hour and 25 minutes, Sloan said.

The craft piloted by Munro is named the Pride of Thunder Bay, in honor of the Ontario community which is Canada's newest city.

Sloan, who watched its progress on radar, said flying conditions were "a little tight" sometimes.

He said reports indicated that the balloon itself survived the trip unharmed.

The Pride of Thunder Bay made the Irish Sea flight as part of practice for a future flight from Vancouver Island to the British Columbia mainland.

The balloon carries propane gas as fuel to keep it filled with hot air.

In Wicklow, local residents thronged around as the Pride of Thunder Bay, emblazoned with maple leaf designs, lifted off at about noon Irish time.

Munro is a former newspaper man whose exploits include a parachute jump within 150 miles of the North Pole last April. He has worked with the Toronto Star, Vancouver Sun, Vancouver Province and Chatham, Ont., News.

Power, Trudeau's First Concern Charges MPP

FREDERICTON (CP) — An Ontario member of Parliament said Saturday the first concern of Prime Minister Trudeau, "like any dictator or absolute monarch, has been to secure his position of power from any rival."

Lincoln Alexander (PC—Hamilton West), speaking to the annual meeting of the New Brunswick Progressive Conservative Association, said that Parliament, under the Trudeau administration, "has been deliberately downgraded . . . slighted and bypassed."

"Today power is being freely exerted from Ottawa by a small group of relatively obscure and unknown people responsible to no one but the prime minister," who is "surrounded by a corps of subservients, some 52 of them, drawing salaries in the $15,000 and up bracket with no discoverable duties to perform."

"It is my view that the historical Liberal party has been captured by a small band of skilful political manipulators who will not hesitate to destroy our chosen system—parliamentary democracy—to gain full power."

Since taking office in 1968, Mr. Alexander said, the federal government has done "almost irreparable damage to national unity and created strong separatist feeling in areas where such feelings were barely recognized until a few years ago."

He referred specifically to the West, and said "anyone who has doubts about western separatist feeling would change his mind" if he talked to MPs from the region.

Inflation and pollution had all but been ignored by the Trudeau government. He called the proposed Canada water act and the white paper on tax reform only "half-hearted acknowledgement" of these "basic issues."

Kathy Pokora Tweed Snow Queen

TWEED — Miss Kathy Pokora of Tweed was chosen Tweed's Snow Queen for 1970 at the annual Snow Queen Dance held at the Tweed-Hungerford District High School recently (where the Queen attends high school).

The princesses are Miss Linda Brooks and Miss Donna Dunn, both Tweed girls as well. Mrs. Lloyd Lewis of Belleville, the former Janice Alexander of Tweed, the 1969 Snow Queen, presented the crown to her successor.

The judges were Chris and Lois Akey and Rosemary Belanger of Belleville.

The Snow Queen contest was sponsored by the members of the Tweed Kinette Club, with Mrs. David Ostman heading the committee making the arrangements for the annual event.

The Chamber of Commerce again donated a corsage to each of the contestants. The Kinette Club gave the Queen and her Princesses each a sterling silver bracelet.

Miss Pokora and her princesses will reign over sections of Tweed's Winter Carnival, planned for Feb. 13, 14, and 15.

First Level Of Speaking Completed

DESERONTO — Nicky Whalen won the first level of the Ontario School Trustees public speaking contest, held in the Deseronto school early this week. Mary Anne O'Brien was a close second and third prize went to Brenda Lawlor.

The remaining contestants were: Debbie Pferrerle, Barry Roebuck, Jo Ann Morris, Christine Hunter, Gloria Klien, David Jackson, Keith Shea, James Zieman, Debbie Venton, Diana Elmer, Susan Hawley and Sharon Sharpe.

The topics were varied, but each contestant had done much research on his subject.

Rev. Oscar Simpson was chairman for the occasion, with Rev. Cyril Betts and James McVicker as judges.

The winner will appear in the second level of the contest, to be held in Belleville February 12. Only one contestant represents each school.

Cross Canada Survey Reveals A Varied Reaction to Maxi Coats

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

There's a joke swooshing its way around the country to the effect that bus drivers keep their floors swept by asking maxi-coat wearers to step to the rear.

The girl who owns a maxi has to brave a lot of that sort of chat—as well as escalators, slush, premium cleaning bills and, on occasion, delighted children.

A girl reporter set Eskimo children giggling heartily at the sight of their first maxi when she wore hers this year on assignment deep in the heart of the Northwest Territories. She says it isn't as warm as a parka, either.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press unearthed a maxi in St. John's, Nfld., that was knitted by the current owner's grandmother, 60 years ago. Another in Kitchener, Ont., bought at a rummage sale 40 years ago, saw the light again last New Year's Eve.

A Toronto store has sold about 800 military greatcoats at $12.95 each to be worn as maxis. Both boys and girls bought them.

An older (past 25) woman in Toronto says she enjoys the attention she attracts in her bright, plum-colored coat. She's had several interesting conversations as a result. She has also perfected an "edwardian lift," picking up the long, heavy skirt at the back to descend steps without sweeping them.

A woman in Vancouver says she wears hers mostly in the evening, because it is so elegant.

Then here is the girl in Quebec City who says she loves her maxi and has "learned to walk like a lady" in it.

"I must take small steps, otherwise there might be a danger of tripping. So the maxi-coat makes for a more feminine carriage."

A Montreal fashion designer says he did trip in his maxi and nearly broke his ankle. Now he is designing shorter maxis for men.

The unaccustomed length offers any snares for the feet of the miniskirted maxi wearer.

A Toronto department store has signs saying: "We love max but our escalators don't."

A girl in Regina says: "You do have trouble when you walk in deep snow, but otherwise it's fine. I really like them, though my mother says I look like a Russian soldier."

A Toronto girl parks hers for the winter.

"On a windy day they're difficult to walk in—they blow and tangle around your legs. You're always conscious of getting the hem soiled in snow and slush. You're afraid you're going to meet a puddle."

A Toronto dry-cleaner charges $2 to clean conventional coats, $3.25 for maxis. He says it takes two people to press a maxi.

Most retailers say they love the maxi because it helped boost winter coat sales. A Calgary department manager says they sold 60, none marked down, and helped make up for a drop in other coat sales.

How many maxis does that really represent? Quebec City and Halifax department store spokesmen say the maxi accounted for about 10 per cent of their coat sales. In a Saint John, N.B., store that caters to the young, maxis accounted for about 65 per cent of coat sales.

The market is, of course, mostly among girls 15 to 25, though an Ottawa store reports one customer of about 70.

That fact probably accounts for a lack of interest in "better" quality and high-priced maxis. An Edmonton specialty store slod two maxis out of five stocked.

The assistant manager says: "We feel it's a fad, and no one wants to put money into better-quality maxi coats."

Halifax reports its best sellers cost about $50. In Montreal's "young" stores the prices are about $40 to $70.

Most centres report they are stocking maxis for spring, mostly as "wet look" raincoats, but fashion experts are hedging about next autumn.

A Halifax comment is: "People seem to feel it's going to be a fairly strong item for spring, but our store still feels it could die at the drop of a hat."

Charlottetown buyers predict it won't even last through spring.

In Winnipeg a buyer says the style won't last and bases his opinion on the fact that girls are still wearing miniskirts under their maxis.

A Montreal spokesman says his store has had several inquiries about how to cut the maxi down to a midi, or midcalf length.

But another Quebec City girl says: "I will certainly wear one again next year."

Government Presented With Brief

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is asking the government to appoint a number of women to the proposed permanent commission on national law reform.

In a brief presented today to the government, the 6,000-member federation says women are needed as commissioners in the examination of legislation for possible infringement of civil rights since many have been adversely affected by legal provisions.

"Much of the legislation introduced in Canada has resulted in unnecessary hardships for some women, and has perpetuated social injustices for others," the brief said.

The federation also asked the government to enact adequate maternity protection legislation in fields under its jurisdiction.

It said the biological fact that women are the child-bearers is no valid reason why they should be discriminated against as workers.

"They are entitled as a matter of right to receive a guarantee against loss of employment and seniority and against economic hardship for a stated maternity period."

The federation again called for a permanent commission on the status of women and more research on problems facing the aging. A permanent commission would help enforce labor rights already gained by women and consider complaints of discrimination on the basis of sex alone.

It asked the government to amend benefit clauses to survivors under the Canada Pension Plan so that contributions would be refunded to surviving dependents of the deceased contributor or to his estate.

The federation also aimed a volley of resolutions at the Income Tax Act, including a request for an increase in the basic exemption under the act to $2,000 from $1,000 to account for the rise in the cost of living.

It says that an exemption accorded working women who must employ the services of others, whether in the home or outside the home and whether for children, elderly or incapacitated persons, would "give some relief to a taxation hardship."

The government is urged to amend the Income Tax Act to include an exemption of up to a maximum of $1,500 yearly for working women in this category.

35 Delicacies Served at Ball

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — When they have a ball in this territorial capital, one of the highlights is the menu.

At the recent commissioner's ball, the buffet was a hot and cold affair with 35 delicacies available.

Some traditional northern dishes which found favor were braised haunch of Bathurst Inlet caribou, hunter's style; roast hind of sweetgrass buffalo Mackenzie with wild rose jelly; and roast saddle of reinder Inuvik.

However, most diners shied away from muktuk salad Tuktoyaktuk. Muktuk is whale hide.

Club Activities

KINETTE CLUB

TWEED — The recent meeting of the Tweed Kinette Club was held at the Tweedsmuir Hotel. All enjoyed a steak dinner.

Kinette Sybil presented Kinette Marlene with a seven-year pin and Kinette Marion Little with a five year pin. It was agreed, at this time, to assist the Kinsmen during the coming winter carnival and plans are under way to make chili to be served at the park on Sunday afternoon. Help is also needed during the afternoon.

This is a club effort and all Kinettes will be involved. The Kinette Club once again sponsored the Snow Queen.

A dance was held Friday night, January 23 and Kinette Sharon Ostman looked after the arrangements.

An invitation is extended to anyone interested in joining the Kinette Club. A meeting is held once a month, usually on the third Monday of each month in the form of a dinner meeting at the Hotel Tweedsmuir.

Successful Living

Are Fleas Good for People Too?

By DORIS CLARK

A reasonable number of fleas is good for a dog. They keep him busy. In much the same fashion, psychologists agree that a reasonable number of anxieties and personal conflicts are often good for employees.

Tension can keep men from getting complacent, from feeling so secure in their jobs that they forget to look for ways to improve themselves and their companies. — Farm and Home Almanac, Canadian Edition, 1970.

— Let's give ear to the nuisance-type fleas buzzing around us instead of brushing them off. Maybe they are trying to tell us something — about ourselves!

• • •

Dear Doris: I am an adoptive parent and proud to be one. We have loved our girl. She knows she is loved and she has love to give. What more could I ask as a Mother?

I can see no hazard as far as parents or children are concerned. The feeling in your heart must be good or you wouldn't have desired to become a parent in the first place.

The real hazard is the cruelty and ignorance of people who can't or won't see how blessed it is to share home, love and care with someone who needs those things. Sometimes they make these adoptive children feel different to other children and they neither know nor care about the damage it can do.

Most adopted children are very sensitive, easily hurt and easily discouraged, and all through public school have to have extra love and understanding to help them through difficult times with other children and sometimes even with teachers, and members of the family. — Adopted Mother

Dear Adopted: Thank you for taking me up on my invitation to adoptive parents to put in their 10 cents' worth. Your letter will encourage others who are considering this step.

• • •

Dear Doris: Many thanks for the additional recipes for Hungarian Goulash. I sent a thank-you to both the kind ladies and although I haven't had a chance to try them yet I'm sure they will be a welcome change.

I feel as though I had gained two new friends who must have memories similar to mine. — Depression Daughter

Dear Daughter: Have a good time!

• • •

Dear Doris: Suddenly I have got a few hairs on my chin. Could you please tell me how to get rid of them and what can be the reason for their growth?

My bright future depends on my attractive personality. I have a stepmother and she does not care at all and I don't know to whom I can turn. — Twenty and Worried

Dear Twenty: Far more ladies have surplus hairs — on chin, or upper lip, or cheeks, or arms — than you'd ever suspect. Because they get rid of it — pronto! They pluck it, or shave it or wax-and-pull it, or use a depilatory. Or electrolysis.

Just like any other flaw, you take action and keep mum. My leaflet on Removing Unwanted Hair goes into all this, and is on its way to you.

Ann Landers

Reader Questions Stability of Humans

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Is the human race having a mass nervous breakdown? What has happened to common decency? Naked people on the stage and thousands of nuts standing in line to pay $23 for a ticket. Four-letter words in campus papers and everywhere youth demanding the right to sleep together in college dormitories.

ANN LANDERS

And now I read where a California psychologist says the best way for a husband to regain lost potency is to have an affair with another woman — and the woman should be supplied by the therapist.

The therapist makes it clear, however, that it can't just be any woman. It must be a woman who is also having a sex problem and is hard up for romance. In this way, the doctor claimed it would be a valuable service to both.

In my day a man who procured women for sex was known as a pimp and it was a pretty lowdown business. Today it is called "therapy" and considered respectable in some fairly high-class places. Please comment. — SPEECHLESS.

DEAR SPEECHLESS: Considered respectable? By whom? Not by me. Nor by any of my medical or psychiatric consultants. Merely because a man is a therapist doesn't mean he has all his marbles. There are kooks in every field, and that bud is proof.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I just finished serving ten days of jury duty. Over 140 people were interviewed before thirteen qualified purists could be found.

I served at considerable inconvenience and personal sacrifice. After interminable hours of listening, endless note taking and much soul searching, we reached a verdict. I felt as if I had performed a meaningful public service.

It seems a great many of our friends didn't like the verdict. The phone is driving me crazy. "Why did you decide that way?" Doesn't your conscience bother you?" Wherever we go, people want to talk about the case and argue with me.

Last night my husband gave me orders. He said, "You'll never serve on a jury again as long as I live. The abuse isn't worth it. If your name gets pulled, you'll have to say you are prejudiced and wish to be excused."

I agreed and I'm glad I did. It wasn't worth it. — TIRED.

DEAR TIRED: I'm sorry you feel as you do because jury service is a vital contribution to our democratic system. I hope you will rethink your decision and, in time, change your mind. We need citizens like you.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For years I have answered the telephone and heard the party on the other end say, "Who is this?" I then ask, "Whom did you call?" The party often hangs up or yells an obscenity.

Why don't these clods realize that when they intrude on the privacy of others, the responsibility of identification is on them, not the person they call.

The well bred individual says, "This is John Doe. Is Mary Jones in, please?" This procedure eliminates the irritating question, "Who is calling?" Pass the word, please. I'm sick of telephone slobs. — TEXARKANA.

DEAR TEX: I've passed it before and I'll do it again. People need to be reminded.

Lose 10 lbs. in 10 days on Grapefruit diet

HOLLYWOOD, CALIF. (Special) — This is the revolutionary grapefruit diet that everyone is suddenly talking about. Thousands of copies have been passed from hand to hand in factories, plants and offices throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Because this diet really works. We have testimonials reporting on its success. If you follow it exactly, you should lose 10 pounds in 10 days without pills or drugs. No weight loss in the first four days but you will suddenly drop 5 pounds on the 5th day. Thereafter lose one pound a day until the 10th day. Then you will lose 1½ pounds every two days until you get down to your proper weight. Best of all, there will be no hunger pangs. Revised and enlarged, this diet lets you stuff yourself with formerly "forbidden" foods, such as steaks trimmed with fat, roast or fried chicken, gravies, mayonnaise, lobster swimming in butter, bacon fats, sausages and scrambled eggs and still lose weight. The secret behind this "quick weight loss" diet is simple. Fat does not form fat. And the grapefruit juice in this diet acts as a catalyst (the "trigger"), to start the fat burning process. You stuff yourself on the permitted food listed in the diet plan, and still lose unsightly fat and excess body fluids. A copy of this startingly successful diet including suggested menus can be obtained by sending $2 to WEIGHT-AWAY, Dept. 54-2, 1138 Main St., Winnipeg 4, Manitoba.

MONEY BACK GUARANTEE

If after trying the diet you have not lost 7 pounds in the first 7 days, another 6 pounds in the next 7 days and 1½ pounds every two days thereafter, simply return the diet plan and your $2 will be refunded promptly and without argument. Tear out this message as a reminder. Decide now to regain the trim, attractive figure of your youth. Diet plan also available in French.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Bacon Fat Adds Flavor

By MARY MOORE

Mrs. J. A. C. wrote to me in December asking me for, among other things, methods of using up leftover bacon fat.

Leftover bacon fat costs about 75 cents per pound. (Weigh your crisp cooked bacon on a sheet of wax paper on your postal scale sometime. You will see that it is about one-quarter of the weight it was when you put it in the cold pan.) I sent Mrs. J. A.C. some thrifty ideas for using bacon fat but I worried about this leftover which definitely is a luxury in most Canadian homes.

I had a pound of navy beans ready to make up into a pot of baked beans so instead of paying out more for salt pork I used fresh leftover bacon fat. My recipe called Herbie's Baked Beans has been popular with you for years, so I decided to make a change simply for change's sake.

DARK BROWN BAKED BEANS

1 lb. dried navy (pea) beans
3 cups cold water
4 cups hot water
1 whole small peeled onion
1 tsp. dry mustard
1-3 cup molasses
1½ tsps. salt
½ cup leftover bacon fat
¼ cup catsup

Tip the beans into a large pot and add the three cups of cold water and let soak overnight in cool place. In the morning add two cups of the hot water to the beans and cook covered 45 min. or until beans split and are tender.

Put onion in the bottom of your bean pot (many wonderful baked beans are made in a 5-lb. lard pail!). To the cooked beans add all remaining ingredients (including last two cups hot water) and gently stir until blended. Pour over onion (it will float) in bean pot. Put on lid and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hr. then reduce heat to 250 deg. Fahr. for 5 hrs. longer. The beans should bake six hours in all.

We served ours with a crisp cabbage and apple salad. It was a heart-warming winter supper — and about as economical as you can cook anywhere.

I hope Mrs. J. A. C. sees this recipe for Dark Brown Baked Beans.

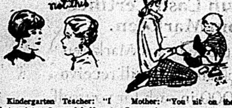
Points for Parents

By MARY BEYSON



Kindergarten Teacher: "I hate winter. I spend half my time helping the little children put on and take off their wraps. You can't imagine how exhausting it is."

Mother: "You sit on the floor and pull on one boot at a time. Hold the boot here by the top and push your foot into it. Now I'll show you how to put on your jacket."

Let your preschool child practise putting on and taking off his outer garments, so by the time he's ready for school, he will be fairly independent of his busy teacher's help.

Missionary with WMS To Speak at Annual Meet

Miss Beatrice Scott, B.A., will be guest speaker at the Presbyterian W.M.S. annual meeting to held in St. Columba Presbyterian Church, Belleville, Feb. 4.

Miss Scott, a native of Port Elgin, Ont., has served as a missionary on the W.M.S. staff since September, 1940. She is a graduate of the normal schools of Ontario, University of Toronto and the Missionary and Deaconess Training School. It is as teacher that she served the major part of her work abroad. She was first on the staff of the Helen MacDonald Memorial Higher Secondary School Jhansi, India then went to the Bhil Field where she was combining teaching and evangelistic work. There she served as principal of the Amkhut school system and supervisor of the village schools.

Miss Scott has been associated, with all of the W.M.S. educational workers in India; with the gradual training of Indian people for their place in the life and work of the church and their country.

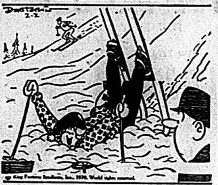
Housebuilders Want Money

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — The federal government must return money to private building industry if projected housing targets are to be met the newly-elected president of the National Housebuilders Association said in an interview Sunday.

S. Eric Johnson of Mississauga, Ont., said private enterprise "has stood mutely by" as hundreds of millions of dollars have been diverted to finance lower-income public housing.

THE LITTLE WOMAN



"Look! I've learned how to stop!"

Provincial Treasurers Oppose Tight Money

QUEBEC (CP) — Pressure was expected to be exerted on Finance Minister Edgar Benson today by the provincial treasurers of the Eastern and Prairie provinces to relax federal controls over tight money, high interest rates, and government spending restraints.

The minister, however, was expected to hold firm to the line that Ottawa must continue restraints to fight inflation.

The federal and provincial finance ministers and treasurers opened a two-day meeting at the height of the Quebec winter carnival. Frivolity was the order of the day throughout the city, but the atmosphere in the old Red Chamber of the Quebec national assembly was expected to be anything but frivolous.

Federal government sources indicated no support whatever for arguments—being expressed widely now in the United States, at least—that the time has come to relax government restraints on the economy.

The finance ministers are meeting on the eve of a conference in Ottawa convened by Dr. John Young, chairman of the prices and incomes commission, designed to get big business to agree to a program of holding the price line.

Dr. Young's conference will be followed a week later, on Feb. 16-17, by a meeting of Prime Minister Trudeau with provincial premiers when the main topic of debate will be further measures needed to fight inflation, if the price restraints are not enough.

Mario Beaulieu, Quebec's minister of finance, was reported to be one who intends to lead a provincial assault on Ottawa's continued tight money policies.

Speaking for the Atlantic provinces and the Prairies, he is said to be planning to put forward powerful arguments that tight money is hurting, rather than helping, these provinces.

Restraints, including cuts in government spending, high interest rates, and general curtailment of business expansion is costing the less-favored provinces more than Ontario, British-Columbia, and the richer part of Quebec west of here.

Federal officials concede that centrally-directed policies such as Ottawa has pursued in the past do hurt the less-favored provinces more than the industrially richer ones. But they say this disparity will become less, as federal programs to promote regional industrial development activity and trades training for the under-employed begin to make more effect. That will take time.

In the meantime, Ottawa's assessment of economic trends in the United States awaits a thorough analysis of the economic report scheduled to be delivered to Congress in Washington today by President Nixon.

Subject to that analysis, the thinking among federal authorities is that Canada and the United States together are on the right road to beating the inflation battle, but they have not yet reached the point at which they can turn aside from the main course.

Quebec Robbery Foiled

QUEBEC (CP) — The attempted robbery of more than $1,500,000 from the main Quebec City branch of the Toronto Dominion Bank was averted Sunday when provincial police arrested eight Toronto men described as internationally-known criminals.

Chief Inspector Jean-Charles Van Houtte said the reputation of the men was instrumental to police learning of the attempt.

The men, all in their forties, had been under surveillance since their arrival from Toronto a few days before.

Police said their surveillance was so successful they were able to film the men as they tried to break into the vault shortly before noon.

Inspector Van Houtte said the vault contained about $1,500,000 in cash as well as the contents of customers' safety deposit boxes.

Police said the eight men fired several shots when surprised by police, but no one was injured.

Last-rock Double Costs Moira Curlers Ontario Title

KINGSTON (CP) — It took a spectacular last shot by skip Fred Osburn for J. P. Ross collegiate of Guelph to defeat Moira secondary school of Belleville 9-6 Saturday night and win the 1970 Ontario schoolboy curling championship.

A trip to St. Jerome, Que., on Feb. 15 as Ontario representatives in the 1970 dominion final hung on the 18-year-old skip's final rock.

He had a two-shot lead over Belleville, skipped by Mike Johnson, but was facing three Belleville counters as he went to the back.

After missing a wide-open takeout with his first stone, Osburn delivered a perfect shot to knock two Belleville counters out of the rings and count his third straight win of the day.

"Just fantastic—I can't believe it," said Osburn. "I knew we had to get rid of one . . . if worst came to worst, though, we wtuld have had the extra end had I missed the double."

"It's a good job you didn't miss," said second Bob Macgregor. "We'd have whacked you over the head with the brooms. You had to make it."

Other members of the 1970 champions are third Ian Robinson and lead Bob Sinclair. Harry Jacobi is the team's coach.

"We could have won if we hadn't missed so many shots," was Belleville vice-skip Gerry Hyde's reaction to the outcome.

The Moira curlers had earned a berth in the final with wins over Sarnia and Parry Sound.

Coached by Jim Dallas, the Belleville representatives were skip Mike Johnson, vice Gerry Hyde Jr., second George Sheffield and lead Jim Dixon.

Guelph gained its berth in the final with an easy 15-3 triumph over Toronto's Dave Walker in the first game and followed that with a close 8-7 win over John Cameron of Niagara Falls.

The Guelph team, just formed this year, has played in men's competitions most of the season. They won eight straight in the schoolboy competition.

The second-event title was captured by Toronto's Walker. After his opening-game loss, he defeated Ken Magee of Ottawa 9-4 and John Young of Parry Sound 9-8.

The third event was claimed by Stewart Craven of Sarnia. He defeated Niagara Falls 8-5 after losing by an identical scored to Belleville in the main-event semi-final.

Magee won the fourth event. After dropping his first two matches, he scored an 10-9 extra-end win over Garry Munro of Hanover.

Mo-Hawks Hope Pieces Fit Right in Kingston

Clinching an OHA Senior A playoff spot with eight regular-schedule games remaining was only half the battle for Belleville Mo-Hawks.

As they head into Kingston tomorrow night, the Mo-Hawks face the task of recovering from a 10-day layoff and a prior slump that saw them lose four straight lopsided games.

"Everything sort of went bad on us at once," conceded coach Davey Jones. "But if we can put all the pieces together — get everyone playing again — we can beat any team in this league in the first round."

One roster member who won't be back in the lineup tomorrow night in Kingston is defenceman Lou Kazowski, still sidelined with a hairline ankle fracture.

Aside from the blueline standout, Jones expects a full lineup on hand to try and avenge four consecutive losses to the Aces.

Kingston currently holds down third spot in the eight-team standing: with 40 points, six more than the Mo-Hawks.

But the locals enjoy three games in hand over the Aces and fourth-place Oakville (38 points) and have played one fewer than fifth-place Barrie Flyers (36 points).

The Mo-Hawk Booster Club is sponsoring a bus for tomorrow night's Kingston game leaving the Memorial Arena at 6:30, with $2.75 covering transportation and game admission.

Interested parties should contact 962-1350 or 962-2605 this evening.

Quinte Mixed Winner

Neeve Not Bad for Openers

By MAURICE SWITZER
(Sports Editor)

TRENTON — Skip Fred Neeve proved there's a first time for everything.

This weekend's Bay of Quinte Mixed Bonspiel action marked Warrant Officer Neeve's first crack at skipping in the eight-year-old event.

And it marked the first time he and CFB Trenton curling mate Wayne McCreadie had ever curled with Joan McKinley and Pat Morrison.

It also marked the first time Fred Neeve's name has appeared on the Fox Cartage Trophy, presented Sunday evening to his foursome for winning the Quinte Mixed spiel's first event.

"If you're going to bring in imports, you might as well bring in the best," laughed Neeve, explaining that before this weekend, he had never curled with Toronto cousin Pat Morrison and her roommate Joan McKinley.

The new combination clicked for six straight wins, climaxing competition in the 64-rink event with a 7-4 first event win over CFB skip Wayne McAlpine's rink.

McAlpine, wife Ella, and William and Carmel Doucette had the Neeve foursome on the short end of a 4-3 count going into the ninth end of their 10-end match.

But Neeve steered his rink to a four-ender that salted away the Fox Cartage Trophy for Neeve in his third Quinte Mixed appearance, his first as skip.

Neeve's rink was one of 21 entries from the CFB Trenton club. Belleville's Quinte Curling Club had the second-best representation with 19 participating foursomes.

One of them, skipped by 1969 Quinte Club president Goldie Livingstone, took second event honors and the Alexander Vending Trophy with a 9-5 win over Neil Lambert's Napanee entry. Other members of the Livingstone rink were third Marlene Henderson, second David Livingstone, and lead Mary Livingstone.

The Carling's Bowl third event went to Ron Miller's CFB rink of wife Ruth, and Jake and Laura Vogl. Miller edged out another CFB rink, skipped by Jim Hope, 9-7 to take third event honors.

Napanee's Glen Wagar broke the Belleville-Trenton trophy monopoly with a 13-7 fourth-event verdict over Ben Corke's Quinte Club foursome.

The Lafferty-Smith Van Lines Cup went to Wagar and rink-members Mary Wagar, and Stu and Ethel Gilbert.

Prizes were distributed at the conclusion of play Sunday night at the CFB Trenton rink. Curling in the eighth annual Quinte Mixed began Thursday night at the Quinte Curling Club, and included weekend action at Trenton's Curling Club.

First Time for Everything

Their first venture as a curling foursome paid handsome dividends this weekend for Fred Neeve, Joan McKinley, Pat Morrison, and Wayne McCreadie. The CFB Trenton rink emerged as top winners in the 64-rink Bay of Quinte Mixed Bonspiel. Here skip Neeve is presented with the Fox Cartage Trophy by company representative Cam Valley.

Would You Believe 5 Straight For Rejuvenated Junior B's?

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

OSHAWA — Once upon a time, long ago and far away, lived a team of less-than-successful hockey players, called the Belleville Ellis Printers. They were a harmless group of fellows who went for the occasional skate, lost consistently to the nasty old teams from other cities and could be counted on to roll collectively over and play dead in the third period.

They were a generous group of fellows and teams throughout the Eastern Ontario Junior B League are mourning their passing.

A coach named Foyd Crawford feels considerably better, however, as his Junior B's took a 4-2 decision in Oshawa to run their unbeaten streak to five games. As far as anyone can recall the win against the league-leading Crushmen on their home ice, was the first by a Belleville team in approximately ten light years.

Saturday's victory pushed the Printers five points up on Cobourg and six ahead of the

RON JURY

Trenton Golden Hawks in the race for the Eastern Ontario League's fourth and final playoff spot.

Picking standouts for the Ellis team lately has been like trying to catch a bear in a telephone booth; that is, it's pretty hard to miss.

One particular player that deserves honorable mention for Saturday night's win was netminder Ron Jury, who faced 36 shots in stymying an Oshawa scoring machine that has averaged just under seven goals a game.

Oshawa opened the scoring at 1.03 of the first period, but the Printers came back to tie the game on Reed Mallory's unassisted goal a minute later.

The Crushmen pulled ahead on a goal by Nesbitt, but tallies by Danny Lupenette and Mallory in the second period, gave Belleville a one-goal edge. Centre John McConnell scuttled any Oshawa comeback hopes with a goal at 13.24 of the final period after some dogged forechecking.

Mallory, who has showed an unbelievable improvement in the past five games, fired two goals, including the winner to raise his total to ten in five games. Defenceman Kevin Dockrill moved into the right wing spot on the line, with Terry Meagher absent, and turned in a strong performance, as did centre John McConnell.

Lupenette continued his fine two-way play with another outstanding checking performance, as well as scoring one goal and hitting the post on two occasions.

The defence corps of John Mulvihill, Al Jones, Greg Burkitt and Dalton Lambert did a fine "plastering job" in front of Jury, keeping the Crushmen off balance with a good checking effort.

"The boys have gained a lot of confidence in the last few games," says Crawford. "A win like that sure makes the trip home a lot shorter."

The Ellis coach continued to go with only two lines, changing them rapidly in the third period to offset the Oshawa benchpower advantage.

Ellis penalty-killers did a fine job late in the game to protect the lead when the Crushmen enjoyed a two-man edge in play.

Belleville's next game is Sunday night at home against Cobourg Cougars.

Dance of Salome Wins Skating Crown for Karen Magnussen

EDMONTON (CP) — Karen Magnussen and David McGillivray will lead the Canadian team into the world championships in Europe next month after capturing the singles titles in the Canadian Figure Skating Championships which ended Sunday.

Miss Magnussen, 17, of Vancouver, recaptured the women's title which she lost last year while McGillivray of Toronto moved up to the men's title after being runner-up the last two years.

Their performances climaxed six days of tension, triumph and tragedy in Canada's premiere figure skating competition.

Skating out of the North Shore Winter Club, the pretty and powerful skater scored firsts from all seven judges to win the title. She had a wide margin over the 14 other contestants after compulsory figures.

Her routine was clearly the best from a spectator's point of view and was performed to Kachaturian's "Spartacus" and Florent Schmitt's "Salome."

"I don't skate as well as I expected to," she said, out of breath after the four-minute program, which included a fall when she was doing footwork.

"It's so dry out there, I don't feel so good right now. It was hard breathing out there."

She said she would begin training for the world championships when she returns to Vancouver today.

Second-place Cathy Lee Irwin, 17, of the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club will accompany Miss Magnussen to the world competition in Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, March 2-8.

The other members of the world team are Toller Cranston of Toronto, who finished second to McGillivray; Mary Church of Toronto and Dave Sutton, of Guelph, Ont., the dance champions; and two other Toronto duos who finished first and second in the pairs competition—Sandra and Val Bezic and Mary Petrie and Robert McAvoy.

McGillivray, like Miss Magnussen, was in first place after figures and his routine, skated mainly to Suppe's light cavalry overture, was a masterpiece of precision.

"I had had all sorts of trouble during the warmup but I was pleased with the performance," said the 20-year-old skater, also from the Cricket, Skating and Curling club.

"I guess I'm a bit of a ham. I enjoy skating for an audience; picking out faces in the crowd and smiling toward them."

Clubmate Cranston, also 20, had 2047.8 points compared with McGillivray's 2210.4.

Paul Bonefant of Vancouver, in second place after figures, had bad luck during his performance. A skate lace snapped and it loosened under stress, obviously affecting his jumps. He eventually finished fourth among the seven junior men.

Third-place Ron Shaver of Hamilton, Ont., sliced his hand while cleaning his skates before competing. He dripped blood throughout his routine but wasn't worried when he finished.

". . . I thought that would be lucky."

Opportunity Knocks Twice for Pete Brown

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pete Brown, a one-time polio victim who learned his golf on the formula of "play three holes and run," was given a second chance by Tony Jacklin and Jack Nicklaus and ran right into the biggest payday of his life.

"I choked," the soft-spoken Brown said Sunday after missing a four-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole that would have given him the title outright in the $150,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open.

But he conquered the growing pressure that built while he waited for Jacklin and Nicklaus to play the 501-yard, par-five final hole, then won a sudden-death playoff for his second title in a 17-year professional career.

He won $30,000.

Nicklaus, the leader or co-leader through the first three rounds, and Jacklin needed birdies on the final hole to tie. Nicklaus was short in two, chipped close and missed a four-foot putt.

"I was jumping around in his line and waving my arms," Brown joked.

Jacklin put a three-wood just on the back fringe in two, putted from 12 feet and missed. He tapped in for a bird.

But on the first extra hole the young Englishman put his tee shot behind a tree, hit the tree and was on in three, about 10 feet away. Brown was on the fringe in two, putted to within 18 inches and watched while Jacklin missed. He tapped in and it was over.

Brown, one of the few Negroes on the tour, fired a stunning, seven-under-par 65 on the final round to come from seven strokes back and gain a tie at 275. Jacklin had a 71 and the downcast Nicklaus a 72, with Jack finishing third at 276.

Nicklaus said he was dropping off the tour for an undetermined length of time.

Tom Weiskopf had a 69 for 278 and was followed by Grier Jones, 66, and Terry Dill, 74, at 279. The group at 280 included Frank Beard, Dave Hill, Don January, Tommy Aaron, and George Knudson of Toronto. Knudson won $4,075.

Al Balding of Toronto finished with a final-round 67 for a 281 and $2,650.

Brown is sponsored by Jim Brown, the former professional football star. His only previous victory was in the 1964 Waco Turner Open. Brown, the father of four, made only $20,000 on the tour last year and had to survive Monday's qualifying rounds to make it into the tournament.

He had an opening 76, then followed with a pair of 67s before the charge that made up so much ground.

"I didn't think I had a chance to win," Brown said. "You just don't make up seven strokes with people like Jacklin and a Nicklaus in front of you."

Brown, who now lives in Los Angeles, has been a professional since he was 18 and started his golfing career as a caddy in his native Jackson, Miss., on segregated courses.

"We'd sneak on either real early, six in the morning, or real late, just before dark, play three holes and run," he said.

He suffered a polio attack in 1956 and was bed ridden the entire year. He still suffers muscular problems that force him to take a rest about every fourth week.

He came back—but didn't make it big until this tournament.

Snead Best Senior

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Veteran Sam Snead became the first four-time winner of the PGA seniors golf championship Sunday with a 72-hole total of 290.

Snead had putting problems throughout the last round, but hit tee shots well and reached the greens with ease.

He finished two strokes ahead of former champion Freddie Haas, who trailed Snead by four going into the final 18 holes at the PGA National Golf Club.

Haas finished the final round with a 74 to Snead's 76.

Paris Peewees Game Losers

QUEBEC (CP) — The first French team ever to enter the annual Quebec international peewee hockey tournament was eliminated from the competition Sunday in losing 13-0 to Quebec City Expos.

Playing in Canada for the first time, the peewees from the Paris suburb of Charenton-le-Pont won the admiration of the crowd as they struggled gamely to keep up with the more experienced Quebec team in the class AA game.

All other class AA action Sunday involved teams from the Toronto Hockey League.

Cedar Hill dumped Agincourt 9-0, Toronto Olympics shutout Young Rangers 6-0, East York beat Ted Reeve 9-1, Don Valley crushed West Hill 14-2 and Toronto Christie defeated Finchurst 9-1.

Peterborough, Ont., triumphed 9-2 over Valleyfield, Que., and Oshawa, Ont., scored a 8-3 victory over Montreal North in class A games.

In class B, Richmond Hill, Ont., blanked Edmundston, N.B., 7-0 while Waterloo, Que., beat Caughnawaga, Que., 5-3 in class C play.

The spirited performance of pint-sized Frederic Malletroit, the French goaltender won roars of approval from the fans in the Quebec Coliseum despite the fact that he let in 13 goals.

With only two months of hockey experience, nine-year-old Malletroit, who weighs 50 pounds, repeatedly made saves by flopping on the puck in his crease as the Quebec team forced the play around the French net.

At the other end of the rink, Expo goaltender Francois Edmond had no difficulty protecting his shutout as Alain Belanger, Christian Boivin and Donald Mercier scored two goals each with singles going to Richard Desrosiers, Jean Nadeau, Denis Dube, Rene Desrosiers, Michel Richard, Claude Desrosiers and Jacques Thibeault.

Dave Sehl Tops Cyclists on Ice

QUEBEC CITY (CP) — Ontario riders Saturday dominated the annual Canadian championship motorcycle ice races before more than 8,000 Quebec Winter Carnival spectators.

Dave Sehl of Waterdown edged his brother Doug by inches in the final of the expert 750 cc class.

Jim Kelly of Hamilton captured the expert lightweight title ahead of Toronto's Don Ego and Dave McLean of Toronto won the junior lightweight class.

Ex-commissioner Frick Makes Hall of Fame

NEW YORK (AP) — Former commissioner Ford C. Frick, centre fielder Earle Combs of New York Yankees and knuckleball pitcher Jesse Haines were elected to baseball's Hall of Fame on Sunday by the old-timers selection committee.

Frick was voted into the Hall of Fame for his contributions to the sport as a long-time executive who served from 1934 until his retirement in 1965.

Combes was the leadoff batter for the great Murderers' Row Yankee teams of the 1920s and was often on base when the two great sluggers of that era—Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig—came to bat.

Combs, who batted left-handed and threw right, collected more than 200 hits in season three times during his career and scored more than 100 funs eight years in succession from 1925 through 1932. He hit more than .300 eight times with a high of .356 in that 1927 season which many feel gave the baseball world its greatest team in history.

Haines, who pitched with Cincinnati in 1918 and with St. Louis Cardinals from 1920 through 1937, won 210 games and lost 158 during his career and pitched a no-hitter against Boston Braves in 1924.

Haines entered the 20-victory circle three times during his long major league career in which he tied the National League record of pitching 18 years for the same club.

Legionnaires Disband

SARNIA (CP) — Sarnia Legionnaires of the Western Ontario Junior Hockey League has been disbanded, it was announced Sunday.

Robert Massey, president of Branch 62 of the Royal Canadian Legion which first sponsored the Sarnia team for 15 years, said fans, through their lack of support, made the decision.

Attendance at the last couple of home games numbered fewer than 400 a game. Roy Halliday, chairman of the legion's hockey committee, said they must have at least 1,200 a game to operate.

Halliday estimated the team's financial loss since joining the WOHL in 1968 to be in excess of $10,000.

Previously, the Legionnaires belonged to the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B league and were four-time winners of the OHA championship.

The Legionnaires, in the cellar of the five-team league in the current season, had been scheduled to play in Guelph Sunday night.

Other league members are Guelph Beef Kings, Chatham Maroons, St. Thomas Barons and Brantford Foresters.

Duhamel Wins With Blizzard

MALONE, N.Y. (AP) — World snowmobile champion Yvon Duhamel of La Salle Que., won the $10,000 Northeastern invitational snowmobile championships here Sunday. Duhamel, who has been Canadian motorcycle racing champion seven of the last eight years, piloted a Skidoo Blizzard to victory over 25 laps of the half-mile course. He won the world championship last Sunday at Eagle River, Wis.

Pancho Rides Again

DETROIT (AP) — Pancho Gonzalez captured his second straight $10,000 tennis prize by handily disposing of Australian John Newcombe 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 in the second round of the $200,000 Tennis Champions Classic Saturday night. Only last week in New York, the 41-year-old Californian upset Rod Laver, the world's top-ranked player, in the initial match of the series, which is touring 10 cities.

Hawks Win Pair

Plenty of Hats In NHL Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three-goal performances became almost routine Sunday night with Ralph Backstrom, Dave Balon and Jim Pappin leading their clubs to National Hockey League wins.

Backstrom's three included the game-winner for Montreal Canadiens who whipped Philadephia Flyers 5-2. Balon's three-goal effort came in a 6-0 New York Rangers romp over Pittsburgh Penguins and Pappin provided the winning margin in a 7-4 Chicago Black Hawks victory over Minnesota North Stars.

In other games, Detroit Red Wings edged Oakland Seals 3-2 while Boston Bruins squeaked by Toronto Maple Leafs 7-6 in a game marked by a wild second-period brawl.

Saturday, Boston and Montreal battled to a 3-3 tie, Toronto downed Minnesota 4-2, Detroit edged Los Angeles Kings 2-1, Pittsburgh downed St. Louis Blues 2-1 and Tony Esposito collected his 11th season shutout in a 5-0 Chicago win over Philadelphia.

Backstrom scored his second of the night and the game-winner with less than four minutes remaining in the game before 14,606 fans at Philadelphia.

The Flyers removed goalie Bernie Parent for an extra attacker but Montreal's Claude Provost fired into the empty net to make the score 4-2. Parent returned to the nets but Backstrom beat him for his third goal of the night with just eight seconds remaining.

Mickey Redmond scored the other Montreal goal with Earl Heiskala and Andre Lacroix collecting single goals for the Flyers.

The win kept the Canadiens tied with Boston, three points behind the leading Rangers in the Eastern Division standings.

Veteran goalie Terry Sawchuk appeared in only his fourth game for Rangers this season to post the 103rd shutout of his 20-year NHL career.

The 40-year-old veteran made 29 saves to back up Balon's three goals along with two by Jean Ratelle and one by defenceman Brad Park.

A crowd of 17,250 at New York saw the Rangers fire 36 shots at Pittsburgh goalie Al Smith.

The loss left the Penguins still in third spot in the Western Division, five points behind Philadelphia and two ahead of Minnesota.

Stan Mikita scored twice and assisted on three other goals to join Pappin in the spotlight before 16,666 fans at Chicago.

The North Stars took a 3-2 lead in the first period on goals by Danny O'Shea, Claude Larose and Bill Collins, but the Hawks stormed back with four goals in the second session, including one each by Gerry Pinder and Cliff Koroll.

Danny Grant added one goal in the third period for the North Stars, who absorbed their eighth straight loss.

The win kept the Hawks three points behind fourth-place Detroit in the battle for the last playoff spot in the Eastern Division.

Bruce MacGregor's power-play goal with a little more than three minutes remaining in the game at Oakland gave the Red Wings the victory.

A crowd of 9,285, largest of the season at Oakland, saw the Seals take a 2-1 lead midway through the third period on a goal by Bert Marshall. Pete Stemkowski scored for the Wings less than a minute later to tie it up and set the stage for MacGregor's winner.

Frank Mahovlich scored for Detroit in the first period and Norm Ferguson got Oakland's second-period goal.

Referee Bill Friday handed out 34 minutes in penalties after the second-period brawl in Boston during which both teams abandoned their benches to join in the melee.

The fight started with a scrap between Boston's Johnny McKenzie and Leaf defenceman Pat Quinn. Boston's Bobby Orr also got into the act and wrestled the Toronto rearguard to the ice. Quinn and McKenzie took five-minute majors for fighting along with two-minute minors. Leaf forward Brit Selby and Orr also got five minutes each for fighting while Toronto's Brian Glennie collected a 10-minute misconduct for leaving the penalty box.

A few minutes later, Leafs' Tim Horton and Bruins' Ken Hodge drew fighting majors for a scrap in front of Toronto goalie Bruce Gamble.

McKenzie's power-play goal at 9:24 of the third period proved the winner for the Bruins before a noisy crowd of 14,835. Fred Stanfield, Phil Esposito, Orr, Eddie Westfall, Don Marcotte and Wayne Cashman scored the other Bruins goals.

Mike Walton scored twice for the Leafs with single goals coming from Norm Ullman, Jim McKenny, Jim Harrison and Dave Keon.

* * *

Orr also earned two assists to open a 13-point lead over teammate Esposito in the battle for the league scoring title.

Orr picked up a goal and an assist while Esposito scored twice Saturday night in the deadlock before a season record crowd of 18,454 at Montreal.

Goals by John Ferguson and Jacques Laperrier gave the Canadiens an early lead but Esposito and Orr made the score 2-2 going into the third period. Mickey Redmond again gave Montreal the lead early in the final session but Esposito's second goal at the 4:43 mark brought the Bruins even.

Goalie Gerry Cheevers made 41 saves to keep the Bruins in the game while Rogatien Vachon steered only 26 shots aside.

Saturday was also a two-goal night for Mikita and Bobby Hull with Pappin getting the other Chicago goal before 14,606 fans at Philadelphia.

Tony Esposito, younger brother of Phil, stopped 34 shots in the Black Hawks nets for the shutout while Doug Favell absorbed the loss despite making 35 saves for the Flyers.

A second-period brawl also marred the game before 9,679 at Pittsburgh. The Penguins' Glen Sather and St. Louis defenceman Barclay Plager each collected two five-minute penalties and misconducts for their part in the fight which held up the game 20 minutes.

The Penguins, who have been shut out in their last three encounters with the Blues, got goals from Keith McCreary and Wally Boyer after a first-period tally by the Blues' Tim Ecclestone.

Despite the loss, the Blues still hold a 14-point lead over second-place Philadelphia in the Western Division.

Right winger Ron Ellis scored twice while Selby and veteran George Armstrong got single goals for the Leafs in their romp over the North Stars before a Minnesota crowd of 14,696.

Marlies' Durbano Up for Assault

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were two surprises waiting for Toronto Marlboros when they arrived at St. Catharines Sunday night.

Steve Durbano of the Marlboros was charged with assault causing bodily harm before he stepped on the ice and St. Catharines Black Hawks defeated the Toronto team 12-1 in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A action.

In other games, Montreal Junior Canadiens rapped Hamilton Red Wings 9-4, Oshawa Generals defeated Peterborough Petes 5-3, Ottawa Generals shutout Niagara Falls Flyers 4-0 and London Knights trounced Kitchener Rangers 8-2.

Durbano was charged in connection with a fight between a hockey player and a St. Catharines policeman during a Nov. 11 game.

Durbano, after being charged, in turn filed a charge of common assault against city police constable John Smith. They will appear in court Feb. 17.

There was no such comeback for the Marlboros, who got their lone goal from Steve Vickers.

Mike Bloom and Clyde Simon scored three goals each for St. Catharines, Doug Rombough and Al McDonough added two each and Brian McKenzie and Duane Wylie got the others.

Michel Larocque was the hero of the game at Ottawa, stopping 31 shots to gain the second consecutive shutout by Ottawa over the Flyers.

Doug Keeler, Murray Wilson, Connie Forey and Wayne Merric scored the Ottawa goals.

Pint-sized Bobby Lalonde, the 150-pound Montreal forward, scored five goals to lead the Canadiens to victory. Gilbert Perreault, Paulin Bordeleau, Robert Guindon and Pierre Brind'Amour got the others.

Ken Southwick, Ed Gilbert, Larry Gould and Ron LeBlanc replied for Hamilton.

Bob Peppler scored twice for the Generals as they extended their unbeaten string to six games. Pete Sullivan, Gary Mahon and Steve Cardwell got the others.

Rick MacLeish, Craig Ramsay and Dennis Gloor replied for Peterborough.

Darryl Sittler scored three goals for London and assisted on three others. Dennis Giannini also scored three and set up two, while Gord Brooks scored once and assisted on three. Pat Boutette scored the other London goal.

Jerry Byers and Chris Ahrens scored for Kitchener.

Little Marlies Win

PORT HURON, Mich. (CP) — Two Toronto teams met Sunday in the Bantam AAA final of the Silver Stick North American minor hockey championships, and the result was like old times for Toronto Marlboros.

The bantam Marlies defeated Toronto Young Nationals 6-3 to win their fifth championship in eight seasons of play at the Silver Stick.

The Marlboros started their push for the title with a 4-0 win Saturday over St. Catharines and defeated Sarnia 7-2 in Sunday's semi-final.

Ottawa 67, meanwhile, downed Kitchener Lions 4-2 to win the Peewee AAA final Sunday.

United States teams took championships for the first time. Ann Arbor, Mich., defeated Ajax 4-3 in overtime to win the bantam A title and Edina, Minn., scored a 1-0 win over Gatineau, Que., in the peewee AA.

Hawkesbury downed Fraser, Mich., 6-1 to win the peewee A class.

Saturday, Stratford scored a 4-3 win over Port Huron in bantam AA play.

Aces Gain Split

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One team trounced the opposition, but two others needed overtime to post victories in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior series Sunday.

Orillia Terriers downed Woodstock A's 6-1, while Kingston Aces edged Owen Sound Crescents 5-4 and Oakville Oaks beat Galt Hornets 3-2, both in overtime, after the Hornets had scored a 3-2 overtime victory over Kingston Saturday.

Grant Moore and Dave Nicholisson scored two goals each, while Carl Hymers and Gary Milroy added the others for Orillia. Gerry Stringle was the lone Woodstock marksman.

Don Currie scored the goal that gave Oakville its overtime victory. Pat Bester and Pete Bettiol got the others. Fern Belanger and Rio Caron replied for Galt.

John Mercer got the overtime winner for Kingston, which also got two goals from Bob Clayton and singles from Bob Olajos and Hugh Harvey. Bill Abbott scored two goals for Owen Sound while Dale Watson and Keith Smeltzer got the others.

Bob Ertel was the hero, with an overtime goal that sank the Aces Saturday. Billy Hway and Fern Belanger added singles.

John Mercer and Bob Rawson scored for Kingston.

Milton Hospital Probe Requested

MILTON, On. (CP) — Five department heads at the district hospital in this town 30 miles west of Toronto have asked for a provincial government investigation into "recent happenings" at the hospital.

The five issued a statement Sunday saying they wanted a full-scale investigation into "recent incidents of sabotage of hospital equipment" and the "sudden and unexplained departure" Saturday of the hospital's administrator, Dalton E. McQuaig.

The brief statement followed reports last week that the director of nurses was fired at the hospital. Some nurses walked out in sympathy but have since returned.

The chairman of the board of directors issued a statement last week saying he had not heard of any sabotage. He also said that the "armed guards" that employees had complained about were security men hired for the protection of nurses on the night shift who had to deal with difficult newly-admitted patients.

Shirley Wallis, executive housekeeper, Susan Black, chief medical records librarian, Marilyn DeBoer, chief x-ray technician, James Schnarr, laundry manager and Mary Ann Corbett, director of food services, issued the statement Sunday.

They said Mr. McQuaig had told department heads Thursday that recent incidents of sabotage of hospital equipment were being investigated.

"We feel that he had the situation well in hand."

Then Mr. McQuaig made a "sudden and unexplained departure" Saturday.

FOR SALE

"The Hardest Working Classified Want Ads are the ones that are Written the Best!"

Follow These Helpful Suggestions For Writing A Good Want Ad.

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

2—Be CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. Always include "price".

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions.

You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

THE EXPROPRIATION PROCEDURES ACT 1968-69

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR APPROVAL TO EXPROPRIATE LAND

IN THE MATTER of an application by The Corporation of the City of Belleville for approval to expropriate land, being all of Lot 33, Registrar's Compiled Plan Number 1844, filed in the Registry Office for the Registry Division of the County of Hastings, and situate, lying and being in the City of Belleville, in the County of Hastings, for the purpose of the expansion of the filtration plant of the Public Utilities Commission of the City of Belleville.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that application has been made for approval to expropriate the land described as follows:

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain parcel or tract of land and premises, situate, lying and being in the City of Belleville in the County of Hastings and being composed of all of Lot 33 according to Registrar's Compiled Plan Number 1844 filed in the Registry Office for the said County and being formerly part of Lot 38 in the Broken Front Concession of the Township of Sidney, said parcel being designated as PART 1 on a plan survey dated December 5, 1968, signed by Walter I. Watson, Ontario Land Surveyor, a duplicate of which plan is hereto attached.

Any owner of lands in respect of which notice is given who desires an inquiry into whether the taking of such land is fair, sound and reasonably necessary in the achievement of the objectives of the expropriating authority shall so notify the aproving authority in writing,

(a) in the case of a registered owner, served personally or by registered mail within thirty days after he is served with the notice, or, when he is served by publication, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice;

(b) in the case of an owner who is not a registered owner, within thirty days after the first publication of the notice.

The approving authority is Council of The Corporation of the City of Belleville,
City Hall,
Belleville,
Ontario.

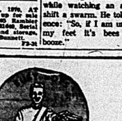
STUNG, NOT STONED

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Governor Lord Martonmere's round of traditional pre-Christmas visits was delayed, he explained, because of a dozen bee stings he got around the ankles while watching an attempt to shift a swarm. He told an audience: "So, if I am unsteady on my feet it's bees and not booze."



When your Intelligencer carrier comes to collect, watch his big smile that says "Thank You".

Your Intelligencer carrier makes it his business to collect at a regular time — convenient to you. That way he comes expected and you can be ready for him.

You can help too, by having the money there when he calls so that he won't have to come back.

Because this carrier is in business for himself he depends on the full collection of his route for his full profit. Repeat calls for him mean extra work with no extra profit.

Next time your Intelligencer carrier comes to collect, be ready — Watch his big smile that says, "Thank You".

Expansion Planned Of Nuclear Shield

WASHINGTON (CP-AP) — President Nixon offered today a reduced $71,200,000,000 military budget aimed at strengthening the United States' nuclear shield while cutting the size of the armed forces to below 3,000,000 persons for the first time in about five years.

Nixon told Congress in his budget message for the 1971 fiscal year that pending agreement with the Soviet Union to limit strategic armaments "we must proceed with a full range of new programs."

These programs include the controversial Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system which he announced last week must be expanded to protect against an anticipated missile threat from Communist China in the late 1970s.

The president said the programs are necessary "for protection against an evolving threat from potential agressors."

Major projects include land- and sea-launched multiple war-head missiles, new short-range bomber-launched nuclear missiles plus various planes and ships for the navy and air force.

Nixon's military budget is $5,300,000,000 less than this year's and about $10,000,000,000 under the final budget of the former Johnson administration.

Nixon said national security accounts for 37 per cent of the total budget—a smaller percentage than in any year since 1950.

Law, Order Top Issue In Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — A swing to the right in Conservative party thinking was foreshadowed Sunday as the main British opposition party completed a three-day exercise in electoral planning.

Twenty-five Conservative leaders, assembled for a week-end in a country hotel south of London, decided to make law and order a top issue in the campaign for Britain's eighth post-war general election, which must be held by May of 1971.

The decision reflects growing grassroots impatience with student power, anti-apartheid demonstrators and other manifestations of civil disorder.

Some commentators saw the move as modelled as Republican party strategy in the 1968 election in the United States. But even without the American example, there has been a growing uneasiness in Britain about demonstrations.

Scouting activities

The boy scouts and girl guides will mark Scout-Guide Week Feb. 15-22.

A combined hobby show wil be held in Christ Church hall on Feb. 20th. Individual groups are planning banquets and open meetings for parents. A preliminary to Scout-Guide Week is the scouter get-together scheduled for Feb. 10th in the Masonic Temple. A dinner - dance evening for uniform leaders and friends is being organized by the district council.

On Feb. 28th the annual scout rally will be held in the Belleville armories beginning at 7.00 p.m. Scout patrols will compete for five trophies given by local service clubs and individuals.

The Venturers of the First Cannifton - Corbyville groups began an action - packed three - day period on Jan. 24th with an airplane ride over Prince Edward County. The next day they went tobogganing and had an outdoor meal, and on Monday evening the boys tested their skills in bowling.

The 3rd Belleville Pack under the leadership of Mrs. Sheila Kraszewski and Mrs. James McArdle have welcomed seven new cubs - Bill and Paul Flanagan, John Allore, Bruce Horwood, Peter Lynch, Dan Brennan and Mark Crawford.

This group has been busy at badge work and handicrafts and made donations to retarded children.

A ski course, which was held every Saturday in January at the Oak Hill Ski Club, was attended by 13 boys and one leader.

The next meeting of the district council is scheduled for Feb. 9th at St. Thomas Church Hall.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market moved into its seventh successive downward session with a small mid-morning loss today.

On index, industrials were down .16 to 117.73 and golds .03 to 154.52. Western oils picked up .56 to 209.33 and base metals .04 to 113.94.

Volume was light with 751,000 shares traded by 11 a.m. compared with 672,000 at the same time Friday.

Losses outnumbered gains 129 to 116 with 174 issues unchanged.

Acres dropped 1 to 19½. Acres announced late Friday it had acquired control of Canadian General Securities, which controls Traders Group.

Acres said it will make a prorata offer for 2,200,000 class A and B shares of Traders Group and an offer for remaining Class A shares and class B shares of Canadian General Securities.

Canadian General Securities A was up 2⅝ to 12⅞ on 100 shares, Traders A ⅜ to 11¼ on 6,943 shares after a brief trading halt to match orders and Traders B ¾ to 12 on 200 shares.

Traders has interests in Guaranty Trust, up ¼ to 9⅝, and in Cadillac Development, which did not trade. The stock closed Friday unchanged at 6⅛.

War Crimes Inquiry Is Planned at Montreal

ST. JEROME, Que. (CP)—A two-day meeting of international leaders opposed to the Vietnam war ended Sunday with agreement that American and Canadian movements to force the United States out of Vietnam must be intensified in 1970.

Participants in the weekend meeting included three members of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks.

Delegates decided that Montreal will be the site of an international commission of inquiry into war crimes in Vietnam, to be held in May.

The Montreal Vietnam Moratorium Committee will invite organizations and individuals "from all parts of the world" to make evidence available to the inquiry commission "to expose the extent of the atrocities and war crimes which have been committed by the U.S. war machine against the people of Vietnam."

Edward Martin Sloan, chairman of the Montreal Moratorium Committee, said testimony would be received at the war crimes inquiry from Vietnamese survivors, GI's and U.S. deserters.

"It's absolutely essential at this stage that the curtain of silence be lifted for the American people," Mr. Sloan said.

"It would be tragic if they ended up like the Germans of 30 years ago, pleading ignorance of Nazi atrocities or saying there was nothing they could do to stop them."

A communique issued at the end of the meeting, which was closed to reporters, labelled the Nixon administration's "Vietnamization policy" as a "hoax for the prolongation of the war" and called on all peace organizations to carry out "a detailed exposure of its cynical, immoral and illegal nature."

Among the participants in the meeting at this Laurentian resort 30 miles north of Montreal were four delegates from the Helsinki-based World Peace Council, including Krishna Menon, former defence minister of India, and Martin Niemoeller, president of the World Council of Churches.

The delegation from the U.S included leading organizers of the Washington Moratorium march in mid-November, and Masai Hewitt, minister of education of the Black Panther Party. Tran Cong Tuong was leader of the three-man North Vietnamese delegation. Mr Tuong, a member of his government's delegation to the Paris conference on Vietnam, said in an interview the Nixon administration, under cover of gradually handing ovrr the war to the Saigon regime, is intensifying the violence in Vietnam to a higher level than ever.

Irish Envoy Tries To Get Priests Freed

LAGOS (Reuters) — The Nigerian government has been in touch with the Irish ambassador here over the question of 60 Roman Catholic priests and nuns held in eastern Nigeria, diplomatic sources said Sunday.

They said a government official called Saturday on the ambassador, Paul J. G. Keating, who had made repeated appeals to Nigerian officials for access to the prisoners.

Other sources said the question of the imprisonment of the missionaries, all of whom worked in what was the secessionist state of Biafra during the Nigerian civil war, was discussed Saturday at top levels by Nigerian officials.

The government announced Saturday night that 35 priests were sentenced to six months in prison for breaking immigration laws, but added that the sentences would be reviewed in the next few days.

However, well-informed sources here said that of the 60 missionaries held in Port Harcourt under various forms of detention, 20 priests—17 Irish and three British—were given six-month terms and others fined or acquitted.

Another 28 missionaries, including 10 nuns and Bishop Joseph Whelan of Owerri, are reported in Port Harcourt after being summoned there by military officials.

Roman Catholic sources said this means all Roman Catholic relief personnel in the southern area of the former rebel enclave have been withdrawn.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trading was dull on a supply of slaughter cattle lacking both quality and condition at the Ontario public stock yards today.

Veal calf and lamb prices were steady, hog prices were higher.

Slaughter cattle 768: Choice steers 31 to 32.50; good 30 to 31; mediums 27.50 to 29.50; commons 23 to 27; choice heifers 30 to 30½; good 28 to 29½; mediums 26-28; commons 22 to 25; good cows 22 to 23; mediums 21 to 22 canners and cutters 14 to 20; good heavy bologna bulls 26 to 27; commons and mediums 23 to 25.50.

Members Learn Church Debt Free

DESERONTO — Some astonishing facts were reported recently at the annual congregational meeting of the Presbyterian Church of the Redeemer. This church consists of fewer than 20 families, with very few men, and yet this year the interior was fully restored, the tower was removed, and other minor repairs were made, at a total cost of $10,000. Today the church is entirely free of debt.

A restoration fund was set up in Centennial Year, and donations, plus contributions by the Ladies' Aid, brought in a total of over $2,000. The following year $1,000 swelled the fund. A walkathon last summer resulted in a further addition of $2,200, and generous donations came in for $3,500. When the church was reopened and rededicated Nov. 16 there was a debt of $1,500, which has since been cleared off mostly through donations.

The members now are planning for the future, but all plans are purely tentative. An engineer went over the church thoroughly before any repairs were made, and stated that the stonework of this fine old church is in need of repointing. This will be their first project.

There is need for Sunday School classrooms. At present there is the auditorium only.

The meeting itself was well attended, beginning with a supper, and with several of the older members present who cannot attend services regularly. It was a happy occasion when Mrs. Albert Walker, chairman of the official board, announced that the church is debt free.

Most of the church officials were re-appointed, with the addition of Mr. Percy Brooks, a new member, to the board of managers.

Church treasurer is Mrs. C. F. Dimmell.

Auto Safety To Be Debated

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's auto safety bill, setting out standards manufacturers or importers must incorporate in their 1971 models, comes up for more debate today in the Commons.

Criticism of the bill so far has centred on the standards being an exact copy of those already in effect in the United States.

Transport Minister Don Jamieson, opening second-reading debate Thursday, said, however, that other standards will be demanded later on. These would include noise abatement and exhaust fumes.

Some opposition MPs said that cars made in the U.S. and Canada do not take into account the hazardous winter conditions found in many parts of Canada.

The standards would be required in the 1971 models—provided the bill gets full parliamentary approval by March—they would include such items as seat belts and non-protruding objects on car interiors.

The bill provides for heavy fines for car makers and importers who knowingly sell a defective car. Fines are as high as $2000,00.

Mr. Jamieson said snowmobiles are not included under the bill. But this might be done later on, he said.

Russians Get Steel For Gas

ESSEN (AP) — The Soviet Union and West Germany signed Sunday a billion-dollar-plus deal under which the Russians will supply West Germany with natural gas and receive large-gauge steel pipelines in return.

The transaction is the biggest ever between the Russians and a Western country.

The deal, under which the West Germans granted massive credits to Moscow to finance the steel purchases, is also the largest order to date won by West German steel-tubing producers.

The giant Mannesmann-Thyssen iron and steel concern will begin next July to supply a total of 1,200,000 metric tons of the 52-inch-diameter pipelines worth about $327,000,000.

Over 20 years, beginning in 1973, the Russians will pump from their vast Siberian natural gas fields 52,500,000 cubic metres of gas worth an estimated $762,000,000.

Air Fares Unchanged In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — All nine-major United States trunk airlines have come into a fare-sharing agreement enabling them to retain present fares at least through April 30.

Northwest and United were the last two airlines to sign the agreement. They had faced a Civil Aeronautics Board order to trim their fares 6.35 per cent Sunday unless they entered the agreement. The cut would have put fares back to the level of last Sept. 30.

Earlier, the agreement was signed by Trans World, American, Delta, Continental, Eastern, National and Northeast. The agreement will give local service airlines a greater share of joint revenue from passengers whose trips require transportation on both trunk and local service airlines.

Reunification Said Impossible

HAMBURG (Reuters) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt says reunification of East and West Germany is no longer possible in the conventional sense.

In a world that has changed it is rather a matter of concentrating on a European peace settlement in whose framework self-determination and national unity might be realized, he said in an interview with the Sunday newspaper Welt Am Sonntag.

Second West German Dies from Smallpox

DUESSELDORF (AP) — The second West German within three days has died of smallpox and health officials said Sunday they fear another wave of infections within 12 days.

An 80-year-old man died late Saturday in hospital in Wimbern, a small community in the state of North Rhine-Westphalia. Health authorities said he contracted smallpox in a Meschede hospital where 20-year-old electrician Bernd Klein was being treated for the disease.

Twelve persons in the Meschede vicinity have come down with smallpox and more than 200 persons now are in quarantine in hospitals in the area.

Last Thursday, a 17-year-old student nurse died of smallpox.

Sunday Battle Fought Along Syrian Border

TEL AVIV (AP) — Syrian and Israeli tanks forces battled along the Golan Heights for nearly two hours Sunday in what Damascus called the most intense fighting on the Israeli-Syrian border since the 1967 six-day war.

Amid denials by each side of the other's damage and casualty claims, the Syrians also reported a series of aerial dog-fights in which they said one Israeli jet was downed. The Israelis said no air battle took place.

The Israelis also denied a Syrian claim that five Israeli tanks were knocked out.

It was the third day of heavy action along the Golan Heights line.

An Israeli spokesman said Israeli forces suffered no casualties or damage. But he said three enemy tanks were destroyed and two Syrian outposts were hit by artillery and tank fire.

A Syrian military spokesman claimed that three Israeli observation posts and an anti-tank position were hit by Syrian ground fire and 30 Israeli soldiers either killed or wounded.

During the Golan eHights action, Egyptian and Israeli warplanes exchanged raids in the Suez canal area.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser called a meeting of the Egyptian Cabinet Sunday night after launching a series of high-level meetings apparently aimed at coordinating the policies of Israeli's Arab neighbors.

Nasser met first with Premier Rashid Karami of Lebanon ,who arrived Saturday night. He told the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram that he came to talk about "necessary procedures to be taken to defend our country from Israeli's repeated aggressions."

Nasser is scheduled to meet next week is a "little summit" conference with the leaders of Syria, Jordan, Iraq, Sudan and Libya. The conference was arranged after the failure of Arab leaders at the Rabat summit conference in December to agree on a co-ordinated program of action against Israel.

In Beirut, a reliable diplomatic source in Beirut insisted Sunday, despite Egyptian denials, that Nasser made a secret four-day visit to Moscow last week.

Coalition Against ABM Aroused Anew by Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has aroused anew the Congressional coalition opposing U.S. anti-ballistic missile development by emphasizing expansion of the Safeguard ABM system.

Senate opponents are prepared to make an issue of the President's change in reasoning.

Nixon has resurrected the argument used by the Johnson administration for its Sentinel ABM and dropped some he used last year for Safeguard.

"It leaves us dizzy," one key aide said after Nixon's announcement at his news conference Friday night, adding: "I don't know how many times the rationale can be shifted and still have any sense of reality."

Nixon said the ABM expansion he is seeking this year involves area defence as well as the defence of Minuteman Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) sites that was at issue in the 1969 fight over the first two ABM sites.

The site defence aspect was a major difference between Safeguard and the Johnson administration's Sentinel ABM that emphasized area defence, especially relating to major cities in the U.S.

Although details of the new ABM expansion are to be announced later by Defence Secretary Melvin R. Laird, defence of at least one city—Washington—is likely to be included.

Both arguments for the ABM were outlined last March by Nixon and top defence officials.

But the fact that funds were only being asked to protect the two ICBM bases had the effect of playing down the main rationale for an area defence—the potential Chinese threat.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield charged Saturday that "the president has resurrected the Chinese threat which he said, about a year ago, if I remember correctly, he 'couldn't buy.'

"I guess arguments have a way of changing," he said.

Mansfield also questioned how an ABM expansion would affect the strategic arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union which reopen in April.

This subject was expected to come up when Gerard Smith, the top U.S. negotiator, appears before the Senate disarmament subcommittee, a hotbed of anti-ABM sentiment.

College Faculties Plan Day's Strike

TORONTO (CP) — A general meeting of the Ontario Federation of Community College Faculty Associations voted Saturday to hold a one-day strike Feb. 9 unless the provincial government agrees to consult the organization on plans for legislation affecting bargaining rights of government employees.

Delegates from 12 of the province's 20 community colleges voted 5 to 4 with three abstensions in favor of a resolution proposing "study sessions outside the college." The abstentions were cast on grounds local faculty associations had not had time to vote on the question.

Federation president Hal Morgan of Scarborough's Centennial College said after the meeting he plans to present the demand to Education Minister William Davis today. He said the government would be given three days in which to pledge co-operation or send the federation a draft of the proposed law.

"However, if the answer is negative we shall proceed immediately to implement plans for the study sessions."

The federation has been trying for more than two years to win the right to bargain on behalf of member teachers in the community college system.

Guerrillas Pose Puzzle for Israel

AMMAN (AP) — Yasir Arafat, leader of Al Fatah Palestinian Arab guerrilla movement, claimed Sunday that guerrilla successes have created serious military and political splits among Israeli leaders over how to deal with increasing violence in the Middle East.

Arafat did not state the differences, but said they made a sharp contrast with the Palestine resistance movement's unity of purpose.

"We know our way perfectly," he said in an interview at his headquarters in this Jordanian capital.

"Now we are in the stage of limited confrontation and we can definitely say the Palestine revolution has started on the way to liberation."

The guerrilla movement seeks to establish a non-religious state in what was formerly Palestine to include Moslems, Christians and Jews.

Probe Begun of Tale Of Malaya Massacre

LONDON (Reuters) — The British defence ministry today began investigating allegations that troops from the elite Scots Guards regiment massacred 25 Chinese during anti-guerrilla operations in Malaya 21 years ago.

When the story of the alleged American massacre at My Lai, South Vietnam broke, George Brown, fiery deputy leader of the governing Labor party, said such things happened in all wars and the British Army had "skeletons in its cupboard."

The People, a mass-circulation Sunday paper, gave front-page treatment to the alleged British massacre in Malaya, quoting a former soldier who said he was present at the time. Other British newspapers—including the influential Times and The Guardian—gave prominent play to the story today.

The People says the Guards las and rounded up 25 suspects were hunting Malayan guerril- in a small village. All Chinese plantation workers, they allegedly were executed the following day.

A defence ministry spokesman said: "We are studying the press story. We will be searching the records for any reports on the matter."

But the Communist daily Morning Star today reproduced a picture of a 1949 front-page headline which read: "Storm sweeps Malay at mass murders."

The headline, taken from the old Daily Worker which it replaced, quoted a person as saying: "I saw unarmed workers shot down in cold blood."

A daily worker correspondent wrote from Kuala Lumpur that he had "spoken with the widows and other relatives of 25 unarmed Chinese plantation workers who were shot by British troops on Dec. 12"

New Dilemmas Seen In Vietnamese War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Senate investigators foresee grave new American dilemmas in South Vietnam, in a war they describe as "not only far from won but far from over."

That assessment came in a staff report released Sunday by the Senate foreign relations committee, which plans hearings Tuesday and Wednesday on a series of resolutions seeking to shape future United States foreign policy.

Investigators James G. Lowenstein and Richard M. Moose went to Saigon on Dec. 7 on a 13-day study mission for the committee.

While their findings seemed generally mixed, their conclusions were pessimistic. They told the committee that the evidence on which current U.S. policy is based appears "ambiguous, confusing and contradictory."

Co-ed Wants to Attend U.S. Air Force Academy

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A University of Oklahoma co-ed has announced she intends to "desegregate" the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado.

Jone French of suburban Midwest City mailed letters to the entire Oklahoma U.S. congressional delegation Saturday to request application forms. She also wrote U.S. Representative Patsy Mink (Dem. Hawaii) asking for the help and advice of a fellow woman, as well as her sponsorship.

Miss French, a 19-year-old freshman at Oklahoma University said if she encounters any difficulty she has a lawyer standing by.

In her letters she asked to have her name put on the list for the next competitive examination for entrance, which is scheduled for next fall. She figures that would let her enrol at the academy in the fall of 1971.

Drug Inquiry's Next Session Fixed For Kingston in Fortnight's Time

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The spreading use of narcotics among young persons here, and the need for treatment centres and factual information was outlined Saturday to the federal commission of inquiry into the non-medical use of drugs.

The commission, under chairman Gerald LeDain left Saturday night after its one-day hearing. The next scheduled sitting is at Kingston, Ont. Feb. 13 but a spokesman said the date may be changed.

Dr. Charles Boddie, director of student health services at Memorial University, said drug-usage first came to the attention of local doctors about two years ago.

During the last year there had been "a substantial increase in the availability and use of drugs" here.

Dr. Boddie said there was an "immediate need for some sort of walk-in clinic so people using drugs will have a place to go to seek help."

Memorial University's student council also recommended that "preventive care and rehabilitative clinics be set up to treat users of stimulant, narcotic and hallucinogenic drugs."

The council said such clinics should have available trained field workers who had no connection with law-enforcement authorities.

It also called for suspension of laws governing hashish "for such time as it takes to determine the short and long term effects of this substance on humans."

The council said rehabilitation should replace present punitive treatment.

Brother Kevin Molley, principal of Brother Rice high school here, recommended a campaign to educate youth about the dangers of drugs.

He said strict penalties for traffickers should be maintained but the government should "remove the stigma of a criminal record by mitigating the penalties for youthful first offenders."

Glen Sheppard, representing the Newfoundland Teachers Association, said there should be enough information made available to enable teachers to present both sides of the drug picture.

He said teachers should not be obliged to use standard textual matter for indoctrination when explaining drugs to students.

Dr. David Parsons, representing the Newfoundland Medical Association, said local doctors were not well-prepared to treat patients with drug problems, mainly through lack of factual information.

D. P. Thompson, president of the Newfoundland Pharmaceutical Association, said advertising of home remedies on radio and TV was in some cases "very misleading . . . almost false in its claims regarding the use of home medications."

Mr. Thompson said doctors should avoid having their receptionists telephone prescriptions to druggists.

There was a danger this could be used by persons seeking illegal access to restricted drugs.

Frank Kearney, 20, of St. John's, told the commission he experienced "an immense, uncontrollable fear for seven or eight hours" when he tried LSD three months ago.

"I was lucky I had a bad trip, I'll never do it again."

Self-interest Weapon In War on Inflation

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians' understanding of their own "enlightened self-interest" gives hope that voluntary price and wage restraints will be effective weapons against inflation, the chairman of the prices and incomes commission said Saturday.

Commission chairman John H. Young was interviewed on the CBC program Encounter.

Mr. Young said the average Canadian understands that his own self-interest has a broader scope than the size of his pay raise.

Canadian society would not be working if people took as narrow and short-run a view of their self-interest as many people think is the norm, he said.

Mr. Young said he hoped it would be evident to people that those who bear the main cost of the adjustment using traditional methods to curb inflation are members of the labor force because of the unemployment and cutback in output these methods cause.

The commission is scheduled to meet business leaders on Feb. 9-10 in Ottawa.

Mentally-retarded Said Overprotected

TORONTO (CP) — Many mentally - retarded children, overprotected, overfed and overentertained by television, are underexercised, the Ontario Association for Mentally Retarded Children was told Saturday.

Prof. Patrica Austin of the faculty of physical education at the University of Alberta in Edmonton said:

"Work possibilities for the intellectually handicapped demand fairly complex motor skills of speed, accuracy, force and the ability to make the appropriate motor response at the proper time.

"An overweight retardate with poor posture, awkward and ungainly movements is socially unacceptable. These characteristics are almost universal among children who have not had extensive physical education."

NDP Starts Major Overhaul of Policy

TORONTO (CP) — The New Democratic Party has started a major overhaul of party policy to be completed by the time a successor to T. C. Douglas is chosen at a leadership convention in April, 1971.

Allan Blakeney of Regina, president of the NDP federal council, said the main job of an 11-man policy review committee announced Sunday will be to "draft a declaration for the party in the 1970s."

The statement of party principles will be presented at a convention in Ottawa during the week ending April 3, 1971, during which the party will choose a successor to Mr. Douglas.

The committee will be headed jointly by Charles Taylor, a McGill University professor, and Ed Broadbent, member of Parliament for Oshawa-Whitby.

Among its members will be economics professor Melville Watkins, author of the "Watkins manifesto" which touched off debate over party policies at the 1969 NDP convention in Winnipeg.

Mr. Blakeney said establishment of the review committee was largely a result of the Winnipeg discussions. The committee will begin in its work with an April meeting with the party caucus and executive council, and will hold regional and probably provincial conferences to define the party's goals.

The federal council also established a blue-ribbon committee to co-operate with organized labor in a study of ways to give working people "a say in the conditions of their work and where they will work."

Committee members include Mr. Blakeney, Mr. Douglas, Mr. Broadbent, Stanley Knowles, MP for Winnipeg North Centre, and David Lewis, MP for York South.

Only four of several dozen resolutions discussed by the council during its three-day meeting created controversy.

Most intense debate was on a resolution which said Quebec's special status should "include the right of the people of Quebec to determine their own political and economic destiny within or outside a Canadian union."

Mr. Lewis said he rejected "any suggestion that this party should even contemplate the possibility of this country being broken up in any way."

Sid Green of Winnipeg, a member of the Manitoba legislature, said the NDP must stop formulating "abstract, meaningless resolutions that do neither the party nor the Canadian people any good."

The resolution on Quebec was rejected, as was a resolution which would have instructed elected party members to oppose salary increases for themselves.

Some young delegates were angered by the council's decision to send a resolution to establish a program for universities back to committee for further study. A program will be presented at the next council meeting.

Policy decisions taken by the council included a call for an immediate halt to arms shipments to the Middle East and direct negotiations between Israel and the Arab states. The council also demanded the expulsion of Greece from the North Atlantic Treaty Organization because of its "repressive military dictatorship."

Unions Need to Do More to Aid Less Affluent and Poorly Organized

TORONTO (CP) — Trade unions must do more to aid the less affluent and poorly organized groups in society, a meeting sponsored by the New Democratic Party was told Saturday.

About 40 people crowded into a United Church meeting room to tell party representatives from all three levels of government about the problems of the inner city.

Several complained the trade unions, one of the party's main sources of support, do little to help the poor and unorganized with their battles for better treatment by government.

One young man said: "The unions have divided the working class into two groups—those who are organized and those who are not and have no power. The NDP has got to do something about this."

Union leaders are an establishment group now, said Edna Dixon, secretary of a residents' association.

The NDP politicians, including federal Leader T. C. Douglas, Ontario Leader Donald MacDonald and party president Allan Blakeney, attended during a break in the three-day meeting of the NDP federal council.

Davis Plans St. John Cleanup

OTTAWA (CP) — Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Sunday the federal Fisheries Act will soon be re-armed in an attack on polluters.

Mr. Davis was interviewed on the CTV program Question Period, taped earlier in the week and aired Sunday.

In one question, the minister was asked:

"How do you think the provincial government in New Brunswick would do tackling K. C. Irving's pulp mills in political terms?"

Mr. Davis replied:

"I wouldn't have any hesitation at all.

"There is this situation at the mouth of the St. John River which, if it isn't cleaned up—and it's an Irving . . .—if it isn't cleaned up soon we will move under the Federal Fisheries Act."

The transcript of the telecast, released by CJOH-TV, the CTV Ottawa outlet, did not indicate the nature of the Irving interest which Mr. Davis mentioned.

FIRST TO USE WATER

The first plant in North America to use water as a source of motive power was a mill built in 1691 at Petit Pre, near Quebec.

One-and-One For Belleville Barriages

Belleville Barriages split weekend action dropping a close 4-3 decision to the Kingston Red Barons on Friday night and blanking the Picton Rockets 3-0, Saturday.

Kingston tallied the winning goal with only 15 seconds remaining in the game for their narrow victory edge.

For Barriages, Sandy Claus had two goals and Susan Wright one, Marjorie Reid assisted on all three markers. Each team was assessed one penalty.

Sharon Lummis was in the nets Saturday for Belleville's shutout victory. Nancy McCullam had a goal and an assist, while Joanne Dafoe and Sandy Claus each scored once. Picton drew both of the game's penalties.

Tough Practice For Senior Youth Bowlers

Senior Youth Bowlers, who qualified in the Four Steps to Stardom Tournament faced a stiff practice test Saturday when they competed against teams from the Ontario Provincial Police and the Quinte Classic League. The competition provided an excellent warm - up for the upcoming tournament.

OPP bowlers were: Lynn Acres, Don Thoms, Glen Huiser, Ted Arthurs, Jim Healey and Brian Turner.

Jack Calnan, Bob Casselman, Bob Kaiser, Cecil Hardwick and Jim Scriven competed for the Quinte Classic League.

Qualifying for the Four Steps to Stardom Tournament were Milton McCrystal and Karen Culbertson. Boys' team entrants are Pat McKenzie, Wayne Farrell, Mike Semark, Brian Bonsor, Lynn Burley and Terry Williston.

Sharon Lummiss, Louise Bateman, Liz Reid, Sandra Reid, Debbie Driver and Heather Rutledge will compete in the girls' section.

Badminton Tournament To Be Held Saturday

The Belleville Garrison Badminton Club will be shooting for a new record here next Saturday.

Last year, the local birdie-chasers set a new attendance record at their Tenth Annual Class "B" Tournament held in the armories here.

The tournament, one of the most popular on the agenda of the Eastern Ontario Badminton Association has for a decade attracted the cream of the player crop from this part of the province.

Tournament facilities and hospitality of the Garrison Club has made the "B" tourney the most outstanding event in the annals of the EOBA.

This year's tournament has attracted entries from clubs in Peterborough, Cobourg, Whitby, Bowmanville, Trenton, Oshawa, Napanee and Picton. The host club is entering a large representation.

Events scheduled are ladies' doubles, men's doubles and mixed doubles, with prizes going to winners, runners-up and consolations in each event.

Tournament play starts at 10 a.m. with final events starting at approximately 7 p.m. Saturday.

As usual, the social side of the tournament will be one of its highlights.

Following the tournament and the presentation of awards, there will be dancing in the officers' mess, concluding with a delectable buffet at midnight.

Kinsmen Bantams Gain First Win for Belleville

Belleville Kinsmen Bantams shut out Trenton 8-0 to record the first victory by a Belleville all - star team in the OMHA play-off rounds.

Leading only 1-0 late in the second period, the bantams rapped in another seven unanswered goals for their wide scoring margin.

Bruce Clarke turned in an exceptional effort in goal to gain the shutout for the Kinsmen, who now have a win and a tie in the best two-of-three game series.

Andy Ricketts and Mark Coates each scored three times for Belleville while Steve Kirby added the other two. Peter Smrke and Grant Goegan had two assists.

Next game in the series is Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Belleville Arena.

The Western Tire Juveniles are reported to have lost 5-0 in their play-off opener in Trenton Sunday.

No Losses for Novice Teams on Weekend

Belleville's Novice teams were undefeated in three weekend games as the Food City A team stopped Kingston Nationals 6-4 Friday and handed the Kingston Church Athletic League a 14-2 pasting yesterday. Mulroney's Sunoco Novice B club tied Cobourg 3-3 on Sunday.

Bobby Crawford, Andy Lupenette and Randy Hutchinson each scored twice in Friday's win against the Nationals.

Crawford had five goals to lead the scorers in Sunday's win. Hutchinson added a hat trick and Lupenette scored twice and assisted on six other goals. Goegan, McBride, Shaw and Jianopoulos were the other marksmen.

For Mulroney's, Gary Frederick potted two goals and Danny Duffy added the other.

Bata Braves Face Single Drawback

Playing the league - leading Little Britain team presents only one drawback to the Bata Braves of the Eastern Ontario Intermediate C League — they haven't been able to win.

After Sunday's 8-3 loss, Bata coach Wayne Drake commented," 'They're a big, strong, fast - skating team. All our games with them have been clean, well - played affairs and the only thing I can complain about is the scores - we're 0-5 against them."

Three goals in the first four minutes were enough to produce the Little Britain victory, although Bata picked up in the game's later stages.

The Braves held top scorers Ron Jewell and Ray McCabe off the sheet, only to see Wayne Milburne pump in five big markers. Drinkwater added two and Collins one for the winners.

Chuck Howard and Dan Dixon each had a goal and an assist, while Ron Faulkner added the other Bata goal.

The win dropped Bata into a second - place tie with Sunderland, who maintain a game in hand. The two teams meet Thursday night in Stirling.

Stanfield Urges That Cities Have Voice on Constitution

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Sunday night that the cities must be brought into the current discussions on the constitution.

The framework of a new constitution, he said, must facilitate an active attack on urban problems. "Such a framework cannot be evolved unless all the parties involved, including the municipalities, can at least make their views known."

Mr. Stanfield criticized the government's attitude toward municipal problems on the television program The Nation's Business. A text of his speech was released prior to the telecast.

There is a feeling of frustration and restlessness in urban Canada today, he said. "Concerned Canadians sense a growing deterioration in their surroundings; the inadequacy of urban housing, dirty air and polluted beaches, sprawling freeways and yet congested traffic, too many slums and too few parks, lack of privacy and yet personal isolation."

Your Car

Leasing Generally Advisable Only for High-mileage Users

By RAY STAPLEY

There has been a growing trend to leasing cars in the last few years. The idea got started mostly with large commercial fleets but soon gained popularity with professional and sales people. Today many people prefer to lease a car.

General advantages include predictable costs, no down payment (although some leasing companies require two or three months' payment in advance or a security deposit), and often a top-notch maintenance program.

Some plans allow the lessee to take ownership of the car at the end of the lease period on payment of a "market value" figure which was arrived at and guaranteed at the beginning of the contract.

One popular leasing program provides full maintenance and usually insurance. It should be noted, however, that lease plans are tailored to the needs of the individual lessees and also take into account their credit rating and driving record. The monthly leasing costs can vary according to the driver, the length of the lease period and geographical location.

No doubt it makes sense for some people to lease a car. Most lease plans do not require any more than a signature on a contract and a series of monthly payments. This frees valuable capital for other investment.

At the same time, operating costs, apart from one variable — gasoline, are wholly predictable as there will be no repairs to pay for and the leasing company even takes care of routine greasing, oil changing and adjustments. For high-mileage drivers this is important.

Leasing plans make particular sense for drivers whose vocation makes it possible to write off their lease payments against income or business tax.

For drivers who do not pile very many miles on their cars, leasing plans are available which do not provide maintenance or insurance, but do offer a lower payment. This is the kind of plan most usually employed by drivers who want to buy the car at the end of the lease period.

Many dealerships now have leasing departments. I could write a book on the pros and cons of leasing, but suffice it to say that leasing should generally only be considered by fleet operators or individuals such as salesmen who drive many miles each year.

To most drivers the automobile is an extension of his own being, and there is something satisfying about owning, even if it is in company with the finance company.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"
By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.

Hypnotism Useful In Trained Hands

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I note that so many of your readers want to call on hypnotism to help overcome their bad habits like drinking and smoking. I believe that God does not approve of this method. So many doctors think they know more than He does.

For example, in Deuteronomy 18:11 it says, "There should not be found in you anyone who binds others with a spell." Isn't that hypnotism? "That they will not listen to the voice of charmers. Though someone wise is binding with spells, O God, knock out their teeth in their mouth."

Anyone who submits to hypnotism is very, very foolish. They would profit by learning God's mind instead of the foolishness of the world. Would you print this??? — Mrs. D.

Comment: Yes!!! (However, I don't agree with you. Hypnotism, in trained hands, has its uses.)

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Say, do you suppose, what with all the fantastic brilliant advances they have made in medicine, scientists will ever come up with a "pill" that will enable one to eat everything they want, but the pill will take care of the extra calories and not be harmful.

I'm serious. I've always had a weight problem, and it gets worse the older I get. I constantly fight the battle of the bulge. Any hope at all? I'm sure this will be of interest to fatties all over. — Mrs. D.

Comment: There's much we still don't know about the appetite centre and fat metabolism. I wouldn't be surprised that some investigator were to come up with something that may make eating extra calories less painful in the future. But it may be a long wait.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My son is always sleepy. He is 30 years old, can't drive without falling asleep at the wheel and can't hold down a job. His doctor says he has narcolepsy, but there is nothing to do for it except take vitamins. Didn't you say there are some pills that often help such patients stay awake? What shall I do? — Mrs. A.

Comment: Ask your doctor if he will refer your son to an internist in consultation. He will advise the proper drug to use. I doubt (doctors sometimes disagree, you know) that vitamins will help overcome his unnatural desire to sleep.

• • •

For Mrs. F.: Saying that you have a "touch of emphysema" is like saying one is a "little bit pregnant." It's no joke. I think, as you do, it requires treatment.

For complete diagnosis and treatment, I think you should also have the advice of a chest specialist. Meanwhile, "only a touch of emphysema" or not, I suggest you give up your smoking.

• • •

For Mrs. H.: "Kidney trouble" is a vague term. Here are some possibilities of what may go wrong with the kidneys: congenital cystic kidneys, stone in the kidney, acute infection causing acute nephritis, chronic nephritis, pyelonephritis, tuberculosis, nephrosis, associated trouble in the bladder and ureters, cancerous growths, etc.

Diagnosis, is, of course, important. Your doctor will be glad to ask the advice of a urologist (kidney specialist). Examination may not reveal any serious trouble such as some of the formidable conditions I have mentioned above. Frequency of urination often has other causes.

Strictly Personal

Workers Copy Employers

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

"They just won't come to work if they don't feel like it," the executive of a large factory said to me at lunch. "If they have saved a few bucks and want to go somewhere, off they go no matter how much they're needed at the plant."

I murmured a few sympathetic words and changed the subject, because I was after all his guest and didn't want to put him to the trouble of having to defend or rearrange his prejudices. But, privately, I couldn't work up a great lather about his problem with workmen.

In a sociological study of British dockers, made a few years ago, the author quoted a typical comment from one of them: "I do a piece of work and I draw the money. If I don't need the money I stay away, and what I do with my own time is nothing whatever to do with them."

This attitude, regrettable as it may seem to my executive luncheon host, is not only a fair statement of the "social contract"; it is also a lesson that workmen have learned well from the hand of industry. Concern for the other party in the enterprise has scarcely been one of the hallmarks of industrial capitalism, or "free enterprise," as it is amusingly called by its practitioners.

When a company no longer has any need, or use, for surplus workmen, it dumps them as expeditiously and economically as possible. Men are put on when times are good, and laid off when times are slack, and nobody pretends that anything but the profit motive determines demand in the labor market.

People are not kept on out of a sense of loyalty, or sentiment, or team-work, or any other philosophical or emotional abstraction. It is a pure dollar-and-cents decision, based on productivity needs and market conditions.

Then what supererogatory obligation does a workman have to stay on the job when he wants to make the unilateral decision to lay off for awhile, instead of waiting for the factory to make that decision? If he feels he doesn't need the money, he stays away, since there's no loyalty on either side of the management railing.

There should be loyalty, as far as I'm concerned, but the men are only taking their cue from the way the system treats them. During the Great Depression, I know of only one employer who kept his people on the payroll, at much cost to his company, on the theory that men are more important than inventory and equipment. When executives begin to believe this — in bad times as well as in good — they may find, surprisingly enough, that workmen no longer go off when needed.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For February 3

Your birthday today: Surprise is a major factor in all your ventures this year. Your persuasive ability increases — you can sell anything. The most stressful period runs from now through early May, when some of your original ideas should begin coming into practical reality.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Make sure none of your own family lacks a way of understanding you. Trading in property comes up, perhaps in the form of an attractive offer.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): New commitments can be settled today. A surge of new enthusiasm, better mobilization of resources are promised.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Everybody has a bright story to tell today. You will also find co-operation, according to the way you approach the situation. Relax with a family-and-friends party this evening.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Younger associates bring some minor surprises. Get busy to clear off the heavier work tasks. You have a chance now to learn the serious side of somebody you care for.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Business, trades in property, investments are favored today. Younger people need your encouragement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Timing is all important. Everybody wants to talk about money and investments — be selective. Where you need it, seek the co-operation of older people.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Stick to known and tested paths and patterns. Travel is delayed or complicated.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Try to handle adroitly any delicate questions, touchy negotiations today. Concentrate on financial arrangements and changes. Older people may be very important in all matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Do it yourself, but get it right the first time. The good you will have built in the recent past now has its rewards.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Constant watchfulness brings clues confirming your theories. Use your ingenuity to reach people who can advance your projects.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Nothing works quite so well as the philosophic approach. Co-operation depends on how clearly you communicate. Settle outstanding accounts, close deals early.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Your position is more secure and hopeful than your mood about it would indicate. Survey your wardrobe, personal belongings.

Planning Chief Says North Front Street Logical Plaza Site

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The North Front Street site proposed by Cambridge Leaseholds for its planned $3,000,000 regional shopping plaza is the logical one and is an excellent location.

This was the statement yesterday by Bert Kenny, planning director for the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board as he testified at the Ontario Municipal Board rehearing into the city's application for a zoning change to permit construction of the shopping centre.

Mr. Kenny was the second witness called by City Solicitor E. Guss Porter in support of the city's application.

The original hearing a year ago which saw the city's application turned down, lasted for eight days and speculation is that the rehearing which got underway yesterday could last up to 12 days.

To a question from Mr. Porter as to what he thought of the proposed shopping plaza development, Mr. Kenny replied that recognizing it as a regional plaza he could think of a no more logical site.

The planning director said the proposed site had excellent access from main highway routes leading into the city — the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway, Highways 14 and 37 — and was also well served by the city's arterial road system.

The site's access to the local market would be further improved with the extension of Bell Boulevard to Sidney Street, he said.

Mr. Kenny admitted that the site in Thurlow township for which H. J. McFarland had taken out a building permit for a shopping plaza had certain similarities to the city location. However, he said, it had no services and he knew of no immediate plans to provide services in the area.

The planning director said economic analyses had shown there was an immediate potential for a regional shopping plaza and suggested this need would be met at the periphery of Belleville — if not in the city then in Thurlow or Sidney townships.

Questioned on urban renewal in downtown Belleville, Mr. Kenny said he could not see this materializing sooner than three to five years.

"Before that time the shopping needs will be satisfied by a plaza outside the city limits if this (the city's application for rezoning) is not granted."

He said it was only logical for the proposed development to proceed.

Principal objectors to the northend shopping plaza at the original hearing were Oshawa Wholesale and Towers discount store who were represented by Robert Macaulay, Toronto lawyer and a former Ontario cabinet minister.

Mr. Macaulay is again opposition counsel at the rehearing but is representing Marchland Holdings.

Mr. R. B. Robinson is again acting on behalf of Cambridge Leaseholds.

Secret Report Drawn On Inflation, Welfare

Benson Praises Nixon's Budget

QUEBEC (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson Monday night hailed the surplus-producing budget proposed by President Nixon for the United States as a good move towards fighting inflation.

"It would be, I think, entirely irresponsible for a federal government, either in Canada or in the United States, to budget for a deficit in times such as these when there are tremendous inflationary pressures in the country," he said.

Mr. Benson, here for a two-day conference with provincial finance ministers and treasurers, said the U.S. has been relying more heavily on monetary policy and less on fiscal policy than Canada in the anti-inflation fight.

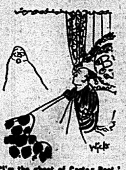
Monetary policy involves interest rates and the money supply. Fiscal policy involves government tax and spending policies.

Canada has been using both monetary and fiscal policy measures to restrain over-expansion of the economy, Mr. Benson said, while it appears now that the United States is turning to more reliance on a mixture of the two, and less reliance on monetary policy alone.

Federal officials attending the conference here greeted the U.S. surplus plan as a substantial move towards fighting inflation for both countries. Officials declined to be quoted by name and were still studying the details of the U.S. budget.

But one top-ranking finance department official said any move by the United States towards a surplus of revenues over expenditures "helps make our job easier."

He was referring to the Canadian government's budgetary surplus, now expected to be in the neighborhood of $500,000,000 for the fiscal year ending next March 31.



'I'm the ghost of Carter Past.'

'Element of Protest' In PM's ABM Views

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau offered an "element of protest" in the Commons Monday against the decision of U.S. President Nixon to expand the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system.

Mr. Trudeau said there is no evidence to support a suggestion by New Democrat Leader T. C. Douglas during the question period that the Safeguard system is a contribution to arms-race escalation.

"It remains," he added, "that the Canadian government is unhappy that a friend and ally sees the way to peace in that direction."

Pursued by Mr. Douglas on whether the government feels Safeguard is a threat to world peace, Mr. Trudeau replied that there has been "some element of protest in my words."

Mr. Trudeau said the U.S. may feel Safeguard is necessary to protect its own nuclear deterrent from attack from "an Oriental direction."

Canada has no deterrent to protect, he said, but "regarding the protection of a civilian population, we feel our approach to the Peoples' Republic of China is a better way."

Outside the Commons, Mr. Douglas said it looks as though the government is not going to protest.

PM, Premiers To Get Advice

QUEBEC (CP) — A highly-secret report to Prime Minister Trudeau and the provincial premiers touching on inflation and the future of shared-cost federal-provincial welfare programs is in the final drafting stages here.

The finance ministers and treasurers of the provinces, meeting with Finance Minister Edgar Benson, are expected to finish the report today and present it to the premiers' conference opening in Ottawa Feb. 16.

So secret are its terms that Mr. Benson would only say Monday, after a full day's closed conference, that inflation is only incidental to the whole report.

He would not admit even that shared-cost programs were discussed—though Finance Minister Mario Beaulieu of Quebec said they were one of the leading issues.

The ministers are gathered to complete a report to the prime minister and premiers on the tax revenue and expenditure outlook for all govrnments for the next year or two.

Cardinal to a proper assessment of these projections is the extent to which governments should count on continued inflation, and continued willingness of Ottawa to foot the bill for shared-cost programs.

Leading the latter programs, in which expenditures are met by the treasuries of both Ottawa and the individual provinces, are medical care insurance, aid to post-secondary school education, hospital insurance and the Canada Assistance Plan, under which pensions are paid to the aged needy, disabled, and others.

Ottawa has been trying for more than a year to get the provinces to agree to formulas to put a ceiling on the annual rate of federal-provincial expenditure on these programs.

But the provinces have been

Russell's Precepts

LONDON ((Reuters) — Lord Bertrand Russell, who died Monday night, was one of the most original thinkers of the 20th century. These are some of his views:

Love and life — "To fear love is to fear life, and those who fear life are already three parts dead."

Adultery — "The psychology of adultery has been falsified by conventional morals, which assume, in monogamous countries, that attraction to one person cannot coexist with a serious affection for another. Everybody knows that this is untrue."

The United States — "- - - Law and custom alike are based upon the dreams of spinsters."

Work "Work is of two kinds, first, altering the position of matter at or near the earth's surface relatively to other such matters. Second, telling other people to do so. The first kind is unpleasant and ill-paid, the second is pleasant and highly paid."

Education — "- - - One of the chief obstacles to intelligence and freedom of thought."

Moralists—"The infliction of cruelty with a good conscience is a delight to moralists. That is why they invented hell."

Arms Race on in Mideast

Moscow to Give More Arms to Egypt

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, already under Israeli pressure for more military aid to offset increasing Arab strength, was faced today with a report that the Soviet Union intends to boost arms shipments to Egypt.

The U.S. government was said Monday to have received a message from Moscow within the last two or three days saying Egypt was getting the new arms aid because of help given Israel by the United States.

While informed diplomats said they could not confirm details of the new Soviet aid, they indicated it would be no surprise if Egypt gets some of Moscow's newest jet fighters, the MiG-23.

There was no immediate official U.S. reaction to the report, but Nixon already is on record as concerned about recent French decisions to provide new warplanes to another Arab state, Libya.

Nixon told a news conference Friday he would decide within 30 days whether to meet an Israeli plea for more arms help.

The Soviet decision will cause more pressure to make that decision quickly.

The Soviet message was said by diplomatic sources to have blamed the United States for recent Israeli attacks on Egypt. The sources indicated Moscow decided to increase aid to Cairo because of the Israeli military activity.

Although there have been recent meetings between Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin and U.S. State Secretary William P. Rogers, there was reason to believe the Soviet arms message was delivered by the Russian embassy directly to the White House.

This would emphasize the seriousness with which the Soviets view the smoldering Middle East situation.

Russia Is Concerned

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today disclosed it had received a message from the Soviet Union expressing concern about the situation in the Middle East.

The message, from Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin, was delivered to Prime Minister Wilson Monday by Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovsky.

Official sources stressed that the note received here was not intimidating in tone and did not carry any threat of military intervention a ssome quarters had suggested.

Informed sources said the message urged British and other governments to take all possible measures to remove tension in the Middle East. The note contained no specific proposals, they added.

Other Soviet messages were delivered Monday in Washington and Paris.

British sources said speculation that Russia would intervene militarily was alarmist and untrue.

OMB Hearing Underway

City Planning Director Favors North Front Plaza

ing held Sept. 22 — an issue argued at yesterday's hearing — were admitted as evidence before the inquiry.

Contents of the minutes were not revealed at this morning's proceedings — which were concerned with the admissibility of the record before the hearing.

OMB inquiry chairman R. M. McGuire ruled the minutes could be produced during the hearing.

His decision came after city hall secretary Mrs. Kathleen Drouillard was called to testify on the minutes.

Mrs. Drouillard said the notes which she took at the September city hall meeting was not a verbatim record.

They were used by the city clerk to prepare official minutes of the meeting, but were not included in the minutes.

During the argument between opposing lawyers on the issue this morning, the hearing was told that city council meetings were broadcast.

When the hearing entered its second day today, city planner Bert Kenny was still on the stand.

Mr. Kenny this morning was cross-examined by counsel for Marchland Holdings.

Mr. Kenny said he agreed the conceptual stage of the city's urban renewal planning study should be completed.

He said it could possibly aid him in preparing the city's official plan.

Mr. Kenny reiterated his statement yesterday that he felt there was need for more shopping space to supply an "unsatisfied demand" in Belleville and area.

Procedural infighting marked the opening of yesterdays's session which is a joint hearing into the city's rezoning bid and a review of Thurlow township's zoning bylaw. This bylaw would permit a shopping plaza across the freeway, only 1,000 feet from the Belleville site.

The OMB last spring gave temporary approval to the township bylaw.

But, yesterday, Thurlow counsel Douglas Bateman said the township last October had amended its zoning bylaw in a bid to rule out the construction of shopping plazas.

Mr. Bateman asked that the OMB confirm the amended township bylaw and then asked the board for permission to withdraw from the case. He said he would present no testimony.

Mr. Macaulay was quick to point out that the amended bylaw, although ruling out shopping plazas, did not rule out department stores which, he maintained, could be developed to provide the same service.

This, he claimed, put the OMB in an impossible position, and asked for adjournment of both hearings until Thurlow decided what it wanted.

Both Mr. Porter and Mr. Robinson argued against the motion for adjournment. The city solicitor stated Belleville should not be placed in the position of having to wait until Thurlow gets its bylaws in order.

Mr. Macaulay's motion for adjournment was denied by the board and the rehearing was directed to proceed on both applications.

Leading off in presentation of the city's application for rezoning, Mr. Porter said he had no intention to again present evidence regarding site planning and introduced as exhibits a number of maps and charts of the subject area.

He showed how Quinte district provincial highways funnelled into the city from centres such as Stirling, Madoc, Marmora, Tweed and Deseronto.

First witness called by Mr. Porter was City Clerk Adam Stalker and the next two hours were spent in introducing a long list of exhibits, council minutes and communications for reference later in the hearing.

Mr. Macaulay sought to have stenographic notes taken at a council meeting introduced as an exhibit. The notes were said to have included a statement made by Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott regarding planning.

Mr. Stalker said the stenographic notes were not considered as part of council minutes although they had been transcribed and were on file at city hall.

Board chairman R. M. McGuire ruled against introduction of the notes and this was immediately followed by a request from Mr. Macaulay for a recess to allow him time to consider whether he would appeal the board ruling.

When the hearing resumed Mr. Macaulay said he would reserve his right to appeal.

But later, it was agreed that the city hall stenographer who took the notes in question would be asked to testify as to her instructions regarding taking the notes.

Depending on the testimony the board chairman said he might consider introduction of the notes as exhibits.

Mr. Macaulay's cross-examination of city planning director Kenny was just underway when the day's proceedings were adjourned.

Secret Report Drafted

reluctant, saying cost increases that they cannot control are built into the programs. Moreover, they insist, these programs were started largely at Ottawa's instigation, and now the federal government wants the provinces to carry the load.

Mr. Benson, after Monday's day-long meeting, said the provinces share Ottawa's concern about inflation and generally support Ottawa's program of spending and other restraints. But he conceded that the anti-inflation policy hits the Eastern and some Western provinces more severely than the rich central provinces.

Ottawa will try to use its credit-granting facilities to help Eastern Quebec and the Atlantic provinces, and Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

The report being prepared for the Feb. 16 meeting is, officially, a report of the so-called tax structure committee. This body is composed of the finance ministers and treasurers of the 11 governments, with their chief civil service advisers.

Whether the report will ever be made public apparently rests with Mr. Trudeau and the premiers. Mr. Benson said Monday such reports are always secret. But it seemed the care with which this conference is arguing over the precise wording of the report indicates the ministers' expectation that the report will be published.

In addition to the committee report, the finance ministers and treasurers have been holding their second session here on Mr. Benson's plan for extensive revision of the Income Tax Act, based on the white poper he put out last Nov. 7.

Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton of Ontario has been leading opposition to the white paper proposals on grounds that Ottawa's estimates grossly understate the probable additional revenues the federal treasury will reap.

Ottawa estimates the increased revenues as $630,000,000 a year in the fifth year after the plan takes effect in 1971, if the present time-table is met. Mr. MacNaughton estimates the extra revenues at $1,300,000,000 when the new plan is fully in effect.

Ontario revealed to the federal government Monday the basis of its estimates. Mr. Benson said the province applied the tax plan to Ontario incomes and "projected them," with adjustments, to other parts of Canada.

This, officials said, could give Ontario a far different picture than Ottawa's estimates, based on a cross-country sampling of old income tax returns.

Mr. MacNaughton, however, indicated late Monday Ontario's case does not rest entirely on its own calculations. Even if Ottawa's figures were proved to be more reliable, Ontario doubted the advisability of the tax plan set forth by Mr. Benson.

"I don't think that Canada has reached the degree of maturity," Mr. MacNaughton said, "that can make it possible for it to afford some of the luxuries that are being imposed.

"I think that we have a tremendous job of development to undertake in Canada yet. I think we need all the reasonable incentives that can be employed to make Canada the productive country that it has a potential for.

"While we have applauded and continue to applaud the search for equity in the tax system, we doubt very much if the mechanics of the white paper will achieve that to the extent that it should."

'Mothers' May Net $6,500

When does a man become a mother?

When organizers of the Ability Fund, formerly the March of Dimes, recruit his services for the one-night mother's march for the rehabilitation foundation.

Last night's blitz canvass saw two men, and more than two dozen high school boys all wearing "Tonight-I-am-a-Mother" buttons, among the 500 canvassers who knocked on doors throughout the city.

Organizers were high in their praise of the young people's participation in community service. The entire Hillcrest district was canvassed by members of the Hillcrest Teen Club and Centennial Secondary School. The By-Word-of-Mouth drop-in centre sent drivers and canvassers to help with the appeal.

Treasurer Roland Belanger said this morning the fund should exceed last year's total of $6,500.

Snow's Back

Giving winter a clean sweep this morning as a fresh fall of snow shrouded the Quinte district was 3-year-old Catherine Millign Millington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Millington of Belleville. Snowfall ended recent bout of mild weather in Quinte district.

Belleville and District Obituaries and Funerals

EDWARD AMOS SINCLAIR

Toronto - Tweed

TWEED — After an illness that extended over the past four weeks, Edward Amos Sinclair, of 592 Sherbourne Street, Toronto, passed away at the Toronto General Hospital, on Thursday, January 29th, 1970 in his 63rd year. Mr. Sinclair was born in Tweed where he formerly resided prior to going to Toronto. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Sinclair, and he was predeceased by his wife.

The following children are left to mourn his loss: Terry Sinclair of Toronto; Ruth of the United States; and Marie of Peterborough. He also leaves the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Clara Baker, of Bufalo, N.Y.; Mrs. Bessie Mosier, of Deseronto; Mrs. Mary Clark, of Belleville; Mrs. Lillian Berry, of Tweed; and Archie Sinclair, Senior, of Tweed, and Andy Sinclair, of Montreal, Quebec.

Mr. Sinclair was a member of the United Church of Canada. He had been employed by Salada Foods, Toronto, for the past twenty-three years.

Mr. Sinclair was well known and highly respected in the Tweed area. The body rested at the Bush Funeral Home, Tweed, until Monday, when the funeral service was held in the funeral chapel, with Captain D. May of the Tweed Salvation Army as the officiating clergyman and she was assisted by Major Bill Davies and Lieut. Glen Sharp, who are in Tweed at this time, as they take part in a series of services at the Tweed Salvation Army Citadel.

Entombment was in St. James' Vault, Tweed.

The pall-bearers were: Kenneth Marshall, Donald Sedore, Charles McConnachie, Russell Rodgers, Harold Long, Senior and Reginald Sinclair.

ALEXANDER BATEMAN

MARMORA — Funeral service for Alexander Bateman, who died suddenly at his home at RR 1, Springbrook, on Wednesday was conducted at the Howden Funeral Home, Marmora, on Saturday by Rev. W. C. Coxe.

In his 69th year, he was the son of the late John Bateman and the late Elizabeth Burkett. He was born and educated in Rawdon township and had been a farmer all his life. He was affiliated with Springbrook United Church and a member of LOL No. 442, Springbrook. A service was held on Friday evening at the Funeral Home by the Lodge.

He leaves his wife, the former Nellie Joyce, and three brothers, Burton and Fred of Stirling and Edward of Springbrook. Five sisters predeceased him.

Entombment was in Marmora Protestant Cemetery. Bearers were Ted Vinnecombe, Nathan Bronson, Joseph Thompson, Gordon Webber, Harper Bateman and George Williams.

MRS. FLORA LEE ANN BELL

The funeral for Mrs. Flora Lee Ann Bell was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Monday afternoon.

Canon R. B D. Wright conducted the service in the chapel assisted by Capt. Len Pearo of the Salvation Army, Windsor. Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Neil Love, William Gilbert, Frank Stevens, Terry Morgan, Don Stuart and Chris Lockyer.

On Sunday evening the members of LOBA No. 350 held a memorial service taken by Lillian Wright.

Mrs. Bell was an honorary member of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East and a Past Mistress of the local lodge. She was also pianist for the order for many years.

MRS. RICHARD J. BROOKS

The funeral for Mrs. Mabel Elizabeth Brooks, 170 Kingscourt Avenue, Kingston and formerly of 30 Ritchie Avenue, Belleville, who died in Kingston on Saturday in her 90th year was held from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home to Bethel Chapel on Monday afternoon. She had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. William E. Belch conducted the service in the church and also said the gravesid prayers at Belleville cemetery.

The bearers were Robert Baker, Richard, Donald, Garry, Douglas and John Brooks, all grandsons of the deceased.

Mrs. Brook was born in South River and lived in Kingston for the past two years with her son but for 40 years she resided in Belleville.

She was a member of Bethel Chapel.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. William (Mamie) Baker Wyandotte, Michigan, and three sons, Mansford Brooks of Sudbury, Harold of Toronto, Gilman of Kingston. Her husband, Richard J. Brooks died in 1931 and a son Ernest will killed, while serving with the RCAF in 1942.

Also surviving are 13 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

CHARLES NELSON ASSELSTINE

In ill health for the past six months, Charles Nelson Asselstine, 194 Foster Avenue, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday in his 58th year.

Mr. Asselstine was born in Belleville, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Stuart Asselstine and had resided in Belleville all of his life. For some years he was a plater with the Belleville Sargent Company until his retirement some years ago.

He attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

Surviving are one son, John Asselstine, Belleville, one brother, James Asselstine, Belleville, three sisters, Mrs. Pearl Crawford, Belleville, Mrs. John (Marguerite) Garrison, Oshawa, Mrs. Selma Calbury, Peterborough, and three grandchildren.

Mr. Asselstine is resting at the John R Bush Funeral Home. Service will be conducted in the chapel on Wednesday, Feb. 4th at 11.00 a.m.

Interment will be in Belleville cemetery with Rev. A. Laurie Sutherland officiating.

IN MEMORIAM

SMITH — In memory of a dear husband and father, Ewart "Jack" Smith who passed away Feb. 3, 1967.

While he sleeps a peaceful sleep .
His memory we shall always keep.
—Always remembered by wife Marion and family.

KEEGAN — Mrs. William W., who passed away one year ago today, February 3rd, 1969.
—Ever remembered by his wife, sons, daughters and grandchildren.

SMITH (Jack) — In loving memory of Daddy, who passed away Feb. 3, 1967.

Peacefully sleeping, resting at last,
The world's weary troubles and trials are past.
In silence he suffered, in patience he bore,
Till God called him home to suffer no more.

REAL ESTATE

TRADE YOUR HOME?

ED McKINNEY
J. K. McKinney
Realty Ltd.

A recent innovation to the Real Estate Business is the Home Trade-In Plan or as it is sometimes called "The Guaranteed Sale Plan."

Let's say you've decided that your present home no longer suits your requirements. Over the years you have built up a substantial equity and you wish now to sell and buy a home that better suits your needs.

You can put your home up for sale and when it sells begin looking for the new home. Here the risk is that what you want may not be available at just that time and you may be forced to choose something which is not completely suitable before you are "out on the street".

Or you can try to find the new home before putting yours up for sale. Here the problem is that when you do, you are not in a position to make a firm offer without taking the risk of having two houses on your hands for what may be an indefinite period.

In many cases the ideal solution is the "Guaranteed Sale Plan" wherein the Realtor guarantees in writing to purchase your home at an agreed price if it is not sold within the specified period. The guaranteed price will be the fair market value less closing and handling costs which the realtor will assume.

This enables you to make the move with a minimum of inconvenience and without risk.

Hardy Recommendation

Trenton Council Approves Two-year Election Terms

TRENTON (Staff) — Planning consultant Eric Hardy's recommendation that Trenton switch from a staggered system of yearly elections to straight two-year terms with all public offices filled at the same time, was approved by town council Monday night.

In doing so council overrode the objections of the three - man Public Utilities Commission which felt that, since continuity was essential in their operation, the staggered system was best.

Councillor Ted Parker stated he could think of only five elected PUC members, with the exception of mayors, over the past 20 years. He added that it seemed unreasonable to him for the PUC members to feel they were likely to be turned out unless they were doing a particularly bad job.

Mayor Duncan McDonald replied that there was a possibility of a complete change this year with all new members taking seats on the PUC. Therefore, the present members were concerned that there would be a continuity break.

Primary reason behind the Hardy recommendation was a desire to stimulate public interest in municipal elections. He felt that interest waned in the year when a mayor was not seeking election. A secondary factor was an estimated saving of $2,300 in election costs every other year under the new system.

Council's decision means that all six council seats, the mayoralty, both PUC posts and Trenton's position on the Hastings County School Board will all be contested this year.

Trenton's Trunk Sewer Project Could Be Delayed

TRENTON — Town council has concluded that construction of a Front Street trunk sewer will probably be delayed.

Reason for the delay is that the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has notified the town that, at the present time, it does not have funds for sewer subsidies.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission has been asked by the town to construct the trunk sewer and the OWRC will apply to the Ontario Municipal Board for the necessary approval.

But first, the OWRC asked the town how it intends to finance the project which is expected to cost $100,000.

So council has decided to wait until the CMHC has funds available for a loan, part of which is forgivable.

A flat rate charge against the owners of properties served will cover the cost of laterals. It is estimated that the sewer rate increase to be repaid resulting from this project will require a seven and on-half percent increase on the water bill.

Trenton's Administrative Board was directed at Monday night's council meeting to determine whether the Flindall Street sewer qualifies as a trunk sewer or a sewer main from Dundas Street East to Bay Street.

Council also charged the three - man administrative board with the preparation of the estimated cost of extending the sewer north of Dundas Street and Flindall Street. The present estimate of $55,000 for the sewer and road reconstruction covers only the portion between Dundas Street East and Bay Street.

Sidney Engages Consulting Firm To Plan an Industrial Park

Reeve Jack M. Bush revealed at last night's Sidney township council meeting that consulting planners Marshall, Macklin and Monaghan Ltd. of Toronto had been engaged to plan an industrial park for Sidney Township and the village of Frankford.

Reeve Bush did not elaborate on the plan but said that a meeting with the planners had been scheduled for Friday in Toronto.

It was also announced that a new bylaw setting the speed limit at 35 miles an hour for residential streets in the hamlet of Batawa had been approved by the Department of Transport. Enforcement of the new law will not take place until appropriate signs have been posted.

Six new residential building permits with a total value of $88,130 were issued during January. Permits issued for the same period last year totalled $146,000.

New building in Sidney township for 1969 totalled $5,802,281, council learned. Farm and residential building accounted for $2,740,181, commercial $94,000, industrial $160,000 and buildings exempt from taxes which include churches, schools and public buildings $2,808,100.

Lottery Proposals Are Outlined

A letter from Finance and Commercial Affairs Minister H. L. Rowntree has outlined to Sidney township council regulations and procedures for operating certain types of lotteries in Ontario.

Responsibility for administering Section 179A of the Criminal Code of Canada, which is the authority for issuance of licences to operate lotteries has been delegated to Mr. Rowntree's department.

Municipal councils will be given permissive authority to license three types of lotteries: bingo, raffle and lottery schemes held at a bazaar conducted by charitable or religious organizations.

A fee may be charged by municipalities for each licence issued.

Suggested fees for bingos, where the total value of prizes does not exceed $500 is $2. Where the total value exceeds $500 but is not more than $3,500, a fee of up to two per cent of the total value of the prizes may be charged.

Fees for licensing of raffles may be a sum equal in value to, but not exceeding two per cent of the estimated total value of the prizes.

Bazaars may be charged a fee for each licence issued not to exceed $10.

Total value of all prizes to be awarded within the operation of a single licensed bingo lottery shall not exceed $3,500 cash or merchandise or articles at equivalent market retail value.

Each bazaar prize must not exceed an amount or value of $100.

Individuals are assured by the paper that the money they pay to secure a chance to win each prize shall not exceed 50 cents.

Games like razzle dazzle, roll down, dice game, three card monte, punch board or coin table are taboo according to the Criminal Code.

Mr. Rowntree stated in his letter that a policy committee from various provincial departments has been set up to work out further procedures and guidelines.

Sidney township council will study the plans and reply as soon as possible with their comments and criticisms.

Picton Studies Lotteries

PICTON — Municipal councils will be given "permissive authority to license certain types of lotteries as contained in a very broad summary of the suggested limits and conditions in the proposed plan," a letter to town council from Finance and Commercial Affairs Minister H. L. Rowntree said last night.

Council agreed to refer the new operational proposal to its finance committee for additional study.

The committee was directed to report its findings at council's next meeting.

Cement Workers Reach Agreement

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Workers at Lake Ontario Cement Picton plant yesterday reached settlement with company management following nearly three months of negotiations.

The package cost is estimated at $1,027 over a two-year agreement — one of the highest ever negotiated in the cement industry.

Chairman and spokesman for the company's negotiation committee was Bruce Price, operations manager for the Picton plant.

District representative of the United Cement Lime and Gypsum Workers, Donald Burshaw, acted as chairman and spokesman for the union negotiation committee.

Under terms of the new settlement, the 160-cement plant workers will receive a general wage increase of 30 cents per hour, effective immediately and retroactive to Dec. 1, 1969.

Also effective immediately is an increase between each of the 15 classifications from the current 6-7 cents to 8 cents.

This means that the base rate of pay at Lake Ontario Cement will be $2.94 and the highest rate $4.06 an hour.

A second general wage increase of 30 cents an hour will be effective Dec. 1, 1970.

Improvements in the vacation clause were also extended to all employees.

Improvements in the existing pension plan give every cement worker, with 10 years service to the company a vested interest in the plan and he will receive a pension at age 65 whether or not he stays with the company until that age.

All jobs at the plant with the exception of skilled tradesmen, will be awarded on the basis of seniority alone.

Each worker will receive a 60-day on-the-job training period, and draw the full classification rate of that job.

These two changes mark milestones in the labor movement, enjoyed by no other cement workers on the North American continent, claimed Earl Rolson, the UCLGW local 387's recording secretary.

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Eight color television sets are being installed at a cost of $3,400 in public plazas for the idlers, most of them elderly benchwarmers.

Adults Concerned About Movies

TRENTON — Inquiries from concerned parents have spurred Trenton council to order a report from the town's police chief on control of young people under the minimum age attending restricted movies.

The move was taken by council last night to insure that under-age children were not being allowed to view restricted movies.

Pitman Explains

TRENTON — Walter Pitman, NDP MPP for Peterborough, denied at a Trenton Rotary Club meeting here last night that he had been encouraged by anyone to spark the probe into Trenton council's incentive practices to attract new industry.

"I can put my hand on the Bible and swear to that," replied Walter Pitman. He was answering Rotarian Douglas Whitley's request for an explanation of why Trenton was singled out as an offender when other centres were equally involved in offering inducements. Mr. Pitman insisted he did not have a guilty conscience in the matter.

Mr. Whitley pointed out he was curious to learn why so much effort was stimulated to stifle industrial expansion, when the town for years was without such growth.

Mr. Pitman recalled the matter was brought to light in a report by Eric Hardy, a consultant hired by the town.

"All I did was ask the Minister of Municipal Affairs, Darcy McKeough, if the consultant's recommendations had been acted upon."

Mr. Pitman said he considered it was his responsibility as a representative of the people to bring to public attention any municipality breaking the law by using homeowners' taxes to carry industry. He said he had absolutely no feeling of "trying to get Trenton" since his concern did not go beyond straightening out an improper situation.

Mr. Pitman likened the Trenton situation to the problems with youth and marijuana. He said that young people believed that if they felt the law was wrong then they should be able to break it.

He said that Trenton seemed to be operating under the same premise. If the town felt it was wrong to obey legal practises in attracting industry then they could break the rulings.

Mr. Whitley asked the speaker if he would be willing to make just as energetic an appeal to the government to lift its sanctions. The town's industrial future appeared grim while restrictions prohibited the municipality selling property to prospective buyers without permission from the Department of Municipal Affairs, he said.

Mr. Pitman travelled to Trenton to speak on regional government.

Old Churches

How community-conscious are Canada's rural areas, the villages and the townships?

Often there is more community spirit and friendliness in smaller groups of population such as these than there is in the city with its materialist aspect, its busy day-to-day routine, its impersonal touches.

A focal point has always been the church — but alas, times are changing, with the disappearance of many of the older structures or their sale for some other purpose. Dwindling congregations, and consequently inability to maintain them have been root causes of this trend.

White's United Church at Bayside, recently sold by the congregation and now being demolished, is a case in point. Solidly built as it was, some portions of the church will survive however; some pews and lumber are being kept to repair the 178-year-old Hay Bay church, first Methodist church in Upper Canada.

Such is the fate of the Bayside church, but what of others that still remain, though abandoned?

One that comes to mind is the old Methodist church at Massassaga. The building, which stands beside the area primary school, bears the date 1888.

Rather than disposing of this building in similar fashion, a possible use, in line with the idea of fostering closer community ties, would be to renovate the structure and use it as a recreation centre, if not as an adjunct of the school.

This way such buildings would still serve a useful purpose, as well as maintaining an interesting link with the past.

Quebec Crime

The crime rate in Quebec, and particularly in Montreal, is increasing by such proportions that Quebec Justice Minister Remi Paul has asked the federal government to re-establish the death penalty in Canada.

In doing so he has cited the increase in the number of murders in the province from 53 in 1967 (the year the death penalty was abolished) to 71 in 1968 and 92 in 1969, while this year 16 had already been committed up to January 17.

The trend is disturbing in the extreme; yet having done away with the death penalty (except in the case of police officers and on-duty prison guards) for an experimental period of five years, this is hardly the time to restore it. This seems to be the feeling in Quebec itself, Sherbrooke La Tribune for example pointing out that in any event only two persons were executed in Canada between 1961 and 1967.

However, the Sherbrooke newspaper agrees with Mr. Paul in his criticism of judges for imposing light sentences and in his denunciation of a system "which permits bail to dangerous criminals, who hurry to commit crimes — and often murder — to pay their lawyers' fees."

Says La Tribune: "Harsher penalties for career bandits . . . yes. The re-establishment of the death penalty . . . no." We are inclined to agree.

Storm Refuge

This is not the season of electrical storms — not in Canada anyway, but Ann Landers' recent observations on the topic were interesting. She told a Wyoming reader whose wife "is scared to death of lightning," and prefers to be under a tree than in a car, that a car is actually one of the safest places to be. She might have added that a tree is one of the most dangerous places to seek refuge in an electrical storm. Like must of us, we suspect, Miss Landers has never heard of anyone in a car being struck by lightning, but she did conclude with the query: "Has anyone?"

Poor Taste

When the CBC is not showing its customary bias against the United States and its stance in Vietnam, it likes to get funny over the monarchy or pomp and ceremony generally. The corporation was at it again Sunday night, with a short film after the 11 p.m. Weekend news program which showed Governor-General Michener welcoming a visiting dignitary. There were shots of the arrival, the guard of honor, the reception at Government House and so on, but none of the visitor and just what was the point of it all was obscure — except that it provided the CBC Weekend people with an opportunity to poke some fun at the proceedings. The CBC is not noted for its overall good taste, and this was yet another example.

More Fun Than Work

Seeing the World on A Tax-paid Parliamentary Junket

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Carefully, clause by clause, a Commons committee is combing through Finance Minister Benson's White Paper on Taxation.

This White Paper, whispers the Finance Minister in that low thin voice of his that hints at such confidentiality on all occasions, is a document of tax reform.

That is the word he uses for his proposal to raise the rates and collect more from the income bracket where, as he puts it, "the money is."

That is in the "middle," again his word for it — between $9,000 and $15,000 — with the poor below and the rich above.

One of the "reforms" he has in mind is clamping down on tax allowances and deductions — under the heading of expenses — of conventions, business, professional, even fraternal.

The Finance Minister says he suspects some conventions just might be fun things, with more pleasure than business on the agenda.

It will be interesting to hear what the Honorable Members of the committee have to say about that.

For the convention — or "conference," as they prefer to call it — in recent years has been a sort of sensitive subject with parliamentarians.

They go on some dandies.

To romantic Faraway Places. All expenses paid.

They do not even have to tap out for their own refreshment — the parliamentarians, or, more correctly, the taxpayers of the host country for the conference take care of that. And gloriously more.

Now, just in this past year, the Honorable Members are getting to take their wives along as a fringe benefit of parliamentary life.

It was William Winter Hamilton, MP, Deputy Chairman of Britain's ruling Labor Party, who only a couple of years ago blew the whistle on what he called the "fiddle" of the "conference."

Blew it long and loud right here on Parliament Hill when he was attending a conference — or convention, as he called it — of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association.

They still have not forgotten or forgiven him for it, and probably never will, because he stood up there in public and proclaimed that the "conference, or term it a convention if you will, is a junket."

And what, prithee, is a junket?

"A junket," he announced unabashed, "is a fiddle to get on a free expense-paid tour."

Was the Honorable William Winter Hamilton, MP, some kind of crank?

Hardly, for he was seconded by another British MP delegate, Charles Parnell, Works Minister in the Labor Government.

Quoth he: "I thought it was time I saw Canada and this conference, to be honest about it, seemed as reasonable a vehicle as any to latch onto."

To be honest for sure. In spades yet.

So where does this leave our own Honorable Members in their deliberations on Finance Minister Benson's joyless proposition that a convention may be more of a fun than a work thing?

With a nice selection of "vehicles" on which to "latch," as Hon. Charles Parnell so pleasurably put it.

There is the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association, a "vehicle" on which some of our MPs have ridden around the world.

And the Inter-Parliamentary Union . . . the NATO Parliamentary Association . . . the Canada-United States Inter-Parliamentary Group . . L'Association Internationale des Parlamentaires de Langue Francaise . . . and that grand marathon of all political international conventions, the United Nations.

But is it not all in the best of all possible causes, better international understanding?

Hear again from the immortal William Winter Hamilton on that oldest of these conferences, the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association . . . "It is an absolutely futile exercise, an excuse for the enjoyable jaunt, a delightful fiddle."

So who cares, you ask? You do. Because it is costing you better than an annual million in taxes, and that is not accounting for the cost of transportation or an MP's high-priced time.

Perhaps when they get to Ben Benson's proposal to sock it taxwise to conference and convention delegates, the Honorable Members and Senators unless they really think they are all that special, will have the good grace to blush. Or maybe even tell him to skip it and get on with "reform" that does not cast such a personal reflection on the parliamentary image.

East-West Deal?

The Propaganda War

Regina Leader-Post

After years of waging word wars with Soviet propagandists over the air waves, the United States Information Agency is now proposing a deal with Russia.

As a matter of common economic if not ideological interest, it has suggested that Moscos cease jamming Voice of America broadcasts to the Soviet Union.

Jamming, which has been practised since the beginning of the Cold War, had gone out of style for a number of years until the invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968. Since then, Moscow has been throwing up an electronic barrage against Voice of America transmissions in Russian, Ukrainian, Armenian and other Soviet languages.

The U.S. Information Agency argument is that this interference is both expensive and self-defeating. The United States simply counters Soviet jamming by increasing the power of Voice of America transmissions, and the American message still gets through. All Moscow and Washington really have to show for their efforts is money spent that both could find better uses for elsewhere.

The suggestion to call off the electronic duel makes practical sense. But considering the ways of world politics, it may not stand a chance.

Part-time Farmers Pay Less

Farm and Country

Local businessmen, professional men and $12,000 a year workers in nearby factories have bought five and 10-acre lots. They classify themselves as part-time farmers, thus qualifying for agricultural taxation, while the "part-time farmers" with minuscule acreage escapes with a mere $125. Yet the very presence of these relative newcomers to the area has placed an onerous burden on the schools and local services.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Feb. 3, 1970 . . .

Fire swept the Centre Block of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa 54 years ago today—in 1916. Iron doors in the communicating corridor between the Library of Parliament and the Centre Block saved the library. Rebuilding began immediately after the fire and the main structure was finished in 1920.

1865—The Canadian government surrendered Confederte raider Bennett Burley to the United States government.

1960—The French National Assembly approved special powers for President de Gaulle to deal with the Algerian crisis.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1945—more than 1,000 United States heavy bombers blasted Berlin in the greatest air blow ever dealt the Reich capital, dropping nearly 3,000 tons of bombs and scoring direct hits on the offices of Hitler and Goering; the Russians took Sonnenberg, six miles east of Kuestrin, Zielenzig and Sternberg, 24 miles east of the Oder River.

Caught Between Two Worlds

Northern Ontario's Indians—A Dependent Society

Rudy Platiel in the Globe and Mail

SANDY LAKE — The tall, thin 17-year-old Indian lay moaning on the white sheets of the bed in the settlement's nursing station.

"Nobody cares — nobody understands us — we are neither white men nor Indians any more," he muttered to Yvonne Knipe, a 32-year-old New Zealand-born nurse, who related the incident later.

The Indian youth, she said, had been brought into the station unconscious from hysteria — the culmination of a continuing dispute with the Indian council and older relatives that ended with him being constantly shadowed by a council-appointed "constable" — who was also his uncle.

The youth had been accused of raping a girl in the settlement. He then printed the names of council members on shotgun shells and wore them in his belt. He was brought to the council hall and held for 12 hours before being released.

Although the dispute and the youth's lapse into a catatonic state is an individual case, it is part of a growing social crisis that is plaguing some isolated Indian settlements in the remote Kenora District of Northern Ontario and appears inevitably in store for others not yet touched by it.

The generation gap is reaching into isolated Indian settlements as teen-age Indians, many of whom return as high school dropouts after a taste of life in the outside world, find it hard to accept the old way of life and unquestioning rule of parents, half of whom cannot speak English.

It begins in settlements that have never seen a television or automobile. The young Indians are sent out to high schools in a white man's world where they are buffeted not only by a cultural shock, but with the academic shock of finding that their Grade 8 education on paper is in reality little more than a Grade 5 or 6 education by the standards of their white classmates.

With only the exceptional ones able to overcome academic handicap and the loneliness of separation from their families to achieve a high school graduation, most return to their settlements as dropouts to find themselves caught between two worlds — no longer able to completely accept the old way of life but longing for the security it once gave them.

"It may be a cliche to say it but they are truly the lost generation," said Robert Lavack, a consultant in the youth and recreation branch of the Ontario Department of Education.

"They are reaching out for the white man's world and the things he has only to find that they can only get half of it," he said.

Martin Greenwood, an associate professor of anthropology at Lakehead University, who headed a study of the effects of education on isolated communities concludes: "The effect is that it is splitting it up into the young and the old."

He said education is providing the settlements with young persons who are not necessarily smarter than their parents—but more sophisticated. The result is a clash when the elders attempt to force the teen-agers to conform to the old standards.

Last summer in Sandy Lake teen-age dropouts began forming gangs with names such as the Hell's Angels. Parents and council members found themselves confronted with a rash of teen-agers taking to glue-sniffing and drinking a mixture of Coca - Cola and hairspray to induce hallucinations. It has largely now been stamped out by a worried community.

Sandy Lake, 360 miles north of Thunder Bay, has a high rate of welfare. The accompaniment of boredom is often hypochondria.

Miss Knipe, who left Sandy Lake last summer after two years, said one-third or more of those who came to the clinics were imagining illnesses. "If I was a Canadian I would be ashamed of myself for what is happening."

She said there are about 1,000 persons in Sandy Lake (no more than 30 are non-Indians) who are served by 23 Government and private agencies, but in most cases there is a glaring lack of co-ordination to make all the efforts effective.

James Batty, a 31-year-old Australian who was assistant Indian superintendent at Sandy Lake before leaving last summer to study at Lakehead University, said that what is fundamentally wrong is a lack of any over-all policy on how to help the Indians or what the objective is.

Bertrand Russell, Philosopher and Peace Activist, Dies at 97

PENRHYDEUDRAETH (CP) — Bertrand Russell, aristocrat by birth, brilliant philosopher by dint of genius and fervent activist by depth of passion, died Monday night at the age of 97.

The end of a life dedicated to reason in thought and action came at Russell's 14-room mansion, Plas Penrhyn, in this North Wales town, not far from where he was born in 1872.

The man who had succeeded to the title of Lord Russell in 1931 had been suffering from influenza. A spokesman said Russell's fourth wife, Edith, was with him when he died.

"This has come as a terrible shock to everyone," said Kenneth Coates, a director of the Bertrand Russell Peace Foundation. "I spoke to Bertrand only a few days ago and he seemed in good health, still working on peace foundation projects."

In recent years, Russell, a lean man with sharp bird-like features and a shock of white hair, was in the vanguard of the militant opposition to nuclear armament and U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

But his outspoken opinions on sexual behavior, discrimination, politics and economics had put him in constant opposition to authority for many years.

Beyond the controversy, a list of his achievements and abilities—winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature, pre-eminent philosopher and mathematician of the 20th century, pamphleteer, television commentator and holder of scores of awards—placed him easily in the small ranks of renaissance men.

Russell said in an interview when he was 90 that he awaited death calmly and patiently, adding: "I've had good innings."

Bertrand Arthur William Russell was born May 18, 1872. His parents died when he was 3. His grandfather, Lord John Russell, the former prime minister, raised him for three years, and after Lord Russell's death in 1878 his grandmother reared him.

But the great event of his childhood, he wrote more than 80 years later, was his introduction at the age of 11 to Euclid and mathematics by his older brother.

He described the experience as being "as dazzling as first love." For the next 27 years, mathematics and the philosophy behind it remained his chief interest and his main source of happiness.

It led to publication of Principles of Mathematics in 1903 and later, in collaboration with Alfred North Whitehead, the Principia Mathematica, considered one of the greatest intellectual achievements of the century.

Russell labored over the work for 10 to 12 hours a day from 1907 to 1910. He wrote in his autobiography 50 years later that his intellect never recovered from the strain and that, from then on, he was less capable of dealing with difficult abstractions.

The book reduced mathematics to a branch of logic more effectively than had ever been done before. It was through the use of this logic that Russell made his most enduring contribution to philosophy, a development which he termed "logical atomism."

However, Russell was perhaps more widely known and regarded as a rebel and a crank by those in power, and a sage and revered humanitarian—particularly by the young.

Compared most often with Voltaire for his sharp wit, his championing of individual liberty and his rejection of organized religion, Russell's energy never flagged.

Less than two months before his death, he wrote to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin to protest the expulsion of novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn from the Russian writers union.

Russell was sent to jail for his pacifist views as early as 1918, and, when he was almost 90, he was imprisoned again for sitting down in the street to demonstrate his views about disarmament and civil disobedience.

His sharp antagonism to the Vietnam war led him in 1967, when he was nearing 95, to set up an international war crimes tribunal in Stockholm which ultimately found the U.S. "guilty" of war atrocities. He even tore up his British Labor party card in 1965 after 51 years of membership to protest his government's support of the U.S.

In his later years, he sometimes earned the epithet of "pro - Communist" or "anti-American" for such actions as these. But a series of lectures he gave in 1948 were described by Moscow as "the howling of a wolf." He was bitterly critical of the Russian-led invasion of Czechoslovakia and often took up with fervor and scorn Russian treatment of Jews.

In his 80s and 90s, his mind undimmed by age, Russell's most passionate cause became preventing a nuclear holocaust and he campaigned unceasingly for disarmament.

The publication of the first volume of his autobiography was sold out before it appeared. In it he summed up his views in the following words:

"Three passions, simple but overwhelmingly strong, have governed my life—the longing for love, the search for knowledge and unbearable pity for the suffering of mankind. These passions, like great winds, have blown me hither and thither over a deep ocean of anguish."

Indians Ask PM, Michener To Meet Them

OHSWEEKEN, Ont. (CP) — Leaders of the Six Nations Iroquois Confederacy have invited Prime Minister Trudeau and Gov.-Gen. Roland Michener to discuss legislation affecting Indians.

In a letter Monday, the confederacy asked the two attend meetings at the reserve in this community near Brantford "at the earliest time they may state."

Tobacco Wrapper Cuts Tar Content

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal cigar manufacturer has come up with a cigarette-sized cigar using a tobacco wrapper he claims reduces tar and nicotine by as much as 40 per cent.

Henry Marvin, executive vice-president of Allied Cigar Corp., said Monday his firm is the first in North America to use the newly-developed wrapper and that cigarette companies are expected to introduce the wrapper before long.

The wrapper — made of tobacco leaf and designed to replace paper — was developed by Raport International Inc., a subsidiary of Waitt and Bond, in Yabucoa, Puerto Rico, over the last four years.

Ontario Wants to Control Housing Allocation

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Ontario wants control over all federal housing funds allocated to the province Stanley Randall, trade and development minister, said Monday.

Mr. Randall told the National House Builders Association the province has suggested to Ottawa that:

—The Ontario Housing Corp. be given early notice of the amount of federal funds available to the OHC, which would assume responsibility for the allocation of these funds.

—The OHC be responsible for authorizing the programs of municipal and private housing bodies, which would continue to deal directly with the Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. on such matters as loan applications and design approvals.

—The CMHC relinquish its right to make judgments on the location, form and siting of housing developments and leave such approval to the OHC, the provincial government and the municipalities.

Of basic importance to the province is the need to be given a five-year commitment of federal funds—as in Quebec—to be able to plan effectively, Mr. Randall said.

"Stop-and-go federal financing of public bodies and the regular drying-up of mortgages from all sectors for private construction are the major difficulties we face in meeting the target of 250,000 (housing) starts a year by 1975."

A long-term commitment coupled with over-all provincial control of housing programs would allow planning within the framework of available funds while doing away with "unnecessary and time-consuming duplication of effort."

Mr. Randall was strongly critical of the $118,000,000 Ottawa has made available for public housing in Ontario this year and said the province cannot continue its housing program with $10,000,000 less than it spent in 1969.

The $13,000,000 in federal funds allotted for land assembly "will not go very far" and the $10,000,000 allotted for student housing hardly matches the $18,000,000 in new requests from the Ontario Student Housing Corp.

Eric Johnson of Clarkson, Ont., new president of the NHBA, told the convention that if Ottawa would make the same financial arrangements with private industry as it does with provincial governments, it would do a better job than government agencies in providing low-cost housing.

He said private industry is forced to build for high-income Canadians because of the high cost of land and money and because municipalities want housing which will bring them high tax revenues.

This theme was repeated by George A. Long, president of Canadian Gypsum Co. Ltd., who said the most important developments for home builders during the 1960s were the rising cost of land, labor and materials and the high cost of money.

Mr. Long said that if builders had not moved to improve construction methods in the face of rising labor costs, homes would cost even more than they do.

China Gripped by War Fever

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Gripped by war fever, China has ordered the digging of air raid shelters, the stockpiling of food and a massive army recruitment drive as border talks between Peking and Moscow appear at a stalemate.

Preparations on the Chinese mainland against a surprise air or missile attack have accelerated, and Peking Radio has broadcast constant warnings to be prepared for war.

"War hysteria and an anti-Soviet atmosphere are very much in the air," Moscow Radio recently reported in a Chinese language commentary.

The three-month-long talks in Peking resumed after a Christmas break, but neither side will comment publicly on their progress. The talks were initiated last year after bloody frontier clashes between Russian and Chinese troops.

Reports reaching diplomats here say more Chinese are being drafted into the army than at any time since the Korean War. The recruiting campaign was launched after the fall harvest was in and the demand for farm workers eased.

With its "war preparedness" campaign, Peking is achieving two aims at once.

It is strengthening its armed forces and at the same time uniting the country after the tumult of the cultural revolution.

Court Ruling Upsets Labor Relations

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas Eberlee, Ontario's deputy minister of labor, said Monday the present system of union certification by the Ontario Labor Relations Board will have to be changed if it is not lawful.

Mr. Eberlee was commenting on a decision by the Supreme Court of Canada in favor of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. against certification of 35 janitors as members of the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The Supreme Court upheld the company's argument that the union constitution stipulates that membership is restricted o operating engineers.

Mr. Eberlee said he was disappointed with the decision, which he called unrealistic, but that it may be necessary to change the present certification procedure.

The labor relations board has followed its own standard for certification since 1951. This standard does not take into account requirements of union constitutions, but requires only an application for membership and payment of $1 toward monthly dues or an initiation fee.

Over Half Central Mortgage's Budget for Low-income Units

OTTAWA (CP) — Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. will allocate $570,000,000 of its $854,000,000 capital budget for 1970 to build 35,000 low-income units, Robert Andras, minister without portfolio responsible for housing, said in the Commons Monday.

Opposition parties welcomed the increase—the budget was $174,000,000 less last year—but emphasized the problems of families and individuals in public housing.

Lincoln Alexander (PC—Hamilton West) said rents run about $160 a month for those with an income of $560, rising as the income does.

Meanwhile, studies showed that city-dwellers with an annual income of $14,000 paid $175 a month rent.

Mr. Alexander said the public housing rental scale is too high and traps the tenant, who can't save for something he may want.

David Lewis (NDP—York South) said it is distressing that after years of study, tax forces, task forces, reports and housing conferences, "all we have today is a situation of a little more money in the realm of housing."

Rene Matte (Creditiste—Champlain) said federal funds should be decentralized to allow the provinces more leeway in making decisions on housing.

Mr. Andras said the CMHC capital budget announcement is the earliest ever but Mr. Lewis said the Ontario government has had to freeze its public housing program until the federal budget was announced.

Mr. Andras said that of the $570,000,000 for public housing:

—$265,000,000 is allotted to provincial housing authorities for public housing, matching their requests.

—$105,000,009 will go to supply low-rental housing in limited-return, non-profit and co-operative projects.

—$200,000,000 is "being reserved temporarily for new innovations and a balancing of distribution based on need." He hoped much of this would be used in new or revised techniques to provide housing for low-income families where the National Housing Act had proved inadequate.

Mr. Andras said another $110,000,000 will go for direct loans to homeowners for new and existing homes in small towns, rural areas and remote places such as new mining towns.

Canadian Car Safety Standards Provoke Lively Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Rear-window defrosters should be a mandatory feature of all cars produced and sold in Canada, the Commons was told Monday by David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North).

That such equipment is not required, he said, is an indication of how the government has abdicated authority over automobile safety standards to the U.S. government.

Canadian safety standards will be a reflection of the power battle in Washington between the lobby of the U.S. auto industry and safety campaigners such as Ralph Nader.

Mr. Orlikow's charge came during debate on second reading of a government bill designed to enforce government-prescribed motor vehicle safety standards through use of a national trade mark.

The bill received second reading and was sent to the Commons transport committee for detailed study.

Mr. Orlikow, although he agreed with Transport Minister Don Jamieson that the bill was an important measure, claimed it would lack meaning unless it applied to Canadian conditions.

At present, he said, because of the integration of the U.S. and Canadian auto industry, "where there are defects in U.S. cars, we have them in Canada."

Referring to the need for special features, Mr. Orlikow mentioned as an example the rear-window defroster on his Volvo, imported from Sweden. "It makes it possible for me to be a safer driver," he said.

Mr. Orlikow's review of the politics of auto safety complemented the view of Jack Bigg (PC—Pembina), a lawyer and former RCMP sergeant who has investigated many fatal traffic accidents.

The money now spent to produce "chrome beauties" for bumpers should be used to create equipment to absorb the shock of an impact at 30 miles an hour.

Mr. Bigg also urged regulations to ensure frost-free windshields through the installation of imbedded wires. Flares to warn other drivers of a stalled car and simple, steel towing hitches, front and rear, should also be mandatory.

Another Conservative speaker, Don Mazankowski (Vegreville), extended the criticism of auto equipment to tires. In past years, he said, the two-ply tire was introduced as a major technical advance by manufacturers.

Both Canadian and U.S. governments accepted the argument without serious questions and it required numerous blowouts and other accidents to show that the new tire was a "rag," Mr. Mazankowski said.

Federal Phosphate Controls Possible

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister J. J. Greene raised the possibility Monday of federal controls on phosphates and similar nutrient pollution of lakes and rivers.

He told the Commons national resources committee that he intends to confer with the provinces, many of which have shown deep concern about phosphate pollution.

"Perhaps the federal government can move on behalf of the provinces for a national control of nutrients," Mr. Greene said.

He was the committee's first witness as hearings began on the proposed Canada Water Act which provides for joint federwater resources including pollution control.

He issued the committee an open invitation to try to draft a section dealing with nutrient pollution, promising it "serious consideration." This is the usual formula for saying the government would back an acceptable proposal.

Mr. Greene noted that the report last November on the International Joint Commission study of Lakes Erie and Ontario clearly identified phosphate pollution as the problem in the "aging" of both lakes.

Mr. Greene said he has conferred with Interior Secretary Walter Hickel of the United States on the questions. Canadian and American officials also had talks and a group of Canadian scientists was just back from Sweden where a substitute for phosphate-detergents is reported to be in use.

Noting criticism of the act earlier in the Commons, Mr. Greene said the co-operative approach to water management and pollution control would be more effective than unilateral action by Ottawa.

Detergent Industry Is Given Warning

HAMILTON (CP) — The co-chairman of the International Joint Commission investigating pollution warned the North American detergent industry Monday that it is not doing enough to eliminate phosphates from its products.

Matthew Welsh, the commission's co-head and former governor for the State of Indiana, told representatives of the detergent industry attending a commission hearing:

"How much time is it going to take you? I don't mean to sound exasperated but I am.

"You people do not have any sense of urgency and you can't come here and complain that you have not had enough time. You were told by us (the commission) in 1965 that phosphates are the greatest cause of pollution in lakes Erie and Ontario."

The commission, investigating pollution in the lower Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River, heard 28 briefs Monday.

One that seemed to irk Mr. Welsh was submitted by John Dixon, technical chairman of the Canadian Detergent Industry's committee for water quality.

Mr. Dixon said the detergent industry has been experimenting with possible substitutes for phosphates but none had been found.

"It is completely unrealistic to assume that the Canadian detergent industry could have a replacement for phosphate by 1972."

One of the commission's advisory boards recommended Oct. 8 that all phosphates be eliminated from detergents by 1972 because they were slowly destroying the water quality of the lakes.

Mr. Dixon argued that too little attention was paid to the contribution of phosphorus from natural land runoff and agricultural sources.

However Dr. John Vallentyne, commission adviser, said phosphates in detergents constitute 50 per cent of all phosphorus present in municipal waste in Canada and 70 per cent in the United States.

Lake Erie Not Dead

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — W. G. Scott, chairman of the Long Point-Norfolk Ratepayers Association, said Monday Lake Erie is not "dead or dying."

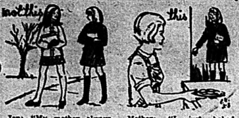
He told the International Joint Commission studying pollution in the lake that "in fact, commercial fishermen had their best catch in 40 years in 1969."

Mr. Scott said some submissions to the commission called the lake as a "cesspool."

"That impression is false and damaging. Some areas of the lake—especially the western basin near the mouth of the Detroit River—may be polluted but that doesn't mean it's all polluted."

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON



Jan: "My mother always wants to know every single thing that happens at school every day."

Jody: "Mine couldn't care less. She's always too busy to listen."

Mother: "I just baked some cookies. I'm going to have a cup of tea. Would you like some with your cookies?"

"Jody: "I'll get some milk. I want to tell you about my test grades."

The wise parent asks few questions, but is available for conversation and confidences when a child arrives home eager to talk. This is one good way of keeping the channels of communication open.

Dress Designer Creates Her Own Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — When Simone Nashman arrived here from Toronto 18 months ago, she couldn't get employment as a dress designer. So she created her own job.

She started designing and cutting out dresses on the floor of the $85-a-month apartment she shared with two others.

"I used to go out selling by bus, carrying as many dresses as I could," she says. "I'd put them into shops on consignment."

Today, the buyers come to her. The shop that bears her name is turning out 300 dresses a month.

Her equal partner in the project is Dave Madiuk, 27, who has his own construction company. He joined her after coming to the 22-year-old designer's shop to do alterations.

Her original partner had dropped out and Mr. Madiuk felt the project had potential.

"It's getting to the point where I like this business more than construction," he says.

The average Simone dress—"We couldn't even afford to put labels on the dresses at first"—costs about $30. The company is supplying 15 Vancouver specialty shops and another in Victoria.

In addition to a full-time staff of one, Simone has another 15 seamstresses working in their homes. Mr. Madiuk says he expects production to double by April.

Simone says her designs are "my own style," rejecting strict classifications. She produces only four dresses from each design.

"We really feel we can do something to change styles in Vancouver, to make people more aware of and interested in high fashion."

Simone says that she and her partner operate on an in-season basis rather than one season or more ahead as many manufacturers do.

"This way a buyer for a small shop can come in and pick dresses he'll be selling in the next few weeks. This is good for small shops which want to deal in small quantities.

"We feel that we have done so well because we cater to this need."

Brother and Family Never Send Gifts or Cards

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My brother is married and has four little girls, and my parents love them all. They send them gifts on their birthdays and even phone them long distance sometimes.

My Dad was very sick and didn't hear from them even on Father's Day or on his birthday. Also, my Dad gave my brother the new used car he bought.

My parents are upset that they never hear from them. Would you still send a birthday card to my brother if you were me? It is next month. — Neglected Family.

Dear Neglected: I'm sorry. One does hope for a return of warmth and thoughtfulness; and yet — was your brother taught to give — as well as take?

Somehow he has to get the message that love needs a return. Wells of generosity do dry up; and loving hearts grow weary with too, too much neglect.

Sure, send him a birthday card, because you do care about him and wish him happiness. But how about clipping this column and enclosing it?

• • •

Dear Doris: Adoption is very much like a marriage, the traditional foundation of a family. The child is joined with the family because of love. The child's name is changed to that of the family just as the woman's name is changed when she is married. The child does not need to feel that his first name is his real name any more than a married woman feels that her single name is her real name.

When I think about the family in this way, as a "love group," I no longer have any fear of talking about Jessica's first mother. Jessica has two mothers. Her first one loved her very much — and we have many evidences of this which we can give to her when she needs them — but was unable to make a home for her; so she joined our family, and it is a love relationship, the closest kind there is.

Yes, tell the children they are adopted because it is their true story; and tell them as soon as possible so that it becomes a natural part of life for them. Always tell them the truth as fully as they seem capable of understanding it at the time.

Please, as they themselves beg us, "Tell it like it is"! — We Adopted Jessica

Dear We Adopted: I like your comparison with marriage. Adoption at its best should be a lifelong contract founded on love — and that's for sure!

• • •

Dear Doris: Please send the leaflet, Know Your Groceries. I operate a service as a health counsellor. We like to take opportunities to read what others say. Emerson wrote, "Everyone is my superior in some respects and I can learn from him." — Health Counsellor

Dear Counsellor: Hope you will find something in the leaflet rings a bell for you.

We need health counsellors, heaps of them, across Canada. My hat is off to our public health services and our doctors and dietitians for what is already being done, but they need all the help they can get.

The time is past when we can allow ourselves to eat what we like and avoid what we don't like, and treat ourselves to indulgences which threaten bodily health. We know better. Let's hope we are getting so we do better.

What's troubling you? Putting it on paper to Doris is the first step towards solving your problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Everyone in this office was interested in the letter from the man who returned from Vietnam with an ancient aphrodisiac — powdered reindeer horns. We are well aware that phony sex potions have been around for centuries, but somehow this stuff, as described by the soldier, sounds like the real McCoy.

ANN LANDERS

We live in Michigan. There are no reindeer up here. Would just plain deer horns be O.K.? Please advise. — P.L. and J.

DEAR P.L. and J.: I am certain that plain deer horns would be just as effective as reindeer horns. If you can't locate deer horns, you might try goat horns, or fog horns, French horns or shoe horns. The results, I assure you, will be the same. Zero.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your advice to "Pestered Louise." You said it is bad manners to drop in on people unexpectedly and that no one should be a sitting duck for anybody who knows how to ring the doorbell.

What is wrong with you that you don't like company? From your column one gets the impression you love people, but such statements as this make me wonder.

I'm tickled pink when someone drops in. I can think of no greater compliment. I'm not a fussbudget about my house. If it isn't as neat as a pin, I don't care. I serve whatever is on hand and if I don't have anything to serve I say so.

Please change your advice. It doesn't sound like you. But then you hear from so many nutty people, maybe you are getting a little nutty yourself. — KENTUCKY ELLA.

DEAR ELLA: Yes, I do hear from some nutty people, but every now and then I get a lovely letter from a charming person like you so it events out. I did say it is inconsiderate to drop in unexpectedly and I meant it. People who are uninvited and unexpected are usually unwelcome. At least, that's the way I see it.

* * *

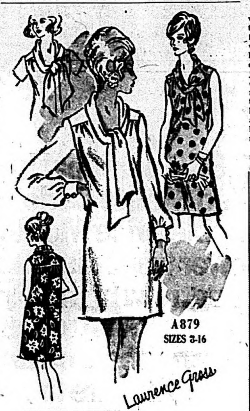
DEAR ANN LANDERS: What can be done about a 45-year-old mother who thinks she is a teen-ager? Our 16-year-old daughter is getting more uncommunicative and angry by the day. I am sure her mother's behavior is at the bottom of it.

Our daughter Lottie has many friends, both boys and girls and they congregate at our place. The kids play table tennis, sing, turn on the hi-fi and dance by the hour. "Mom" love to dance with the boys and they tell her she's out of sight. She is a great dancer and I think she is giving the girls more competition than she realizes.

I don't believe a woman in her 40's should be wearing mini skirts and kicking up her heels with her daughter's boyfriends. Mom insists she is chaperoning. I don't think teen-agers need that much chaperoning. Dou you? — SCARSDALE.

DEAR SCARS: Parents should be under the roof when their teen-agers entertain, but they should not plant themselves in the middle of the action and act like part of the crowd.

A mother who is attractive and a good hoofer should turn down the voltage around her daughter's friends. Without realizing it, she is competing with her daughter and creating trouble.



PRINTED PATTERN

Loop Soft Scarf Many Ways

Loop it lightly, knot it softly, toss it gallantly over one shoulder and let it float on the spring breezes — there are all kinds of marvelous ways to drape the attached scarf. Laurence Gross designed Printed Pattern A879 with basically simple, body-clinging lines. It has soft shoulder shirring which is another indication of the new spring feeling for softness. Kitchen Tested Recipes

Extravagant Dish Prepared in Advance

By MARY MOORE

This is an extravagant recipe and should be made one week in advance. It serves 16 to 20 people. It is a blessing to have ready so far in advance for a crowd.

TUNNER'S HUNGARIAN TORTE

NOTE: This batter contains no flour.

Batter:
10 egg yolks
1½ cups sugar
2 tbsps. bread crumbs
2½ cups (not packed - 12-oz.) ground blanched almonds
10 egg whites, stiffly beaten
Icing:
6 eggs
½ cup milk
1 cup sugar
⅓ cup light rum (first amount)
½ lb. sweet (unsalted) butter (room temperature)
¼ cup light rum (second amount — for soaking cake)

To make Batter: In beater bowl beat egg yolks and sugar on "high" for 10 min. until thick and pale. Fold in bread crumbs and ground almonds. Then fold in stiffly beaten whites until blended. Turn out onto 13 x 9" Teflon-lined buttered cookie or jelly roll pan. If it fills it above sides scrape off excess batter and bake in small separate buttered pan.

Bake at centre of oven at 350 deg. Fahr. 18 min., or until it shrinks from sides slightly; Carefully loosen edges and turn out on icing-sugar-sprinkled towel to cool.

To make Icing: Beat together in top of double boiler over gently boiling water the eggs, milk, and sugar until thick. This took me 18 min. I scraped down sides of top of double boiler to mix thickened parts with mass. If it curdles a little pay no attention. Cool, beating over bottom of double boiler filled with cold water. When cool beat in, alternately, 'in and first amount of rum. You must constantly beat but if it persists in curdling a little no harm is done.

Now cut cooled cake into four, crosswise, to give you four layers. Place one layer on fancy cake plate on which it is eventually served. Drizzle with 1 tbsp. rum. Spread to ⅛" thickness with icing. Repeat with each layer until you have four layers rum-soaked and three layers iced. Ice sides of torte generously, then spread remaining icing on top, scoring it horizontally with fork to make an attractive finish. Store for 1 wk. in cold place covered with lid of roasting pan. Do not freeze.

At serving time carefully slice with sharp knife into ⅜" slices. A cook's reputation-maker.

Workshop Planned for Retarded

PICTON — The Prince Edward Association for the Mentally Retarded held its annual general meeting at the Happy Hours School recently. President Harry Hotston conducted the meeting.

Reports of recent activities by other groups were given which included a report of the Etobicoke Association starting a sheltered workshop, followed by other business.

On Feb. 6 a benefit hockey game featuring Picton O.P.P. ".08's" and the Kingston "No Stars" will be played with proceeds of the event going for the adult workshop. The Napanee association is hosting a Valentine party on Feb. 13 which all adult retarded of the area are invited.

A regional council meeting was held Feb. 1 for the executive of each region to elect a regional director, chairmen and other officers.

Adult services chairman Larry Richardson reported on the activity of his group and it is hoped that the adult workshop will be started in the spring. Treasurer Mrs. Clara Rutter reported one the finances. Nominating committee chairman Mrs. Orval May presented her report as follows: president, Mrs. John Shannon; first vice-president, Mrs. Rose Mullarkey; second vice-president, Bev. Gibson; recording secretary, Mrs. John Brown; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Orval May, and treasurer, Mrs. Clara Rutter, both remaining in office. This report was acepted and approved and became effective at the executive meeting.

President Hotston spoke briefly and a vote of thanks was tendered by Orval May.

Colored slides "Journey to a Job" provided an informative and interesting conclusion. This film on training centres was particularly interesting to the Prince Edward Association for Mentally Retarded members as they are planning to form an adult workshop.

Women Taught Automobile Mechanics

HALIFAX (CP) — Female automobile mechanics may not be the result, but an automotive trouble-shooting course for women here should lessen the number of damsels in distress on Nova Scotia highways.

The Halifax recreation department sponsors a seven-week course designed to teach women the basic principles of the automobile and to spot minor troubles before they become serious.

And it's not unusual to see an eager group of about 40 women paying strict attention to their two male instructors, Curtis Joudrey and Dave Levy.

One enthusiastic student says: "I never knew what a dipstick was before."

The class, held Tuesday and Thursday nights, consists of a one-hour lecture followed by an hour of practical work. Then the women get to show their stuff by changing tires, checking oil and performing various functions they were taught in past lessons.

Among topics covered during the sessions are exhaust, fuel, ignition, cooling, electrical and brake systems. Although no final examinations are held, the women are put through a series of weekly tests.

Instructor Levy says he's always wanted to teach a course like this. He feels that not only women, but men, should take a course of this nature.

"We hope to teach the girls how to identify the rocks, rattles and rolling sounds commonly associated with car trouble," he says.

"Knowledge of these skills often means the difference between being stranded on the highway and an inexpensive service call."

Tabernacle UCW Views Films of Retarded School

The January meeting of the UCW was held in the church hall with Mrs. Stenson, the president opening the meeting with a new year's message.

Speaker for the meeting was Mrs. Pryor from the School for the Retarded in Belleville. She was introduced by Mrs. Burley. She spoke and showed slides about the school.

There are 39 students; 26 are all day students and the rest are half and their I.Q.'s are not much more than 50. They can attend the school until they are 18. They start with kindergarten education and advance accordingly to ability.

At the school they learn to prepare meals, clean up and the girls learn to iron, household duties and how to shop. The boys are interested in the workshop and at Christmas time they made several bookends for their friends. One was presented to Rev. Crooks.

Most of the students have a good sense of rhythm and they have a small orchestra as well as participating in square dancing. There are four full time teachers and Mrs. Pryor is part time.

Mrs. Pryor was pleased with the help she received from the YMCA. They taught the children to swim. The pupils were also given physical check-ups by doctors from Kingston. Many other Belleville citizens helped out part-time. She also spoke of the co-operation of the caretaker of the school and expressed thanks for the use of Tabernacle United hall.

In the new year the school will have a new name.

Mrs. Stenson thanked the speaker and then called on Mr. Crooks to install the officers for 1970. They are as follows: president, Mrs. Stenson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Nelson; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Matier; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lott; recording secretary, Mrs. Wessels; treasurer, Mrs. Aitchison.

According to the treasurer's report the financial disbursements were met with a balance on hand for 1970.

Miss Johns was in charge of the devotional period and her theme was the "new year".

Readings were given by Mrs. Spafford and Mrs. Lockyer. Then Mrs. Stenson closed the meeting.

Lunch was served by Unit 7. It was noted that Belleville Presbyterial will be held in Grace United Church Feb. 4 and 5.

First Impressions Begin at Home

QUEBEC (CP) — Rabbi Ben Prager says there has been too much publicity about non-denominational schools. "The formation of a healthy-minded youngster begins in the home.

". . . The instilling of stronger values must begin as soon as possible and no amount of formal courses in schools will change that in any way. It is the parents' prime responsibility to form the child's first impressions of what society expects of him."

Says Business People Money-mad

VANCOUVER (CP) — Madeleine Boscoe found out what she had suspected all along: that in business, everybody is money-mad.

To prove her point, the 17-year-old high school girl attended a two-day trade and industrial development conference along with about 350 businessmen.

Asked what conclusions she drew after sitting through 23 speeches and often-lengthy discussions from the floor, she replied:

"Everything centres all the time on money. Everybody is so money-minded.

"What really surprised me was that people would come right out and say that they're in business just to make money.

"I somehow thought they'd be more subtle about it."

A Grade 12 student from North Vancouver, Madeleine first got the idea of attending the conference when she saw an invitation in a newspaper to "participate in the British Columbia trade and industry development conference."

"You read and hear about business and economics," Madeleine said, "and you sort of imagine what the business world is like.

When she arrived at the conference she found she was one of barely half a dozen females.

"I'd expected there'd have been more variety in the delegates," she said, "perhaps some housewives, even some bums."

She added that she didn't find the talks, which ranged from trade and provincial resource development to public financing to the pressure of foreign fishing fleets on B.C. coastal fisheries, at all technical or difficult to understand.

Other impressions she formed during the conference included: Amazment at "unsophisticated" relations between labor and management—"Why they act as if they were still in the 19th century, the way they go at each other's throats."

Dismay "at the way Canada is considered a part of the States."

"Eventually, perhaps, we'll all live in one big 'world country' but right now, I still feel very nationalistic about Canada."

Club Activities

PHI PSI CHAPTER

The first meeting of the year for Phi Psi Chapter was held at the home of Mrs. Sharon Dracup at which time Mrs. Jane Ellis and Miss Wanda Cook spoke on "Fabric Effects" and dealt in particular with fabric for clothing.

A second meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Irene McGinnes and it was suggested at this time that members would travel to Toronto for a shopping trip on Feb. 28 and while there will attend the production of the play "Hair". Highlight of the meeting was a talk on "Curtains and Drapes" given by Mrs. McGinnes and Miss Bonnie Eves.

Belleville Women Prove Need for Volunteer Community Workers

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The worth of the dedicated amateur is under question in an age increasingly devoted to professionalism.

But in this city, two volunteers have proved indispensible in holding together a vital community service during a period of stress.

Mrs. Freeman Burrows and Mrs. Harry Fast, joint co-ordinators of United Community Services for the past year, see themselves as simply "good neighbors". But since its executive director resigned last March, the two women have kept UCS, its 14 member agencies and social planning itself alive in the city.

"If they hadn't been here to take over, United Community Services would have folded up," declares Msgr. J. P. Sullivan. "They are responsible for holding the organization together. I just hope they can hold on a while longer."

Although neither Mrs. Fast nor Mrs. Burrows is a professional social worker, Msgr. Sullivan credits them with contributing "as much if not more, than an executive director," to the organization.

UCS combines two functions — one to organize and run the annual campaign for funds, the second to operate the city's social planning program. Social planning is the primary concern of two co-ordinators — one to which they have devoted themselves on a full time, but strictly volunteer, basis since last March.

But before they stepped into the breach and took over the UCS operation, both Mrs. Fast and Mrs. Burrows were deeply involved in social planning in Belleville. Through UCS, they were active in surveying the city, ferreting out unmet needs in the community and setting up agencies to deal with them.

Now under their direct guidance are a variety of groups: an information-referral service, a volunteer bureau, an organization of health, education and recreation employees for education and co-ordination of professional and volunteer workers.

They also co-ordinate and take an active part in a pre-school stimulation program serving 85 disadvantaged children, a health service for senior citizens including a meal-on-wheels project and friendly visiting, an English teaching program for new Canadian mothers and children, an international club, a prevention of crime and deliquency committee, the Christmas Exchange, a furniture exchange and a clothing depot.

In addition, each woman sits in on meetings of the 13 other UCS affiliated agencies.

How did it all start? Neither woman can put a finger on the motivating factor that set them off on their careers in caring. But both are sure of their objective.

"I want to change attitudes; I've been involved in trying to change attitudes since I was 16," Mrs. Fast declares.

The daughter of a Prairie minister, she says "my priorities have always been people's needs".

"We have forgotten how to be good neighbors," Mrs. Fast feels. "We are facing a growing alienation of the have-nots. At present they cannot participate in any way in Canadian society. We have allowed human values and relations to become debased and replaced them by economic values and consumer relations."

Mrs. Fast's involvement has always taken the form of a deep personal relationship with families in need — accompanying them to court, planning their budgets, offering her help in whatever manner required. She has continued this involvement, despite the odded work-load of the UCS co-ordinator's position.

"But changes in social development will require more than altering our attitudes," she warns. "It will require changing the social and economic structure of our society. Economists admit the free enterprise system functions on the premise that five to six per cent of people will be unemployed."

Looking beyond her immediate concerns with UCS, she cites urban problems, an inadequate welfare system and the destructive effect of some institutional practices as areas in which attitudes must change.

Mrs. Burrows is also concerned about the widening gap between social and economic classes in our society.

"The middle classes have become more insular," she claims. "Their positions are assuming more and more importance to them as status symbols."

"I want to serve as a catalyst to enrich others' lives," she says.

Volunteer involvement is the key to solving social problems, she thinks.

"Most people won't take the first step in working with people," she claims. "If they would start in a small way — make themselves uncomfortable at the start — they would find they can do things they never thought they could."

"Volunteer work is a very fulfilling thing," Mrs. Burrows says. "You receive as much as you give."

She speaks from experience. From a small start working with church groups she continued into executive positions with community organizations. With the formation of UCS she took over the volunteer bureau, a clearing house for volunteers and the agencies needing their services.

Four years ago she began the pre-school stimulation program, designed to bring culturally deprived children to the level of development necessary for them to start kindergarten on the same footing as average youngsters. She continues to direct these activities in addition to acting as a UCS co-ordinator.

"Most people think the poor have nothing to offer," Mrs. Burrows comments. "But they have a lot to offer — they are very kind, very honest with one another.

"When you do things as a volunteer, it helps you to get into the other person's skin. Then you can help him to live his life as best he can with what he has to work with."

"The great thing about these women is their creativity, their imagination," notes Msgr. Sullivan. "Seldom do you find two people with their flair for organizational work who also have such sensitivity in working with people."

By taking over the direction of UCS, they have saved the organization the cost of a director's salary during a time of financial pressure.

But their greatest contribution, in the chairman's opinion, is their own philosophy of service, and its practical expression.

"They give people who are recipients of service a share in community welfare work," says Msgr. Sullivan. "They are working a transformation."

Man-of-the-Year Reviews Changes In City's Scene

GEORGE WISHART

By BARRY GRILLS
(Staff Reporter)

(Belleville today is a changing scene. As a prelude to the 1969 Citizen of the Year Award, The Intelligencer is interviewing award - winners of earlier years as a source of comment on that change.)

George Wishart, Belleville's 1965 Citizen of the Year Award recipient, is a man of philosophical principles, principles that have made him active in community life.

And the first among those principles is his personal feeling concerning the difference between quantity and quality.

"All of my activities have been directed towards quality," he said. "It's not size that counts, but quality that makes the difference. My work has been towards a better quality of life."

Mr. Wishart came to Belleville in 1929 and has lived on Dufferin Street ever since. He was employed at the Federal Research Institute for 35 years.

But he was not one of those who sits before the television set after his working day is done.

In 1958 he was elected to Belleville city council and he served as an alderman for six years. He was on the Children's Aid Society board for eight years.

Mr. Wishart also was on the board of governors of the Belleville General Hospital and spent 25 years working for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

He also served on the board of education for 13 years and is proud of the times when he knew all the teachers well and many of the students.

But it is his work on the Moira River Conservation Authority of which he is most proud.

"Conservation was dearest to my heart," he said. "I've had experoence at the lab and the (research institute) is about conservation."

After his election to city council, Mr. Wishart was voted by council to be a member of the Moira River Conservation Authority — much to his delight.

His major project while on council and on the Authority was an attempt to get the city to build an ice-control dam on the Moira River to alleviate the threat of flooding in the city.

He recalled that engineers had been obtained and that a 30-foot model was constructed.

As a result, the city passed a resolution at first to build the dam if it could received a grant to pay for 75 per cent of the building costs

On that basis Mr. Wishart went to Ottawa, but finally after two meetings with federal authorities, the government refused to assist the city with the dam because the project was too small.

Still undefeated, Mr. Wishart issued a questionnaire to Belleville area citizens living on the Moira River's flood plain to see if they would finance its construction.

The majority of the citizens questioned felt that they would not because it was too expensive.

Mr. Wishart remembers the flood of 1936 in Belleville and feels that "we've been lucky so far."

Even recently his work with conservation and the authority has not ceased. Last year he and his wife worked at O'Hara's Mill as volunteers — "pure donkey work".

It has been four years since his receipt of the Citizen of the Year Award and Mr. Wishard has noted a number of changes in Belleville since that time.

"One of the things I note is the great deal being done in culture of all kinds," he said. "This is one of the most significant things — and our parks."

"It's fantastic what they're doing for the kids," he added.

His only word of caution is towards industrial growth. "I'm not against industry, but we shouldn't try to digest it too fast."

College Faculty Association Sends Ultimatum to Davis

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister William Davis said Monday he has received an ultimatum from the Ontario Federation of Community College Faculty Associations threateneing strike action unless federation demands are met.

Mr. Davis said he received the ultimatum in a telegram from Hal Morgan, president of the federation, which wants faculty representatives involved in the formulation of proposed legislation on bargaining rights for community college teachers.

(These developments do not appear to have any bearing on the stand taken by the staff at Loyalist College, outlined Saturday by William R. Campbell, president of the Loyalist Instructional Staff Association. Mr. Campbell said then: "None of these activities whatsoever is going on at Loyalist. This is a claim by the other group (OFCCFA) and we are in no way associated with it." Mr. Campbell said the Loyalist group aligns itself with policies of the Civil Service of Ontario Association — the OFCCFA rival. However, he said, Loyalist was not a part of the CSAO).

The minister declined comment until he had time to study the federation's demands.

The federation has demanded an affirmative answer from the minister by Feb. 6 under threat of a series of teach-ins outside the colleges starting Feb. 9.

Mr. Morgan claims 1,690 of the community teachers are members of local faculty associations.

The civil Service Association of Ontario issued a statement last week saying it expects soon to gain support of a majority of the more than 3,000 teachers.

Fred Maskell of Algonquin College in Ottawa, chairman of the education division of the Civil Service Association of Ontario, issued a statement Feb. 1 in which he criticized a Canadian Press story Jan. 28 which he said implied all 3,000 community college teachers are represented by the federation.

"There are faculty associations at six of the colleges where the OFCCFA claims support which are in fact CSAO — oriented," the statement said. "Over 20 faculty associations have no connection with the OFCCFA.

"In view of its limited following, the implication that virtually all college faculty jump to the OFCCFA tune is quite incorrect."

MPP Seeks Guarantee For College Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — Walter Pitman, MPP from Peterborough, Monday called on the Ontario government to introduce legislation to guarantee the right of the province's 3,000 community college teachers to choose the organization they want to represent them.

"They must not be deprived for another year of their rights as citizens of this province," Mr. Pitman, NDP member for Peterborough, said in an interview.

The teachers have been without representation since the college system started in 1967, he said. Two rival groups—th Civil Service Association of Ontario, and the Ontario Federation of Community College Faculty Associations—had been unsuccessful in establishing a clear choice for the teachers.

No Picton Ban On Snowmobiles

PICTON—Members of town council last night praised snowmobile operators on their good behavior and shelved a proposed bylaw to ban the use of snow vehicles on Picton's streets.

First presented at council's January meetings, the prohibiting bylaw failed to get third reading when a delegation of snowmobilers appeared to plead their case.

Council agreed to appoint a special committee to investigate the situation before taking further action on the bylaw.

This decision led to a meeting between three town council representatives and three members of the snowmobile group.

During the meeting Reeve Bernard Hepburn expressed his hope that snowmobile operators would exercise good judgment and respect for the rights of others, making a bylaw unnecessary.

Spokesman for the snowmobilers Jay Hepburn, outlined a code of ethics to be published by his group in an effort to control the actions of snowmobile operators.

The code for Prince Edward County snowmobilers urges each operator to become familiar with the Motorized Snowmobile Act.

Drivers are instructed to run their machines directly from point of storage to operating areas. Travelling speed in towns and village is set at 15 miles per hour.

The code warns all snowmobile operators that municipalities will ban the use of snowmobiles and insurance rates will skyrocket unless rules are obeyed.

"The onus is on the snowmobile operator to keep this enjoyable recreation as free of hazard as possible", stresses the code.

Sewage Disposal Budget Approved

Ontario Water Resources Commission operations engineer R. N. Dick gained approval for a $10,500, 1970 sewage disposal budget at last night's meeting of the Sidney township council.

About $400 was pared from the budget almost immediately afterwards when council decided to purchase a one-half-ton truck to transport operators of both sewage disposal plants in Trenton and the township.

Capital and maintenance costs of the new truck will be shared equally by the two plants operated by the OWRC.

A maximum expenditure from the reserve fund of $1,500 was approved for the purchase of the truck by tender.

It was agreed that Mr. Dick should approach the village of Frankford with a view to participating in this cost-sharing plan.

A Serene Case of Double Vision

Each season has its own special effects and the above scene - - - in which Trenton's old swing bridge plays a double role - - - is perhaps more reminiscent of a gentle summer's day. However, the reflections in the water are genuine - - - despite the fact it's mid-winter. They were caused by recent thaw - created pools of water on the ice surface of the frozen Trent River.

Recreation Director Explains Resignation

PICTON (Staff) — In a report to town council last night, Picton recreation director Wayne Ring explained his decision to resign as secretary of the swimming pool committee.

Criticized several weeks ago for his resignation by Picton Reeve Bernard Hepburn, Mr. Ring felt his position required clarification.

"To clear up this matter," stated Mr. Ring addressing council, "I work for you people and before I officially resigned I received your permission to do so. You all agreed that I would resign as secretary but continue on the committee because my first job is to the recreation program and because of the importance of this committee, I would be letting them down if I had to attend a program meeting at the same time a swimming pool committee meeting was being held.

"The work load will probably still be as much, if not more, than it would be if I was secretary, in being just a member of this committee. I do hope this clears up the matter."

Mr. Ring added that the next meeting of the pool committee will be called early this month by its president Donald Baxter, when facts relating to the grant structure and operational costs have been compiled.

Clerk-treasurer for the committee, Dr. Earl Taylor resigned and has been replaced by Donald Anderson.

Dr. Taylor, who submitted his resignation because of the pressures of his work, also was criticized for his decision.

Council Seeks Guide On Old Post Office

TRENTON (Staff) — Council took action Monday night to clarify the town's position with regard to the old post office whose fate has not yet been decided by council.

The town's administrative board was directed by council to secure from the Ontario Municipal Board an opinion as to whether the town may legally dispose of the Dundas Street West property.

Two weeks ago council granted Revenue Properties of Toronto a thirty-day extension on its option to develop the property. March 3 is now the deadline for the firm to present a plan to council for the vacant building.

This morning Mayor Duncan McDonald said that the town simply wanted to be sure where it stood with the OMB if a development plan favored by council proposed purchase of the old post office from the town.

In addition, council directed the administrative board to prepare a review of the prevailing office rental rates in the town.

Fairbairn, Esposito Top Rookie Contenders

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League's rookie of the year for 1970 will more than likely be either Billy Fairbairn of New York Rangers or Tony Esposito of Chicago Black Hawks.

Their personal statistics make them heavy favorites. Fairbairn is the highest scoring freshman in the league with 42 points and Esposito the leading goalie with 11 shutouts.

Jack Riley, acting president of Pittsburgh Penguins, is a realist about hockey and recognizes that Fairbairn and Esposito will dominate the rookie balloting.

"But are they really rookies?" asked Riley.

"Both Fairbairn and Esposito had extensive minor league professional experience before coming into the NHL," he said.

"They're rookies in the NHL but there are a couple of first-year men in the West Division who are real rookies—Michel Briere of the Penguins and Bob Clarke of Philadelphia Flyers. They were amateurs a year ago."

Briere and Clarke typify the kind of young players who have worked their way into the NHL without any minor league experience at all. The reason has been expansion and with Vancouver and Buffalo being added to the league next season, you can expect even more of them.

"Briere was playing in Shawinigan Falls, Que., last year," said Riley. "I saw him in the playoffs when he was picked up by Sorel and I was impressed.

"He was passed up in the first two rounds of the draft, mainly, I think, because of his size. We picked him on the third round, and he was the 26th player selected."

Briere arrived at the Penguins' camp chock full of enthusiasm and was a bit disappointed at Riley's first salary offer.

"He said, 'I think I should get more money'," recalled Riley. "I asked him why and he said, 'because Im going to be playing hockey for Pittsburgh for the next 20 years."

That bit of brashness earned Briere more money and Riley figures now that it wasn't such a bad investment. The youngster has nine goals and 14 assists for 23 points so far for the Penguins.

TORONTO (CP) — Left winger Brit Selby underwent examination Monday for possible brain damage suffered in a National Hockey League clash Sunday between Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins. The Leafs forward said he lost his memory of much of the game in which 36 players got into a wild melee during the second period. Selby suffered a bloody nose in a scrap with Boston's Johnny McKenzie but said he didn't remember sitting out the five-minute penalty for fighting.

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Unitas, the precision passer who has gained 20 miles in the air since starting his career as a $6-a-game quarterback, was named Professional Football Athlete-of-the-Decade today in a special poll taken by The Associated Press. The Baltimore Colts quarterback, the all-time leading passer in pro football, easily outdistanced three other who have played significant roles in the sport's impact on the American scene in the 1960s — Bart Starr, Jimmy Brown, and Joe Namath.

Betsy Filling Nancy's Boots

ABETONE, Italy (CP-AP) — Betsy Clifford of Ottawa captured third place over-all in the combined standings of the Foemina Cup ski competitions which ended here Monday.

Miss Clifford, Canada's best bet to fill the boots of two-time champion Nancy Greene Raine in women's World Cup racing, took sixth place in the special slalom Monday with a time of 1:19.63. That and her fifth-place finish in 1:48.34 in the giant slalom Sunday put her in third spot in the combined standings for the two events behind Judy Nagel of the United States and Ingrid Lafforgues of France.

Miss Lafforgues beat out Miss Nagel in the special slalom, and the little American placed third behind winner Britt Lafforgues, Ingrid's sister in the giant slalom.

Time, Distance Against It, But Halifax Wants in AHL

HALIFAX (CP) — Time, distance and a fickle public have always scared off anyone with thoughts of bringing full-fledged professional hockey to Halifax, a claimant to the birth of the game.

Jet aircraft have solved the time-and-distance problem, putting Halifax within a few hours of most of the pro hockey centres in North America.

The public? Even the most optimistic hockey men here admit it would be a gamble, but preliminary discussions have begun toward getting Halifax into the American Hockey League.

The AHL response so far has been less than enthusiastic mainly because of that old bugaboo-distance. League president Jack Butterfield said Monday most AHL travel is by bus, and this puts Halifax at a definite disadvantage.

At least four U.S. cities, all within easy travelling distance of present AHL centres, are bidding for a league franchise.

Recent hockey history in Halifax, which with Kingston, Ont. claims to have invented the game in the 18th century, is hardly encouraging. The city has tried semi-pro, senior and junior A hockey—with each brand failing to win sustained fan support.

In 1965 Halifax Canadiens were formed as a leagueless junior A team. Playing exhibition games against Ontario and Quebec junior teams, the Canadiens drew well until 1968-69 when they dominated the newly-formed Maritime Junior League.

Weakened by a combination of factors and drawing only a few hundred fans, the Canadiens folded half-way through the current season but were taken over by a new group and given a new name. Their success at the gate has been only moderate.

In the past, it's been suggested that the Maritimes—rather than Halifax per se—should form an AHL team, with the club dividing its home games among such centres as Saint John, N.B., Sydney, N.S., and Halifax.

Jack Butterfield, president of the American Hockey League, says he is not optimistic about Halifax's chances for an AHL franchise.

Butterfield said in a telephone interview from his Springfield, Mass., office that travelling distance is one of the main drawbacks. Sound financial backing and a long-term lease on the arena were other major factors.

Mr. Butterfield said he had received a letter from the Halifax Forum commission asking about steps necessary for obtaining a franchise.

Four cities—New Haven, Norfolk, Richmond and Atlanta—were "in on the ground floor" and would receive more favorable attention than Halifax when the league's governors decided on a new franchise to replace the Buffalo entry. Buffalo enters the National Hockey League next season.

Soviets Plan Peewee Invasion

QUEBEC (CP) — The Soviet Union will likely send a team to the 1971 Quebec international peewee hockey tournament, the founding president of the tournament said Monday.

Gerard Bolduc said in an interview that negotiations to have the Soviet Union play in the 12th annual tournament next year "are going very well and we are very optimistic."

"This has been my big dream for many years and I will do everything in my power to have the Soviets here next year," said Mr. Bolduc. This year, he arranged to have a team from France and one from West Germany.

There are 100 other teams participating in this year's tournament with four teams from the U.S. and 96 from Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes.

The Flying Frenchmen from the Paris suburb of Charenton-le-Pont were eliminated from the tournament Sunday night after a 13-0 loss at the hands of Quebec City Expos before 10,000 fans. They now play an exhibition series against Quebec teams.

The last time a team from outside the U.S. or Canada played in the tournament was in 1966, when Mexico sent a representative.

Valerie Brinkert and Andy Plumridge seem to have struck up more than a casual archery acquaintance. The two are among a group of area residents taking advantage of weekly archery instruction classes being staged by the city's Recreation Department at Bleecker Hall with the co-operation of the Belleville Archery Club.

Archery Course Offered To Stress Sport's Safety

The Belleville Recreation Committee has taken a step forward in promoting a sport that has produced one of the city's few national soprts championships, by providing equipment and the use of the Ben Bleecker auditorium for an eight week beginners course in archery.

Open to people of all ages the course currently has an enrolment of about 25 people. While most of the participants are youngsters, a few of the older set are taking up the sport and according to one of them, "It just proves that you're nevar too old to enjoy some things."

The course is mainly concerned with teaching safe handling techniques and the fundamentals of proper shooting. Members of the Belleville archery club — including two - time Canadian champion Carol Armstrong — have donated their services to instruct the students. Floyd Armstrong, John Widdicks and Reg Asselstine are among the club ' members working on the project.

Cliff Belch of the Recreation Committee pointed out the particular stress placed on safe handling. "The students are extremely safety - conscious," says Belch, "If they weren't we'd have no place for them in the course."

Plans are underway to hold further courses if suitable city buildings can be obtained and if the public interest continues.

Mo-Hawks Need Finish

Belleville Mo-Hawks have done a poor job of finishing what they started with Kingston Aces.

After winning their first three meetings with the Aces this season, the Mo-Hawks have now dropped four straight verdicts to their traditional senior hockey enemies, the last an 8-2 humbling right in Belleville.

Going into tonight's game with the Aces in Kingston, the Mo-Hawks have one thing in their favor.

The home - ice hexes perpetrated by the eastern Ontario rivals on one another have gone out the window during this OHA Senior A season.

The Mo-Hawks snapped the three - season - long domination of home teams in November with a 3-1 win in Kingston, and the Aces have won their last two visits to Belleville.

Tonight's game marks the first action in 10 days for the Mo-Hawks, who are at home Friday night to Oakville Oaks.

The Mo-Hawk Booster Club is running a bus to Kingston, leaving the Memorial Arena at 6.30, and with a $2.75 charge covering transporta-

Fat Albert Joins Point Zero-Eights

PICTON — Only the names have been changed to protect the innocent for Friday night's comedy hockey game in Picton's Community Centre.

With already some $700 of their $1,000 objective for Prince Edward County Retarded Children's work raised, the Picton OPP Detachment hockey team is looking to go over the top with gate receipts from Friday's 8.30 game with the infamous CKWS "No - stars".

The "Point Zero-eights', as the Picton OPP's bill themselves, feature the aliased services of such hockey talents as Fat Albert, Tiny Tim, Snidely Whiplash, and Savoir Faire, an import from the Montreal Canadiens chain.

Their broadcasting opponents will include Brian "LP" Olney and Don "Stutters" Miller, with "Mile-a-minute" Max Jackson handling the coaching chores.

Entertainment will also include the antics of some off-the-ice clowns.

Gaines Swapped To Alouettes

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference announced today they had traded defensive halfbacks Gene Gaines and Tery Black to Montreal Alouettes in return for two other Canadian defensive backs.

Riders are to get Rod Woodward and John Kruspe from Als.

The departure of Gaines from the Grey Cup champions has been forecast for some time. It was known that Gaines wanted to take up a coaching position with Montreal.

He played out his option with Riders last season.

Concrete Beats Limestone

Belleville's littlest all-stars continued to perform like hockey giants last night as the Wilson Concrete Tykes racked up a 4-1 road win over their Kingston counterparts.

Chris Valentine led the Belleville tykes with a pair of goals. Steve Mofina and Peter Fredette added the others.

Belvedere Completes About-face

Belvedere Hotel's Quinte Hockey League entry continues to have its ups, while the 1969 Aluminum Star pennant winners had another down last night.

The Hotelmen, last year's basement - dwellers in the four - team league, last night clinched this season's Quinte League pennant by dumping second - place Central Taxi 7-4. The win moved the Hotelmen six points ahead of Central with only one week's action remaining before playoffs.

Meanwhile, Stinson's Construction beat Aluminum Stars 2-1 to ensure that last season's first - place finishers would wind up the 1970 season in last place.

Doug Hallam, one of six Belvedere players in the league's top ten scorers, paced the 1970 league champions to their 7-4 win over Central last night, picking up two goals and two assists.

Larry Stewart added a pair of goals, with singles coming from Larry Marshall, Bill Nolan and Paul Brown. League - leading point - getter Elmer Cain was credited with three assists.

Andy Prudden, Paul Fleming, Larry Soule and Bill Carson replied for the second - place Taximen.

Meanwhile, Stinson's Construction got goals from Rick Denard and Jerry Mann to hand Aluminum Stars their tenth defeat in 14 games.

Ron Urch connected for the lone Stars' tally.

Ruttan Stops Encore

The Gas House League's Mustangs can thank Paul Ruttan that playoff lightning didn't strike twice.

Ruttan's hat trick paced the Mustangs to a 5-4 win Mulroney's. Ruttan's last goal, with less than 14 minutes remaining in the game, broke up a 4-4 tie, and evened the best - of - five semi-final series at one game apiece.

Last week, Mulroney's — last - place finishers in the regular season — upset the second - place Mustangs 3-2 to open the series.

Ruttan also assisted on Jack Garvin's goal to give him four points on the night. Jack O'Neil's goal had opened the game's scoring.

Mulroney's scoring was shared by Kevin Allen, Paul Fleming, Paul Ford, and Terry Casselman.

In the other half of the Gas House playoff double-header, the pennant - winning Merchants looked like a sure bet to sweep their best-of-five series against Marysville.

Last night's 7 - 2 win, together with last week's 9 -2 verdict, gave the Merchants a 2 0 stranglehold on the series.

Ralph Boomhower's two goals led the way for the Merchants last night. The winners also got goals from Jim Woodcock, Wayne McTaggart, Paul Goodfellow, Wayne Woods, and Ted Schwager.

Wayne Trice and Paul Keogh replied for Marysville.

Benn's Beast A Beauty

Dave Benn of Belleville seems to have come up with a regular "beauty and the beast" combination in his '69 Mustang 2 plus 2, named appropriately enough, "Gentle Benn."

The beauty aspect was evident over the weekend at the Speed and Sport Seventy show in Toronto, where Benn's powerplant took first prize in the stock competition.

Purchased last April in Chatham, the Mustang is no stranger in the winners' circle having taken first place in its class in auto shows at Perth and Belleville, in previous contests.

Powered by a 428 Cobra Jet engine, the auto is capable of reaching beastly speeds, and runs just a tenth under the national record in drag racing competition, at such widespread places as Sackville, N.S., St. Eugene, Que. and the Detroit Speedway.

Benn hopes to continue his success at auto shows, when he enters competition at Ottawa next month and plans to return to the drag strips this summer, with the help of some local sponsors.

Ship-shape

Belleville stock car buff Dave Benn's hobby efforts were rewarded again over the weekend when "Gentle Benn" took top honors in its class at the Toronto Auto Show. Aside from being a showpiece on wheels, Benn's pride and joy is also a highly-respected entry at drag-racing meets around Ontario.

FOR SALE

"The Hardest Working Classified Want Ads are the ones that are Written the Best!"

Follow These Helpful Suggestions For Writing A Good Want Ad.

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

2—Be CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. Always include "price".

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions.

You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

One Million Canadian Homes Are Wired for Cable TV

(Reprinted From Communications Business)

Almost one million households in Canada were wired for cable TV up to the end of September, according to a report issued by the CRTC.

The report said that of 4,000,000 urban households, 926,000 subscribed to cable service. This was an increase of 45 per cent from September 1968.

From coast to coast the development of cable TV is uneven. In British Columbia, every second home subscribes; in Newfoundland or in Nova Scotia, not one in two hundred. The average system in the Maritimes or in regional Quebec has only slightly more than 1,000 subscribers. In southwestern Ontario it is over 5,000. The average national system has 2,900 subscribers and grosses $150,000 a year in subscriber fees.

Seven Canadian systems have more than 30,000 subscribers - larger than any system in the U.S. At least 20 systems gross more than half a million dollars a year.

Here is how the report describes the cable situation across the country.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

In British Columbia, every second urban home is on cable. Every second Vancouver home is on cable. In the larger cities, Victoria Powell River, Penticton, Trail, Nelson, six to eight homes out of ten are on cable. The world's largest cable television system, with close to 100,000 subscribers, is in Vancouver. No other state or province in the world would appear to be as densely saturated by cable as British Columbia. Last year, the annual growth was 37 per cent.

Outside the Metro areas of Vancouver and Victoria, there are no large cities in the province, and the average size of the 50 regional systems is only 1,140 subscribers. Since many of these systems must maintain expensive and elaborate mountain-top antennas, some of which can only be reached for service by helicopter, the average regional system provides only a modest revenue. In spite of this, many of the systems are either involved in cable-casting (producing local programs) or are preparing to begin this season.

PRAIRIE PROVINCES

Unlike the rest of Canada, much of the population of the Prairies is located considerably north of the U.S. border. Nor are there any large border cities to beam three or four powerful U.S. network signals deep into the country. Consequently, only five per cent of the urban homes in the three provinces are on cable, and aside from Winnipeg, the growth has been slow.

Winnipeg, which had no cable in 1968, now has two systems with a combined reach of over 13,000 homes. Aside from Winnipeg, the average Prairie system has a thousand subscribers, up only slightly from last year's 950.

Of the six large metropolitan areas of Canada still without cable, four are in the Prairies: Edmonton (120 thousand homes), Calgary (107 thousand homes), Regina (45 thousand homes), and Saskatoon (42 thousand homes). Of the others, Windsor (62 thousand homes) is amply covered with a wide range of local signals from both Windsor and Detroit, and Halifax (50 thousand homes), like its western sisters, is beyond the range of U.S. signals even with the most powerful antenna.

ONTARIO

In absolute numbers, Ontario's 400,000 subscribers lead the country, and probably the continent. However the urban penetration of 24 per cent is less than half of British Columbia's 53 per cent. The province was late in discovering cable but its recent growth has been extremely rapid. Metro Toronto has grown from 17,000 to 85,000 subscribers since June, 1968, and the growth rate for the province in the past twelve months was 64 per cent. Penetration in some larger Metropolitan areas is high: London 80 per cent; Kitchener 50-60 per cent; Peterborough 68 per cent; Port Arthur - Fort William 67 per cent; Cornwall 61 per cent.

In the Southern part of the province ,south of Orillia and Pembroke), the average system has 5,400 subscribers; brings in three or four different U.S. signals; and generates a gross income of around $300,000 per year. Several are already offering services on more than 12 channels, and six out of ten are either in cablecasting, or plan to be by the end of the current year.

In Northern Ontario, the average size of the 32 systems drops to 1,400. Some, but not all, systems receive one or two U.S. channels, one English language Canadian signal, and perhaps a French language CBC signal. Many of the larger Northern systems are either engaged in cablecasting or have announced plans to start this season.

QUEBEC

The Province of Quebec has 128 of the 317 commercial domestic cable systems in Canada. Many of these are in small rural communities, and have been in operation since the fifties. A number of systems offer two to five channels to 80 or 90 per cent of the community — which may number only a few hundred homes. In the Gaspe for instance, only one of the 14 systems has more than 400 subscribers, and the average size is less than 200 subscribers. Even in the Eastern Townships, where a full range of U.S., English and French language signals is generally available, the 50 systems average less than 1,000 subscribers. Again, many of these systems include over 70 per cent of their subscribers, but only thre of them have more than the national average size of 2,900 subscribers.

North of the St. Lawrence River and Montreal, where U.S. signals become harder to obtain, the average system serves nearly 1,300 subscribers, though 42 of the 55 Northern systems offer no U.S. signals at all. Only seven of the 120 regional systems are engaged in cablecasting, and only seven others plan cablecasting this season. Considering that the average regional Quebec system has only a thousand subscribers, has little hope of growth, probaby grosses less than $40,000 annually, and faces extensive modernization expenses, the comparative slowness in entering the cablecasting field is understandable.

Montreal, on the other hand, has two of the country's largest systems, and both have been active in cablecasting for many years. The Montreal systems are growing rapidly —last year's growth rate was 43 per cent, and nearly 120 thousand Montrealers subscribed. In addition to local programming, they receive three U.S. networks, the National Educational Television (NET) programs from the U.S. on weekday evenings, two local French language signals, two local English language signals, the French language station from Sherbrooke, and the private Ottawa station through a satellite transmitter at Lancaster, Ontario.

ATLANTIC PROVINCES

In all of Newfoundland there is only one small system, located on the Atlantic coast. In all of Nova Scotia, there is only one small (but growing) system in Truro. There are no cable systems as yet in Prince Edward Island. There is no cable in Central or Eastern New Brunswick. However, in the St. John River Valley — and below the Gaspe border, there are half a dozen vigorously if relatively small companies providing a choice of signals to nearly 8,000 homes. In the past year, the average Maritime system has grown 20 per cent to nearly 1,100 subscribers.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Gout Can Result From Spring Fever

For years I always had confirmation that Spring was here. In addition to the calendar, many rely on the appearance of busy robins on the lawn. My own indicator was a patient who invariably called me about the middle of April saying, "It's here again. My darn big toe is hot as a furnace and little pitchforks are piling on the coal."

I would come to visit, and I can still see this cherubic, ordinarily happy man with his swollen toe resting on two pillows.

As usual, I would prescribe colchicine to be taken every hour until he had the expected drug symptoms of nausea or diarrhea. Within hours he would be comfortable again.

• • •

Why did his attack usually usher in the Spring? He confessed that the first game of golf was usually played in the cold uncomfortable weather; and followed by a celebration (good food and alcohol) that night to usher in the golfing season. We thought that might be the reason. And it probably was. For it is true, in susceptible persons, exposure to cold combined with lots of food and drink can set off an attack.

His special favorites, in addition to scotch, were liver, kidneys and sweetbreads — all interdicted in the gouty patient.

Others who have a hereditary predisposition to high serum uric acid may be careful of their diet yet get an attack because they have just had an operation: or have taken injections of liver extract or B12. In others, the attack just comes and we don't know why.

But we can do more for gouty arthritis now than I was able to do for my friend who got his usual Spring attack and a few more during the year. Colchicine still remains an important drug in managing gout. But there are others more effective in preventing and controlling future attacks. If you or a family member suffers from gout, here are a few tips that will help:

1. Be sure you have it. In some cases what seems like gout, isn't. Therefore blood tests may have to be substantiated by finding the urate crystals in the fluid drawn from the joint. For it is true in about 5 per cent of healthy men who do not have gout, the uric acid elevation does not produce actual arthritic symptoms.

2. Some say diet isn't important, but it might be wise to try eliminating fats, liver, sweetbreads, etc.

3. If you know you have gout, tell any surgeon who is about to operate on you. Otherwise, it may produce a full-blown attack right after surgery. Treatment with colchicine or other drugs a few days before and after operation will usually prevent such a complication.

4. I have found that susceptible people who try to reduce weight too rapidly often bring on attacks.

5. For long term treatment there are now such drugs as Probenecid and Allopucinol which are taken for months or years. They reduce serum uric acid concentration and prevent complications in bones, kidneys, etc.

6. And remember that gout may attack any joint other than that of the big toe — but usually the smaller joints.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: My doctor tells me I am beginning to get cataracts. I am 63. Will vitamins or diet help clear my vision? — Mrs. I.

Comment: I doubt it. But better ask your eye specialist about any suggestions that will help you cope with this problem.

Spaceflight Enlivens Bacteria

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief physician to America's astronauts reported Monday still-mysterious evidence from the Apollo 12 moon voyage that prolonged spaceflight may intensify the action of certain bacteria that earthlings normally carry on their skin.

Dr. Charles A. Berry said Apollo 12 astronauts Alan L. Bean and Charles (Pete) Conrad, Jr., each had sustained temporary post-flight infections from staphylococcus bacteria they carried with them from the earth, and which apparently increased in virulence during flight.

In an interview he gave this account:

Immediately before Apollo 12 was launched—as with all space missions—the astronauts were thoroughly examined to assess the normal microbial flora—including viruses, bacteria, fungi and other organisms—which everyone carries on his skin, and to which most people are normally immune because of long experience with them.

But during flight to and from the moon in the enclosed space vehicle, the pre-flight concentration of different kinds of organisms became altered, for reasons still unknown.

"Some of the organisms died off," he said, "while 'opportunistic' ones took over . . . especially staphylococcus aureus."

Strictly Personal

Love Is Not Liking

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Most people look upon the Biblical injunction, "Love thy enemies," as either impossibly Utopian or impossibly sentimental. This is because they fail to understand the meaning of agape, or love, as Jesus meant it.

To love your enemies does not mean that you have to like them. It does not mean enemies. Nobody can command us to like what we do not like, for emotions cannot be directed by moral laws.

And enemies remain enemies if their ultimate goals conflict with ours, no matter whether we love them or not. So that "Love thy enemies" does not order us to something either Utopian or sentimental.

What it means, properly understood, is that no matter what we "feel" about another person, or how we oppose his beliefs, there must be an acknowledgment that what binds us together is greater than what divides us.

It is the "personhood" of the other that unites us in something that is above, and greater than, both of us; and our respect for this common ground of being must take precedence over our likes and our beliefs. This is the hardest lesson for any people (and any church) to learn.

We mistakenly imagine that if we could "love" our enemies, then we might become friends or allies; but this is not necessary, nor even possible in many cases. We would still be enemies — but we would treat our enmity as athletes in a contest, not as soldiers in a war.

It may sound odd, but true athletes "love" their enemies. That is, they respect them as other persons striving toward an opposite goal. And they oppose them only within rules that both obey, so that the winner wins on merit, not on fouls.

This is the kind of spirit Jesus was urging upon us, not a sticky sentimentality that tries to blink away human conflict or pretend that people can like each other better than they do. He was saying that it doesn't matter if you like someone or not, it doesn't matter if you agree or not — the only thing that matters is treating the other as fairly and cleanly as athletes do in a championship game.

This is a union that goes beyond sympathy or friendship, for there is no merit in behaving nicely toward the people we like; the only merit is acting decently toward people we don't like or disagree with — for this kind of "love" is an act of the will, not an emotion or an intellectual conviction. What a tragedy that we honor it only in our games, which we take so seriously, but not in our lives, which we play away with such perilous flippancy.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For February 4

Your birthday today: This is a year of effort to hold your own against competition. Your urge to venture into new projects only scatters your energy. Select one or two experiments to add to your regular schedule, and stick with them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): You needn't brag. Let the quality of your work speak for you. Future plans are ripe for discussion with mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your patience with delays and frustration in legal and business matters opens better possibilities for future benefits. Family and community affairs thrive despite daydreaming about far-fetched projects.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Be alert for opportunities in promotional ideas, new contacts, introductions to important people. Exert yourself beyond your regular habits to provide some healthy exercise.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Decisions should wait until Friday, as you need more information and a chance for your intuition to form a fuller picture.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Work routines are a bit heavy—get the hardest part done first. Home life on the contrary is full of noise and distractions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Get started on special activities that benefit your career. Friends are with you in spirit and may be very helpful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Family life holds good surprises. Travel invites the unexpected — allow extra safety margins if you do so. The evening promises interesting social developments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Your efforts yesterday bring some results today, with more coming later. Financial matters continue to deserve closest attention although today is not the optimum time to make further changes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Your money and ready resources are a subject of attention. Friends wish to promote you and your specialty; others seek to learn what you have accumulated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Avoid entering speculations today. Let somebody else carry on for the moment. A sudden question regarding an associate may confront you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Reflect on what your work and living habits are like, consider possible changes, prepare to phase out activities which no longer bring sufficient reward.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): You drift into pressure between people you care about but who differ amongst themselves. Avoid taking sides as long as you can. Choose a quiet evening

Know Your Carrier

Are you acquainted with your Intelligencer Carrier? You should be. Ask his name and telephone number and place it in a convenient safe place. Better still jot it down in the Number Finder in your telephone book.

Your Intelligencer Carrier wishes to give you the very best service possible. It is an important part of his training as an independent young businessman to maintain good customer relations.

Occasionally a carrier misses or overlooks delivery to a regular subscriber. We have found that most service errors are unintentional. Sometimes a carrier is ill and finds it necessary to use a substitute carrier to deliver his route.

Should you miss your Intelligencer any evening call your carrier first. Your carrier will appreciate your thoughtfulness in giving him an opportunity to correct his error and protect his profits. If for any reason you are unable to contact your carrier then call, The Intelligencer, Circulation Dept.

The Movie Murderers

TV Movie Intelligent, Ambitious Show

NEW YORK (AP) — The Movie Murderer, another in NBC's World Premiere series of film features made for television, was an ambitious and intelligent effort to do something distinctive with a suspense story.

The two-hour Monday night program did not come off, mostly because the basic structure was not strong enough to support all the weight on it.

It started as the story of an old, shrewd and crotchety insurance investigator, played by Arthur Kennedy, who believed arson caused a series of fires in various places where motion picture film was stored. The story then turned to the professional arsonist and his adventures.

After that the hunter and hunted took turns dominating the screen. Sometimes they shared it—the film used a lot of split screen effects and other optical tricks.

The film paused to probe into the personal life of the arsonist and a sub-plot involved his romance with a boozy divorcee. The investigator's problems with his front office and his development of a young and apt pupil were also threaded into the story.

If all this was not enough, peripheral characters were introduced for colorful grace notes—an underground film producer, an aging career girl and an assortment of dropouts and beadwearers.

But the film dragged painfully for long periods. Again and again we were shown how the master arsonist sets his fire.

The investigator scratched his head and wondered why anyone would want to destroy reels of entertainment film. The answer, when it came was strictly story-book stuff.

Another film in the World Premiere series, the moving My Sweet Charlie starring Patty Duke and Al Freeman Jr., was broadcast during the week ending Jan. 12, according to the Nielsen rating. NBC claimed it was the highest-rated film feature shown in two years.

During the same week ABC's rerun of the film Hombre on a Sunday night won second place and pushed its competition, Bonanza, down to 18th position. Laugh-In was third.

NBC continued to top CBS in the Nielsen average ratings. The score was NBC, 22.1; CBS, 20.8, and ABC, 17.9.

Picton Fair Will Be Held Later This Year

PICTON — Prince Edward County residents will come to the fair a week later than usual this year.

At a weekend meeting of the Prince Edward County Agricultural Society it was decided to declare September 10 the opening day for the county fair. Officers were also re-elected for 1970 and directors named.

President of the society is Walter Demille and vice presidents, Charles Culmer and Tom May. Secretary-treasurer is Phillip Dodds.

Directors are Walter Demille, Charles Culmer, Tom May, Creighton Carr, Alex Mann, Alex Miller, Harry Gorsline, Tom Heath, Albert Copp, Howard Seeley, Charles Fletcher and Arthur VanMeer. Treasurer Phil Dodds informed the meeting that a total of $7,751 had been paid in prize money last year with total receipts for the year standing at $29,747. Expenditures totalled $25,475. Remarked Mr. Dodds: "With expected grant revenue and payment of outstanding liabilities the society will have a balance of approximately $6,000."

Several members of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society announced plans to attend the district fairs convention to be held at Club Canara in Belleville this week. Six members will attend the provincial convention in Toronto later this month.

Communities Need Facilities for Stars

The big names in show business will never be able to sign in to the Quinte area until suitable facilities are available.

What a city like Belleville must have before it becomes a stand for stars is a centre large enough to make such a stand viable, believes Julian Gallo.

Gallo, now playing the Sun Valley Motor Hotel knows what he's talking about when it comes to both show business and the Belleville area.

Gallo, who got his big break when discovered by Mickey Rooney while singing at the Royal York three years ago, now is building a steady list of show business accomplishments. On the road, much of the time with Rooney, he has appeared in musicals and television. His own record, Don't Look Back, has been marketed by RCA Victor.

His involvement in the Quinte area scene comes by way of marriage. While studying at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto he met his wife — Tamsin Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Reid.

Mr. Reid for years has had a picture gallery at RR 1, Belleville.

His visits to the area are frequent — hence the current Sun Valley show.

It was organized in co-operation with Doug Asselstine—young music teacher and a leading figure in local community musical events.

Gallo says the format for the week is directed to people who "want to enjoy an evening of good entertainment."

Entertainment has been the singer's business since the night he was first spotted by Mickey Rooney.

It's a big business — even outside the big cities — these days. Most of the big show business names now are moving out of the cities, he says.

However, facilities are a prerequisite to their appearances in any community.

What's needed is a community centre holding as many people as possible. Fees are high and the bigger the audience the lower the admission charges.

Toronto Man Tears Eye Out On LSD Trip

TORONTO (CP) — A 21-year-old musician freaked out on a bad LSD trip was found by police Monday trying to claw his eyes from his sockets.

Robert Henry Brought of Toronto was found on a street corner with a finger shoved deeply into each eye socket. He was taken to hospital but doctors could not save one eye and were battling Monday night to save the other.

Police said Brough was on a bad LSD trip and "didn't want to see what he was seeing."

He was discovered shortly after noon, when, police said he had shoved the middle finger of each hand full-length into the corners of his eyes.

Talking Up A Storm

Young people are again talking up a storm as the annual elementary school public speaking contest gets underway for 1970.

Sponsored by the Ontario Public School Trustees' Association and the Ontario Hydro the contest sees participants competing from nearly every school in the county.

Inter school competitions are now being held, and the winners will go on to speak at area contests — one for each of the four school areas in the county.

The county final is scheduled for Feb. 20 at 10:30 a.m. in Stirling Intermediate School. The zone 9 finals are planned for March 7 at Queen Elizabeth School in Belleville.

Tank Truck Rolls Over

TWEED (Special) — A large tank truck, owned by LeSage Fuels of Tweed, was relatively undamaged late yesterday afternoon when it skidded off an icy Hungerford township road and rolled down a 20-foot embankment.

Police said the driver, Gary Hunt, of Tweed, had turned off the Sulphide Road onto the Kanata Beach road when the vehicle skidded off the roadway and rolled down the embankment, landing on its top. Mr. Hunt was uninjured.

Some coming events for February promise to be interesting for all members. The regular Friday evening social for members and guests will be interrupted on Feb. 13th by a gala Valentines Dance with surprising prizes. Give your own Valentine a real treat and bring her to the ball.

Thursday, Feb. 12th the general meeting will be held. A good attendance is expected to see how the new executive is coming along. On Sat. Feb. 7th and 21st the Mr. and Mrs. Dart contestants will be in action striving for a playoff spot for the Harold Dracup Trophy. Men's darts and shuffleboard every Saturday afternoon with a special prize for each afternoon in addition to the regular prizes.

This year Belleville has been chosen as the site for the Canadian Barbell Championships, with the winners going on to international competition. The local Barbell Club, three of whom will be defending their Canadian Championships, are training hard and the entertainment chairman has been lucky enough to get them to put on a weightlifting demonstration for the members in the downstairs lounge on Thursday, Feb. 26 with a members social evening afterwards.

The members' thanks and appreciation are extended Cde. Jim Williamson for enabling them to see the film "Fifty Years With The N.H.L." It brought back a lot of memories, especially the old timers who remember it was an all Canadian League. Some flashes went back as far as 1903.

One of the oldtimers celebrated his 83rd birthday last Saturday and Cde. Bill Heard received congratulations and best wishes from all.

The following members are on the sick list: J. Fisher, no visitors, in Belleville General Hospital are Cdes. J. Samaine, A. Brown and E. Scott, while Cde. Jim McKenna is in the Kingston General Hospital. All have been cared for.

Of interest to ex-artillery members is a couple of re-unions this summer. The 14th Field Regt., R.C.A. hold theirs here in Belleville June 5th, 6th and 7th. Further details from L. A. Boyle, R.R. 4, Belleville. The other is for RCHA Bde. personnel, who served from 1914 to 1945 at Kingston on June 12th and 13th. Registering deadline is March 15th. Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Mercury Down To 22 Below

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Baby, it's cold outside!

A frigid 22 degrees below zero at 7 a.m. in Belleville was the coldest recorded so far this winter.

But in Bancroft, the mercury dipped to 32 below zero --- the coldest temperature recorded in the district overnight.

Picton reported an over-night low to 20 below zero; at Plevna it was minus 22, at Tweed minus 27 and at Palmer Rapids minus 27.

Trenton basked in the banana belt — CFB's duty forecaster reported the temperature dropped to only 16.8 below zero at 7 a.m.

The record low for February occurred in 1934, when the thermometer registered minus 31 on Feb. 6.

But minor relief is on the way. The long range forecast calls for slightly milder weather Thursday. The cold will close in again Friday, to give the district a cold weekend, turning milder Monday.

An old-fashioned winter is thus in store for Belleville's winter carnival this weekend, but snow fall is expected to be light with only one - quarter inch expected over the next five days.

Frost penetrating the ground beneath road surfaces to a depth of four feet has caused a few broken water service lines between houses and the curbs.

Fred Clarke, outside superintendent for the Belleville PUC, said only three such leaks were reported this morning and "we have had more earlier in the season".

The new decade started with a prolonged period of subzero temperatures — a record since readings were started in Tweed in 1948 — 22 days of night-time below zero temperatures in January.

High expected for today is 10 degrees above zero, with the duty forecaster predicting a low tonight of zero degrees "or below."

War's Foes Answered By Agnew

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Senate hearings on Vietnam have opened with blasts from four war critics and reply by Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew that they were "casting about aimlessly" for a political issue. Senator J. W. Fullbright (Dem. Ark.) said he hopes the hearings that began Tuesday before his Senate foreign relations committee will lead to a consensus on a resolution concerning Vietnam policy.

Senator Hugh Scott, the Republican leader in the Senate, scheduled an appearance before the committee today on behalf of his proposed resolution supporting Nixon. The resolution, also backed by Democratic Senate leader Mike Mansfield, includes a call for steps toward a mutual ceasefire.

Air Canada Subdues Tiger Cub

LONDON (CP) — A 70-pound tiger broke free from its cage in an Air Canada freight plane today and roamed around inside the aircraft until recaptured with the aid of a tranquilizer.

The miniature hunt went on for about four hours after ground workers at London airport opened a door in the aircraft and found the young tiger on the loose.

They slammed the door shut again and sent out a call for the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The plane, which carried no passengers, was taking six tigers from a pickup point in Frankfurt to a final destination in Edmonton.

OMB Hearing Told of Plans

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Continued industrial expansion for Belleville and the Bay of Quinte district was forecast yesterday by city industrial commissioner Ray Brown as he appeared before the Ontario Municipal Board rehearing on the city's northend plaza issue. Testifying in support of the city's application for rezoning permitting construction of the proposed plaza, Mr. Brown said there were live prospects for four new industries settling in the Belleville area during the next year.

One of the industries was expected to locate in Belleville and the other in adjoining municipalities with services being provided by the city.

If they materialize Mr. Brown said the new industries would provide employment for an estimated 820 workers, and would involve a $10-million investment.

This morning the hearing was told Simpsons-Sears would be the major tenant in the $3 million shopping plaza.

The announcement was made by R. B. Robinson, counsel for Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd. during examination of Ray Brown.

Mr. Robinson said that the proposed plaza would be of the enclosed mall-type construction.

Mr. Robinson termed the success of the Belleville Industrial Commissioner in attracting new industry "a remarkable achievement".

Under cross-examination by opposition counsel, B. S. Onyschuk, Mr. Brown said four new industries in Belleville had received financial assistance under the province's equalization of industrial opportunity program.

Mr. Brown said Belleville was still designated under the program and this designation would continue until June 30 of this year.

Under questioning, as to whether the Belleville industrial boom would continue, Mr. Brown said he expected that activity in all probability would or might be curtailed because of the current tight money supply.

In other testimony heard at yesterday's hearing a Belleville resident, Donat Clement, chairman of the Belleville Citizens of Belleville Committee, was critical of the Ontario Municipal Board for its 1969 decision denying the 185,000-square-foot plaza proposed by Cambridge Leaseholds.

Mr. Clement recalled his efforts organizing a petition of more than 11,000 names protesting the decision of the board and demanding a new hearing.

"I was dismayed that the decision of elected representatives (in approval of the plaza) could be over-ruled by two individuals coming to the city," he said.

"How could they overrule our elected representatives"? he asked.

Through rules of evidence Mr. Clement was not allowed to state the procedure involved in organizing the petition.

But OMB inquiry chairman R. M. McGuire admitted it was the 11,000-name petition which caused a ministerial order for the rehearing.

"We are here as a result of the petition," he said.

Mr. Clement said the proposed North Front Street shopping plaza "would be a great attraction" for Belleville.

"It would be close to Highway 401 and would attract many tourists as well as area residents from the surrounding communities," he said.

The Citizens of Belleville Committee chairman testified that present shopping in Belleville could be greatly improved. He said his wife frequently had to go to Toronto or Montreal to obtain clothes she could not purchase in Belleville.

Israel Says Danger Of War Now Less

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli military sources claim there is less likelihood of a major Middle East war developing now than last summer when air and land battles broke out along the Suez Canal.

These sources regard the Soviet Union's warning to the United States and other Western powers as a ploy designed to buck up Arab morale.

Though concerned about any additional Russian aid to Egypt, the Israeli sources discount the idea that it would impel the Arabs into any major thrust. They also discount the possibility of any direct Soviet intervention in the war.

Despite the re-equipping of the Egyptian army and air force and the guidance of about 3,000 Soviet advisers, the Israelis said, the battles of the last seven months have demonstrated the Egyptians are not ready to undertake any big offensive.

The military sources said the Russians have given Egypt about $2,000,000,000 in arms and equipment since the forces of President Gamel Abdel Nasser lost much of their Soviet-provided gear in the six-day war of 1967.

Although they said the Soviet equipment is first-rate, they said the Russians haven't yet been able to get the Egyptians to use their weapons and materiel effectively.

Judge Won't Buy Story Man Drank Awaiting Test

GALT (CP) — A London, Ont., man was found guilty Tuesday of impaired driving after Provincial Judge J. R. Kirkpatrick called his evidence "a preposterous fabrication I'm sure even a 100-man jury would also find false."

Neil McIntyre had testified that while waiting in the Galt police station to take a breath test he drank nearly 12 ounces of vodka because he was afraid.

The accused said he had only one drink of vodka before being stopped by police. He said he had the bottle in his coat pocket en route to the police station in the cruiser and transferred it to his sock.

Judge Kirpatrick fined McIntyre $200 and suspended his driving licence for six months.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The record-breaking Arctic outbreak gave the coldest night of the winter so far, considering the province as a whole, with all reporting stations showing sub zero readings early today. Temperatures in northern Ontario averaged 35-to-40 below with 20-to-25 below in central Ontario and 5-to-10 below around the lower lakes. This very cold air will moderate tonight and Thursday as a weather system now in the Dakotas crosses the Great Lakes. Some snow will accompany the arrival of this milder air but amounts are expected to be quite light.

Future Taxes Studied

Ground Prepared for Leaders' Parley

QUEBEC (CP) — A federal-provincial conference of finance ministers concluded Tuesday with problems like inflation and tax sharing sketched out for discussion by government leaders later this month.

At the end of the two-day closed conference, Finance Minister Edgar Benson reported to a news conference that he and his provincial colleagues:

—Agreed on the drafting of a report on the likely future of federal and provincial tax revenues and expenditures, prepared for a premiers conference at Ottawa Feb. 16-17.

—Discussed tax reform "in general terms" and will continue discussion of Ottawa's proposed changes to the Income Tax Act at another meeting of finance ministers in late May or early June.

—"Discussed in a very brief manner the inflationary problem," to be debated in detail at the federal-provincial conference called by Prime Minister Trudeau in mid-February.

Mr. Benson would not disclose contents of the conference report, saying it is essential to keep taxing and spending plans secret until they are announced in budgets.

He said, however, that "ther was no great conflict." Neither was there unanimity, he indicated. "Everyone's point of view is contained in the report."

Mr. Benson said the provinces are to submit briefs on their reactions to his government's white paper tax proposals within three or four months.

Mr. Benson said there was preliminary discussion of the federal government's efforts to curb inflation with a policy involving tight money, restrained spending and budgeting for a federal surplus.

He said:

"Some of the Maritime ministers indicated that they weren't a cause of inflation and of course general restraints tend to affect them as well as the more affluent provinces."

The federal government was nailed by three provinces during the meeting, including the conference hosts, Quebec's Union Nationale government.

Quebec's finance minister, Mario Beaulieu, asked Ottawa to rebate $200,000,000 of federal collections in Quebec under the social development tax and to let Quebec levy its own tax for the same amount.

Mr. Benson said the Quebec proposal amounted to an old provincial argument that the federal government should lower its taxes so that the provinces could raise theirs.

The federal position on the Quebec proposal would be indicated "budgetary-wise" when the federal budget is presented to the Commons in early March.

Nova Scotia expressed fear that proposed corporation tax changes could harm investment in the Atlantic region. Mr. Benson said he didn't think this would happen.

Battle of Computers

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Tuesday that the federal government will recheck the revenues estimated under new income tax proposals if it is found that Ontario's computers have been better informed on the matter.

The Ontario government has said that its estimate of projected revenues under the proposed tax reform are higher than those arrived at in Ottawa.

Plaza Hearing Told of Growth of District

Asked by opposition counsel B. S. Onyschuk if he favored downtown development Mr. Clement replied "yes."

"But not at the taxpayers' expense," he said. "If downtown merchants want to redevelop they can go right ahead."

Industrial Commissioner Brown reviewed the city's land acquisition program which, he suggested, had been greatly responsible for industrial growth enjoyed by the city in the past two years.

Land sales to new industry since 1967 had totalled 104 acres.

The city's current inventory of industrial land was given as 172.4 acres of which 65 acres were serviced.

Industry would not locate on unserviced land, said Mr. Brown.

The advantages of city-owned industrial land was that the municipality could control the area it wanted for industrial development.

Mr. Brown said that since 1967 new industry had provided 900 jobs in Belleville.

But the economic growth had not been confined to Belleville alone nor strictly to manufacturing enterprises.

In 1968, industrial, institutional and commercial development in the Quinte area had provided 473 jobs, while in 1969 the estimated number of jobs provided by the same types of growth totalled more than 1,000.

Mr. Brown said this figure did not include Piasecki Aircraft at Picton where an estimated 500 jobs would be provided when the company was in full production.

Firms locating in Belleville last year included Oxo, Brooke Bond, Chromalloy of Canada, Wilson Sports Goods, and Four Seasons Hotels which would provide training school facilities for Bell Telephone. Also locating in Belleville last year was the regional Unemployment Insurance Commission which moved from Toronto.

Area development last year included a $600,000 Gulf Oil service station and restaurant in Thurlow and the first permanent structure at Loyalist College, costing $1,500,000.

In nearby Wellington in Prince Edward County, Campbell Soups started construction on a large mushroom production facility. Completion is scheduled for June.

Also heard at yesterday's session were the registrars of Hastings and Prince Edward counties. John Graydon of Picton and William Hurst of Belleville, testified on the number of land conveyances registered in the past three years.

The number of conveyances in Prince Edward jumped from 712 in 1967 to 1,000 in 1969 with registered property value showing an even greater percentage increase.

RAY BROWN
Industrial Commissioner

In Hastings County, Mr. Hurst said 3,114 were registered in 1967 with property values given as $21,490,000. In 1969, there were 6,000 deeds registered with values given at $37,211,000.

City planning director Bert Kenny was on the stand much of Tuesday's session.

He reiterated his statement made Monday that — after reading both the Urban Renewal study report of Procter and Redfern and also the economic study done by W. W. Urban Consultants — he had the impression there was an immediate potential for additional shopping space in the city.

He admitted, however, that he hadn't completely understood all the "jargon" used in the reports.

Mr. Kenny didn't agree with the suggestion of opposing counsel Mr. Onyschuk that the plaza proposed by Cambridge Leaseholds, or part of it, would be better placed in the downtown area.

Such a development in the downtown area would have to be considered on the basis of an urban renewal scheme, he said.

As it was there was no urban renewal plan in sight nor was there any definitive policy by the federal government on urban renewal assistance.

He doubted if private enterprise could do much in the way of downtown redevelopment without federal financial participation.

Mr. Kenny said private enterprise had, in the past few years, shown but little interest in redevelopment — even for burned-out areas.

Because of availability of land in the outlying areas, Mr. Kenny said it was only natural that a plaza would be built where demolition was unnecessary and where there was a large area for parking.

In the Beginning . . .

One morning in March 1969 Bellevillian Donat Clement set up a table (above) in downtown Belleville to seek support for a petition against an Ontario Municipal Board decision ruling out a northend plaza. Yesterday, about 10 months after this photograph was taken, Mr. Donat testified before the current rehearing on the issue — and heard OMB official R. M. McGuire note the new inquiry was brought on by the petition and its 11,000 signatures.

Plaza Issue: Citizens Can Testify Thursday

Thursday will be private citizens day at the Ontario Municipal Board rehearing into the controversial northend plaza question.

This was indicated by hearing chairman R. M. McGuire yesterday following a question from city solicitor E. Guss Porter when citizens were likely to be heard.

Mr. Porter noted there were several citizens in the audience waiting to testify.

After Mr. Porter indicated that presentation of his case would possibly continue into Wednesday, Mr. McGuire ruled that Thursday morning would be set aside to hear citizens.

All citizens — both for and against the plaza — would be heard Thursday, Mr. McGuire said.

Obituaries

WILLIAM JOSEPH NASH

In failing health for some time, William Joseph "Paddy" Nash, 26 Turnbull St., Belleville, died in the Belleville General Hospital early this Wednesday morning in his 77th year.

Mr. Nash was born in County Clare, Ireland, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Nash and had resided in Belleville for the past 48 years. For many years he was messenger for the Bank of Montreal and was well known and highly respected by the bank's clientele in the downtown district. He had been retired for the past 10 years.

He was a member of St. Michael's church.

Surviving are his wife, the former Bridget Mary Bulger, four daughters, Mrs. Gabe (Jessie) Wheeler and Mrs. Sylvester (Jean) Joyce of Cornwall, Miss Marie and Miss Sheila Nash at home and two sons, William and Patrick Nash, both of Belleville. Also surviving are five grandchildren.

Mr. Nash is resting at the George O'Brien Funeral Residence. Requiem Mass will be celebrated in St. Michael's church on Saturday, Feb. 7 at 10.00 a.m. with interment in St. James cemetery.

JOSEPH EDWARD SAMAIN

Following a short illness, Joseph Edward Samain, 63 Prince of Wales Drive, Belleville, died in Belleville General Hospital early today in his 79th year.

Mr. Samain was born in England, a son of Henry Samain, now 103 years old, and the late Mrs. Mary Samain and had resided in Belleville for the past 50 years. He served with distinction with the Imperial Army in World War One and was instrumental in establishing the ANAF Unit No. 201 in this city of which he was an active and enthusiastic member. He served as governor of the Hastings County jail for some years but had been living retired.

Mr. Samain was an ardent supporter of sport in all its facets and he thoroughly enjoyed harness racing at the fairgrounds, where he met many of his friends each Saturday night. He was widely known and highly respected.

Mr. Samain was a member of St. Thomas' Anglican Church.

Surviving are his father in England, three daughters, Mrs. Gerald (Doris) Ethier, Belleville, Mrs. Norman (Gladys) Pomeroy, North Bay, Miss Gertrude Samain at home and two sons, Joseph Samain of Belleville, Norman of Winnipeg.

Also surviving are 10 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. His wife, the former Marie Anne Sutton, died some years ago.

Mr. Samain is resting at the Grant Funeral Home. Service will be conducted in the chapel on Friday, Feb. 6 at 2.30 p.m.

Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery with Rev. Peter Tett officiating.

MRS. ARMOUR BENNETT SUDBURY—BELLEVILLE

Following a short illness Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, formerly of 34 Boswell Street, and recently residing in Sudbury, died in the Sudbury General Hospital on Monday in her 79th year.

Mrs. Bennett was born at Mountain View, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Royal Jones, and, with the exception of the past ten years spent with her son at Sudbury, she lived her entire life in this community.

Surviving is one son, Clifford Bennett, Sudbury, and one nephew, Donald Jones, Ameliasburg. Her husband, Armour Bennett, a barber in this city for many years, and a brother, Everett Jones are predeceased. Mr. Bennett died in 1952.

Mrs. Bennett is resting at the Thompson Funeral Chapel. Service will be conducted in the chapel on Friday, Feb. 6 at two o'clock.

Entombment will be in Belleville cemetery vault with interment later in Mountain View cemetery. Rev. Robert Crooks will officiate.

MRS. CLAUDE B. BRETHEN

TRENTON — The funeral of Mrs. Hazel Brethen, 34 South Street, Trenton, who died at her home, 34 South Street, Trenton, on Thursday, Jan. 29 in her 70th year was held from the Weaver Funeral Home on Saturday afternoon. She had been in failing health for two weeks.

Rev. J. A. Payton conducted the service in the chapel and also said the graveside prayers at Carrying Place cemetery.

The bearers were John and Don Wilman, Val and Doug Carswell, Laverne Abrams and Charles Ede.

Mrs. Brethen was born at Switzerville, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Parrott and had resided in Trenton for the past 13 years. She formerly resided in Richmond Hill and Woodville.

She was a member of Grace United church.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Tom (Betty) Rogers, Belleville, one son, Robert "Bud" Brethen, Trenton and two grandchildren. Her husband, Rev. Claude B. Brethen predeceased.

$38-million Contract For Local Hydro Plant

Award of a contract worth $38 million for four oil-fired boilers for the Lennox generating station was announced today by Ontario Hydro.

Price of the contract with Combustion Engineering-Superheater Limited of Montreal includes auxiliary equipment, delivery and erection of the units. Lennox station, south east of Napanee, represents Hydro's first use of oil as a heat source to produce steam in the making of electricity.

The $378 million Lennox station, due to produce first power late in 1974, will have an installed capacity of 2,295,000 kilowatts which is equal to Ontario's total peak demand in 1967.

Each of the boilers will burn 780 barrels of oil per hour at full operation. They will be approximately 150 feet tall, 70 feet wide and 32 feet deep.

Ontario Hydro had previously announced award of a $55 million contract for the station's four turbine-generators to Canadian General Electric Company.

IN MEMORIAM

KEEGAN — Mr. William W., who passed away one year ago today, February 3rd, 1969.
—Ever remembered by his wife, sons, daughters and grandchildren.

FROST — In loving memory of Harold James Frost, who passed away February 5, 1969.
What we would give if we could say,
Hello Dad, in the same old way.
To hear your voice and see you smile,
To sit with you and chat awhile.
So you who have a father,
Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Till you see his vacant chair.
—Sadly missed by "The immediate family."

DAVIDSON — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Julia, who passed away Feb. 4, 1962.
So many things have happened, Mom,
Since you were called away,
So many things to share with you
Had you been left to stay.
We cannot bring the old days back,
Your hand we cannot touch,
But we still have the memories,
Of a mother we loved so much.
You have not left the ones you loved,
Nor have you travelled far,
Just entered God's lovely room,
And left the door ajar.
—Always lovingly remembered by the family and grandchildren.

SWEET — In loving memory of my dear husband Erastus Sweet, who passed away Feb. 4, 1962.
Since you've gone first and I remain,
One thing I'd have you do,
Walk slowly down the path of death,
For soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
That I may walk the same,
For some day down that lonely road,
You'll hear me call your name.
—Never forgotten by his loving wife Ina Sweet.

Big Jets to Replace Long-service Yukons

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — A familiar sky sight may soon disappear from the Quinte district, replaced by the sleek shapes of the jet age.

The defence department yesterday announced purchase of four Boeing 707 long-range jets at a cost of $55,900,000 to replace the turbo-prop Yukons in service since 1961.

CFB Trenton — home of Transport Command and 437 Squadron — will definitely be involved in the streamlining, a spokesman at the big service base confirmed today.

However, full effects of the change have not yet been detailed.

The 707s are to be delivered next month and the Yukons will be taken out of service by March 1971, the joint announcement from the defence and supply and services departments said yesterday.

Undoubtedly there will be an effect on 437 Squadron, located at Trenton as a result of the phasing out of the Yukon aircraft," said the CFB Trenton spokesman today. "The extended effect will not be known until further decisions are announced."

Defence Minister Leo Cadieux announced last September that the Yukon fleet would be reduced from 12 to four and that studies were being made on the requirement for the long range jet transport to replace the four Yukons.

Delivery of the 707s is expected before the end of March and public announcement of the development of the four planes will be made as planning progresses, the spokesman concluded.

The Boeings, which will be used for passenger service, cargo or a combination of both services, have a greater load-carrying capacity, a higher speed and greater reliability than the turbo-prop Yukons, Mr. Cadieux said yesterday.

They can accommodate 188 passengers plus 14,100 pounds of freight, or 81,000 pounds without passengers. The Yukon carries 134 passengers or 54,000 pounds of freight. Cruising speed of the Boeing is approximately 600 miles per hour compared with 370 miles per hour for the Yukon.

Officially designated Boeing 707-320C, the four planes also have in-flight refuelling capabilities for the deployment of short-range aircraft.

They are expected to operate at a "25 per cent greater utilization rate" than the Yukon. This means that they could spend 25 per cent more time in the air in any given period of time.

In addition, the Boeings could be converted at short notice for VIP use. Of the more than 500 in service around the world, one is used for personal transport by the President of the United States.

Government officials said the 707s will also be cheaper to run. The Yukon fleet has cost about $16,000,000 annually to operate while the annual operational cost of the 707s is estimated at under $10,000,000.

Federal ministers have said that the purchase price would be met within budgetary limits set by the cabinet. The defence department has been frozen for three years at its 1969-70 level of 1.8 billion dollars. The first installment will be paid out of the 1969-70 appropriation.

Yesterday, a government spokesman said that the Boeing 707 was chosen over the McDonnell Douglas DC8 because "Boeing made the lowest offer for the provision of four aircraft within the requisite time period."

The 55.9 - million dollar cost of the four aircraft includes spare parts, ground support equipment, ground maintenance support, spare engines (Pratt and Whitney JT 3 D-7S), and detraining of air transport crews in Seattle where the Boeings are being assembled.

Sir Sandford Fleming College Joins Faculty Strike Threat

Sir Sandford Fleming community college in Peterborough, once a twin campus operating under the same board of governors as Loyalist College, has decided to go along with a one-day strike threatened for next Monday by the Ontario Federation of Community College Faculty Associations.

Other colleges agreeing to the strike are Centennial and Seneca in Toronto, Conestoga in Kitchener, Mohawk in Hamilton, Algonquin in Ottawa, Lambton in Sarnia and Niagara in Welland.

Although the original area designated as Area three in 1965 by an amendment to the Department of Education Act was to contain only one community college, this was not found to be feasible. Area three encompassed the Counties of Lennox, Addington, Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland, Peterborough, Haliburton and Victoria.

In order to conform to legal requirements of the Act, the normal Board of Governors numbering 12 was split into two six-man boards headed by a vice-chairman. These boards governed the affairs of Loyalist and Sir Sandford Fleming colleges independent of each other. They met periodically with a joint chairman to ratify any matters such as finances required under the act.

The board of governors of each college was increased to 12 in 1967 when an order-in-council created two separate crown corporations of both colleges. The presidents of Loyalist and Sir Sandford Fleming serve as the thirteenth member of their boards.

The Loyalist Instructional Staff Association does not agree with the policies of the OFCCFA. They are aligned with the Civil Service Association of Ontario, a spokesman said earlier.

Sir Sandford Fleming goes along with the federation which claims representation along with the federation of 20 community colleges and has voted to go on strike unless the provincial government outlines definite plans to allow them bargaining rights and participation in college legislation.

The federation, which claims a membership of 1,690, has also told the government it will hold a series of teach-ins starting Feb. 9 unless it gets assurance that its demands will be met.

Volunteer Fire Brigade Talked in Sophiasburg

PICTON — Sophiasburg reeve George Foster said yesterday that township residents are endeavouring to form a volunteer fire brigade. A meeting in Demorestville Hall this week saw about 20 men turn out to discuss plans for its formation. Later this month a second meeting will be held according to Mr. Foster. Sophiasburg recently withdrew from negotiations with the Picton fire department for fire protection services. Also taking part in the talks were the townships of South Marysburg, North Marysburg and Athol. A 17-point fire protection plan between Picton fire dept. and the townships was discussed on several occasions before being rejected by Sophiasburg. With Sophiasburg's withdrawal the program became a financial impossibility for the other three townships. South Marysburg residents later attended an open meeting to discuss community fire protection and township reeve Allan Ralley has indicated that a further meeting will take place between South Marysburg, North Marysburg and Athol.

George Hees Guest Speaker

TRENTON — George Hees, MP Hastings-Prince Edward, will be guest speaker tonight at the annual dinner meeting of the Victorian Order of Nurses and the Trenton Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society.

The program, at Trenton Legion Hall on Quinte Street, gets under way at 7 p.m.

Hockey Or Skating?

PICTON — Hockey seems to be the only game in town this winter according to complaints from parents concerning the use of four outdoor rinks flooded by the recreation and parks committee.

Recreation director Wayne Ring commented that 99 per cent of the time the rinks are used for hockey largely eliminating public skating. Although he is aware of the problem Mr. Ring has so far been unable to discover a satisfactory solution.

"All the telephone calls from parents ask what we can do. I, of course, say it is up to them and they, of course, say it is up to the recreation and parks committee."

The most popular rinks this year are those at Benson and Rotary Parks. Queen Elizabeth and Delhi rinks are not well attended this winter. Attempting to solve the problem of skating versus hockey Mr. Ring mentioned it in a report to town council.

"If we do something to eliminate this problem, what do you suggest?" he asked.

Plant Burns

Early - morning fire today destroyed a rug-cleaning plant at Bayside.

An OPP constable noticed the blaze in Dixon's Rug Cleaning Plant about 1:30 a.m. but by the time firemen arrived, the blaze was out of control.

The nine-year-old frame structure was a total loss and the estimated damage including a rug cleaning machine, was approximately $6,000.

Pioneers from Overseas

John Diefenbaker when he was prime minister and the Conservatives were in power talked of a "Northern Vision."

The vision was of a developing northland, opening up the Arctic in the process and making the vast region habitable in the way that the Soviet Union has done in Siberia.

Unfortunately the vision has receded, never really amounted to anything in the first place because no practical steps were taken to make it a reality. And the irony of it is that a substantial number of those who do go north today are not latter-day Canadian pioneers but those adventure-seeking world travellers, the Australians and New Zealanders. Others come from Britain. These are the ones who are roughing it up north, and at the same time bringing education and medical aid to the Indian population.

The New Zealanders, incidentally, leave behind a country where their own native population, the Maoris, long since have enjoyed equal rights with the white population.

A feature on this page today, reprinted from The Globe and Mail, along with one published in yesterday's issue tells something of the work of these young immigrants.

Canadians, as was pointed out in another feature on the same theme some time ago, prefer the comforts and opportunities of urban life. And of course the two environments — the north and here in southern Ontario — are literally worlds apart.

A report compiled recently by five students of Glendon College in Toronto throws some light on this situation. It says the most prevalent concepts about Canadian Indians among students interviewed in 22 Metro Toronto high schools are "the stereotypes of the depressed drunk and the TV savage," and that their thinking on the subject was colored by these images. Generally, the students sympathized with the Indians, but their attitude was more often one of pity.

It is a sad situation. To combat it, the student report urges a program of education — films, courses and so on — and we would agree. At the same time the students might do a little more investigating of their own, take an interest in the Indian population, not to mention the Eskimos; for until the people of these two races are afforded the same opportunities as the white population, so long will they remain a virtually forgotten group in the land in which they have lived since long before the coming of the European.

Women Excluded

Thirty-four young women seeking the Miss Canadian University title at Waterloo Lutheran University recently showed that beauty and brains can go together, expressing their views on a variety of subjects from abortion and pollution to U.S. influence on the Canadian economy and the role of the monarchy.

They are among the growing number of young women graduating from Canadian universities. Their knowledge of the world moreover, and mastery of their own special spheres of study, place them in an increasingly competitive position in society.

With this in mind it comes as a surprise to find the National Press Club, an all-male body, voting to continue barring women journalists from membership.

This extends even to barring from honorary membership the only woman member of the House of Commons, Mrs. Grace MacInnis (NDP—Vancouver-Kingsway). All other members — to a man — have been granted this privilege.

NDP house leader Stanley Knowles brought up the matter in the House, asking Justice Minister Turner to look into "this apparent violation of the Canadian Bill of Rights."

As members of the profession, we think our colleagues who are members of the Press Club would be doing themselves a favor, as well as keeping to the spirit and letter of the Bill of Rights if they permitted women to join. There are any number of women in the profession, including The Canadian Press news agency, and more are taking journalism at university. In these circumstances it is unrealistic to maintain a discriminatory attitude toward fellow members of the profession.

She Got Her Man

Who says women should not have equality with men? If a woman, her car sent into a tailspin when hit by a following auto, can regain control, catch up with the offending vehicle at an intersection and hold the driver for police investigation, there is little excuse for holding onto the old illusion about the weaker sex. That is what happened in Brockville recently. It was 9 o'clock in the evening, moreover, and it was Mrs. Elva Jean Wigle who got her man after giving chase. Her car, incidentally, was damaged to the extent of some $700.

WEAGAMOW LAKE — When the public health nurse goes on house calls in this isolated Indian settlement, she arrives on a snowmobile and is wearing Indian-made mukluks and a snowmobile suit.

Jan McMillen, a 24-year-old Australian with long black hair, is one of a growing number of nurses who are bringing the white man's medicine into the isolated settlements of Canada's remote north.

To understand what it means to places such as this settlement of 400 persons, 200 miles north by aircraft from the nearest hospital at Sioux Lookout, the visitor has to walk down to the cemetery.

About two-thirds of the graves are those of children. Most of the deaths were due to such illnesses as pneumonia and gastroenteritis.

Records are kept for only a few years but there have not been any child deaths for two years now in Weagamow, and only one death in the year before that.

It began in Weagamow with the establishment of a medical dispensary about six years ago. When Jack McMillen, 28, arrived 1½ years ago as principal of the Indian Affairs department school, Mrs. McMillen who was also teaching, was hired on a part time basis to operate a medical dispensary for the settlement.

Last fall she was hired full-time by the Department of National Health and Welfare as a public health nurse to operate out of a new medical station just being completed — second largest building next to the school.

The new station will serve three other settlements, the nearest 70 miles away. A special radio network is planned to link the nursing station with the satellite settlements and with the base hospitals in such places as Sioux Lookout.

But the introduction of medical facilities has not completely destroyed the old ways. The shaman or medicine man is often still a force in the community, but an unseen one to non-Indians who can only guess who he is. The Indians refuse to to talk about it to outsiders or reveal the shaman's name — even to those who have gained their confidence on other matters.

Yvonne Knipe, a 32-year-old New Zealand-born nurse who was stationed in Sandy Lake for two years, said she usually invited the mothers to bring their midwife to the clinic checkups.

"Sometimes, if you ignore the midwife, she may try to talk and threaten the woman into not going to the clinic — sort of professional jealousy, you might say."

Mrs. McMillen doesn't do this, but she acknowledges the importance of gaining the trust of the community. An essential rule is to steer a middle course between religious or family factions in the settlement.

For Jan McMillen it's a life of being on call. Days off are when you can take them. Particularly in winter, flu and sickness often run through the settlement like an epidemic.

"Actually the people here are quite considerate. Often they don't call me if someone is sick in the middle of the night. They wait until morning," Mrs. McMillen said.

The only contact with the outside world is a radio telephone and aircraft. When atmospheric conditions wipe out radio contact and weather conditions ground planes, the unspoken fear that hangs over the settlement is serious injury or illness.

"Once we had a baby sick with gastroenteritis — really sick. For three days I couldn't raise anyone on the radio. I kept the baby in our house here because the nursing station wasn't finished yet. The baby got better before I could get it out on a plane to hospital," she said.

Because there is no public accommodation in Weagamow, the McMillens, who share their government-owned house with a 140-pound part-Siberian huskey, are host to government officials and visitors who stop in while travelling through the north.

Mrs. McMillen may find herself cooking breakfast for visitors before she sets out on her official day off to check several sick children.

Frequent travellers in the north say that the majority of nurses there are non-Canadians.

Martin Greenwood, an associate professor of anthropology at Lakehead University, said that the majority of those working with the Indians in isolated settlements, particularly nurses, are Australians or New Zealanders.

"Here we are supposed to be a pioneering people — but it's all a myth, that's what it is — baloney," he said.

Speeding power boats make a study in contrasts with two ocean-going freighters on the St. Lawrence at Brockville. Here the channel between the Canadian shore (at left) and New York narrows and watchers have an excellent view of passing traffic. The Canadian Pacific vessel Moose Jaw is seen heading up channel as the Head Line's Torr Head heads home to Belfast. The Irish company's vessels feature the Red Hand of Ulster on their funnels. Pet Owners Negligent

Rabies Poses Serious Threat

Napanee Beaver

Lennox and Addington County, particularly the Napanee area, is plagued with more rabies cases in the course of a year than perhaps any other part of Ontario. Many counties never have a rabies case, but Napanee has several each year and there seems little hope that the situation will improve in the near future.

Rabies is fatal, passed on from a rabid animal by the saliva of the animal getting into a cut or open sore on the body of the victim. Thus, a rabid dog could, by biting a child, kill the youngster. There is no known cure, nor even a sure diagnosis. Only a post mortem can determine for sure if a creature was rabid. But vaccine can prevent it.

The real responsibility for curbing rabies and the danger of death to animals and children particularly, lies with the owners of pets. Rules can be passed by municipal councils that dogs must not run at large, and are, but they are hard to enforce and seldom are. Pet owners won't keep their dogs tied up and in many cases won't even get them vaccinated. At the last rabies clinic held at Napanee there weren't half of the dog owners in the district who brought in their pets for the shots which could prevent this dread disease.

One rabid dog recently roamed the streets of Napanee for two days before being brought in to a veterinarian for treatment. How much did this animal spread of the disease? How many other pets, or humans, did it infect?

The facts indicate that there is more carelessness in this matter in the Napanee area than perhaps anywhere else in Ontario — how else can we explain the higher incidence of rabies here than elsewhere?

Gold was discovered in the Fraser River area of British Columbia 112 years ago today—in 1858. Tens of thousands of men headed for the west coast. Hundreds of ships jammed with gold-seekers worked their way across the Gulf of Georgia to the Fraser, then made the dangerous trip up the swift, running river. Hundreds died without ever seeing a speck of gold dust but others made it and panned fortunes from the sandbars at such places as Hope, Boston Bar and Barkerville. When the gold fever died, thousands of prospectors stayed to found businesses and industries.

Worn-out Vehicles Eyesore

Port Arthur News-Chronicle

Ontario is considering legislation which would prohibit car owners from abandoning their worn-out vehicles on any old country lot or sideroad, and this move will be applauded by the great majority of people who believe that the landscape is not for cluttering. There are too many of those partly-stripped, rotting, rusting pieces of mechanical garbage dotting the countryside. The problem is likely to increase at an accelerated rate unless some action is taken.

Bounty Ineffective—Should Be Banned

A Farmer Takes Another View of the Wolf 'Menace'

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Why is it that city-dwelling hunters are such experts on the "wolf threat"? Why haven't we farmers, who can be vocal enough when we have a problem, asked for city hunters' help in coming out to the country with their high powered rifles to help wipe out this terrible threat?

The reasons are easy to find:

1) Hunters are a worse threat to the countryside and its inhabitants than wolves ever were and the farming community knows it. The city hunters emerge from town with haloes of heroism already forming around their heads, a jug in the car and a rifle in their hands. If they see a wolf they might well shoot it. Failing that they will shoot almost anything in sight, from road signs to insulators on the power lines to rabbits. They will break down fences and they will leave a trail of garbage; and they'll arrive home tired but happy after a hard day of saving the poor bedevilled farmers from the curse of wolves.

2) Wolves are part of the balance of nature in this area and are not feared by farmers. They are very timid animals.

3) Hunting dogs, let loose or lost by the heroic city hunters and careless farmers are a greater danger to sheep and pasture-dropped calves than wolves. It is senseless to blame every sheep or calf death on wolves because some hunter "actually saw" a wolf chasing a calf.

4) There seems to be an assumption by the city hunter that the countryside around them has a sacred trust to provide them with an annual crop of deer to shoot at every fall. The farmers of this area disagree: deer are not exactly desirable inhabitants of mixed farm land; we are more against a high deer population than a high wolf population. If the hunters need to fire their guns every year and get outdoors to prove their virility let them go to the northern reaches of the province where the land and the weather provides them with some real tests, rather than some weekend larks on the snow covered meadows.

The reason that a number of wolf sightings are always reported at this time of year is not because of any great increase in the wolf population, but because this is their mating season and the young males tend to range farther than usual.

Far from raising it, I feel the bounty should be done away with altogether as a senseless relic of the days when settlers had an unreasoning fear of the wolf myth. Furthermore, it is a constant temptation to farmers and others to set out poisoned offal. While this practice rarely kills a wolf, it frequently kills several cycles of other animals and birds before it is finally dissipated.

Similarly, trapping by amateurs is encouraged by the wolf bounty, the main result being an increase in three-legged farm dogs which may be seen in the area.

Change in regulations should in any case come as part of an overall control program for the entire rural ecology. The Department of Lands and Forests is even now developing such a program, and this should introduce decisive evidence, reason and balance into this whole discussion.

Quarries Told To Clean Up Or Close Down

TORONTO (CP) — Mines Minister Allan Lawrence told operators of Ontario pits and quarries Tuesday to "clean up or close down."

Mr. Lawrence was outlining pending legislation for the control of sand, gravel and building stone operations to the Aggregate Producers Association of Ontario.

Legislation will be "in the interest of the public at large who, I regret to say, have had more than a rough time in certain localities in this province in the past and who deserve a better break from the industry in general. . . .

"For an industry that has the reputation and image of yours, through no one's fault but your own and your predecessors', the lesson is clear: Clean up or close down."

Mr. Lawrence said a report including recommendations for legislation, prepared by the mineral resources committee which advises his department, has been circulated among the municipalities for opinions.

The report recommended an accelerated program of mineral-resource mapping; provincial control over the establishment, operation, development and rehabilitation of sand and gravel pits, stone quarries, shale and clay workings and publication of a "rehabilitation and operations manual."

Once development of minerals has been completed, the land must be rehabilitated and returned either to cultivation or industrial-park use.

"The idea is that the land, once the operation is finished, would be returned to whatever use the local authority sees fit," he said.

But the production of aggregates, essential materials in building and highway programs, should not be frustrated at the whim of a local municipality, the committee report said.

It recommended that "power to control the day-to-day operation of pits and quarries be vested with the province," Mr. Lawrence said.

Pit and quarry operators would be required to post a security deposit with the department of mines but "you get it all back, including interest, when your pit or quarry is completely abandoned and approved rehabilitation has been carried out," Mr. Lawrence said.

"If they're not carried out, the department or its agents will use the money on deposit and do the job."

Mr. Lawrence said the government has accepted the committee report with the stipulations that it must be publicized as broadly as possible and that a majority of municipalities must agree with its purposes and conclusions.

Unable to Raise Bail, Man in Jail 7 Months

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's legal system drew fire from a Toronto member of the legislature Tuesday as a Sudbury youth was released from the city's Don jail.

Robert Sweezy, 20, was freed after being held seven monhts for trial on four charges including theft. He was unable to raise $300 bail.

Dr. Morton Shulman, New Democratic Party MPP for High Park, posted the bail money and attacked the system for permitting an accused persons to be held indefinitely without a trial date being set.

"A man (Sweezy) who may be innocent has already spent seven months in jail," Dr. Shulman said. "Even if he is guilty, the sentence would quite possibly be less than that—and it is all for nothing."

Sweezy spent nearly eight weeks of his stay in custody as a hospital patient under treatment for suspected serum hepatitis.

Dutch Bishops Welcome Celibacy Discussion

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The Roman Catholic bishops of Holland Tuesday interpreted Pope Paul's latest pronouncement on priestly celibacy as an offer to discuss the issue and expressed their appreciation for it.

The eight bishops said they hoped that such consultations would lead to good results.

Man Is Being Tried For 1957 Axe Slaying

KENORA (CP) — The non-capital murder trial of John Daniel McIntyre, 53, of Red Lake, Ont., charged in connection with the 1957 axe slaying of a Red Lake bushworker, opened here Tuesday.

McIntyre has spent the past 11½ years in the Penetanguishene mental health clinic, north of Toronto. A review board last fall judged him mentally fit to stand trial, reversing a decision of the 1958 pre-trial hearing.

McIntyre is charged with killing Patrick Cavanaugh at a bush camp near Red Lake, Nov. 20, 1957.

Testimony presented Tuesday indicated McIntyre turned himself in to the Ontario Provincial Police at Red Lake shortly after the incident, saying he had killed someone.

He had been admitted to Red Lake hospital in September, 1957, suffering from acute mental disturbance.

The trial continues.

Parking Meters Are Removed

PICTON — Picton town councillors last night voted in favor of removing all parking meters in front of the Picton Post Office.

With removal of the meters, shoppers would be allowed five minutes free parking time to pick up or post mail.

It was agreed that this courtesy will be extended on a trial basis, its continuance hinging upon its proper usage.

Technology's Value Stressed

TORONTO (CP) — Leonard Hynes of Montreal, Canadian Council president of the International Chamber of Commerce, said today Canada should recognize the value of foreign technology and commit itself to economic growth.

"It is increasingly recognized that an important link exists between a country's trade performance and its technological and innovative capacity," he told members of the Canadian Export Association.

"Science policy is basic to a country's strategy of growth and we must give sufficient attention to priorities in what we want to accomplish.

"Canada has traditionally spent a great deal of time and money in trying to find the answers to Canadian problems in government labs."

However, Mr. Hynes, who is also president of Canadian Industries Ltd., said "many of these answers should be sought through research and development in industry where the test of the market place keeps research practicable in the form of Canadian-developed products for sale in domestic and export markets."

At the same time that Canadians were working on original research, they should ensure the expertise necessary to apply foreign technology here.

"Progress towards freer movements of goods and capital has been substantial during the postwar period," he said. "If our economy is to benefit substantially from these changes, Canadian industry will have to adjust to more competition and to freer export opportunities.

"Industry must be encouraged to keep abreast of the most advanced, to engage in a rapid rate of innovation and development, to seek areas of advantageous specialization and to achieve adequate scales of output so it can compete effectively both at home and abroad."

Enlightening Notes Sent from Poetry Lovers

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: The poem "Vestigia," is Latin for "footprints" or "traces". This explains the poem, which outlines Bliss Carman's search for God as he walked through the woods, enjoyed colors and sounds, and wind. — Mary R.

Dear Doris: The famous poem "Vestigia" was written following a long day tramp on mountain trails. The poet spent many summers in the Catskill Mountains, not far from the Rip Van Winkle country.

His cabin was called "Ghost House" and here alone Bliss Carman wrote many of his best poems. — Poetry Lover

Dear Doris: "Vestigia" by Bliss Carman is his most famous religious poem. To quote from the book in which his poem was found, "Almost all Bliss Carman's subjects were drawn from nature, and his poems are marked by a swinging rhythm and a beauty of word and phrase which combine to give his works an almost musical quality." — Mrs. G.

Dear Mary R., P.L. and Mrs. G.: We are glad of these enlightening notes about Bliss Carman. My grateful thanks to poetry lovers from all over Canada who wrote in.

(Note to Readers: This is the poem which starts: "I took a day to search for God." I can supply copies.)

Dear Doris: Could you find out from your medical consultant whether it is true that pregnant mothers who develop German measles are likely to have abnormal babies? — Worried.

Dear Worried: I'm afraid so, especially if the mother has the German measles during the first three months of pregnancy. For this reason, it is a good thing for a child to develop an immunity to German measles while she is a little girl, because complications then are rare.

There is no connection whatever between German measles and ordinary measles. They are two different diseases.

It is when we have reason to be depressed that our true character shines through. He gets angry, swears, sulks. Only relents after he makes you cry. What a life!

Can you imagine yourself emoting your way through life with such an ups-and-downs partner? Look around a little more.

Child: "Why can't I go outdoors and play?"

Mother: "I've told you why a dozen times. Because you have a sore throat and it will get worse if you get wet and chilled. It's too cold and blowy today."

Mother: "You tell me why you can't go outdoors on such a cold, snowy day."

Child: "Because my sore throat will get well if I stay inside."

Mother: "You may watch television until lunch time."

When young children repeat the same question over and over, they're not looking for information, but for an argument. It's up to mothers to call a halt.

Buttermilk Pancakes One of Mary's Favorites

By MARY MOORE

Debbie, one of my Hi-C girls who says she is an "expert pancake taster", came to dinner before play practice and I served all these variations of pancakes to her. She liked being my guinea pig, and I liked having her.

They are all beautiful pancakes, but I think I liked the buttermilk batter best.

BUTTERMILK PANCAKES (with sweet milk and cheese variations)

- 2 cups stirred but unsifted all-purpose flour
- 2 tsps. sugar
- 1 tsp. baking powder
- ½ tsp. baking soda
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 egg
- 2 cups plus 2 tbsps. buttermilk
- 2 tbsps. corn oil

Into a large bowl sift together the measured flour, sugar, baking powder, baking soda and salt. Add egg, buttermilk and oil and beat until perfectly smooth. Bake on ungreased griddle or in electric frypan using ¼ cup measure three-quarters full for an average-sized pancake. Bake on hot griddle until bubbling on top and gold on bottom and turn over and cook other side. Serve with butter and maple syrup.

VARIATIONS:

1) Sweet Milk Pancakes: Instead of buttermilk in above use same amount of sweet milk but omit baking soda and increase baking powder to 2½ tsps. Bake as above.

2) Cheese: Fold into either buttermilk or sweet milk pancake batter one cup grated old cheddar cheese just before baking as above.

NOTES: 1) I like black currant jelly instead of maple syrup on my pancakes. 2) If desired for nutrition seekers (and we all should be) you may substitute one cup corn meal or one cup quick-cooking rolled oats for one cup of the all-purpose flour in either the buttermilk or sweet milk variations above.

Ann Landers

Get-acquainted Party Results in Sales Pitch

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week our youngster's teacher invited all the mothers to her home for a coffeeklatch "to get acquainted." I thought it was a nice gesture.

ANN LANDERS

When I arrived at the teacher's home, I noticed a display of costume jewelry on the dining room table. When I saw the price tags I was mystified. After some small talk and coffee and cake, the teacher announced that the jewelry on display is the line she sells. She then added with a smile, "No one is under obligation to buy, but if you happen to see something you like I will be glad to sell it to you."

I don't know if I was the only mother who didn't buy anything, but I may well have been. I left feeling resentful. To my way of thinking it was quiet blackmail. Do you agree? — NO SALE.

DEAR N.S.: I agree wholeheartedly. And I salute you for standing on principle when it would have been easy to rationalize and go the other way. Well done, Mother.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I wrote to you six years ago and asked your advice. A man I loved very much proposed to me and I said yes. I asked you if I should tell him that I had given myself to a boy when I was 16. You said, "No. Your past is your personal and private business. He must be willing to accept you for what you are today — no questions asked."

I didn't take your advice, Ann, and I've regretted it a thousand times. Whenever we have an argument he calls me a tramp and a streetwalker. I am sick to death of his dirty insinuations every time we get home from a party or an evening with another couple.

So, take Ann's advice, girls. Keep your mouth shut. You have nothing to gain by confessing. You can only lose. — SMART TOO LATE.

DEAR S.T.L.: Thanks for the testimonial. Just to keep the record straight — a fiance has the right to know about a previous marriage, an out-of-wedlock child or a prison record, but romantic alliances before his time are clearly none of his business.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been a widow for two years. My husband died. I didn't. I am still attractive and have all the normal desires of a 35-year-old woman.

I have two brothers-in-law who enjoy my company. I enjoy theirs. The younger brother-in-law comes to see me once a week on his way home from work. We have some drinks and talk. Nothing else happens. His wife has told him if he doesn't cut this out she will divorce him.

The other brother-in-law has not been allowed to set foot into my home for over a year due to a misunderstanding. His wife is also dirty minded. Both these kooks will not accept a dinner invitation anywhere if I have been invited. What do you think of these mean and petty women? — LADY BALTIMORE.

DEAR FRIEND: Your sisters-in-law may be mean and petty, but as a lady, you should have cooled it the moment you learned you were causing trouble. Surely you have some unmarried friends. See them.

Marmora Couple Mark Golden Anniversary

MARMORA — A jubilee Mass was celebrated Wednesday evening in Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, for Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sheridan of 21 Bursthall Street, on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary. Extending blessings and congratulations, Father T. G. Scanlan, pastor, cited the good Christian example that Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan have given to their family and community during their married life. A framed papal blessing from Pope Paul VI arrived for the couple during the week.

The day was spent quietly due to illness of Mr. Sheridan who had contacted the flu early in the week. However, there was jovial teasing from the bridegroom of 50 years, when two women arrived bringing a money tree ,a gift from friends in the village, just as the phone brought a call from Mrs. Sheridan's sister in Kingston, Mrs. Herbert Lawler, her bridesmaid.

Friends called at intervals all through the week bringing cards and good wishes, and among gifts received was an eight-piece dinette suite from their family, and religious plaques from the CWL.

On Sunday their children with their wives, husbands, nine grandchildren and three great grandchildren helped them celebrate 50 years of wedded life with a dinner at the home of their eldest son, Leo, and his wife Winnie, in Campbellford. The house was decorated for the occasion and a three-tier anniversary cake graced the banquet table. Adding pleasure to the family reunion was a visit by three friends of Mr. Sheridan's whom he had not seen since boyhood.

Mrs. Sheridan, the former Alice Sexsmith, was married to Mr. Sheridan in St. Mary's Church, Marysville, by the late Rev. Father Michael Meagher. They spent their married life in this area, settling first in Stirling, then Lonsdale, and at R.R. 1, Marmora, moving to Marmora Village on retiring from the farm north of the Village 10 years ago.

They have five children, Grace, who lives with them, Leo, LaVerne (Mrs. Alvin Hollings) and Ken of Campbellford and Bob of Trenton.

Serving six years on Marmora Township Council under the reeveship of Irwin McCoy, Mr. Sheridan retired some 15 years ago, but has always taken a real interest in municipal affairs. Highlight of the day is the arrival of The Intelligencer when he reads every inch of Hastings County news before dinner.

Mrs. Sheridan has been an active C.W.L. member for years, and has worked tirelessly and diligently making quilts and aprons on the sewing committee for annual bazaars. Her cheerful, ready response to help with any League projects with no desire for credit or prestige, has inspired many members to make more effort in parish endeavors. She joined the Senior Citizens Organization last year, and there too was a valuable worker, until ill health forced her recently to curtail some of her outside activities.

Home and School News

No general business meeting of the Ameliasburg Township Home and School Association is planned until March, but a program featuring the Mott Foundation film, To Touch A Child, will be shown on Feb. 16 in Kente School Auditorium. Mrs. Eleanor Jourard will act as commentator and answer questions regarding the Mott plan for total school involvement in community life.

The Home and School Association in co-operation with the Township Recreation Committee, is sponsoring family skating parties at Kente School, from 2-4 p.m. on Sunday Feb. 8 (kindergarten to Grade 4 inclusive) and Sun. Feb. 15 (Grades 5 to 8 inclusive).

Hot dogs, coffee, hot chocolate and donuts will be served by Home and School members. Adult volunteers and high school helpers will care for pre-schoolers in the school while township residents enjoy family skating on the school rink.

Congregational Meeting

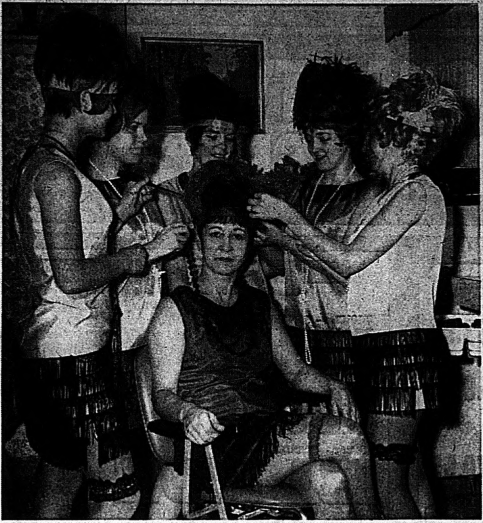
MINTO — The annual meeting of St. Thomas' Church was held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Tanner with a good attendance. Dinner was served at noon, after which Rev. Saunders opened the meeting. Mrs. Ed Colden was re-elected vestry clerk.

George Tanner, rector's warden presented his report and John Courtney reported as peoples' warden and he gave the cemetary report as well. Miss Edna Tanner reported for ACW. All were in good financial standing with all committments paid in full.

Rev. Saunders presented his statistical report and thanked wardens, organist and all members of the congregation for support and interest in the church. He then re-appointed George Tanner as his warden and John Courtney was re-elected. New business was discussed and the budget for 1970 was accepted.

Phil Vance, the oldest member, expressed thanks to the rector, vestry clerk, wardens, organist and caretakers.

Rev. Saunders closed the meeting.



All Set for Marathon

Anyone for a midnight hairdo? If you really want one perhaps next year arrangements can be made. French's Beauty Salon is doing something different this year. From midnight Friday until 6 a.m. Saturday its 12 operators will be setting hair dressed in styles of the 1920's, frilly garters and long beads included. Getting prepared for the event are Wendy Harrison, Mary Patrick, Donna Lee, Shirley Brewster, Ruth Allair and seated Pauline Harrison. The girls will also be charging 1920's prices — shampoo and set $1; hair cut 50c and a perm $4. The ad went in the paper Saturday and by noon Monday they were booked solid.

The Experts Say

Institutional Food Really Can Be Great

EDMONTON (CP) — Institutional food will only be as good as the food director thinks it can be, says the director of a student cafeteria where the kids rave about the good food.

"Too many food directors are complacent and accept the idea that institutional food is institutional food," said Paul Fairbrook, director of food service at the University of the Pacific in Stockton, Calif. "With that kind of attitude, imagine what the food is like."

Mr. Fairbrook believes that institutional food can be great, and he recently visited the University of Alberta to speak at a three-day seminar on food service management to representatives from universities, hospitals, commercial operations and industrial cafeterias.

The food service representatives were all experienced persons, said Mr. Fairbrook.

"My job was to tell everybody to brag about themselves a bit so that everybody will know how good food in a cafeteria can be."

One of the topics discussed at the seminar was how to make food more attractive.

"It's important for every banquet plate to have a garnish," he said. "And how tired everybody is of spiced apple."

He presented his students with a list of 130 garnishes, divided into separate color categories, to spark their imaginations.

"There are so many exciting ways you can make food look better," he said in an interview. Many of these involve ways to serve it more attractively

Not all the ways of improving food service mean higher costs. In fact, Mr. Fairbrook discussed several ways of keeping quality up and costs down.

He said he was appalled to hear that in some of the institutions in Alberta the food service people had no control of the purchasing. They had to make do with what the purchasing agent bought.

"Convenience foods (for the food service operator) have been ballyhooed too much," he said. In some instances, better organization of the food service department was better than packaged convenience.

"In many cases all it means is that a certain standard of mediocrity is obtained at a higher cost when that mediocrity is canned and wrapped and bottled and frozen and sold under the guise of being the answer to the restaurant operator's prayer."

Legion Branch 237 Sponsors Speaking Contest

MARMORA — Lisa Maynes speaking on "My Trip to Florida" and Tony Fondyga, on "The Battle of Britain" were first prize - winners in grades 1-6 and grades 7-8 respectively, in public speaking contest in Marmora Town Hall Thursday. Branch 237 of the Royal Canadian Legion sponsored the contest, and prizes were presented by president, Bill MacDonald, Gordon Bennett and Jack Hannaford. These winners were eligible, and competed in the Zone F-3 speak-off in Madoc on February 1.

Winning second prize in the grade 1 - 6 group was Brenda Colden whose topic was "The Honey Bee" and Wayne Andrews came third for his talk on "Air Pollution." The other speakers in this group, each receiving prizes, were Robby Borland, Patsy Vilneff, Craig Morton, Tim Gray and Brenda Sanderson.

"The Wonderful World of Horses" was the topic chosen by Jim Burkett who came second in grades 7-8 group, and Cathy Smith won third prize, speaking on "My Canoe Trip." Russell Coens, Keith Mocon, Janice McGarvey, Judy Killian, Cathy McInroy and Randy Kitcher also competed. There were no entries in the high school grades.

Judges were Mrs. Charles Brady, Messrs. Mike Lambert and Cliff Dell, all of Centre Hastings Secondary School staff. Citizenship chairman of the branch Percy Gray, looked after arranging the contest, and was master of ceremonies.

During the evening, prizes were also presented for an essay contest sponsored by Branch 237 on either of these subjects: "Biography of a local veteran who died in service" or "How I would commemorate November 11". There were 23 entries by Marmora elementary pupils and five prizes awarded as follows: two firsts to Jim Tompkins and Kelly Vilneff, and three runners-up: Doug Spencer, Ron Rhines and Janice McGarvey.

Stirling Lawn Bowling Club Is Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Cooke entertained the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club recently at the IOOF Hall. There were 13 tables in play. Winners of prizes were Mrs. Jack Doran, Mrs. Ted Barnard, William Ashby, Carl Pitman and door prize Mrs. Sheldon McIntosh.

On the refreshment committee were Mrs. Robert Burgess and Mrs. Burton Woodbeck.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

LAMBDA CHAPTER

The regular meeting of Lambda Chapter, Alpha Delta Kappa was held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Tipper.

The guest speaker for the evening, Mrs. Helen Jones was introduced by Mrs. Helen Calnan. Mrs. Jones gave a most interesting informative book review on the autobiography "What Will We Do Tomorrow". This is the story of the Hayley and Mills families during their life in China and England.

During the business meeting plans were discussed for the next meeting at Hastings Manor.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Anyone for A Cookie?

Mrs. Jackie Gilbert, one of the organizers of the "Tuesday Morning Coffee Break" held at Christ Church from 9:30 until 11:30, serves refgreshments to some of the visitors. The event is sponsored by the church's Contact Club in an effort to bring people together and to give mothers a break from their children.

A Friendly Get-together For Coffee

"Tuesday Morning Coffee Break" is the name of a new venture sponsored by the Christ Church Contact Club. Coffee breaks can be different and one way to find out how is to visit Christ Church on Tuesday mornings from 9.30 - 11.30.

In charge of the venture are Mrs. Jackie Gilbert, Mrs. Edith Pringle and Mrs. Ida Godden.

Its primary purpose is to bring people together for conversation and to give mothers a break while their children play in the nursery provided. The "get together" is nondenominational and transportation is provided for those who could not attend otherwise. There is also no admission charge.

As yet there is no regular program but Mrs. Gilbert pointed out that the meetings will continue for three months and if they prove successful a regular program will be instituted according to the wishes of those who attend.

Mrs Betty Normington is in charge of the nursery and it is her job to entertain the children. She is periodically assisted by other women.

Who Will Be Queen?

The big question will be answered Thursday night at Centennial Secondary when contestants compete for the title of Belleville's first Winter Carnival Queen. Organizinfi the event is the Kinette Club and past president Mrs. Lois Akey also wonders who will win as she contemplates the tiara to be worn by the future monarch. The tiara was donated by a local jeweller.

Fun for All

Carnival Promises Flying Start

By LINDA GELDART

Although it's Belleville's first whirl at getting together a winter carnival, it hasn't taken long to whip up enthusiasm matched with fervent involvement.

One look at the program is a good indication of what is in store.

Perhaps the best way to sum it all up would be to say that there will be four days both young and old can get out and enjoy winter.

Whether they like action, or prefer being spectators, there is something for everyone.

The carnival gets off to a flying start Thursday with the crowning of the Winter Carnival Queen. It will culminate Sunday — an afternoon filled with snowmobiling, skating races and sleigh rides.

Several organizations as well as interested citizens have put together an 'all-out' effort on the carnival events, to ensure an event for every age group to enjoy.

Secretary of the Winter Carnival Committee, O. F. Bradley related that he was pleased with the way things are shaping up.

Friday evening will see the involvement spirit sparked by a torchlight parade at 7 p.m.

The parade, sponsored by the Belleville Jaycees, will mark the beginning of a night full of fun.

Forming up at the corners of Church and Station Streets, the procession will proceed to th Belleville Memorial Arena where the crowd will get a chance to see some fancy footwork as the barrel-rolling contest gets underway at 8 p.m. in front of the arena.

If you are a snowmobiler, organizers advise you to be sure and take advantage of the snowmobile safari, cookout and snow dance at Oak Hills Ski Club.

Also included in the Friday night program is the Senior A Hockey game which will see Oakville and Belleville face off at 9 p.m.

Between periods, fans will be entertained by members of the Quinte Figure Skating Club.

Saturday's program calls for judging of snow sculpturing created by students of the city's secondary schools.

And to start the day off heartily, a pancake breakfast will be held from 9 a.m. until 11 a.m.

"There will be plenty of pancakes and maple syrup to give you enough energy to last until lunch time," said one Carnival Committee spokesman.

A fishing derby will run from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Saturday with trophies being awarded the winners Sunday afternoon. The derby is being run in co-operation with area fish and game clubs.

Skiing events and demonstrations will take place from 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. on Saturday at Oak Hills Ski Club for any ski buffs in the crowd.

There will be snowmobile rides for the children at Zwick's Island until 1 p.m. and a tug-of-war at the Belleville Plaza at 2 p.m. Snowmobile drag races on the Bay will run from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Belleville Firefighters will be at their best as they battle it out on ice at the Belleville Memorial Arena against a team of secondary school teachers Saturday beginning at 8:30 p.m.

"We are planning entertainment between periods" explained Jack Trembley, chairman of Saturday's events "especially for the children.

"There will be clowns, square dancing on skates and broomball too."

If curling is what you like, there will be a 30-hour Victoria and Grey men's open bonspiel starting 9 a.m. Saturday and running through until 6 p.m. Sunday.

On Sunday, at Zwick's Island, there will be snowmobile events, skating races and prizes for children under 12 years of age, sleigh rides and a big bonfire.

As a finale to Belleville's first winter carnival, two skydivers will drop from an altitude of 5,000 feet onto the Northwest end of Zwick's Island.

"We have the program set up, and now all that is left is for the people of Belleville to get out there and enjoy the carnival," emphasized Mr. Bradley.

Tack Family Participates In Scouts and Guides

NAPANEE — Mrs. Eleanor Tack and all the members of her now widely scattered family, have an unusual record in the scouting and guiding movement.

Although Mrs. Tack herself has been active continuously only since 1953, she then had two sons in the army and R.C.A.F., respectively, who were troop leaders when they went into the services. She remembers, however, that she made their uniforms from discarded army uniforms.

In 1953 she became a member of the Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliary, and a cub leader in 1960 with the 2nd Napanee Pack. She was District Cub Master for one year, and earned her Wood Badge at Blue Springs.

In 1964 she was asked to form the 3rd Napanee Cub Pack, and was the leader of six cubs when the charter was granted in February of the following year. The pack grew rapidly, with 38 members at its peak. It now has 35.

Ernest, who joined the army in 1948, and Donald, who entered the R.C.A.F. the following year, have been on the move so much that they have been unable to take a further part in scouting. However, Ernest's daughter Mary was a Brownie in Calgary and is now a Girl Guide in Ottawa.

Evelyn, now Mrs. Karl Griffith of Woodstock, has seven children, and the five who are old enough are in either cubs, scouts, brownies, or guides. She herself had been a brownie and a guide with the 2nd Napanee, and was a Tawny Owl with the Brownies at the time of her marriage.

The two youngest members of the family, David and Edith, were among the first in this district to receive the religion and life emblem. David, now with the RCAF in Portage La Prairie, was a 2nd Napanee cub and a 1st Napanee scout. He was awarded the green and gold all-round cord, and is a Queen's scout. He represented the Napanee Valley District at the Boy Scout Jamboree in Colorado Springs in July, 1960.

Edith, now Mrs. Kenneth Spears of Petawawa, was a guide leader before her marriage and received her all-round cord.

Mrs. Tack is still much interested in cub work.

At Belleville's Winter Carnival

Three Days Of Enjoyment In Outdoors

Belleville's first Winter Carnival will encompass four days of programmed events just waiting to be enjoyed by Bellevillians.

Jolted back from thoughts of an early spring, winter is definitely back — complete with more snow and sub zero temperatures — perfect winter carnival weather.

Thursday:

8.30 p.m. Carnival Queen Contest, Centennial Secondary School.

Friday:

7.00 p.m. Torchlight parade, beginning at Church and Station streets, proceeding down Front St. to Memorial Arena.

8.00 p.m. Barrel-rolling contest at front of Arena.

8.00 p.m. Snowmobile safari, cookout and snow dance, Oak Hills Ski Club.

9.00 p.m. Senior "A" hockey, Oakville vs Belleville and figure-skating, Memorial Arena.

9 p.m. - 12 p.m. Dance for teenagers, "Snowball '70," Ben Bleecker Auditorium, featuring Bill the Lizard and Time-and-a-Half.

Saturday:

Judging of snow sculpturing at Secondary Schools.

9.00 a.m. - 11.00 a.m. Pancake Breakfast at the Legion Hall.

9.00 a.m. - 4.00 p.m. Fishing Derby, sponsored by fish and game clubs, (trophies awarded on Sunday).

9.30 a.m. - 11.30 a.m. Skiing events at Oak Hills Ski Club, open house, ski races, demonstration of ski technique with commentary, stunt skiing, ski patrol demonstration.

10.00 a.m. - 1 p.m. Snowmobile rides for children, Zwick's Island.

2 p.m. Tug-of-war at Belleville Plaza.

2 p.m. - 5 p.m. Snowmobile drag races on the Bay, Zwick's Island.

8.30 p.m. - 11 p.m. Square dancing on skates, broomball, and hockey at Memorial Arena; Belleville Firefighters vs. Secondary School teachers.

9 a.m. Over 30 hours of curling, Victoria and Grey Men's Open Bonspiel ending Sunday 6 p.m.

Sunday:

2 p.m. - 4 p.m. Snowmobile events, Zwick's Island.

2 p.m. - 4 p.m. Skating, all ages, races for children under 12; sleigh rides for children, bonfire.

3 p.m. Sky divers drop onto northwest tip of Zwick's Island.

They Are Working to Win . . .

Janet Wright (right), Bonnie Workman and David Thompson believe in a strong start and a first finish. These Moira Secondary School students are doing some preparatory work on what they hope will be a masterpiece for the Belleville Winter Carnival snow sculpturing contest. Entries will be judged Saturday to decide the winning high school.

Winter Carnival Selects A Queen

Every carnival should have a touch of royalty to add to the festivities ,and Belleville's first winter carnival is no exception.

Royalty is part of the plan.

Thursday Belleville's winter carnival queen will be chosen at Centennial Secondary School and will reign over events for the remaining three days.

Mrs. Lois Akey, past president of the Belleville Kinette Club, and a key organizer of the contest, said that the club would like to see each school in the city have at least two representatives in the events.

Letters have been sent to each of the secondary schools in the city, and, according to Mrs. Akey, response to the competition so far has been good.

"But," she emphasized, "we are not limiting each school to only two representatives."

"Both the carnival committee and the Kinettes would like to see as many young people participating as possible," Mrs. Akey pointed out.

She explained that judges for the contest will be members of the Tweed Kinette Club.

"We are trying to work on a reciprocal basis with members of the Tweed Club. The Belleville Kinettes acted as judges for the Tweed Carnival. So now the Tweed group have been given the responsiblity of choosing our first Carnival Queen.

Judges will be interested not only in poise and personality of the contestants, but their ability to give an intelligent answer to questions on current topics.

"Contestants" related Mrs. Akey "will be judged in evening attire."

Mrs. Akey emphasized the response shown by members of the community, particularly the business community.

"The queen will be recipient of numerous prizes, trophies and cash," she remarked.

Indicating that two princesses would also be chosen, Mrs. Akey said that Monsignor Sullivan will crown and congratulate the Queen.

"This is our club project," remarked Mrs. Akey, "and we would like to see as many girls as possible compete for the title."

Anyone interested in participating in the contest and wishing to complete needed application form, can contact Mrs. Akey at Point Anne or Mrs. R. Bellanger, in Belleville.

This Winter Unquestionably Is Different

Every winter is different.

Only it doesn't seem that way from one frigid winter to the next.

But, after this week, winter will never be the same again for Bellevillians.

For this is the week the city goes gala — and its winter freeze goes on fete.

Coming up over the snow-filled horizon is the city's first big winter carnival.

Starting Thursday night it's designed to fill the second half of the week with fun and frolic for Bellevillians of all age groups.

For the energetic there are snowmobile safaris, outdoor square dances, sleigh rides. For the sports there's a bonspiel, a fishing derby, ski events. Even just plain hearty eaters have been remembered — with a pancake breakfast.

The immediate impression left by the roster of events will be one of enjoyment.

But there's more to it than that.

The carnival is the first major effort of its kind in living memory in the Quinte city.

Its dash and sparkle undoubtedly will dissipate some of the wearying drabness inevitable as winter grows longer.

In fact, it could become an annual winter highlight, if it is carried into other years, believe its organizers.

And will it continue?

There are no doubts in the minds of its core organizers.

As soon as this week's events are over they are proposing to call a meeting says O. F. Bradley, secretary-manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce — the carnival's moving force.

On the agenda will be discussions on how to better the 1970 event — in promotion and presentation.

"We're very much encouraged by the support we're getting now," says Mr. Bradley. "We're hoping next year to improve on all this."

Professional Development Day

Teachers on Course - - Youngsters Have Day Off School

All Hastings County school children will have a holiday Thursday while their teachers take over the schools for a professional development day.

Programs of lectures, demonstrations and discussions have been arranged for every school in the county, both elementary and secondary.

The secondary school programs have been arranged for every subject discipline, with inter - county co-operation a feature of the day. Lennox and Addington and Prince Edward counties are joining with Hastings for some aspects of the program. Boys' physical education teachers will meet in Picton Collegiate Institute for the day and business and commerce teachers from the three counties will gather at Napanee District Secondary School.

Belleville Collegiate will play host to the secondary school principals and vice-principals, who will hear a lecture by a member of the staff of McArthur College in Kingston.

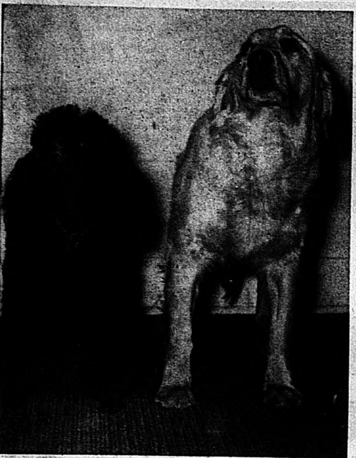
All other secondary schools in Hastings County have arranged programs. Bancroft, where geography and history will be the subjects studied, and where the thermometer has been dipping to around the minus-30-degree, mark, has scheduled a lecture by a Trent University professor on "snow and its uses in teaching."

The teachers from technical departments will make group visits to either National Research Council in Ottawa or the Ontario Science Centre and the IBM plant in Toronto.

Art teachers will visit the Ontario College of Art and the art gallery in Toronto.

Elementary schools are conducting their own teacher training sessions in each school, with a workshop on creativity planned for area 4 teachers at Harry J. Clarke School in Belleville.

Provision for professional development day is made in legislation governing schools, in which boards are empowered to set aside one day each year for their teachers' professional development.



Worth A Ribbon?

Looking for laurels at the Belleville and District Kennel Club show are Bernard, a poodle, and Goldie, a golden retriever, entered by their owners, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Irving of Belleville. The two canines are among the 250 dogs expected to be up for judging Sunday afternoon at Belleville Armouries.

Dogs Have Day

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Dogs will have their day Sunday in Belleville, as the city's first dog show sanctioned by the Canadian Kennel Club gets under way at 1 p.m. in the armories.

Sponsored by the Belleville and District Kennel Club, the event will see about 250 dogs of many breeds trying for ribbons and honors.

Obedience trials will be held, including a class for junior handlers. Conformation judging — in which the dog is rated for its conformity to the standard set for its breed — will go on all afternoon.

This is a non-bench show, with registrations taken from 11 a.m. to 12.30 p.m. from any owners of pure bred dogs. Entries are expected from dog lovers from Toronto to Ottawa.

The local kennel club has been in existence a year and membership now stands at more than 90. Meetings are held the third Tuesday night of each month at Belleville Recreation Centre.

Mrs. Barbara Kiser conducts obedience training for all breeds of dogs at the Belleville Humane Society, and retriever training has been given under club auspices since last October. Retriever training trials are held every third Sunday of each month.

The public is invited to attend the show and view the judging.

Golden Girl

Melanie Irving and her golden retriever share a mutual admiration. The pup, still only eight months old, is already a dog show winner and is competing again Sunday at the local kennel club show.

Wheat Farmers Seek 'Fair Price'

PICTON — Members of the Prince Edward County Wheat Producers Board today attributed last night's record turnout at their annual meeting in Bloomfield to withdrawal of their affiliation with the County Federation of Agriculture.

Board member John Cochrane noted it was the largest and most enthusiastic annual meeting of wheat producers he had attended in many years.

He commented on the number of young farmers present, saying that he was encouraged to see them attending.

Due to the absence of secretary-treasurer Lewis White, Don McMahon was elected secretary for the meeting, with county president Don Neilson acting as chairman.

In ensuing discussion farmers emphasized that the Wheat Board should be more concerned with bargaining for a fair price as opposed to offering wheat for sale.

One farmer attending the meeting asked who was responsible for setting the price of $1.17 per bushel, paid to most farmers during this crop year. He also asked how this price was reached.

It was explained that all prices are established by the negotiations between the Wheat Board and the trade prior to harvest.

It was pointed out by farmers that local feed mills are buying wheat for approximately 40 cents a bushel less than last year, and selling it with no marked reduction in retail price from last year.

It was also noted that a large percentage of sprouted wheat is being used in many higher-priced milling products allowing an undoubtedly increased profit to some source.

The resolutions passed during the meeting called for:

Farmers to be encouraged to store their wheat on the farm so the Ontario Wheat Producers Marketing Board can bargain more effectively for price; that the Ontario Wheat Producers Marketing Board and county wheat producers not give any money as a levy, grant, gift or loan to any farm organization; price of wheat be $2 a bushel.

During the meeting there was an election of officers chaired by County Agriculture representative Ivan Bell.

Don Neilson was re-elected as president, and Kenneth Kennington elected secretary-treasurer.

OWRC Delays Tweed Project Tenders

Ontario Water Resources Commission has delayed opening of tenders on a storm sewer project here.

This was reported at a recent regular meeting of the village council held in the municipal building here

Ontario Water Resources Commission advised that the date for receiving an opening of tenders for the proposed storm sewer system in the Village had been postponed until later. The Commission also advised that a basic water works operator's course would be held in their laboratory in Toronto during the week of March 2, 1970. A report was read from Moira River Conservation Authority.

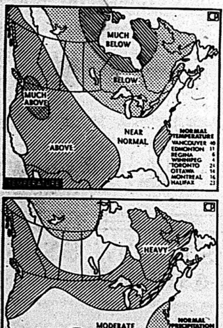
The minutes of the last regular and the special meeting were read — A number of reports were read. Police Chief Robert Roy, gave his monthly report; also his annual report for the year 1969. Tweed Hydro System requested a joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, a member of the Council and themselves to study the matter of a decorative street lighting scheme for the Village. This matter was left to receive the attention of a full Council membership meeting.

Byron Jackson Division of Borg-Warner, sent a letter giving their opinion of the troubles that arose in respect to the operation of the new pump purchased for the Bridge Street well. It was decided to leave to the chairman of the Water Department System the mater of replying to this letter.

Requests were received from the following organizations to take out membership with them: St. John Ambulance Brigade, Ontario Good Roads Association, Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities.

It was decided that the council would renew their membership in the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves, Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities and the Ontario Good Roads Association, and that they renew their subscriptions to the Municipal World.

Council will apply to the Ontario Department of Highways for the balance of subsidy due on 1969 expenditures of $12,938.69. Numerous accounts were presented for payment. Council adjourned at 9.15 p.m.



Cold Weather Ahead

Most of Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec will have below normal temperatures during February, according to the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau. Temperatures will be above normal in British Columbia and southern Alberta. Heavy precipitation is expected in Quebec, Ontario, British Columbia and extreme southern parts of the prairies and moderate precipitation in most other areas. (CP Newsmap)

'Ability Fund' Canvass Under Way in Tweed

TWEED — The annual canvass for the March of Dimes, which is now under the official name of "Ability Fund" has now commenced.

In the Village of Tweed, for the second year in succession, the canvass has been sponsored by the members of the Tweed Rebekah Lodge, with the chairman being Mrs. Betty Campbell, and her committee is: Mrs. Maureen Gall, Mrs. Jean Deshane and Mrs. Betty Long. (all Rebekah members). The blitz night was Feb. 2 in the area, but Marching Mothers, are already out calling from door-to-door, but as yet the business section of the village has not been canvassed. Within this district, the Ability Fund reaches out to: Cloyne, on Highway No. 41; Kaladar, Northbrook, Flinton (where the community club does the work and remit the cash); and Thomasburg and Tweed.

Joined OPP, Learned Japanese Now He Goes to Osaka Exhibition

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

For Belleville-born Constable William Ryan of the St. Thomas Detachment of the OPP, the next nine days should be ones of excitement and anticipation.

Const. Ryan is one of 16 OPP officers who will be leaving for Osaka, Japan, on Feb. 13 to spend almost eight months at Expo 70.

Const. Ryan will be joining Const. Gerald Zwart of the Belleville detachment, a native of Holland, resident in the Belleville area for years, who also has been assigned to the Osaka duty tour.

He will be acting — with a sergeant, a corporal and 13 other constables — as a security guard for the Ontario pavillion.

Of course the officers will actually be part of the exhibit and also act as goodwill ambassadors for Ontario and Canada.

Const. Ryan will continue his duties in Japan until Oct. 1.

He was born in Belleville and was educated here at Nicholson Catholic College. He joined the OPP on April 7, 1968, part of the reason he was surprised that he was one of those picked for the Osaka pourney.

"We volunteered," he explained. "There were about 70 to 80 applicants."

Part of the requirements considered were past record and the recommendations of an officer's superintendent. Each applicant had to be single and over six feet tall.

The officers were selected from all over Ontario, as far northwest as Marathon, in the Fort William area.

Part of their training was a 13-week crash course in the Japanese language.

A commercial jet will fly the policemen to Hawaii where the plane will be refuelled for the final leg to Japan.

Const. Ryan is looking forward to the trip — even though it could come under the classification of work.

"I'll get a four-day weekend once a month and two days off per week," he said.

"I'd like to see Tokyo and the northern island of Japan maybe," he said.

The police officers will get their duty instructions in Japan.

Const. Ryan has seen a model of the structure and describes it as a square building in deep royal blue with white pillars and cross sections.

It will contain flashing films about the people of Ontario, their customs and way of life.

Sharpshooting 22-year-old Chief Threat to Gurowka

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario curling championship opens today with two Toronto skips—a 36-year-old veteran and a 22-year-old sharpshooter—the odds-on favorites to win the 18-rink double-elimination tournament.

Joe Gurowka, who has reached the championsip seven times in the last 10 years, has been established as everybody's choice because of experience, although Bruce Munro has all the confidence of a perfectionist to make him a co-favorite.

The championship winds up Saturday, with the winner advancing to the Ianadian championship at Winnipeg, March 2-6. A Northern Ontario representative will be decided at a separate tournament.

In fact, the Gurowka and Munro rinks are so highly rated that Earl Hushagen, a former Ontario champion, finds it difficult to separate their chances.

The Munro rink "has the best personnel in the province," says Hushagen. "But solid performance in seven championships" and the Canadian tournament places Gurowka on even footing.

Gurowka skipped his rink to the Ontario title in 1966 and forced Ron Northcott of Callary to an extra-game playoff in the Canadian championship.

Gurowka and Munro both skipped rinks in last year's championship at London, Ont. That championship was won by Ken Buchan of London, who is also rated highly in this year's tournament.

Hushagen says Buchan is the best shot maker in the province and "his rink has improved."

Rated as second choices with Buchan are rinks skipped by Eldoh Coombe of Ottawa, and Paul Savage of Toronto.

Coombe reached the finals of the 1968 championship before losing to Dr. Don Gilbert of St. Thomas.

The main claim to fame by the Savage rink is that it defeated 1967 Canadian champion Alf Phillips Jr. of Toronto en route to the zone title.

Other rinks rated behind the favorites Howie Atkinson and Bob Woods, both of Toronto and Bob Harris of Unionville. Woods was skip of the Swedish champion rink in 1967 while living in Stockholm and reached the semi-finals of the world championship.

Other rinks in the four-day competition are skipped by John Winford of Ottawa, Jake Edwards of Kingston, Gary Hancock of Peterborough, Harry Sheldon of Unionville, Irving Wallace of Port Carling, Bob Dolishney of Welland, Cam Guyatt of Hamilton, Len Schmidt of Walkerton, George Ellis of Waterloo and Terry Patton of Brantford.

Harris and Woods both reached the championship by placing first and second respectively in an open challenge round last December. The other 16 entries won zone titles.

The tournament begins at 1 p.m. today with Winford meeting Woods, Harris playing Edwards, Buchan taking on Schmidt and Wallace playing Hancock.

The losers of the Winford-Woods and Harris-Edwards matches draw byes into the third round Thursday morning at 9 a.m., while the other 16 rinks go into the second round at 8 p.m. tonight.

In tonight's action, Ellis meets Buchan, Gurowka plays Guyatt, Wallace takes on Munro, Atkinson plays Dolishney, Sheldon goes against Savage, Schmidt plays Patton, Coombe meets Hancock.

Any two losses eliminates a rink from further competition.

Question Mark

Bower Back On Blades

By BRUCE LEVETT,
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Goalie Johnny Bower of Toronto Maple Leafs, out for six weeks with a knee injury, is back on skates but the future is a question mark for the scarred National Hockey League veteran.

Bower, whose name appears twice on the Vezina Trophy and four times on the Stanley Cup, is trying to work his way into the lineup to help take the pressure off Bruce Gamble, the only experienced goaltender left on the roster.

A head table guest at the Sports Celebrities Dinner in Toronto Tuesday, Bower said "I still have a little problem turning one way."

"But I'm coming along. I'm going to skate all this week with no equipment on and then Monday I'll try it with the pads and hope I can get my reflexes back.

"Gamble has been playing tremendously," Bower said. "He has carried the club as far as he possibly could. We've been doing well this last month, but we just can't seem to make up any ground."

Bower said he hasn't given the future much thought in case he can't come back—he was shut out 5-0 in the only game he played this season.

"I've got a good off-season job with a chemical company and I have something to fall back on there. I'll have to wait until the season is over, then talk to general manager Jim Gregory again. Maybe he has something lined up for me."

Bower, who made a hesitant retirement when coach and general manager Punch Imlach was unloaded at the end of last season, says "I'd like to stay in hockey in some capacity."

"If I don't get an offer from Jim in some way then my services will probably be open to some other National Hockey League club."

When he does quit as an active player, he would "like to get involved in something like I did last summer with Jim when he asked me to come down and help the goaltenders out."

"This I can do and maybe I can scout for the Maple Leaf hockey club. It just depends on what he has in mind for me. As for coaching, I think coaches are getting too many ulcers. I want to keep my health."

Missing from the celebrities dinner, and from the Leafs bench for more than a week, was King Clancy, the club's 66-year-old vice-president.

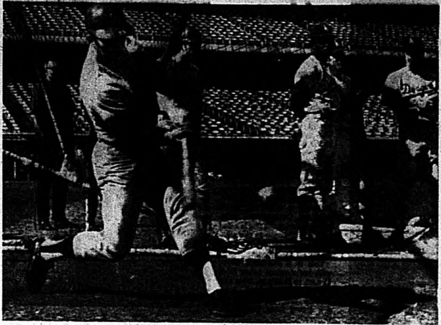
Clancy is in hospital with diabetes and has dropped 22 pounds but says "I never felt better."

"I had no idea what it was. It could have been anything and I was always afraid of that big thing that got Charlie Conacher."

Conacher, Clancy's lifelong friend, died in 1967 of cancer.

Clancy hopes to be out by the weekend and then "it'll be straight to the office at the Gardens."

Meanwhile, he will miss Leafs' game tonight against St. Louis Blues, one of five scheduled. St. Louis has lost both their games played in Toronto this season while the Leafs dropped two in St. Louis.



Early-bird Dodgers

It's still February, but some Los Angeles Dodgers, rookies and regulars, are jumping the spring training gun by working out at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles. Here Bill Sudakis connects with a batting practice pitch. Dodgers' spring training camp opens this month, in Vero Beach, Fla.

Football Worse?

BALTIMORE (AP) — John Unitas, named Tuesday as the Football Athlete of the Decade, says candidly that the quality of professional football declined during the 1960s.

Accepting with his usual calm reserve the news of his overwhelming victory in a special poll conducted by The Associated Press, the Baltimore Colts' quarterback was far from restrained when he commented on the "new breed" of player.

"Few young players coming into the game now have the proper attitude or desire. When it comes to dedication and self-sacrifice, forget it," he said.

"A lot of young players seem to have more on their minds than what they're being paid for. They don't want to spend any time and effort to improve. The majority seem satisfied just to make the team."

Unitas said the formation of the American Football League and expansion of the National Football League also had contributed to a "saturation of the market with players of lesser ability, who wouldn't have been signed previously."

Diamond Deals Likened to Slave Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — A former associated justice of the Supreme Court, representing outfielder Curt Flood in a suit against baseball, likened a traded baseball player Tuesday to a "high-priced slave."

"Flood decided he cannot play under an illegal system—and I agree," added Arthur J. Goldberg, who is representing Flood in the anti-trust action.

"He is not willing to be sold into servitude."

The statement was made at a two-hour hearing before United States District Court Judge Irving (Ben) Cooper, considering a request by Flood that baseball be enjoined from preventing him to act as a free agent.

Flood is contesting the move of the St. Louis Cardinals in trading him to the Philadelphia Phillies.

He claims baseball's reserve clause, which binds a player to one team until he is traded, sold or released, amounts to peonage.

Judge Cooper listened to arguments and then gave lawyers of both sides 20 days to file additional papers.

Goldberg said that at the present time there is no bargaining on the subject of the reserve clause and in that respect baseball differs from other sports.

"Football operates under anti-trust laws and seems to be doing pretty well," he added.

Imlach Moonlighted As Vancouver Scout

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Province says Punch Imlach was on the staff of Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League for a period last year, as a $25,000-a-year scout.

Imlach quit Canucks earlier this year to become general manager of the Buffalo team that is to join the National League next season, the paper says. The Canucks are to enter the NHL at the same time.

The Province quotes Canuck directors Coley Hall and Cyrus Mclean as saying Imlach was hired last August by Joe Crozier, Vancouver general manager-coach without the knowledge of the directors.

Crozier however says Imlach signed Oct. 15 and had been hired with the knowledge and consent of the directors.

Humbled 8-2 by Hustling Aces

Notable Lack of Muscle-power Helps Nourish Mo-Hawk Slump

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

KINGSTON — Lack of fire-power can plague any hockey team. Scoring slumps are a dime a dozen.

Manpower shortages? They're healed by doctors and time.

But muscle-power deficiency is a different type of ailment whose cure requires the personal attention of every last member of a hockey team.

Belleville's Mo-Hawks have had their share of all three maladies during this OHA Senior A season. But coach Davey Jones is convinced it's the lack of muscle that is chiefly responsible for the current rash of embarrassments like the 8-2 trimming absorbed by the Mo-Hawks here last night.

Jones was infuriated about the timid play of his charges, whom the fast-stepping Aces played with, rather than against to roll up a 6-0 lead after two periods.

"If we don't start letting them know we're around, we'll be battered through the boards in every rink in this league," said Jones, who doffed his playing gear in disgust after the Aces had jumped off to a 4-0 first-period lead.

"It's largely an emotional thing. Some of our fellas just aren't coming to the rink mentally prepared to play," fumed Jones.

"You can't come to a game and expect to be put in the mood to play by a dressing room pep talk. You have to be up for the game before you arrive at the rink."

Up or not up, it's debatable that the Mo-Hawks could have done much better than reduce the margin against the speedy Aces, who stretched their home unbeaten string to 10 games to the delight of most of 2,028 paid spectators.

Rookie Hugh Harvey and Fred O'Donnell each contributed a pair of goals to the Kingston cause. Tom Smallman, Bob Rawson, Jim Gebhardt, and Garfield Ball did the rest of the damage.

It was Gebhardt's power-play goal at 12.20 of the second period that earned Mo-Hawk goalie Steve Rexe a shower after 40 minutes of play.

Rexe was caught badly out of position and the Aces' defenceman whacked a waist-high point shot through a clear hole big enough to drive a Zamboni through.

What upset Jones, aside from the fact that the goal made the score 6-0, was that the puck hit dead centre of the net, presumably where Rexe might be expected to be standing.

Rexe couldn't be faulted for the other five pucks that beat him.

Smallman's game - opener was a perfect shot from the slot where, Jones pointed out, the Kingston forward should have been lying instead of skating if the Mo-Hawks defence had been doing its job.

Hugh Harvey's goal at 10.35 of the first came after Rexe had beaten Charlie Convery's breakaway attempt. There were no Mo-Hawks in sight to pick up the rebound, so trailer Harvey gratefully flipped the free puck over Rexe into the net.

The fourth Kingston goal in the first period came on a bang-bang faceoff play when Harvey got the draw in the Belleville end and Fred O'Donnell blasted a low quickie in.

Harvey got his second goal in the middle period when he waltzed in alone on the left side after O'Donnell's two - on - one pass sifted the Belleville defence.

The Aces rained 30 shots at Rexe, and another 20 at third - period replacement Bob Moon, who played extremely sharp considering his cold start.

Fred O'Donnell beat Moon on a breakaway at 12.58 of the third period, and Garfield Ball fluked one in off Greg Marchen's leg half a minute later.

The Mo-Hawks had made their first serious attempt at making a game of it by hitting for two unanswered goals in the first half of the final period.

Hockey old-timer and Mo-Hawk newcomer Lorne Ferguson broke Neil Perry's goose - egg, slipping a 25-footer past the Aces' goalie after Billy Armour got the draw from a Kingston zone face-off.

Lorne O'Donnell's 19th of the year from linemate George Godson and defenceman Lionel Botly narrowed it to 6-2 at 9.31, before defensive lapses blemished Moon's record twice.

A fast - skating Aces' attack helped make the short-staffed Mo - Hawk defence corps look worse than it is.

Blueliners Greg Marchen and newcomer Bob Wilson were the only two Mo-Hawks who dished out at least as much body - work as they took. Together with Lionel Botly, Marchen and Godson, and occasionally Billy Armour, were trying to fill the gaps created by sidelined Lou Kazowski and Wayne Brown.

Marchen played most of the third period, getting about five minutes' rest, two while serving a tripping minor.

Ralph Plane's absence did not help the lack of Mo-Hawk aggressiveness.

The zealous team captain was missing his first game of the season after suffering a side injury in the team's last practice.

Wayne McConnell, recovering from the flu, was played sparingly by Jones.

Meanwhile junior B graduate Ray Summers, in his 21st game with the club, finally showed promise of living up to expectations.

"Ray played his best game for us tonight," said Jones. "He's starting to keep his head up and not give the puck away so easily."

Summers missed a couple of good scoring chances playing right wing on a couple of forward combinations.

The loss was the Mo-Hawks sixth in their last eight games.

But the best thing about the current slump is that it came too late to stop the club from clinching a playoff spot.

The Mo-Hawks try to get back on the winning track Friday night when the Oakville Oaks arrive for a 9 p.m. Memorial Arena game.

Outguessed

Belleville Mo-Hawk goalie Bob Moon made the wrong guess on Kingston forward Fred O'Donnell's breakaway play, and this was the result. Moon stopped 18 shots as a third-period replacement in Tuesday night's 8-2 loss by the Belleville seniors in Kingston.

Not Close Enough

Belleville Mo-Hawk newcomer Lorne Ferguson (5) gives Kingston Aces' goalie Neil Perry an anxious moment, but fails to score in this second-period action of Tuesday night's 8-2 loss to the Aces. Spectators are (from left) Mo-Hawk Ray Johnston, Kingston's Bob Olajos, Mo-Hawk Billy Armour, and the Aces' Bob Clayton.

Grant Believes His 'Kapp' Stolen

TORONTO (CP) — You wouldn't have believed it—there was tall, austere, grey Bud Grant at the Sports Celebrities Dinner and he was the hit of the show.

Maybe it was the voice from the back of the room that thundered "put on your cap" that got him off to a fast start when he got up to speak.

"Somebody stole my Kapp in New Orleans," Grant quipped. Glancing at his quarterback, Joe Kapp, who winced a few seats away, Grant added:

"But I'm going to get a new one."

"People in Minneapolis don't believe me when i tell them about Kapp," Bud said.

"When they ask me what changes I've seen in his play since he moved south, I tell them 'in Canada he threw farther and ran faster.' "

Grant, traditionally pictured as a stern-visaged taskmaster peering from beneath a baseball cap, was in top form.

The former head coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers before he defected to run Minnesota Vikings of the National Football League, Grant was seated next to Frank Clair, elevated to general manager after winning two consecutive Grey Cups as head coach of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Clair, is faced with a tough rebuilding job, replacing all-star quarterback Russ Jackson, who has retired, and several key players who have moved out for a variety of reasons.

Grant, who said he hasn't had time during the last year to watch Canadian football on television, said he keeps in touch through newspapers and gets the word from friends in Canada.

"That Western Conference, it looks like a musical chairs operation," he said in a pre-dinner interview.

He said the Vikings were "very glad" to get Neil Armstrong, former head coach of Edmonton Eskimos, as an assistant coach.

"He came down and was with us for approximately six ball games. He made his contribution there and got his share of that playoff and Super Bowl money."

Rusty Staub Spends Winter in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — Rusty Staub has made the most of his first Canadian winter in more ways than one.

The popular outfielder—first baseman of the National League's Montreal Expos, who moved to Montreal after spending previous off-seasons in the warmer climate of Houston, Texas, is in training both physically and linguistically.

The New Orleans native, who gained instant popularity last summer as Montreal experienced its first season in major league baseball, has been studying French.

"I'm making an effort to speak it. Without the support of the French people, I don't think baseball would go over in Montreal.' "

Staub was in Toronto as a head table guest at the annual Sports Celebrities Dinner, sponsored by the Ontario Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association to raise funds for crippled children.

The former Houston Astros player, acquired by the Expos in the expansion draft, has carried a bat with him everywhere this winter for a conditioning program. He will head south in two weeks for the start of the Expos' spring training camp at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Printers Face Year's Biggest Game

The Belleville Ellis Juniors face their biggest test of the season, this weekend, when they face the Cobourg Cougars in a home-and-home series, with the first game in Belleville Sunday night and a return match, Monday in Cobourg.

Cobourg's impressive 4-2 win Monday over the first-place Oshawa Crushmen moved them within three points of Belleville for fourth spot and a sweep by the Cougars would leave them with a one-point edge for the last play-off spot.

The Ellis Printers on the other hand, could gain a stranglehold on fourth place with a pair of victories. Riding a five-game unbeaten streak, the Belleville team is playing their best hockey of the season. They have beaten the powerful Crushmen twice and posted single wins over Kingston and Peterborough. Their other game was a 4-4 tie with the Trenton Golden Hawks, who are six points off the play-off pace.

Belleville Barriages of the Women's Hockey League will play the Picton Blemkies in a preliminary match beginning at 7.00 p.m. Sunday. Admission, which covers this game and the Printers' 8.30 bout is $1.

Belleville scoring leaders Terry Meagher and John McConnell are currently running fifth and sixth among the Eastern Ontario Junior B League scorers and will be trying to gain ground on the leaders.

Lacrosse League Holds First Meeting

The Quinte District Lacrosse League held its first meeting of the year, at the Recreation centre last night which was attended by teams from Trenton, Belleville, Campbellford, Cobourg and Picton.

A unanimous decision was reached not to affiliate with the Ontario Lacrosse Association, but rather to carry on the league's present format of operations.

A registration fee of 25 dollars will be charged to each team as well as an additional $25 for a performance bond, and will be due at the next meeting to be held at 7.30 p.m., on March 3rd at the Recreation Centre.

The league is in its third year of operation and is composed of players of junior and juvenile age. All of the above-mentioned teams, as well as Tweed who were not present at the meeting, are expectd to be operating this year. While Wellington will probably drop out of league competition, it is hoped that teams from Kingston and Hastings may be added.

It was also decided to hold a referee's clime in late March and to draft a league constitution for approval at the next meeting.

Comets First By Whisker

The Comets of the Northern Electric League managed to hold a slim two point lead over the Dukes to finish the regular schedule in first place. They had a record of five wins, two losses and a tie in the nine games played.

Rick Rosebush won the individual scoring honors, notching 28 points that included 14 scoring efforts. Bob Taylor was runner-up with 23 points and scored a league leading 19 goals.

Douglas of the Comets was the leading netminder with a 2.44 average and two shutouts.

In the penalty department, Bob Moon sat out 26 minutes for various indiscretions.

The semi-final rounds will be two - game total points affairs, beginning Sunday at 10:30.

Family Owned Gazette for 98 Years

Taxes and Estate Sharing Led to Sale of Montreal Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — The Montreal Gazette was sold to Southam Press Limited about a year ago to avert possibility of a crisis for the next generation of the family that owned it, says Charles H. Peters, Gazette publisher, in a brief to the special Senate committee on mass media.

The Peters brief is one of four from publishers of Southam-owned newspapers released by the committee for publication today. The others are from: R. W. Southam, Ottawa Citizen; A. R. Williams, Winnipeg Tribune; and W. L. Griffith, Prince George Citizen. None of the four is appearing before the committee in person.

Mr. Peters, a member of the family that owned the Montreal morning newspaper for 98 years, said The Gazette felt the best contribution it could make to the committee studies "is to present to you in some detail the reasons that led our company to make the decisions that we did."

His brief was devoted exclusively to the newspaper's family ownership history from its purchase in 1870 by two brothers, Thomas and Richard White, and the reasons for its sale to the Southam company by the latter's descendants.

In the years preceding the sale, the five principal owners were confronted with the problem of what would happen in the next generation. The five had 14 grandchildren, five of them girls.

They faced possible tax problems and "there was also the difficulty of keeping 14 principal shareholders in agreement."

The owners had practically reached a point where cash was available to pay succession duties but almost nothing would be left in the individual estates except shares in the company, conjuring the probability of forced sales of stock.

There were other problems—how to find capital to keep pace with a probable revolution in printing methods, well-financed competition in Montreal and the future of employees.

Among plans considered and rejected by the owners for practical reasons were: Carry on as in the past years; become a public company; sell a minority interest; sell to or deal with local competitors; sell to the highest bidder; sell to business interests.

The final choice was to "sell to a carefully selected purchaser with newspaper background" and that led to the Southam company.

Among reasons Mr. Peters cited for the choice of Southam Press were: A long record of responsible publishing; a long connection with Quebec where the Southam firm had printing plants; local autonomy in editorial policy; good management; printing experience; a group news service; technical advice; future stability; opportunity for staff; preserving competition in the news field in Montreal.

The sale worked out well, Mr. Peters said. Gazette readers got a better newspaper. The staff, with some exceptions, got more opportunity and security. The shareholders got a wider investment base.

In studies leading up to the sale, it was concluded that developments in technology and economics made impossible a return to the days when many newspapers were run by their own publishers and editors. However, "the freedom and diversity of the past should be an objective in planning for future ownership of newspapers."

Over the short term, there might have to be more groupings of newspapers. Yet limitations might have to be placed on such trends if too much control was exercised in one city or one province by any one group.

"There may also have to be consideration of whether any one newspaper should also own radio and television outlets in the same city, or vice versa."

Mr. Southam in his Ottawa Citizen brief said he is "totally opposed to multi-media owner- adding: "I think such ownership should be prohibited by law."

Ottawa was one of three Canadian cities with direct competition in the English-language evening newspaper field. The others were Toronto and Winnipeg. In addition to a second English-language evening daily, The Journal, Ottawa had a successful French-language evening daily, Le Droit.

"There is no comparable metropolitan zone anywhere in Canada where three dailies not only survive but prosper," said the brief.

All three properties were looking with confidence to the future since all were building new plants or installing new equipment, or both. In its move to a new plant, The Citizen planned to adopt new production techniques, including offset printing.

Mr. Southam remarked that as publisher of The Citizen he had total responsibility for its operations. The basis credo of the Southam company "is that newspapers are essentially community services and that they must, therefore, be published and generally administered in the communities which they serve."

"I can see nothing wrong with having an independent authority listen to criticism from others about the way we conduct our business."

"However, I recognize the danger that one improperly constituted could do a great deal more harm than good."

Such a council might "deal with complaints not only from the public but from the press as well in cases where it is felt public bodies are improperly restricting the public's right to know."

Mr. Williams in The Tribune brief said that he would favor the establishment of a press council like that in Britain "if it would be reassuring to the public to have the assessment of an independent party."

However, he had faith in the integrity of newspapers as a whole. In 35 years in the business, he had never known advertising considerations to influence news judgment. He knew of cses where advertisers tried. He had never known them to succeed.

The trend to group ownership of newspapers, dictated basically by economics, seemed likely to continue. A monopoly "of all media in a given area is undesirable" but "even a mediocre newspaper is better than none at all and two are better than one."

"Winnipeg is better served because it has two newspapers, yet it is doubtful if a second would exist but for the fact that Southam Press entered the field many years ago."

The rival Winnipeg paper, The Free Press, is owned by FP Publications.

The issue was more than than group ownership. It was what should be done to preserve existing newspapers and to encourage establishment of new ones. Morover, newspaper ownership was influenced by the same social changes that affected every other enterprise. Ownership was no longer synonymous with control.

Mr. Griffith of Prince George agreed with the others that a continued concentration of ownership in the media is inevitable because of the constantly rising cost of equipment and services.

Prime functions of the media were to inform, to interpret, to promote causes and to elevate public tastes. At Prince George, the accent was on local or local-related news, although at times national and international events might command more attention.

Student States No Plans Made To Set Fires

MONTREAL (CP) — A 19-year-old Sir George Williams University student Tuesday testified that students rejected a proposal to occupy all 14 floors of the university computer centre Feb. 10, the eve of a fire that forced demonstrators to evacuate the seven occupied floors.

Vaughn Dowie was speaking at the conspiracy trial of 10 Trinidad students charged in connection with the $2,000,000 computer-wrecking incident at the university Feb. 11, 1969.

Under defence questioning, Dowie said several professors visited the occupied areas to express their support for the students "and if there had been any plot or conspiracy to destroy property or set fires, I would have heard about it . . . but I did not hear of any such plans during the two-week occupation" which began Jan. 29.

Dowie has already admitted being part of the demonstration. He has not been charged and is still a member of the university student body.

He testified that "a very small minority" of students who met during peaceful occupation of the computer centre "had extremist views."

More than 100 students occupying the computer centre fled into the arms of police Feb. 11, when the fire broke out.

The incident was sparked by a charge of racism against a biology professor at the university. A university committee subsequently exonerated him of all charges.

Dowie testified that assurances were made that the computers—valued at $1,600,000—"would be kept in good order. These assurances were made either in writing or vocally."

Police Chief Says Mayor Interfered

NEW HAMBURG, Ont. (CP) — Police Chief George Thomas Tuesday told a judicial hearing investigating five charges of insubordination and dereliction of duty against him that Mayor Curtis L. Roth interfered in police matters.

He testified the mayor had questioned him on a number of occasions about traffic tickets and had once asked about a parking ticket given to a man who had just spent $200 shopping in the community. He said the mayor had asked him why he couldn't give courtesy tickets.

He testified that he told the mayor:

"The law is the law and it applies to everyone."

Chief Thomas was suspended with pay last Dec. 8 after he failed to appear at a police commission meeting.

Tuesday, he charged the mayor with interfering during an incident last Halloween involving a group of youths in front of the town hall at about 3:15 a.m.

He testified he told the group "you've got five minutes to get off the street or someone is going to end up in jail." But he said the mayor told him to wait.

"I regarded his interference as undermining my authority and making a fool of me in front of the youths of the town, many of whom I was having trouble with."

Mayor Roth denied the charges of interference saying "whenever I followed up a question from a taxpayer he would consider it interference."

Marchand Under Attack

Regional Expansion Minister Charged with Empire-building

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition party speakers spent Tuesday in the Commons bombing Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand with accusations of excessive secrecy, empire building and outright failure

Before the House was a motion by James McGrath (PC—St. John's East) condemning a lack of co-ordination between the policies of Mr. Marchand's department and those of the government generally, and a failure to bring the issue of regional disparity before the Commons regional development committee. The debate concluded without the motion coming to a vote.

Mr. McGrath said Mr. Marchand has been reluctant to provide information about his department's activities and has blocked investigations by the standing committee because Parliament would soon find he had accomplished nothing.

"No government makes a secret of its successes," Mr. McGrath said, adding that the skimpy information available is strong evidence that regional development policies have been a total failure.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield added an attack on the government's fiscal and financial policies which, he said, have broadened and deepened regional disparity in Canada in the past year despite election promises to the contrary.

"The country is falling back," the Conservative leader added.

Leading off for the NDP in the debate, Lorne Nystrom (Yorkton-Melville) added an amendment to condemn the failure of official policies to reduce regional poverty and to create new employment.

In his own defence, Mr. Marchand counter-attacked by terming Mr. McGrath's comments "banal, insipid, empty and non-productive." As for Mr. Nystrom, anybody could agree with him that poverty was a bad thing and he had said nothing else, Mr. Marchand said.

In fact, the minister said, under the new industrial incentives program—which offers up to $30,000 to producers for each new job created in an area designated as underdeveloped—the government has approved 360 of 544 applications.

The total represented an investment of $653,000,000 and 22,000 new jobs. The difficulty was only that an average of two years was necessary to put new plants into operation.

A spokesman for Mr. Marchand said later this investment would create 10,500 jobs in the Atlantic area, 6,400 in Quebec, 1,800 in Ontario and 3,400 in the West.

Wading in to defend Mr. Marchand from the criticisms and heckling of Mr. McGrath and John Lundrigan (PC—Gander-Twillingate), Transport Minister Don Jamieson commended the deliberate and cautious approach Mr. Marchand has brought to his job.

Without care, he said, government policies could lead to such conditions as the over-capacity which threatened Newfoundland's fresh frozen fish industry less than two years ago.

Often, he said, the only answer to the issue of under-development in the Atlantic area has been: "Give us another fish plant."

The Transport Minister added in defence of Mr. Marchand's plan to designate growth centres in under-developed areas that the only alternative is continuation of the "pastoral syndrome."

Centralization is necessary to enable people to obtain better schooling, medical care and job mobility than when they lived in isolated communities, he said.

Mr. Stanfield accused the government of taking "a cold-blooded, disinterested attitude" to Saskatchewan which only two years ago was a "have" province and now is in trouble.

He added that Ottawa has been using its power to "take a strangle-hold on provinces like Prince Edward Island" through an extremely centralized program.

Wrinch Saw 500 Sick Biafran Children Lying Naked on Floor

OTTAWA (CP) — The chairman of the Canadian Red Cross, Maj.-Gen. Arthur Wrinch, said Tuesday reports of mass starvation, rape and looting in the wake of the Nigerian civil war have been exaggerated.

But he added that he saw "some horrible sights"—including 1,400 small children suffering from advanced malnutrition—during his 11-day visit to Nigeria at the request of the Canadian government.

He flew there three days after the Biafran secessionist regime officially surrendered Jan. 12.

Maj.-Gen. Wrinch appeared before the Commons external affairs committee which is investigating Canada's relief efforts on behalf of Nigerian war victims.

He told the committee the Canadian government should work through its mission in Lagos to convince the Nigerians to admit Canadian welfare workers to aid in food distribution, as well as doctors and nurses.

He said he saw two large groups of children, 500 at Port Harcourt and 953 near Owerri, who were suffering from kwashiorkor, a condition produced by severe protein deficiency.

At Port Harcourt, the children, mostly between one and five years old, were lying naked in the mud or on concrete floors. "A few were on beds. There were not enough mats." Nearly all the children were suffering from diarrhea.

"The place had been cleaned up before I saw them and I thank God it was."

After the visit, he said, he had to throw away his shoes and trousers because he "couldn't pack them."

His reaction to the scene, he said, was that he was unable to say a word.

"One doesn't speak in a case like that."

The children had been dying at a rate of 20 a day in outlying regions, but once they were taken to the Port Harcourt Hospital their conditions improved. "Its astonishing how quickly they come back when they are given food and care."

Except for the two groups of children, Maj.-Gen. Wrinch said he found conditions in the former Biafran area not as bad as he had expected. The relief program was being carried out satisfactorily, and there were "ample" food supplies to meet immediate needs.

"I had heard stories of mass starvation. I don't think the facts support this."

He saw a great number of refugees on the roads, carrying their belongings on their heads.

"Children of three or four were doing their part and also carrying possessions. The children looked hungry. But they were not skin and bones and they did not look as though they had been starving for a long time.

"They probably hadn't eaten for two, three or four days, but there's a difference between that and mass starvation."

As for looting, Maj.-Gen. Wrinch said there has been looting "in every war that ever was."

There certainly had been some in Nigeria—including the stripping of some large hospitals of all their bedding and medical supplies.

Maj.-Gen. Wrinch said he believed the reason the world press had exaggerated reports of suffering in the civil war was because the "high-powered" public relations organization employed by the former Biafran government had greatly swayed world opinion toward the secessionist regime.

Role of Religion Declines

OTTAWA (CP) — Declining importance for organized religion was predicted here Tuesday at the second annual central conference of priests.

Rev. Gordon Irving, associate professor of sociology at St. Patrick's College, Ottawa, told 200 Roman Catholic priests attending the conference that organized religion is beginning to exist only on the periphery of society.

An important change affecting religion was a new emphasis on humanism, accenting personal growth and fulfilment.

The challenge to the priesthood, he said, is to develop new attitudes and a new capacity to deal with this change.

"The best we can provide is the maintenance of traditional values re-cast in new forms."

"The Hardest Working Classified Want Ads are the ones that are Written the Best!"

Follow These Helpful Suggestions For Writing A Good Want Ad.

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

2—Be CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. Always include "price".

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions.

You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

Board of Education Representative Visits Deseronto Council Meeting

DESERONTO — Deseronto's representative on the Hastings County Board of Education paid his first visit Monday night to the town council. Mr. J. L. Gunning of RR 1, Tweed, is representative on the Board for Tweed, Deseronto, and the townships of Hungerford, Huntington, and Tyendinaga.

Mr. Gunning explained that, with such a wide territory to cover ,it was very difficult for him to attend council meetings. Frequently these interfere with other commitments, such as committee meetings. He agreed with Deseronto itself that it was too big an area and that one man could not do justice to it all.

Mr. Gunning was very helpful, answering many questions to the best of his ability. Such matters as the new teaching methods, and the obvious waste in operation came up for consideration. There was fruitful discussion of many of the matters which have been on the minds of council members ever since the establishment of the county boards. Council was obviously pleased with Mr. Gunning's visit, and his evident desire to be of help.

The question of Deseronto pupils attending the Napanee District Secondary School, rather than attending a secondary school or schools in Belleville, came up for serious discussion. However, Mr. Gunning announced that a newly-formed committee to investigate the boundary lines of the area under its control will meet for the first time next week. Hopefully, Deseronto's position will come up for consideration.

The question must be settled before June if any change is to be made, Councillor Jack Layfield noted Tuesday.

In considering the choice, Mr. Gunning noted that Hastings grade seven and eight pupils are now being taken by bus to visit secondary schools in Hastings. Should Deseronto pupils continue to go to Napanee, the Deseronto public school boys and girls should not be included.

The question of transportation was gone into, and the loss of pupil time in taking their work so far from home, in case they are one day rejected by the Napanee school.

Economy, also, is a factor. Which is cheaper for the Deseronto tax payer, to pay for the education of secondary school pupils, in Lennox and Addington, or have them travel the longer distance to the schols in its own county?

These are some of the phases of the question which will probably be considered when the new committee meets next week.

When asked Tuesday what the next step would probably be, Councillor Layfield stated that the committee would make some recommendation to the Deseronto Council which that council would consider and either accept or reject.

Clerk-treasurer Resigns

DESERONTO — After twelve years of valuable service as clerk-treasurer of Deseronto, Joseph Reynolds handed in his resignation at Monday night's council meeting, the resignation to be effective May 1. With much regret, his resignation was accepted, and council is advertising for applications for the position by March 30.

Mr. Reynolds has been a Deseronto resident since 1940 when he became the manager of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce. His retirement came in 1956 and two years later he became the clerk-treasurer of the town, bringing with him years of experience in banking. For some time he has contemplated retirement into private life, but has been persuaded, privately, to continue.

He and Mrs. Reynolds plan to remain in Deseronto, in the new home they built last year.

Mayor J. W. Sharpe feels a personal loss in the resignation of Mr. Reynolds.

Stirling Public Library Board Elects Officers

At the January meeting of Stirling Public Library board Mrs. Douglas Patterson was re-elected chairman and W. Carmen treasurer. The other members are Mrs. Allan Wells, Robert Hulin and Reeve Donald Rodgers.

Plans were made for the Lake Ontario regional library board meeting scheduled to commence in Stirling in March.

The librarian, Mrs. Blake Faulkner and the assistant, Mrs. Walter Rodgers, reported that several new books would be offered on the shelves at an early date.

He never married.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market declined fractionally in light mid-morning trading today as a rally that began late Tuesday appeared to run out of steam.

The market turned around in late trading Tuesday and interrupted a seven-day slump.

On index today, industrials were down .16 to 178.62. Golds gained .05 to 154.13, base metals .05 to 114.64 and western oils .05 to 210.23.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 646,000 shares compared with 685,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Advances outnumbered declines 134 to 100 with 206 issues unchanged.

Endako was up ¼ to 15. The company reported fourth-quarter earnings of 41 cents a share compared with 11 cents in the similar 1968 period.

junited Canso, up $1.15 Tuesday, slipped 5 cents to $7.00. The company's annual earnings were eight cents a share compared with two cents in the previous year.

Inco slipped ⅛ to 44⅝. The stock rose 1 Tuesday although the company reported annual earnings of $1.56 a share compared with $1.93 in the previous year.

A sudden change of direction in the final hour of trading Tuesday sent the market to its first gain in the last eight sessions.

The market opened with a small decline and then continued to fall for most of the session. But a quick reversal on Wall Street touched off a sharp turnabout and prices climbed sharply.

On index, the industrial index, off .50 points 1½ hours before the close, ended the session with an advance of 1.20 to 178.78. Western oils were up 1.57 to 210.18 and base metals .45 to 114.59. Golds slipped .30 to 154.08.

Volume was 2,714,000 shares compared with 2,328,000 Monday.

Gains outnumbered losses 273 to 232 with 233 issues unchanged.

Inco rose 1 to 44½. The company reported annual earnings of $1.56 a share compared with $1.93 in the previous year.

United Canso was up $1.15 to $7.05 on annual earnings of eight cents a share compared with two cents in the previous year.

May Ban Night Parking

TRENTON — Overnight parking on Trenton streets may soon be a thing of the past.

Monday night Trenton council recommended that a bylaw be drawn up to control overnight parking on the town's streets.

Cause of the recommendation was a report by Works Commissioner Arthur B. Campbell that automobiles parked on the streets are interfering with services provided by the town - - - including snow removal and possible street sweeping in summer.

The commissioner will bring a further report to council after studying Belleville's bylaw concerning overnight parking on the streets and also the practicability of enforcing such a bylaw.

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: If the other motorist is uninsured, how do I collect my accident damages?

ANSWER: You may make settlement directly with the uninsured motorist or you may make a claim against the Ontario Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund.

Valuable facts like the above, and many others on how to claim payment from the fund and what action to take when the uninsured motorist denies liability, can be obtained from a booklet published by the Ontario Department of Transport. The booklet explains the operation of the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund and answers the questions of motorists hounded by the thought of being hit by an uninsured vehicle.

Soon after a claim is made, the claims fund director instructs an adjuster to investigate the case and determine responsibility for the accident. If the uninsured motorist does not deny liability, the Motor Vehicle Accident Claim Fund proceeds with the adjustment of the claimant's loss. If he denies liability, the claimant's loss is resolved by the courts. Provided liability is admitted, payment can be made from the fund and the uninsured motorist's licence and owner's permit are suspended and cannot be reinstated until he files proof of financial responsibility and makes arrangements to repay the Fund the amount paid to the injured party.

The booklet outlines other areas such as coverage for visitors to Ontario, hit-and-run accidents and how much can be recovered from the MVACF. Copies of the brochure are available on request from the Director of Claims, Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, Ontario Ferguson Block, Queen's Park Toronto 5, Ontario.

The Ontario Department of Highways spends $60,000 of taxpayers' money annually to repair highway signs damaged and mutilated by irresponsible hunters' gunshot or bullets.

A damaged sign is a useless sign and can't warn the unsuspecting motorist of impending danger. Illegible signs cause accidents because they do not communicate to the motorist.

If $60,000 wasn't required to replace mutilated signs, DOH could use the money for other more worthy purposes. With $60,000 it could buy three 125 h.p. graders or 15 three-ton dump trucks, or finance surface treatment of a 20 foot wide pavement with asphalt emulsion or chips for 30 miles.

Besides costing taxpayers money, a flying bullet or gunshot which misses a highway sign could easily injure people or animals in the background, too.

Put your money to a better use. Aim for safety and dollar saving . . . not for a highway sign.

Old Shell Explodes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A young Canadian cutting up an old anti-aircraft shell with a torch to make jewelry was killed Monday night when the shell exploded.

Police said Mario J. Maida, 22, who came to San Francisco about three months ago from Niagara Falls, Ont., was struck in the head and chest by fragments from the 40-millimetre shell, which was supposed to have been disarmed.

Fast Transportation Can Aid Canadian Fisheries Industry

MONTREAL (CP) — Fast transportation can produce a healthier fisheries industry, an Air Canada sales manager said today.

In a paper presented to the conference on automation and mechanization in the fishing industry, F. R. Laflamme of Montreal said air transportation could provide a better product with a wider marketing area, thus bringing in more revenue that could be used for modernization of plant and equipment.

Full plane loads of frozen shrimp had been successfully moved across the Atlantic in the past year.

In another paper, A. Carsten of Surveyer, Nenniger and Chenevert Inc. of Montreal saw "a steady and profitable outlet for sources" in the development of the fish protein concentrate market.

Although "bland and odorless," fish protein concentrate was comparatively inexpensive and highly nutritious. Capable of taking various forms, it could be used in staple diets and manufactured foods.

An engineer and a harbor planner predicted consolidation of Atlantic fishing operations into fewer and larger harbors. C. K. Hurst of the federal works department and F. Dopplinger, chief of planning for the fisheries service, said current trends point to a concentration of the entire fishing fleet of the Canadian East Coast in five or six ports.

Texts of papers were made available in advance of presentation.

At Tuesday's opening session, a federal fisheries officer, Jean Frechet, called for "scientific fishery management" for the most effective utilization of sea resources.

Without new methods, the fish harvest would reach its maximum between 1985 and 2000. By raising fish in large enclosures to protect them from predators, the annual harvest could be increased.

Mr. Frechet listed several potential technological innovations:

—Satellites, which would locate fish by laser beam.

—Devices, that would use light, odor or sound to encourage fish to group together for an easier catch.

—Remote control torpedoes, to pull nets through the water, particularly under Arctic ice.

In addition, dolphins could be trained to herd fish.

Conference Chairman Dr. A. W. H. Needler, deputy federal minister of fisheries, told delegates Tuesday that technological innovation is necessary if the industry is to survive.

Fishermen were faced with competition from other countries, different foods and other sectors of the economy. Mechanization was necessary.

Machinery Firms Not Productive

OTTAWA (CP) — Productivity in the Canadian farm machinery industry is about 80 to 85 per cent as great as productivity in the United States, a researcher for the royal commission on farm machinery believes.

Christopher J. Maule, economics professor at McMaster University, in a study released Tuesday, said earlier estimates that Canadian productivity was only 68 per cent of U.S. are "a statistical illusion."

The difference, he said, "is due to differences in the way in which shipments are valued when they are reported by the companies to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in Ottawa and the Bureau of the Census in the United States."

The "value added"—estimates of the value of the work and materials added to raw or semi-raw goods—is valued lower in Canada than in the U.S.

Mr. Maule warned that the same situation may not apply to other industries than farm machinery. Substantial amounts of the shipments in the farm machinery industry are to other divisions of the same company and the transfer prices used "tend to be those that are most convenient to the company."

The report is the third of the commission's research studies to be made public.

Discussion of comparative productivity between Canadian and U.S. farm implement plants were a major item during the public hearings of the commission in Ottawa in 1967. There has been free trade in farm equipment between Canada and the U.S. since 1944.

Industry spokesman at that time argued that there were too many variables involved to make accurate assessments of productivity.

Ethel Waters Returns to TV

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ailing but indomitable and trusting in her Lord, Ethel Waters has come back to show business at 73.

She gives a moving performance as Rosey Grier's dying mother on the filmed Daniel Boone segment being shown Thursday on NBC-TV

For six weeks starting Feb. 19, at Chicago's Ivanhoe Theatre, she is scheduled to re-create her most famous stage and screen role, confidante to a troubled young girl in Member of the Wedding.

"I'm praying that I'll be able to hold out," Miss Waters says. She suffers from heart trouble, high blood pressure and diabetes but feels she has spiritual strength to bear them.

"My doctor's worried about my heart, but Jesus is a heart specialist, too!" she says.

From a squalid childhood in a Philadelphia suburb, Ethel Waters rose to show-business eminence at 17, in vaudeville, as a nightclub headliner belting out Dinah, and Stormy Weather, as a dramatic star of Broadway in Mamba's Daughters and in the movies Cabin in the Sky, Pinky.

Daniel Boone is her first TV dramatic appearance in seven years, the Chicago performance her first stage work since 1964.

She lives alone in a Los Angeles apartment. Now she has felt the trouper's urge again. And "I was grateful for the money."

A large-framed woman who has shed a lot of weight, Miss Waters walks slowly. White hair fringes and big red earrings border the dark, expressive face.

Is religion now the most important thing in her life?

"I don't say I'm a religious person. I say I'm a born-again Christian. And that is the most important thing in my life because I've found my living Savior."

In recent years she has worked in the Billy Graham crusades, singing hymns. The famed contralto is not as strong or smooth as it was, but still is rich.

"I sing because I'm happy. I sing because I'm free. For His eye is on the sparrow, and I know He watches me.

"And you too!" she added happily.

Behind The Glass

Next Monday and Tuesday the women's section of the Quinte Curling Club will stage their biggest spiel of the year with The Intelligencer trophy and accompanying prizes as the goal for the 24 rinks entered.

Betty Walmsley is the chairman of the committee with Jean Lantz as assistant. The prize committee is composed of Kay Pape, Jessie Baber and Nina Gault, while Lou Halpin is looking after the decoration of the clubhouse. The trophy has been reburnished, the keepers have been purchasd and ready for the winning rink along with their prizes. There are a number of outside rinks in this year's competition and the competition in exceptionally keen for this beautiful trophy. Fran Miller and her rink from Kingston had the honor of winning this trophy three years in succession and Helen McCorquodale and Anne Acton are two local rinks that have won the trophy in its years of competition.

The draw opens at nine o'clock on Monday morning and will continue uninterrupted until Tuesday afternoon, when the curlers will break off for the tea hour. This is one of the highlights of the spiel and thoroughly enjoyed especially by the outside curlers.

The public is invited to come out and watch the play and they will see women curlers every bit as good as the best men curlers making almost impossible shots. It is a most interesting spiel and it takes a real good rink to win this beautiful trophy.

Fare Tuesday Not Heavy

NEW YORK (AP) — Television viewers with an appetite for actuality programs had a grim choice Tuesday night. NBC, in its monthly magazine program First Tuesday, showed a segment filmed in sections of India now in the midst of famine. CBS, in its biweekly magazine program 60 Minutes, was simultaneously concentrating on the agony of the bleeding animal in a Spanish bullfight.

NBC opened its two-hour program in a light mood with a report on a self-styled millionaire who made a quick fortune selling imitation shrunken heads, but now is striking it rich organizing "future millionaire clubs" and, for a fee, advising others how to turn a quick buck. It was amusing—and priceless publicity for the subject.

The program also told of a ballet dancer and her husband who took over an abandoned movie theatre in a Death Valley ghost town and painted the flaking walls with murals to simulate an audience. The woman gives solo ballet performances daily—whether anyone comes to see her or not.

A scary short feature presented conflicting opinions on whether there is danger of an earthquake hitting a plutonium plant in the state of Washington where millions of gallons of radioactive water are stored.

A sharp change of pace was the film of the basketball madness that sweeps Galesburg, Ohio, but it was nice to see happy, busy high school students concentrating on sports and cheer-leading.

The CBS program started at about that point, with a report on what co-host Mike Wallace called "the bloodless revolution" in the motion picture industry.

The revolution is made by the young. Wallace said two out of three movie-goers today are between 16 and 25, and they go to see movies "made about themselves."

The young film-makers like to shoot low-budget movies on location, he said. There were bits from interviews from some of the young and avant garde, including the makers of Easy Rider, a smash hit.

At that point, Cleveland Amory took over with his vivid report on "man at his most violent," in the bull ring, and this viewer beat a hasty retreat.

NBC wound up its second hour with a film portrait of Bernadette Devlin, the young member of Parliament who faces jail for her part in the conflicts in Northern Ireland.

The photography and the handling of the profile was revealing and adroit. It was a British production already shown on English TV, but banned in Ireland.

Both are such good programs that it seems a shame they come on the same night.

Westdale Young People Host Visiting Youths

NAPANEE — Eleven young people from Kingsview Church in Weston were guests for a weekend of the young people of Westdale Park Church.

Friday evening was spent playing get - acquainted games, singing, and enjoying the refreshments. Then each guest went home with a host or hostess until Sunday.

Saturday was a long day of activity, mostly out of doors. The afternoon was spent on the Wilson farm at Lime Lake, with snowmobiles, skis and toboggans all adding to the fun. By 10.30 they were all at the arena on skates, and did not stop until close to midnight.

Sunday morning all attended Sunday School, and then church. The visitors assisted Rev. Gordon Hammond with the service. Also, they assisted with the music, playing a special selection making use of organ, piano, trumpet, and guitar.

After having had dinner in the homes where they were billeted, the Weston young folks left for their homes.

FEATURE TIMES

Kidnapped Woman Was Scared When Abductors Squabbled

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Socialite Mary Nelles told a kidnapping trial Tuesday that a "split in the gang" made her fear for her life toward the end of her 39 hours of captivity last fall.

The daughter of millionaire Marshall Davis of Toronto was testifying at the second day of the trial of Richard Yeowart, 25, charged with kidnapping and conspiracy to kidnap her.

Mrs. Nelles and her husband Cliff were attacked the night of Sept. 7, 1969, as they returned to their home at nearby Claremont, a renovated schoolhouse in a secluded area.

She was taken away in a car and released unharmed nearly two days later after her father paid a $200,000 ransom, since recovered by police. The kidnappers had originally demanded $850,000.

Yeowart, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, is a former Metropolitan Toronto policeman. Five other Toronto bachelors pleaded guilty to the kidnapping last November and were sentenced to prison terms ranging from 10 to 15 years.

Mrs. Nelles testified that she began to fear for her life when one of her captors told her the gang did not feel they were getting enough ransom money.

"I thought there was a split in the gang," she said. "I was afraid I was going to be killed."

She said she was unable to identify her captors because she was attacked from behind and kept blindfolded throughout her ordeal. After 39 hours of being kept in the back seat of a car bound and gagged, she said her only injuries were bruised wrists and a swollen nose caused by the bandages over her eyes.

She said the only nourishment she was offered was a glass of orange juice.

Earlier, Crown Attorney Bruce Affleck, outlining his case at the start of the trial, said Yeowart was promised $150,000 for his part in the kidnapping.

"It was Rick Yeowart's part to go into the house . . . his duty to subdue Cliff Nelles," the attorney said.

He said Cliff Nelles was told by Yeowart before Mrs. Nelles was taken away that two Montreal men had been given keys to safety-deposit boxes which contained instructions for them to kill all the members of the Nelles family if the kidnappers' directions were not followed.

Affleck said Yeowart and Ralph Cameron, 22, one of the five sentenced last fall in the case, were the two men who actually carried out the kidnapping.

"The only person who spoke was Rick Yeowart," Affleck said. "Ralph Cameron was almost too frightened to speak."

Mr. Affleck read to the 12-man Ontario County Court jury the ransom note, given to Cliff Nelles after his wife had been taken from their house. In four places the note said "Mary will be killed" if police or press were notified of the kidnapping.

"This is not a threat, it is a positive fact," the note continued.

Mr. Nelles told the court:

"I was very upset and I believed Mary would be killed if she hadn't been already."

The note detailed an elaborate procedure by which Mr. Nelles was to contact his wife's family six hours later and have the ransom ready by that afternoon.

Protest Against Children Walking to School Grows

VAL CARON, Ont. (CP) — A snowballing protest against children walking to school in 30-below-zero weather spread Tuesday night to nearby Azilda.

But parents in the community suspended any action until a meeting with Ontario Education Minister William Davis, who will be in Sudbury Friday on another matter.

The ratepayers meeting Tuesday night originally voted to pull out the Azilda students this morning. They would have joined 1,000 students from this community, 10 miles north of Sudbury, who have been kept out of four separate schools by their 400 parents since Monday.

Val Caron parents were protesting a school board decision to halt bus service for children living within a mile of school. They say it is too cold and hazardous for their children to walk to school.

Gaston Demers, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Nickel Belt, which includes Azilda, persuaded a meeting Tuesday night of 125 Rayside Township ratepayers to wait until Mr. Davis arrives.

Mr. Demers and Elie Martel, New Democratic Party MPP for Sudbury East, who represents Val Caron, were to meet with school board officials later today.

Tuesday night's meeting was called by township Reeve Gilles Pelland, who said he was acting as an individual and not as a representative of township council.

Reeve Pellard, who was in favor of pulling the students out, said:

"If we want something we will have to fight for it and we will have to suffer for it."

One mother who lives almost a mile from the school said she just couldn't send her children out in 30-below-weather and suggested it was just as well to have the walkout now.

Another woman, whose husband voted against pulling the students out, told him indignantly: "You'll hitch-hike to work tomorrow morning—I'm not driving you."

Police were called Monday to Val Caron when parents tried to block buses near the intersection of highways 69 and 634. But there was no violence and police were on hand Tuesday to direct traffic and keep order in the area of the four separate schools where angry parents are picketing.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Any Breast Lump Must Be Examined

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: After having read the letter of the 23-year-old mother who worried about cancer, I am prompted to write this. I am 45, and detected a breast lump two months ago.

Our doctor has examined me twice since, but says as it is "pea-size" I have nothing to worry about. He says he will check in a year. I wish I could put my mind at ease. How can I be the judge of it for as long as a year? — Mrs. B.

Comment: No matter what any doctor thinks (however great his experience and knowledge) he cannot be absolutely certain that any lump (anywhere) is non-cancerous until it is examined under a microscope. (Size, in itself, should not be an index to diagnosis.)

It is true that all lumps are not malignant. But it is also true, that some that appear to be benign may be serious.

Therefore, I suggest — especially since you are apprehensive — that you get another opinion. Your doctor will be glad to recommend a surgeon to study your problem.

Whether he uses mammography (X-ray of the breast) or any other method; even if he decides to remove the lump to have it examined in the laboratory — you will, at least, have the assurance that everything is being done.

A year can be like an eternity for any person worrying whether or not a lump is noncancerous or malignant.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Why does a man at 59 rebel and wish to lead a bachelor's life? — Miss X.

Comment: As this is probably of much import to you or yours, I suppose I shouldn't chuckle. I wish I had the answer. Frankly, I'd like to hear his reasons.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: What should be included in a complete physical in the form of laboratory tests? All I had was an examination of a urine specimen. — Mr. R.

Comment: Ideally the complete physical should allow sufficient time for a complete history, a head to toe examination, whatever X rays and electrocardiogram are indicated, and laboratory examinations of urine and blood — including tests for cholesterol, uric acid, sedimentation rate, red blood cell, white blood cell and hemoglobin exams.

Further tests will depend upon what the doctor discovers in the patient's history and actual examination. For example, additional studies of tests for liver and kidney function, Pap test, routine pelvic and rectal examinations.

• • •

For Mrs. B.: For a chalazion of the lower lid, wet heat applications and antibiotics are sometimes effective. But this small, circumscribed inflammation of the lid (which sometime follows a conjunctivitis) can be completely removed in the doctor's office by simple surgery.

• • •

For Mr. O.: Phagocytosis is a process in which phagocytes (usually special white blood cells) destroy circulating bacteria viruses or foreign bodies.

Poor Should Get Sea Riches

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Since the United States already owns a vast disproportion of the world's resources and riches, and since the inequity between the rich nations and the poor nations is creasing, we must obviously find some way to bring the world more into economic balance if we want to avoid widespread rebellion and revolution.

There is one way to do this without sacrificing a single dollar or resource we already possess. It would be a gracious and generous gesture, signifying to the poor and struggling countries of the world that we are not the oppressors and exploiters as depicted in Marxist demonology.

It is agreed by all experts in the various scientific disciplines that the wealth on and under the floor of the oceans is many times greater than our resources on land. The seabeds of the globe — which represent two - thirds of the total area of the world — contain enormous natural riches we are now technologically ready to develop and utilize.

Since the international seas belong to everybody, those nations with the most money and equipment would normally be the first and most successful to take part in this new "gold rush" for underwater minerals and other resources. And the U.S. would be first of all.

It is my view that we have not only a moral obligation but a practical stake as well in relinquishing all claims to this subaqueous treasure. We should work with the UN's political committee of the General Assembly to assure that international regulation will apportion the largest shares to the countries in greatest need.

More than this, rather than giving military and economic aid to nations, which only foments conflict and often keeps corrupt administrations more securely in power, we should offer equipment and technical help (on a loan-and-repayment basis) to the underdeveloped lands for working the seabeds.

The U.S. already commands some 60 per cent of the world's renewable and nonrenewable resources. Much more will come in when we cultivate our own coastal waters on the continental shelf. Only short - sighted greed would compel us to engage in a new race of underwater colonialism, and compound the anarchy we have created on land.

Our generosity (which is only a form of common sense) would do more to undercut the Marxist attacks on our hegemony of the world's riches than almost any other step we could take. To say "We want no more, and recognize that poverty must be alleviated if peace is to be maintained", would testify most eloquently to our sincere aim of avoiding a nuclear holocaust in a struggle for oceanic treasure.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For February 5

Your birthday today: Your co-operation with others and the help you attract distinguish this year of major challenge. Greater responsibility is almost certain to come very quickly. Personal relations may suffer from your need to spend extra time at work.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): A coincidence fires your imagination, and you may figure out a new source of income. Unorthodox ideas have their appeal.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): The early hours bring increased sensitivity. Intuition helps you to ask the right question or look in the correct place. Act on what you learn.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Long term insurance, establishment of trust funds, installment buying are favored today. Novel situations occur in your career venture and call for fresh ideas, lively attitudes.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): You will be ahead if you can make allowances for temperament. Nothing you do or say remains unnoticed now. Home changes temporarily involve inconvenience. It may be cheaper to replace tools, equipment, appliances than to attempt repairs.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Wear clothes which express your individuality today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Be independent today. Promote your prospects and schemes, particularly among new contacts. Remember to relax somewhere in the middle of the day to break tension patterns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Lively flips of circumstances are likely today. Plans for bringing your living quarters up to date are much favored. Home life is better this evening without visitors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): This may be the last opportunity to leave off some longterm nuisance for a considerable time. Give thought and effort to clarifying your position.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Re-arrange your appointments, schedules to fit the convenience of those you really want to see soon. There's no point in arguments now. Expend the energy on advancing your career instead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Go beyond your usual habits today with brighter clothing, sharper precision, a little more dramatic presentation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Today's co-operative efforts have reactions far beyond anything you can reach and touch at this moment, and will last into the future.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Business ideas require immediate follow-up; get started! In your amusement with new friends, the old friends are not to be neglected.

Nixon Won't Halt Arms

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon Wednesday issued a swift and tough warning to Moscow that the United States will pump more arms into Israel despite Soviet objections.

Nixon also proposed limitations on arms shipments to the Middle East, an offer that U.S. officials today predicted the Russians would reject.

Nixon made both moves in a letter to Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin in reply to messages from Moscow to Washington, London and Paris.

The White House withheld the text of Nixon's reply, but details of his four-point answer were suppied by authoritative sources.

Diplomatic observers said Nixon's missive indicated he was not swayed by Kosygin's implied threat to send more arms to the Arabs if the U.S. agrees to an Israeli request for more phantom and Skyhawk jets. Nixon said last Friday he would decide about the planes within 30 days.

The sources said Nixon also had categorically rejected Russian charges that U.S. arms aid to Israel is promoting tension, saying instead that Washington would supply more war material to maintain the military balance.

American officials noted that the Russians previously have rejected U.S. proposals for a joint arms embargo on the Middle East, and therefore were not hopeful the Kremlin would accept controls now.

Meanwhile Moscow Radio, in an English-language commentary Wednesday night said the conflict between Israel and its neighbors threatened to become full-scale war and blamed Israel for ruling out a peaceful solution by its own actions.

The radio said Israel has been converted from a national centre for the Jewish people into a centre for war.

Nasser May Go To Russia

LONDON (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser said in a Cairo interview shown on British television Wednesday night that he is ready to go to Russia to ask for more arms.

"They have to give us arms to be able to retaliate," he said. "They have to help us in order to defend our country against invaders, against oppression."

Nasser was asked in the filmed interview with American reporters William Touhey and Rowland Evans whether he recently had been to Moscow.

"I would like to go to the Soviet Union," he replied.

"I think the time is now a good time to go because of the escalation of the war and the bombardments by the Israelis."

Asked about the proposed French plane deliveries to Libya, Nasser said: "The problem we feel in the Arab countries is the problem of pilots."

He said Israel has pilots among immigrants it receives from the United States, France and South Africa.

Benson Discovers Error In Ontario Tax Figures

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister E. J. Benson said Wednesday he found an error of "several hundred million dollars" in an Ontario document challenging federal estimates about the impact of proposed taxation changes.

Ontario contends the federal tax-change proposals amount to raking substantial additional revenue into Ottawa. Federal calculations project only a marginal increase in the total take after various adjustments are complete.

At a conference of federal and provincial finance ministers and treasurers Monday and Tuesday in Quebec, Ontario presented its own, higher estimate.

In the Commons Wednesday, Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) asked Mr. Benson whether he plans to call another conference to reconcile differences between computers in Ottawa and Toronto.

Mr. Benson, an accountant by profession, said the Ontario figures are being studied, but in a cursory first glance he had seen "a mistake" of several hundred million dollars.

He said the Ontario calculation mistakenly shows revised taxation of oil and mining companies would raise revenues immediately, when the tax changes are planned for introduction gradually over a period of five years.

Secrecy Over Laos Causes U. S. Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP) — State department censorship is adding to a backstage controversy with the Senate foreign relations committee over the scope and the secrecy of U.S. military operations in Laos.

The transcript of Senate hearings, held 3½ months ago on U.S. commitments and activities in Laos, is still in the custody of the censor.

"I've never seen anything like the hassle that we're having over that transcript," said Senate J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the committee.

He said it is difficult to obtain, even in secret committee sessions, a full accounting of operations in Laos.

The transcript involved covers four days of closed-door hearings before a Senate subcommittee now looking into U.S. commitments abroad.

Senator Stuart Symington (Dem. Mo.), chairman of the subcommittee, has indicated he will not press the censorship dispute at this point.

When the hearings were held in late October, Symington said he would ask that a declassified transcript of the testimony be issued as soon as possible to bring the situation in Laos into public focus.

But now, Symington says, "there is no hurry."

He is understood to be concerned lest an open dispute now make more difficult the remaing phases of his commitments inquiry. His subcommittee is due to look into the situation in Korea late this month, again, in closed session.

A censored version of the Laos transcript was sent back to the subcommittee by the state department, but leading members of the group termed it unacceptable.

Fulbright said it was so heavfly censored as to be meaningless.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A storm centred near Sault Ste. Marie early today has pushed much milder air and a widespread area of snow into Ontario. Temperatures will hold in the mid to high 20s across southern Ontario today. With one to two inches of fresh snow across southern regions overnight the precipitation now is essentially over although a few flurries may persist. Friday will be mostly cloudy with some snowflurry activity in most regions and temperatures a little below normal.

Soviet Mail Is Much Slower Than It Was 100 Years Ago

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet mail is three times slower than 100 years ago, the newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta complained Wednesday.

It called on officials to consider Western automation.

"Mail delivery was faster before the revolution," the newspaper said. "In this century of speed we cannot tolerate the fact that our postal service is becoming slower and more awkward.

"Why don't we have automation. . . ?"

The article castigated Soviet postal officials for "always looking for something bad in foreign countries without trying to adopt that which can be useful to us."

To disprove official claims that mail delivery is faster than before, the paper dug up from the national archives a letter written by author Leo Tolstoy in 1867. It had been mailed in Moscow and delivered the next day in Tula, 120 miles away.

Using the same mailbox and the same address, Literaturnaya Gazeta discovered it now takes three days for a letter to reach Tula.

"The road from Tula to Moscow is now three times as long," it said sarcastically.

Cabinet Shuffle

Finance Post Switch Made

TORONTO (CP) — A. B. R. (Bert) Lawrence, 46, minister without portfolio in Ontario's Progressive Conservative government, today was named minister of financial and commercial affairs, succeeding Leslie Rowntree, 55. Mr. Rowntree, a member of the cabinet since 1960, was named chairman of the board of trustees of the Ontario Science Centre.

Mr. Lawrence, an Ottawa lawyer, was sworn in at a ceremony at Queen's Park. He entered the legislature in 1963 and was named minister without portfolio in 1969.

A native of Calgary, Mr. Lawrence won the Military Cross while serving with the Canadian Armored Corps in the Second World War. He represents Carleton East in the legislature.

A graduate of Royal Military College and Osgoode Hall law school, he is married and has four children.

Mr. Rowntree will remain as a member of the legislature which he entered in 1956. He represents York West.

As chairman of the Science Centre board, he succeeds John G. Crean whose resignation was accepted last December.

The financial and commercial affairs portfolio was Mr. Rowntree's third. He was named transport minister in 1960 and was labor minister from 1962 to 1966.

Premier Robarts also announced the appointment of Robert M. Waren, 32, as deputy minister of the department of provincial secretary and citizenship.

There now are 22 members in the cabinet. Fernand Guindon,

Godfrey Balks At Enzyme Ad

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey said Wednesday he will do no more radio and television commercials for Axion, an enzyme laundry pre-soak, unless the manufacturer allows him to say on the air that it pollutes water.

A spokesman for the Colgate-Palmolive Co., makers of Axion, refused to comment on Godfrey's position.

Godfrey said he would continue to do the commercials if Colgate permitted him to say Axion is a pollutant and that the manufacturer is trying to make it pollution-free.

He said that when he agreed to make the commercial, Colgate told him Axion was neither a water pollutant nor a detergent.

"Now I find that it's not only a detergent but has more phosphates than any of the other detergents."

Citizens To Testify

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

After three days' testimony by a total of 16 witnesses, the city of Belleville yesterday completed its case at the Ontario Municipal Board re-hearing into the controversial North Front Street shopping plaza question.

The re-hearing into the city's application for a zoning change to allow the $3,000,000 regional shopping centre, got underway Monday and is expected to last at least until the end of the week.

Testimony so far has been highlighted by the surprise announcement yesterday that Simpsons-Sears would be the major tenant in the proposed 185,000 square foot enclosed mall type plaza.

Until now, the major tenant has been kept secret by the developers, Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd.

Still to be heard at the rehearing are Cambridge Leaseholds witnesses, and any witnesses to be called by Oshawa Wholesale, the principal objectors to the plaza.

Today was set for private citizens — both for and against the plaza — to testify at the hearing.

Also today Cambridge Leaseholds counsel, R. H. Robinson, was to call as his first witness, Richard Hamilton of W. W. Urban Consultants, who late last year were hired to do an area economic study.

Allen Brass, of Proctor Redfern, who did the city's urban renewal study, has been subpoenaed as a witness but still had not been called by yesterday.

Testimony so far in the hearing has pointed to the need of a new regional plaza to serve the shopping needs of Belleville and the surrounding area.

Many of the witnesses called, testified to the industrial growth of the city and area, and also to the upsurge in construction realized in the past two years.

The last witness called yesterday by city solicitor E. Guss Porter was Beleville business-

Two Housewives at Hearing

Women Air Views On Downtown Shopping

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Two local housewives told the Ontario Municipal Board here yesterday that existing Belleville stores do not carry enough variety or the quality of clothes they wish to purchase for their families.

Testifying as a private citizen at the rehearing on the city's application for re-zoning to allow a North Front Street shopping plaza, Mrs. Kathleen Hymers displayed a jaunty "Robin Hood" type hat which she said she had to go outside Belleville to purchase.

Also, she said she found limited variety in children's clothing available with boys' clothing in particular being difficult to buy in the city.

But one of her main criticisms about downtown shopping was the parking problem and the frequent parking tickets she managed to collect.

Mrs. Hymers said she usually shopped for clothing at Toronto, Kingston and Oshawa.

The other Belleville woman to voice complaints about shopping in Belleville was Mrs. Donat Clement, whose husband was one of the prime movers in last year's 11,000 name petition protesting against OMB decision turning down the plaza after the first hearing last February.

Mrs. Clement said she was in favor of the proposed northend plaza for the same reason as many other local women — the lack of choice in clothing.

She said she frequently had to go to Toronto or Montreal to buy clothing for her hard-to-fit teenage daughters.

Also testifying yesterday in favor of the proposed northend plaza were Belleville realtor Douglas Grant, and Alderman E. Arnold Orr.

Mr. Grant said that for more than 10 years he had been attempting to interest national commercial interests to locate in Belleville, but always until two years ago, they had claimed there wasn't sufficient growth in the city.

Then, two years ago there was an upsurge in interest and a complete change of attitude, with commercial interests now being keen to locate here.

Mr. Grant attributed the location here of Loyalist College as being a major factor in the upsurge. If the North-end plaza wasn't approved, Mr. Grant could see at least one, and possibly two, other plazas locating in the immediate Belleville area.

Mr. Grant said he had been instrumental in getting Cambridge Leaseholds interested in Belleville and had acted as the agent in making the rezoning application.

To a question from OMB official A. L. McCrae, Mr. Grant said the plaza was an "absolute necessity" if the city was to be modern and competitive.

A regional centre could not be located in downtown Belleville as it lacked the characteristics for a large-size shopping plaza, he said.

What was needed in downtown Belleville was a gradual evolution of redevelopment not a large scale urban redevelopment program, he said.

Alderman Orr felt citizens wanted the plaza and said that Belleville was growing and warranted the plaza.

He didn't feel that the establishment of the northend plaza would have any long term effect on the downtown area.

"I am in favor of urban renewal," he said "but under the circumstances any urban renewal must be considered on a long term basis."

Today again was set as citizens' day at the plaza re-hearing.

Private citizens, both before and against the plaza, will be heard prior to the testimony of Richard Hamilton of W. W. Urban Consultants, who last fall did an economic study of the Belleville area.

The Toronto consultants were hired by the city in September to do the study after the urban renewal study by Procter and Redfern was discontinued last September.

A specialist in shopping plaza feasibility studies and in core area and economic studies, Mr. Hamilton has many years' experience in these fields across Canada and in the United States.

Reaction Quiet to Simpson Announcement

Belleville's downtown merchants appeared generally non-committal today following yesterday's surprise announcement that the big Simpsons-Sears department store chain would be the major tenant in the proposed northend shopping plaza.

Identity of a major tenant for the proposed plaza has been the subject of conjecture in the controversial issue.

The mystery was dispelled yesterday when R. B. Robinson, counsel for plaza developer Cambridge Leaseholds, announced the name of Simpsons-Sears at the current Ontario Municipal Board hearing.

Three downtown merchants had no comment on the announcement, but Irvine Shulman, operator of two Front Street ladies' wear stores felt it would help attract people to Belleville.

"I am sure it will be a good plaza," Mr. Shulman said. "Simpsons-Sears are good quality stores and I expect they would have an equally good store in Belleville."

He said any large store would be an attraction to Belleville.

Simpsons-Sears have had a store in Belleville on Front Street for 15 years, with household furnishings and large appliances being the main merchandise offered.

The store also has a large mail order business.

Simpsons - Sears store manager Douglas Thompson said yesterday he could not say what type of a store his company was planning for the northend plaza, if the project is approved.

"That is a matter for our planning department," he said.

Mr. Thompson did say however, that if his company did locate at the proposed plaza, the present downtown store would be closed.

But, even if the plaza is aproved, it could be one to two years before the new store would be ready, he added.

Belleville on Verge of Boom Consultant Tells OMB

Richard Hamilton, a consultant specializing in shopping plazas and an expert in urban renewal projects testified this morning at the Ontario Municipal Board's rehearing into the northend plaza issue.

He said that Belleville was on the verge of a major boom.

He cited recent industrial expansion and the increase in job opportunities.

Referring to the proposed plaza, he said that with Simpson-Sears as a major tenant the trade area involved would be greater than could be served by a downtown plaza.

He said that even if the required money was available and the necessary land acquired it would be at least four-and-one-half or five years before any urban renewal development project could be completed.

Mr. Hamilton added that for during that time the potential for the new shopping area would be so great that a shopping plaza would be built outside the City.

By 1971 the area that would be served by a regional plaza would have a market population of between 127,000 and 128,000.

Six private citizens also spoke in favor of the plan this morning.

City Closes Plaza Case

man and real estate developer William S. Wills, who a year ago appeared at the hearing to oppose the northend plaza. Mr. Wills has now changed his mind and appeared yesterday as a supporter of the plaza.

Mr. Wills gave the following reasons for changing his mind:

(1) The decision of the Federal government to restrict its financing assistance to urban renewal projects;

(2) The continued stand of council members in favor of the plaza;

(3) Substantial residential and industrial growth of the city in the past year, and

(4) A change in timing. Mr. Wills said he had never objected to the North Front Street site — only in the timing for the plaza.

Now, he said, if the proposed North Front Street site was disapproved, it could mean a plaza outside the city.

This, he said, would be "unfortunate."

To a question from opposing counsel B. S. Onyschuk, Mr. Wills replied that even if federal financing was available for urban renewal he would still be in favor of the plaza.

To a question from an OMB official he admitted there was a possibility of private redevelopment of the downtown area but said high interest rates would be a hindrance.

Land assembly with the necessity of razing existing buildings would be an even greater hindrance to private redevelopment, he said.

Other witnesses heard yesterday included city industrial commissioner Ray Brown who listed new industries locating in the city last year resulting in more than 700 new employment positions.

The industrial commissioner credited Loyalist College in Sidney Township with having an "immeasurable effect" in helping to attract industry into Belleville and area.

Building inspectors for Ameliasburg, Thurlow and Sidney townships were called to testify on building activity in the past three years.

Harry Bisdee, Ameliasburg building inspector, said most residents of his township, including himself, shopped in Belleville.

Thurlow building inspector James Logue said that the value of residential construction in his township had shown a three-fold increase since 1967. In addition, a permit for a $250,000 service station had been issued last year, as well as a permit for a $1,250,000 shopping plaza to H. J. McFarland of Picton, and a permit for $1,000,000 Holiday Inn. There had been no construction start on the last two projects.

George Caves, Sidney township building inspector, had a similar construction boom story to tell. He said residential permits in 1967 had numbered only 89 while last year the total was 218 permits valued at more than $2,000,000.

Belleville city engineer Wilbur Purcell testified that city building permits had jumped from 286 in 1967 to 450 last year.

In the same period residential construction values had jumped from $1,721,000 to $4,141,400 in 1969.

The engineer said that 240 apartment units had been constructed last year as compared to 23 in 1967. This, he said, indicated a trent toward apartment living.

Belleville real estate broker J. E. McKinney reported on the multiple listing sales of residential properties, noting an increase in sales and dollar volume.

He said there were only four vacant properties on Front Street — considerably less than three-to-four years ago.

He did not believe the downtown core was "dying" and in the past year felt there had been an increase in its viability.

As an indication of his faith in the downtown area, Mr. McKinney said his firm last year had developed one burned-out area with construction of an office building. The building completed in December was now 50 per cent rented.

He didn't believe that many tenants would move out of the downtown area if the plaza were built, although some downtown stores might open branches.

Thurlow Clerk Earl M. Dafoe testified there were no current plans for road development to the site for which Mr. McFarland had taken out a permit for the construction of a shopping plaza.

Earlier, testimony had been that Mr. McFarland last year paid $1,200 for a shopping plaza permit just north of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway and east of the North Park Street extension.

Mr. Dafoe said there was no water or sewer service to the site, although discussions were currently underway with the Ontario Water Resources Commission for the possible extension of sewer service into the township.

WELL—VISITED

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Canada's Yukon Territory recorded its second most productive tourist season in 1969. The Yukon travel department reported 123,755 visitors were counted during the seven-month period April to October inclusive. The record came in 1968 when 125,712 tourists visited the territory during the seven-month period.

Zwick's Ban Is Lifted

The return of winter weather has removed the freeze on snowmobiles at Zwick's Island.

The ban was announced earlier this week in the wake of a mild spell, which thawed the turf at the island park.

Park authorities feared damage to the greenbelt from snowmobiles.

However, the current cold spell — accompanied by snow — brought an announcement yesterday from parks superintendent that the restriction had been lifted for the time being.

Major and Mrs. Bill Davies

Salvation Army To Start Crusade

The Canadian Crusaders are on their way to Bellevile, and the messages they're bringing are wrapped in music.

A three-day program, slated for Friday, Saturday and Sunday, wil take place at the Salvation Army Citadel. Headlining the program will be Major and Mrs. Bill Davies, national Salvation Army evangelists.

Both have much experience in evangelistic endeavor and related fields, and were both recently named National Evangelists for the Salvation Army in Canada and Bermuda.

Accompanying the Crusaders will be Lieut. Glen Sharp, who was also appointed to the National Team of Evangelists and travels with them across Canada.

Major Davies and Lieut. Sharp join together vocally to present some of the more traditional Christian music.

-Friday night's program is orientated to youth, and will begin at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at 7:30 p.m. the Crusaders will get a "musical panorama" under way.

Sunday, the public is invited to worship at the Citadel at 11 in the morning and 7 in the evening.

Citizens Must Get Involved Says Hees

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
(Staff Reporter)

TRENTON — Citizen involvement was cited as the key to successful government by George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings last night.

"We are drifting into an age when there are so many things to do that we can't be bothered to attend meetings — so the power is slipping away from the people," he warned.

Mr. Hees was guest speaker at the annual meeting of the town's Canadian Cancer Society unit and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Admitting that the old days of "town meetings" were gone, Mr. Hees believed the meeting served an essential purpose which is not being met today.

They provided an exchange of ideas between the people and their elected representativs, he said.

"If people don't rise up and demand changes, nothing will be done, because the various levels of governments are passing the buck," he charged.

"We elected representatives are your hired men, and you have the right to demand legislation, so if we don't do what you want, throw us out at the next election." Mr. Hees advised.

He said this attitude should apply particularly to vital problems such as pollution of the air and water.

Referring to the Trent River, Mr. Hees warned, "If the people of this area want to see their water and air cleaned, they should go to council and tell them. If council wants federal and provincial help, we will do all we can to bring pressure on the concerned authorities and effect changes."

Mr. Hees termed the White Paper on taxation "very progressive" on the government's part to present tax proopsals which weren't simply made law, but which the people can comment on.

He felt the people should comment on the White Paper, stressing that it contained three things which should cause alarm.

Initial subject of his criticism was a change which he felt would drastically help small businessmen.

The present 21 per cent tax on profits up to $35,000 allows and gives incentive to expand and hire more people. But, the proposed 50 per cent on all business profits seriously hampers small businesses, Mr. Hees said.

Capital gains tax on property including homes is unreasonable because no profit will be realized until the property is sold, he added.

Finally, Mr. Hees noted that with inflation at a rate of five per cent annually, "a great deal of tax wouldn't be on a real increase, but a decrease in the value of money."

"The dollar value of property would be increased, but each dollar would not be worth much," he claimed.

If enough people write to Finance Minister Benson these things would be changed. If they did not write, Mr. Benson would assume that the people agreed with his proposals and make them law.

"You have the power." emphasized Mr. Hees "and I ask you to use it. This is the basis of the democratic system, and if you use your power you wil get what you want".

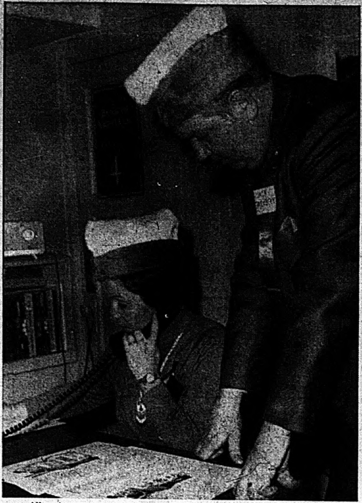
She's Hopeful of Cancer Treatment

TRENTON — The Quinte-Thousand Islands District Miss Hope for 1970 offered some hope for cancer sufferers Wednesday night at the combined annual banquet of the Trenton Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society and the Trenton Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Mary Packard, a second-year nursing trainee at the Edith Cavell Regional School of Nursing in Belleville, said: "I'm convinced that cancer can be treated effectively if caught soon enough. This is a source of hope for me, and it can be for you, too."

And Miss Packard felt that one of a nurse's responsibilities was to inform the patient and the patient's family that all was not lost, but that there was hope.

If cancer is discovered in the early stages, she had confidence in treatment methods.



All systems are go. Chairman of Saturday events for Belleville Winter Carnival, Jack Trembley, helps Chairman of Sunday's events, Mrs. Joan Kells, hold the fort at Chamber of Commerce office. Many inquiries from interested citizens have found their way to the Chamber office — where the public is asked to call for information on Carnival events.

Winter Gala All Set

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

Tonight is the official kick-off of Belleville's first winter carnival and if enthusiasm is any indication of success, the four-day event is well on the way.

For this evening's Carnival Queen contest, Kinette past president, Mrs. Lois Akey today reported there are at least 14 contestants in the competition.

She explained that response to the contest has been good, so that representation of the secondary schools in the city will be relatively uniform.

The competition is scheduled for 8.30 p.m. at Centennial Secondary School.

Plans for the next three days of events are also running smoothly, said organizers.

"All we need is for the public to get out there and participate", said a carnival official.

events Jack Trembley remark-events, Jack Trembley remarked that "things are going along well".

Saturday's events encompass the whole spectrum of action, from snowmobile drag races to a 30-hour bonspiel.

Mr. Trembley termed Saturday a "family day, fun-packed with an event for every age group", and urged parents to bring their children and involve them in what is happening.

The chairman related that there are an adequate number of entries for the barrel rolling contest, but more are needed for the tug-of-war to be held at the Belleville Plaza.

Immediately after the torchlight parade on Friday night, two heats of the barrel-rolling contest will be completed in front of the Memorial Arena.

"After the parade we only have enough time to finish two heats before the area is needed for parking for those attending the hockey game", he pointed out.

Teams of six will roll barrels 200 feet in one direction, and opponents will roll them back, completing the total distance three times.

Remaining heats will be finished at the Belleville Plaza at 2 p.m. Saturday.

"We have four teams ready to go for the tug-of-war which is also slated for the Plaza on Saturday afternoon. It will be two pulls out of three." said Mr. Trembley.

Mr. Trembley urged Bellevillians to get out and participate in as many events as possible.

"Considering there is little or no money involved for either spectators or participants, I hope that all citizens will attend events organized for their enjoyment".

Another attraction added to Saturday and Sunday's program is the chance to fly.

According to a club spokesman, Bellevillians will be able to "see the carnival from the air", courtesy of members of the Oak Hills Flying Club.

"Flights will be over the bay and Belleville, and will take off from a point near Zwick's Island. Each flight will last about 15 minutes," added the spokesman.

Sunday's events are planned with children in mind — and, says events chairman Mrs. Joan Kells, "everything is coming along very well."

Calling the co-operation committee members received "terrific," she emphasized the astsistance given by service clubs and organizations.

"We are getting several inquiries here at the Chamber as to events that will be taking place," she explained.

"All the committee members would like to see as many Bellevillians as possible out there getting involved in their carnival," she added.

Gradual Reduction in Squadron

Jets Arrive at Trenton in April

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — It won't be long before Canadian Forces Base Trenton receives its most impressive flying machines.

April 10 is scheduled for the arrival of two Boeing 707s long-range jets, which, with a cruising speed 600 miles an hour, will become the fastest plane stationed here at Air Transport Command Headquarters, a spokesman at the base said today.

An air crew and ground personnel unit will travel to Seattle, Wash., in the near future to commence training on the Boeings. When they return April 10, they will bring back two of the four new jets.

A second unit of air crew and ground personnel will also be sent to Seattle for training, and return approximately one month later with the remaining two Boeings.

Operation of two Boeings will be taken over by 437 Squadron which currently flies Canada's 12 turboprop Yukon transports.

The Yukon wil be phased out by March, 1971, and a resultant gradual reduction in strength of 437 Squadron will coincide with the disappearance of the Yukon, in service since 1961, said the CFB public information office spokesman.

"I can't foresee any new construction because number ten hangar (at the base) is one of the largest military hangars in Canada and should easily accommodate the four Boeings," the Trenton spokesman said.

The hangar, on the north side of Highway 2 is of cantilever construction and currently houses a Yukon fleet and provides a maintenance area for other aircraft.

The spokesman said that, although no plans have been made yet, there would likely be a special ceremony on Apr. 10 to mark the arrival of the first two Boeings with their crews.

Back to Councils

Municipalities Talk Services

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

A proposed water and services area encompassing several neighboring municipalities in the Belleville area, will be up for more discussion in future.

A meeting of area municipal representatives last night at Sidney township offices decided that the project would be referred to local councils for further discussion.

Present at the meeting were reeves and clerks from Thurlow, Sidney, Murray townships and Frankford.

Chairman of the meeting was Sidney reeve Jack Bush.

Mr. Bush said today that the recommendation of the meeting to take the proposal to councils was the basic result of the meeting.

He said that the ensuing resolutions from municipal councils would be forwarded to the Ontario Water Resources Commission. Upon receipt of the separate resolutions, the OWRC likely will call a second meeting of the municipalities to reach a decision.

If individual councils would like to go into a planning area for services, the area board would jointly be connected with the OWRC, said Reeve Bush.

Reeve Bush explained the area board would probably consist of a supervisory official and a pair of officials from each municipality involved on the board.

The OWRC would also have men on the board for engineering and financial advice.

The area board could have two divisions, added the reeve.

Planning also is a factor, added Reeve Bush.

He explained that Sidney's council, like many involved in the area discussions, had selected a planning proposal from Municipal Affairs Minister Darcy McKeough.

The proposal selected outlined a series of planning units under one large planning area he said.

"Planning and services do link close together," Mr. Bush said, "but a county planning board is a pretty huge thing."

Belleville is recommending a large planning area encompassing the lower sections of Hastings County, said Reeve Bush.

"Of course, all they can do is recommend to the minister," he added.

Hees Attacks 707 Purchase

TRENTON — George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings, has criticized the federal government's $55,900,000 purchase of four Boeing 707 to replace the armed force's Yukon transport fleet.

"It seems that, at a time when everybody else has cut back, the federal government could delay replacement of the Yukon for a year or so," he told reporters here last night.

"The reason for the purchase of the jet is that all four are equipped with VIP equipment," he added.

Mr. Hees was in Trenton to address the annual meeting of the town's Canadian Cancer Society unit and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

Constitutional Talk

As with the White Paper on Taxation, it looks as if the public is being encouraged to make known its views on the constitutional debate.

A joint parliamentary committee has been established to review papers and decisions made by the continuing federal-provincial conferences on the subject of changing the constitution, and as Prime Minister Trudeau said in the recent debate on this theme, "it is time to take the issue out of the wings and place it before Parliament and the people."

The public will have its say as the committee travels across the country. We hope it will bear some fruit — more, for example, than Paul Hellyer's ill-fated tour to get the views of the public on housing. But then, the constitution is such a nebulous topic; we want a strong and united Canada — unity amid diversity as someone (was it former Prime Minister Pearson?) — once put it, but beyond that does the average man have any views on the subject? At least with the dollars and cents of the tax thing most people have something they can recognize and analyse.

Nevertheless it will be more of the participatory democracy which Canadians are getting a chance to indulge in these days, and that is all to the good.

Power Politics

Take a big power and a situation like that in the Middle East, side with one by providing arms and economic aid, then complain to the other big power which is bolstering the opposing side in similar fashion.

It is common knowledge that the Arab nations, by their sabre-rattling, triggered the week-long war with Israel in 1967; and that the Soviet Union since then has rearmed the Arabs, enabling them to wage the guerrilla warfare against the Israelis that is a daily feature of the news today.

But if you are a Russian you don't admit to such a state of affairs. Rather you shift the blame to the other side — the Israelis and their current arms supplier, the United States. At the same time you contact Britain and other countries expressing pious concern about the Middle East.

That way you score a diplomatic victory of sorts. You have taken the initiative, and placed the other side in a bad light. Yet what is gained but more warfare and further international ill-will?

Russia of course has other problems which could neutralize its influence on the Arab nations and its capacity to perpetuate the age-old feuds there. China, reports say, is gripped by war fever, as a result of the continuing stalemate in the talks with Russia aimed at reducing border tension.

Yes, Russia has problems enough that her capacity to rule not only a vast satellite empire, but foment trouble in other parts of the world, may be said to be considerably diminished compared with the period immediately following the last war.

Rail Tragedy

The crash of two trains near Buenos Aires, with the loss of more than 150 lives and many others injured, would never have happened had one not been obliged to stop because of mechanical trouble. As it is, there is a suggestion that the following express was not warned of the danger ahead and this undoubtedly was another factor in the collision.

We cannot imagine a disaster of such magnitude occuring in Canada — and yet there have been derailments and collisions of varying seriousness over the years. All are a warning that the human factor is paramount in ensuring safety in the operation of our railroads.

Township Initiative

An industrial park for Sidney township and the Frankford area — this is the object of a recent township decision to engage a firm of Toronto consultants.

Sidney's initiative is commendable. It shows that commercial and industrial progress need not be the prerogative of the city. But city services could be vital in any such venture, not to mention those the township itself inevitably must provide.

All in all though, this is the kind of forward-looking endeavor that is needed if the townships are to move with the times.

Not the Government...Nor Mr. Rasminsky

Just Who Is Tightening His Belt These Days?

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — What have the House of Commons and the Bank of Canada got in common?

A disastrous sense of timing.

There was Bank of Canada Governor Louis Rasminsky toting his lectern all around the country for lectures on how everybody, in the public interest, should tighten their salary belts.

That was one minute.

The next minute, there was the same austerity-preaching governor accepting a far-from-austere 50 percent increase in salary, from $50,000 to $75,000.

And there now is the House of Commons telling everybody, again in the public interest, to hold the wage-price-spending line . . . everybody, that is, from civil servants and steel workers to multi national corporations and the corner store . . . everybody except, who else, the House of Commons itself.

The public interest, which they both so piously invoke, apparently stops somewhere this side of the Bank and the House.

The House wants a pay raise, makes no secret of it, even has one of its Honorable Members, the Vancouver New Democrat Harold Winch, openly ask Prime Minister Trudeau how about it.

The only voice of dissent has been that of another New Democrat — of a vastly different socialist breed — the good, grey Stanley Knowles who keeps telling his Commons colleagues that it would be "utterly unconscionable" for them "at a time like this" to lobby for, much less accept an increase.

But lobbying they are, led by Liberal backbenched Harold Stafford of Ontario's Elgin constituency.

And they will lobby the commission of enquiry the Prime Minister is setting up as a delaying action to hold them off . . . you know what commissions are, taking almost forever, this time possibly until the heat is off the economy or an election has brought in a new Parliament.

But does not Parliament need more pay?

Of course.

It has not had an increase in seven years.

And it is a confirmed hard fact of federal political life that some of the Honorable Members — especially the young family men among them — are running into the red even on their current annual $18,000 with $6,000 of it tax free and all those generous fringe benefits.

Then why, apart from the terrible timing of Parliament's pay demand, is there resistance by the Prime Minister, objection by a good part of the press and protest by a sizable section of the public?

Perhaps because, as former Prime Minister Diefenbaker pointed out, the rising cost-of-living is linked directly to the increasing cost-of-parliament.

Dief refused, for nearly two years, to accept the raise from $10,000 to $18,000 that former Prime Minister Pearson so quickly and quietly slipped through the House, in a conspiracy of all-party silence, seven years ago.

Back in 1962, just a year before Pearson put through that giant pay raise, Parliament cost only $8,538,500 to operate.

That covered everything. Pay, pensions, staff, transportation, communication, equipment, supplies, special services, the lot.

This year the Finance Department estimates show the cost of Parliament runs $20,625,100 — up $1,319,450 from last year.

And austerity or not, if it goes by the record, the cost next year will be up another million and a half or so.

Interesting to flip back through the Finance estimates of yesteryear.

Back in 1950 — just 20 years ago — Parliament cost a cut-price $3,878,106. Then MPs were making an annual $6,000.

In '55, the Honorable Members became, as some of them publicly rejoiced, $10,000-a-year-men, and the cost of doing the public business here on the Hill rose to $5,953,666.

The "voice of conscience" in the Commons at that time was Clarence "Clary" Gillis, CCF Member for Nova Scotia's Cape Breton South. He denounced the increase publicly as "greedy" and with a small handful of other Members, including Dief, voted against accepting it.

Of that $10,000, tax-free was $2,000. From that point on, the cost of Parliament steadily increased by about $350,000 a year until Lester Pearson blew off the pay roof in '63, inflating it, in just the one year, to $12,950,220.

Up, up, up ever since has soared the ballooning price of Parliament to the current $20,629,100, carried to that lofty altitude by the climbing cost of such fringe benefits as free long distance phones, air travel, junkets to Faraway Places, and a whole pretty package of other goodies.

Dief still insists that when Pearson doubled Parliament's pay he put the match to the inflation rocket with the taxpayer collectively concluding that what was good enough for the politicians ought to be good enough for the paying public.

And now the parliamentary players are waiting in the wings for a repeat performance.

Fine, but not now. Later.

Ice Time Lacking

Minor Hockey Week—Was It A Fizzle?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

The CAHA Minor Hockey Week — Jan. 25-31 — has passed into oblivion. In Belleville, what could have been and indeed should have been an exciting week for amateur hockey enthusiasts has gone into the records as a stillborn idea that suffered from lack of interest and neglect.

That was the week when minor hockey officials should have presented their case to the public with strong emphasis on the number of players, teams and the amount of ice time granted to each. That was the week to let area residents know how difficult is the task of allocating equal ice time to the large number of boys on local minor teams. That was the week to emphasize how much enthusiasm there is for the sport, and how great is the need for more ice surfaces in the city.

The blame for the lack of participation in Minor Hockey Week cannot be placed on any one group. Where were the officials last week? Where were the parents, the fans, the players and the sports writers? Was anything at all done to stimulate support or interest in the sport? Were any special events scheduled as part of Minor Hockey Week? If so, where were they advertised? What did Belleville do to recognize this week when emphasis is placed on minor hockey from coast to coast?

From time to time, reports come to light about how difficult it is for boys to get enough ice time to make it worth their while signing up to play minor hockey. Occasionally, an irate parent protests this lack of sufficient ice time and a supporter of the new arena proposal sometimes points out the appalling lack of sufficient facilities to meet the need of these amateur players. Well, where were they this past week? Was that not an ideal time to involve the public with minor hockey — the fun and the problems? Special events could have served to focus local attention on minor hockey — during the week that is recognized as being the national spotlight on the sport.

Everyone who has even a cursory interest in the sport should have made some effort to do something. Maybe everyone decided to "let George do it" and perhaps George waited for some one to blow the opening whistle by offering support and assistance in presenting special events during Minor Hockey Week. If this is so, he may well have a long wait.

Senior Citizen Questions Figures

Pension Anomalies Under Scrutiny

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I am sure some of our elderly citizens must be puzzled by the amount received in their OAS pension cheques in January.

During 1968 they received $76.50 a month, $78.00 a month in 1969 and in 1970 they are receiving $79.58.

They would not have been surprised to receive $79.50 a month, based on the previous increase of two per cent allowed by the Canada Pension Plan to cover the increase in the cost of living, or $79.56 a month, which would be two per cent increase on $78.00 a month. Why the beneficence of two cents a month, shown by the Finance Minister?

There are various ways a mistake may have been made. An underling in the Finance Department, probably using an abacus, missed a ball, or he may have been dabbling in the new mathematics. The information card, fed to the computer, might have been wrong, or even the computer might have been thinking. Let us make a small beginning in initiating the Just Society.

Mr. Benson states in the White Paper on Taxation that the extra exemption of $500 from Income Tax for citizens aged 70 and over is to remain on the grounds of compassion, because of extra medical, dental expenses, etc., although the Royal Commission on Taxation recommended it be discontinued.

Can you see the tears welling up in his eyes as he wrote this section!

Many of our older citizens did not receive the OAS pension until they were 70 years of age. This year, citizens 65 years old receive the pension. If you capitalize five years pension at 8 per cent interest, or even higher, is there any compassion to a citizen who is 75 years old or over receiving the extra $500 exemption.

A taxpayer 70 years of age would not pay taxes unless his income exceeded $3,400 if he qualified for full married exemption, and provided his wife has no income. The married exemption for a taxpayer (whether over or under 70) would be reduced where his wife has income; but under the White Paper proposals this reduction would start when his wife's income exceeds $100, instead of $250 under the present taxation scheme.

Thus, where the wife of a taxpayer receives the old age pension his married exemption would be reduced. However, the total exemptions and deductions for a married taxpayer 70 years of age or over would not be reduced below $2,000, and similarly a taxpayer from 45 to 69 years of age would have at least $1,500 exemption.

I suppose our elderly citizens, who are getting by on a bare subsistence, should be thankful for small mercies in this affluent society. The extra 24 cents may be the forerunner of better things to come, but it will allow them to mail four more letters, or buy a small portion of sirloin steak, a luxury to which they were accustomed in their younger active years.

Feb. 5, 1970 . . .

The British 7th Armored Division encircled Benghazi 29 years ago today—in 1941—and cut off the retreat of the Italian army in Cyrenaica. In a tank battle the following day, 84 Italian tanks were put out of action. Gen. Annibale Bergonzoli surrendered unconditionally Feb. 7. Beginning in September, Wavell's army of 80,000 men had taken 133,295 prisoners, 400 tanks and 1,300 guns for 1,928 casualties of its own. Within a month, German reinforcements arrived in Africa and Rommel's first offensive began.

Pay Phone Increase

Editor,
The Intelligencer

I am writing you regarding what I feel has been a very unfair charge put on all pay phone calls where the operator is involved.

It was started on Friday, Jan. 23, by Bell Canada and from then on a 25 cent surcharge was placed on each long distance call e.g. 15 cent calls became 40 cents, a 20 cent call (Stirling) became 45 cents and so on.

Now this affects all, because we all must use them at times, but it amounts to 100 percent raise in most calls within 40 miles. Moreover, it was put on without notifying or announcing to shareholders. Nor was it advertised to the public. The increases have been put on a service when all governments are saying "Hold that line against raises in prices."

This is especially a burden to senior citizens in the county homes. All of these homes have pay phones and they are used a great deal as contact to their friends and relatives outside. Most of the calls are within 40 miles and so it is a real extra burden to them.

I have inquired from the chief supervisors and was told the increases were passed by the department of transport last year but not put into effect until Jan. 23. The new phone books just came out dated Jan. 1970, but there was not a word in it about this.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

February 5, 1950

A generally favorable business outlook for Canadian manufacturers for 1950 was forecast before members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at their annual banquet. Speaker was William F. Bull, director of the commodities branch with the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

In the special bulletin issued by the Bridge Street United Church for the month of February, the theme for the month will be "Widening Our Witness". Rev. D. C. Amos, pastor of the church, stated that each Sunday a new phase of the theme will be presented and at the evening service each Sunday in February a specially selected Christian Film will be shown.

30 YEARS AGO

February 5, 1940.

The occasion being the nature of an anniversary, the band having been formed just two years ago, the Public School Band entertained their parents in the Oddfellows' Hall. Under the direction of Mr. Alf Cooper, this group of young musicians selected from each of the Public Schools in the city has attained considerable fame. Highlights of the evening were the cornet solo by Stan Wiggins, accompanied by Leo Riggs; trombone duet by Don Dafoe and Gordon Williamson. Lieut. F. Jobson, conductor of the Municipal Band gave an interesting talk on the value of music in a boy's life.

40 YEARS AGO

February 5, 1930.

The city council is considering the matter of placing two fire departments under one roof. The new fire chief to succeed the late Chief Brown has not yet been appointed.

Members of the local Board of Health met at City Hall and organized for the year. Harold Bateman was re-elected chairman, and J. W. Holmes was appointed secretary.

50 YEARS AGO

February 5, 1920.

The Belleville Old Boys' Reunion will be held during the coming summer, July 24, 25 26 and 27. Committees have been formed and are getting things under way.

In a hockey match last night the Belleville Intermediate team was defeated by the Kingston Intermediate team, the score being 7 to 6. It was in the final period that the local boys lost out.

Mistaken for Robber by Quebec City Police, B.C. Official Knocked Out, Stripped Naked

VICTORIA (CP) — A high-ranking official of the British Columbia government described Wednesday how he was beaten unconscious with a gun butt and taken into custody by two plain-clothes Quebec provincial policemen and held for nearly four hours Sunday after being mistaken for a bank robber.

Walter Robert Redel, the director of the province's lands branch in Quebec to attend the first day of the three-day conference of the Canadian Council of Resource Ministers which ended Wednesday, said he was forced into an unmarked car driven by the two, and handcuffed behind the back.

Released from hospital in Quebec Tuesday after x-rays and observation, he has several stitches over his left eye, both his eyes are black, and he has one stitch closing a gash below his left nostril.

"I was walking along the Lower Street, next to the water in Old Town, after breakfast at about 11:30 in the morning," Mr. Redel said in an interview.

"I was watching an icebreaker coming up the river when suddenly a car pulled up. Two men with guns jumped out. Neither wore a uniform—one had a ski jacket and the other a turtle-neck sweater.

"They stuck a gun in my ribs and said 'police'. They tried to force me into the car but I resisted because I didn't think they were policemen. Then they started clouting me on the head.

Mr. Redel, 48, said he was finally manoeuvred into the back seat of the unmarked vehicle with his arms handcuffed.

"They looked just like a couple of thugs down from Montreal looking for easy money or something—going to drop me into the bush somewhere," he said.

Mr. Redel, whose job is to administer Crown lands in B.C., said that not until he saw a two-way radio in the car and the driver showed him a police badge did he begin to believe they were policemen.

"I asked them to identify themselves, but they didn't speak any English except for the word 'police'," he said, "and they didn't seem to understand English either."

Mr. Redel said he attempted to speak French to them, but that the two men just shook their heads and remained silent for a 10-minute ride to the police station.

"At the station they didn't tell me what I was charged with," he said. "They wouldn't let make a phone call, as I believe is the usual procedure."

Guards at the station took him to a basement cell block, he said, where he was relieved of his personal effects and stripped of his clothing.

"I was left naked for three hours," he said, "then I asked a guard to summon a doctor to treat a cut on the top of my scalp and a severe cut behind my left eye—later I learned the bone behind the bad cut was fractured.

"A half-hour later a doctor came by, fixed me up and put me back in the cell."

Some time later, he said, four or five men came to his cell an interrogated him.

"They asked where I was born, where I lived, what I was doing—I told them to check the hotel (Chateau Frontenac) where all the other delegates were staying," he said. "They had my hotel key, my lands department identification card with my picture on it, calling cards, my B.C. driver's licence and so on.

"They asked who they could check in B.C. and I told them to phone the minister (B.C.'s lands and forests minister, Ray Williston)."

After more time passed, he said, the men returned and told him he was free to go.

"All they said was that I just happened to be at the wrong place at the wrong time and that I resembled one of the participants of the holdup."

(Quebec police made the arrest during an investigation of an attempted robbery at a Quebec branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.)

Mr. Redel said he was released about 3:15 p.m.

Attorney-General Leslie Peterson said in an interview Wednesday it is "difficult to believe that this sort of thing can happen in Canada."

"I've written to the Quebec minister of justice expressing my concern and asking for a full report on the incident," h said.

Meanwhile, Paul Allard, Quebec's minister of natural resources, Wednesday accused Quebec provincial police of brutality in the case.

Justice Minister Remi Paul said he is ready to submit the case to the Quebec Police Commission for investigation.

Mr. Redel said he was wearing a brown business suit, a black raincoat, a green turtleneck sweater and a black felt hat at the time and his dress may have accounted for the actions of the police.

But when he was released and asked who would pay for cleaning his clothes, he said the desk sergeant told him:

"If you think you have a claim against the police you better hire a lawyer."

On Tuesday morning he was visited by a police cameraman and Lieut. Bernardin Grenier of the provincial police.

"Perhaps they were investigating and perhaps they also wanted a picture to prove that I did resemble the man they were looking for," he said.

He said he didn't feel panicky in the cell.

"I mean, when you're naked like that in a cell and the door is locked, well, what are you going to do? I wasn't really in pain, nor am I now, and there were a couple of blankets and I got under them.

"I must say it was a nice cell, nice and clean.

"I have never been in a police station before. I must say it was a real experience."

Lottery Plans To Be Made Known

TORONTO (CP) — A further announcement on lottery legislation for Ontario is expected to be made at a press conference at Queen's Park today.

A spokesman for the department of financial and commercial affairs, given responsibility for lotteries after they became possible through federal amendments to the criminal code, said the announcement would be "quite important."

A committee representing financial affairs, agriculture, the attorney-general, municipal affairs and the provincial police is studying the extent to which municipalities will be permitted to hold lotteries for charitable purposes. Also under study are regulations for lotteries at agricultural fairs.

Chamber Examines Tax White Paper

The Belleville Chamber of Commerce is turning the focus on Finance Minister Benson's White Paper on taxation.

A meeting of Chamber directors yesterday decided to proceed with a program acquainting its members with the document and its possible impact.

The plan calls for making different viewpoints available on the White Paper.

First step in the plan was presented when the guest speaker at the Chamber's annual dinner meeting held recently, Conservative MP Eldon M. Woolliams delivered an outspoken attack against the White paper.

Chamber President H. J. Fast and the Chairman of the Special Projects committee, H. T. Turley were given the task of determining the next speaker. It is intended that he present an unbiased opinion while the third step will be to present a speaker in support of the White paper.

Elsewhere at yesterday's meeting: an invitation to participate in a hockey game against the Tweed Chamber of Commerce as part of that centre's Winter Carnival, was referred to the special projects committee. If a team can be mustered from among Chamber members, the game will take place Saturday, Feb. 14 at 10 p.m. in Tweed.

The next regular meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Directors scheduled for Feb. 19 was postponed to Monday, Feb. 23 to allow the new committees more time in which to prepare their budgets.

member for Stormont, is the only minister without portfolio.

Mr. Rowntree had been in poor health since early last year.

During his cabinet career, starting under former premier Leslie Frost, he was responsible for the creation of the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund, establishment of minimum-wage legislation and formation of a women's bureau in the labor department.

As financial and commercial minister, he was responsible for securities and consumer protection legislation.

Mr. Lawrence, who prefers to be called Bert, served in municipal government in Gloucester Township before entering the legislature. Before entering the cabinet last year, he was chairman of the committee on private bills, education and university affairs.

Obituaries and Funerals

REV. DR. WILLIAM HENRY GREGORY

DESERONTO — The funeral service for the Rev. Dr. William Henry Gregory was held Monday afternoon in the Verona Free Methodist Church, of which he had been a member since his retirement from the active ministry. He died in the Kingston General Hospital last Friday, Jan. 30. He was 101 years old the previous Sunday, Jan. 25.

Dr. Gregory is survived by three daughters, Rev. Sarah Gregg, at home; Mrs. H. Goodridge (Clara) of Brighton; and Mrs. H. Harvey (Rita) of Detroit, Mich. He was predeceased by his wife, who was Caroline Briscoe prior to her marriage, and by two sons, Rev. Dr. J. F. Gregory and Orval.

Rev. Lorne Ball, his pastor, officiated at the service, with the assistance, among others, of the conference superintendent, Rev. E. S. Bull of Ottawa, Dr. Barclay Warren of Belleville, and Rev. A. Moffatt, retired, of Harrowsmith, and Rev. Gerald Kemp of Newmarket, both of whom paid him tributes.

The bearers were all ministers of the Free Methodist Church: Rev. Fletcher Burnham of Yarker, Rev. Gordon A. Hammond of Napanee, Rev. Wilfred Lyons of Athens, Rev. Arthur Perry of Harrowsmith, Rev. Reid Slack of Parham, and Rev. Austin Thaxter of Kingston.

Interment was in Cataraqui Cemetery.

During the service many facts regarding the long service of Dr. Gregory were brought to light, principally by his pastor, by Rev. Mr. Moffat, who had known him when he was a comparatively young man, still vigorous; and by Rev. Gerald Krump, a young minister who as a youth had come under the influence of the deceased.

Dr. Gregory's first charge was in Vennachar, and he preached his first sermon there in 1893. He did not retire as an active pastor until he was 78 years old, and continued to preach on special occasions until he was in his 90's. His pastor stated that while not a regular church attendant since his 100th birthday, he had been a frequent attendant.

There were smiles during the service, as anecdotes were told revealing the good humor and the graciousness of this prominent man, factors which had made him so well-liked by all who had known him. He had an understanding of human nature, and a broadmindedness seldom found in one so old. Age, instead of making him cynical and pessimistic had seemed to give him greater understanding and more optimistim, the speakers brought out.

The funeral arrangements made by the deceased himself, were carried out as far as possible.

JOHN FRANCIS HINDS

MARMORA — Funeral service for John Francis Hinds, 61, who died suddenly at his home at 196 St. Lawrence Street, Madoc, on Sunday, February 1st, was held at Howden Funeral Home, Marmora, on Tuesday, Rev. George Armstrong of Madoc officiated.

Son of the late Samuel Hinds and the late Martha Mourn, he was born at Bonarlaw and educated at Welman's Corners. He belonged to the Standard Church at Madoc. A veteran of the Second World War, he was a member of the Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 363, Madoc. A service was held by Legion members at the Funeral Home on Monday evening. He had been employed at the Marmoraton Mining Co. Limited until retiring two years ago.

He leaves his wife, the former Flossie Gifford, and one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Rudd of New York. Also surviving are five brothers, Albert of Toronto, Harper of Cobourg, Thomas of Welman's Corners, George of Norwood and Sam of Sudbury, and one sister, Mrs. John McDonald of Detroit. There are also three grandchildren. One son and one sister predeceased him.

Bearers were Joe Darrah, William MacDonald, Donald Ash, Norman Sweet, Lindsay Empey, Sol Robbins and Jack Hanniford.

Entombment was in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Ann Landers

Mother Still Believes In Old Wives' Tale

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please don't brush this off as an old wives' tale. It has worked for my grandmother, my mother and two of my aunts. I refer to the theory that the left ovary produces boys and the right ovary produces girls.

My husband and I have three sons. We do not want a fourth boy but we would give anything to have a little girl. I would be willing to have my left ovary removed if you gave me the least bit of encouragement.

I have read a lot about P.M.A. (Positive Mental Attitude) and feel that even though my grandmother's theory has no scientific basis, if I went ahead and had the operation my mental attitude might help me achieve the desired results. What do you think? — PINK RIBBON.

DEAR RIB: Your idea is ridiculous and a physician who would agree to remove a healthy ovary for the reason stated should not be practicing medicine. Go ahead with your P.M.A. and Think Pink. It won't hurt — but it won't help.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the mother who tore you to pieces because you printed "dirty" letters and discussed "filthy" things like V.D., masturbation and illicit sex really ticked me off.

I grew up too soon to profit from your column as a teenager, but I can tell you my kids are going to see your column as soon as they can read. I got my sex education from one of the nicest kids in town. He was the boy next door who used to be my sitter. I was 10 years of age. He was 16. Everyone said he was a model boy and I didn't know what he was doing to me until several years later.

I hope sex education in school will become compulsory because there are millions of kids who are not learning anything from their parents. Sex is not dirty. What is dirty is to let a girl grow up and not tell her what her body should mean to her, how it responds to the opposite sex, and what can happen if she allows a boy to take liberties with her. That is dirty. — BETRAYED.

DEAR B.: Thank you for a powerful letter. I couldn't agree more.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You must be a man. No woman could give such lousy advice. When that 73-year-old goat wrote and asked if he should get married to a lady he met in the Senior Citizens' Home yet — you told him to go ahead and do it.

He said he had a lovely family and grown grandchildren; that he had been happily married for 46 years. What more does a person want out of life? I wonder why he didn't ask his children if he should get married again, instead of Ann Landers? I'll bet he did ask them and they told him to forget it because they know he's nuts. And what about the woman? She must be as nutty as he is to consider marriage at 70 years of age.

For every nickle's worth of good you do, you must cause a dollar's worth of damage. Who anointed you Chief Adviser of the Universe? — L.A. COMPLAINT.

DEAR L.A.: Most people who write to me know what they are going to do. They just want to hear what I have to say. I see nothing wrong with people marrying in their twilight years if they want to. Many such marriages are more tranquil and rewarding than the first.

Well Prepared Biography Given at Historical Meeting

NAPANEE — The meeting of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society held in the Memorial Building last Saturday evening was well attended, but, unfortunately, not by enough of the young people whom the meeting was planned to attract.

Miss Nancy Poole spoke on Sidney Warner of Wilton. Her material was thoroughly researched and well prepared. She painted a picture of a man of sterling character, highly respected and thoroughly reliable and honest. He was a late Loyalist, evidently bringing money with him, as he purchased 1,000 acres of the Simcoe tract near the tiny settlement of Wilton. Soon he moved into the village itself, building a store and a mill and thus attracting more people to the village.

Following the reading of Miss Poole's paper, Edward Culbreath played three 'cello selections. The instrument with which Mr. Culbreath semed to be as one, dates from 1721.

In the short business meeting which followed, the president, Mrs. Norman Hutchison called once more for the appointment of both a social and a program convener.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Roast Duckling with Cherry Glaze --- Serves 4

A Gourmet Delight

Mary Moore is proud of this Roast Duckling and urges ambitious cooks to try and to treasure the gourmet recipe she provides for your pleasure today.

By MARY MOORE

Three times and you are in. That is how many times this recipe for Roast Duckling was tested before I was satisfied.

You will remember that I was in Vancouver in November. It all started on a Connoisseur Flight on Air Canada when I ordered Caneton aux Cerises. The most heavenly duckling with cherry glaze arrived and was served with great confidence (deserved) by the steward. With much less confidence I asked for the recipe. "Madam you will have to ask the head chef." On my return I gathered my nerve and wrote him and I received instructions. When I translated his method into terms of your and my kitchens, several ducks later, here are the results and every duck fancier in this audience should clip, try and file this gourmet recipe.

ROAST DUCKLING WITH CHERRY GLAZE

(Caneton aux Cerises) (One 5-lb. duckling serves 4 people)

One 5-lb. eviscerated duckling

Stuffing:

1 large spy apple cut in ½" pieces (1 cup)
¼ cup hot water
2½ cups bread crumbs
3 tbsps. butter
2 tbsps. chopped onion
¼ tsp. salt
1-16 tsp. nutmeg
1-16 tsp. pepper

CHERRY GLAZE

1-3 cup sugar
2 tbsps. butter
One 14-oz. can black cherries
2 tsps. corn starch
1 tbsp. water

To make Stuffing: peel, core and cut apple and cook in the hot water five min. Drain. Saute onion in butter in large frypan until soaked but not browned. Mix in all remaining stuffing ingredients and spoon into duck cavity. Skewer and tie. Prick skin at 2" intervals with skewer. Roast on rack at 225 deg. Fahr. for 2½ hrs., then reduce heat to 200 deg. Fahr. for 3½ hrs. (six hrs. at these low temperatures in all). At halftime very carefully tip off excess duck fat in pan.

Meanwhile make Cherry Glaze: Pit cherries. Reserve syrup — I had ⅜ cup. Melt together in heavy shallow pan the sugar and butter stirring until a rich golden caramel. At arm's length add cherry juice and stir until lumps dissolve again. Mix corn starch with cold water and add, stirring, to thicken. Add pitted cherries.

Before serving time pour ½ of the Cherry Sauce over skin of duck and return to oven for 10 or 15 min. Pass remaining sauce at table. Superb.

BONARLAW W. I.

BONARLAW — Mrs. W. J. Barlow opened her home recently Jan. 28 for the meeting of the women's institute. Business was dealt with and it was decided to hold a quilting on Feb. 11. Quilts are donated to people in the community who have lost their possessions due to fire.

Happy birthday was sung to four members and Mrs. Cyril gave a reading.

The district president, Mrs. Tobin of Madoc gave an interesting address on the past, present and future. She was afterwards presented with a gift. She also stated that the convention is to be held on May 21 at Eldorado United Church. Card parties are to be held Feb. 3 and 17 at Harold Hall.

Mrs. C. L. McKeown gave a reading and a contest was put on.

Successful Living

Alcoholism Is A Disease, But… Also an Escape from Realism

By DORIS CLARK

Unquestioning acceptance of alcoholism as a disease becomes harmful as a growing number of institutions come into being to treat the alcoholic.

The alcoholic is a person who has dedicated himself to the avoidance of discomfort through reliance on the effects of a chemical. When he is treated with a medication, his philosophy that discomfort is not to be endured, and is merely replacing one chemical with another.

But the alcoholic is behaving in an irresponsible manner. He tries to avoid making choices, when he does make choices he makes them recklessly and on impulse, and refuses if possible to accept their consequences.

Recovery for the alcoholic depends on his gaining control over his behavior and bemeans that programs designed to help him must neither excuse him for his conduct nor stand between him and the fair and logical consequences of his behavior. — "Addictions," Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario

Bring this down to what is happening in many a Canadian home, and the message is that a wife does no good when she strives to cover up for her husband's foilings. The sooner he can be helped to face the consequences of his behavior, the sooner good medical and psychological treatment can reach him.

Dear Doris: I would like to know if Sturrock Pioneer Tours have tours for handicapped persons.

As a result of polio I'm disabled but independent at wheel-chair level. In travel, a big road block is washrooms and toilets too small for a wheel chair, narrow doors, sharp turns, and steps where a ramp is needed.

I would appreciate any suggestions or help you could give so that some of us could enjoy life before it is too late. — Wheelchair Traveller

Dear Traveller: Mrs. Sturrock tells me that handicapped people do enjoy travel; that much depends on the person. Says she has yet to hear a handicapped person grumble.

There are things you'll miss; but there is a heap you won't. Her tour company (for retired people) does not make any specific plans for such travellers, so it is pretty essential for you to take someone along to see that you get places easily.

One woman from Vancouver toured with the group in a wheel chair. While her movements were somewhat curtailed, she still saw a lot, and she had a devoted and most patient husband to attend to her wants.

For details, write Sturrock Pioneer Tours, 1121 Marine Building, 355 Burrard Street, Vancouver, B.C.

Congregational Meeting

HOLLOWAY STREET UNITED CHURCH

The annual congregational meeting of Holloway Street United Church was held last week in the church hall with minister of the church Rev. W. Lamb welcoming those present.

Bruce Way was chairman for the evening and the reports were reviewed and accepted as printed in the year book. Five men were elected to the session and five to the committee of stewards.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Arthur Duncan of Batwa, well - known for his public speaking, who with his usual wit and wisdom spoke of the church in the past, present and future. He dealt in particular with the pioneers of the church and their accomplisments which called for a celebration and compared this with today's faster methods.

He continued by saying "A church is not just for weddings and baptisms, but it is a part of everyday life. We live in the most peaceful country in the world because we have a country full of churches and now we have to fill these churches."

In closing he said, "In this life we find that we get what we give".

Lloyd Churchill thanked the speaker for a most inspiring address. A lively discussion followed.

Lunch was served and the report of the groups was given bringing the meeting to a close.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT LOTT

Lott – Allan

St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church Belleville was the scene of the recent marriage of Susan Mary Allan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. B. Allan, Belleville and Robert Gerald Lott of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Lott of Toronto. Officiating at the ceremony was Rev. J. A. Dunlop and organist was Mrs. Henry Van Ochten.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lace-trimmed floor-length gown of white crepe with the skirt forming a train; also a headdress of white pearl tipped flowers and waist-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and orange roses.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Garry Brown wearing an empire style gown with forget-me-not blue polyester crepe bodice and royal blue velvet skirt with velvet ribbon of forget-me-not blue entwined in curls in her hair. She carried a bouquet of yellow commercial 'mums and orange roses with gold lace trim.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ronald Merner dressed identically to the matron of honor. Flower girl was Miss Elizabeth Stokes cousin of the bride, dressed identically to the matron of honor and carrying a smaller bouquet.

Best man was Ernest Pye and William Lott, brother of the bridegroom, was usher.

For the reception held at Sun Luck Gardens, the bride's mother wore a brown and gold patterned brocade street-length dress with matching coat, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a royal blue brocade dress with jacket, black accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to New York City the bride wore a green double knit suit, an off-white coat, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses.

The couple will reside in Toronto.

St. Julien Chapter Lists New Officers

The St. Julien Chapter of the IODE held a meeting at the Kiwanis Centre, Monday, February 2 with Mrs. R. Ellis, Acting Regent, presiding.

A letter of appreciation was read from the Mental Health Association for St. Julien's contribution toward Christmas gifts to patients in hospitals.

Minutes of last annual meeting were read. Annual reports were read and adopted. Mrs. Ellis congratulated the officers and members for their efforts in making the past year a most successful one.

Mrs. G. Watkin, chairman of nominating committee, introduced slate of officers for 1970.

Mrs. C. Bishop, Life member, took the chair and conducted the installation of officers as follows: Honorary Regent, Mrs. G. Hume; Honorary Vice-Regent, Mrs. H. Gorsline; Regent, Mrs. C. Whittemore; 1st Vice-Regent, Mrs. R. G. Drayson; 2nd Vice-Regent, Mrs. C. R. Lenk; secretary, Mrs. R. Bailey; treasurer, Mrs. W. Slade; educational secretary, Mrs. R. Ellis; Echoes secretary, Mrs. P. Rutherford; Services at Home and Abroad secretary, Mrs. M. Kerr; standard bearer, Mrs. J. Kunetsky.

Various conveners were also appointed.

Next meeting will be held March 2.

Meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Taylor, Mrs. M. Kerr and Mrs. P. Hammel.

Pig Is 'Culprit' in Theft

JOUBERTINA, South Africa (AP)—Farmer's wife Louisa Potgieter couldn't fathom why her cow was giving less milk. The cow's supply dwindled to nothing at all until her sister paid an unexpected visit to the cowshed one morning. Standing on its hind trotters with milk foaming around its snout was a pig, lustily sucking away at the cow. Farmer Roelof Potgieter killed the thief.

ENGLISH GUIDE

How's This for Style!

Changes of styles of Girl Guide uniforms were attractively displayed at the Guide and Brownie Tea held Wednesday afternoon in Bridge Street United Church hall. Particularly eye-catching was the 1910 English uniform here admired by Division Commissioner Mrs. T. R. Colden (left), Mrs. R. E. Berry, UCW president and Mrs. D. Wishart, convener of the event.

Annual Girl Guide and Brownie Tea Held

Life-like mannequins dressed in Girl Guide uniforms dating back to 1910, through 1930, 1940-64 and 1964-70 were the focal point of interest at the Girl Guide and Brownie tea held Wednesday afternoon in Bridge Street United Church hall.

The event for Quinte area district was officially opened by Rev. A. Poulter. Receiving at the door were Mrs. T. R. Colden, Division Commissioner, assisted by District Commissioners Mrs. D. Stewart; Mrs. J. Miles; Mrs. M. Chartrand, Mrs. R. B. Mason and Mrs. R. Schrieder.

The auditorium was appropriately decorated in keeping with Guide and Brownie activities and one of the highlights was a display of Girl Guide dolls. Each time a girl attains a gold cord she is also presented with a doll and it is her task to dress the doll in the Girl Guide uniform of the particular country which it represents. There was also an excellent display of books recording the years of the Girl Guide movement in Belleville.

Convener for the tea room was Mrs. D. Wishart assisted by tea room hostesses Mrs. R. B. Mason, Mrs. R. Schriedern Mrs. D. Stewart, Mrs. J. Miles and Mrs. M. Chartrand.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were Mrs. R. Berry, Mrs. A. Bannon, Mrs. A. M. Haig, Mrs. A. Welch, Mrs. L. McBrien, Mrs. J. Kuntze, Mrs. R. Scott, Mrs. J. Brennan, Miss E. Baker, Mrs. J. Thicke, Mrs. A. Matthews and Mrs. W. J. Flanagan. Taking care of kitchen duties was Mrs. N. Britton.

Each district in the city had its own bake table. Conveners of each were as follows: north-east district, Mrs. R. Pringle; north-west, Mrs. Ray Coulter; central and west, Mrs. B. Waters; and south-east, Mrs. P. C. Fuller.

Proceeds from each table will go to the particular districts for their work in Guiding, whereas proceeds from ticket sales will go to the division.

First Regional Government Works So Well Nobody's Excited

OTTAWA (CP) — The regional municipality of Ottawa-Carleton, Ontario's first experiment in regional government, appears to be working so well that no one gets excited about it.

Long-time city hall observers say it may be another year or more before tax bills reflect how the new level of government is doing.

Formed in January, 1969, the corporation provides such services as water, sewage treatment, welfare and capital planning to an 1,100-square-mile area, including Ottawa, Vanier City and a number of small villages and townships in Carleton County.

Such common services were formerly provided by the components within the municipality. An indication of the smoothness of the take-over is the scarcity of complaints received by the corporation and the manner in which most politicians have accepted it.

In the December civil elections in Ottawa, for example, some of the candidates were saying that local councils should be disbanded soon, leaving the entire field to the regional council.

Denis Coolican, the 57-year-old chairman of the regional government, said in an interview that this was "a restricted Ottawa view" and added that the many rural areas in the municipality rule out this possibility for some time to come.

In the early months there were some grumblings about duplication of services and added administrative costs, such as the salaries of the 31 men and women who make up the regional council.

Mr. Coolican said, however, that more than 90 per cent of the corporation's staff of about 1,100 have been recruited from municipal employees in the region. They continued to do the same jobs for a different employer under the new set-up.

Members of the regional council also come from the persons elected to municipal office. Ottawa, for example has 16 of the 31 members of the council. The mayor and four controllers automatically are members; so, too are the 11 aldermen who get the most votes in Ottawa's 11 wards.

The main fear from rural areas is that they may have to accept higher standards of services and thus higher taxes than they want or are prepared to pay.

But regional government is still too new for this to be proved.

The Ottawa-Carleton experiment is part of the Ontario government's plan to eliminate municipalities of fewer than 8,000.

Mr. Coolican is a former vice-president of Brazil Light and Power Co. Ltd., and the former president of Canada Bank Note Co. Ltd. He says the new policy is much preferable to annexation "which leaves all kinds of scars."

For that reason, he doubts the disappearance of local councils.

For "fear of indigestion," the Ottawa - Carleton council wouldn't plunge into other areas where it could take over—such as transportation and police.

The Ontario legislation setting up the regional government here will not be amended at least until 1973, the provincial government has said. And the amendments would be those suggested by the regional government itself.

Strong Dock Board Urged at Montreal to Control Pilferage

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal inquiry says a powerful dock board should be created in Montreal to register, license, supervise and discipline workers in a port that shows an "alarming" rate of pilferage.

The inquiry, uner retired Montreal judge Arthur I. Smith, says 30 per cent of the members of one longshoremen's local in Montreal have criminal records.

Some have been convicted of waterfront theft, but are still working despite a union constitution that says they must be expelled and a National Harbors Board regulation under which they should be banned from the waterfront.

The inquiry report, tabled in the Commons Wednesday by Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey, lands heavily on the harbors board for failure to exercise its powers.

It says an over-all lack of direction and discipline is mainly responsible for the crime an labor unest that has permeated the port in the 1960s.

Besides recommending the dock board in Montreal, it says the harbors board should be replaced by autonomous local harbor committees in Montreal, Trois Rivieres and Quebec City.

The harbors board had been "nothing more than a caretaker" with the result that the Montreal waterfront had become "a vast market-place" where anyone was free to wander, tseal, get drunk, gamble, or fight.

The harbors board fought back immediately with a statement saying that the Smith inquiry went beyond its terms of reference in criticizing the board.

The board said it suggested most of the changes proposed in the Smith report.

"Now that the commission report has been made public, the board will be able to proceed with implementation of programs delayed by the Smith inquiry," a statement from the board said.

The statement also said the board intends to launch its own inquiry into allegations against it.

The Smith inquiry, which heard 750 witnesses in private and visited the big waterfronts of the western world, said "appalling" lack of direction is the key to Montreal's troubles.

The stiffest penalty being handed out by the harbors board appeared to be withdrawal of parking permits, which the inquiry said wasn't much punishment for assault or theft cases.

It said many longshoremen probably would welcome more supervision. A dock board that could arbitrate disputes, "summarily enforce" collective agreements, and look into both union and management books would do the trick.

In Montreal, Leonard (Red) McLaughlin, president of the 14,000-member Seafarers' International Union, withheld comment until he has read the report.

The Maritime Employers' Association, which represents shipowners, shipping agents and stevedoring companies, also wanted to read the report before talking.

The report recommended that:

—The federal labor department provide in Montreal a labor-management consultation service similar to one it said has worked well in Vancouver.

—Collective bargaining be carried out between the stevedoring companies and the longshoremen, excluding the shipping companies and agents.

—The Canada Labor Relations Board be empowered to integrate the International Longshoremen's Association's local unions, now divided into groups of longshoremen, checkers, shipliners, etc.

—Private "security" forces, described as a gesture to meet insurance requirements, be integrated with the new harbor police.

—The harbors board pass regulations to prevent gambling, loan-sharking and drinking on the job.

Other recommendations were aimed at stepping up security through fences, lights, cargo theft reports, marshalling yards, and better cargo handling.

Sub-zero Weather Brings Relief in N.B. Floods

FREDERICTON (CP) — Temperatures in New Brunswick dropped below zero and water levels began to recede early today after severe flooding caused damage expected to cost millions of dollars to repair.

Climaxing two full days of heavy rain, gales and high temperatures, rivers rampaged throughout the province.

Rain which started Monday dropped almost five inches in some areas. Winds exceeded 60 miles an hour and temperatures soared past 50 degrees.

About a dozen bridges were knocked out by River ice. Buildings were swept away and roads and rail lines were blocked. Power and telephone lines were toppled and at least one death was caused.

Helicopters from the Summerside, P.E.I., air base rescued stranded residents in at least two communities.

A family which included an expectant mother was taken from its Penniac home, about 10 miles northeast of here, and an elderly couple, reported suffering from exposure, was flown to hospital here from Durham Bridge, about 20 miles to the north.

Police and government officials expected a grim damage toll today. Central New Brunswick appeared hardest hit.

After, a transmission line fell across the Nashwaak River, temporary facilities returned power to some affected areas which took in the Gagetown army base and the town of Oromocto.

Bridges were reported down throughout the area. At least seven fishing camps on the Miramichi River were reported washed away. In rural areas outside Newcastle two houses were reported knocked from their foundations, one coming to rest on a secondary highway.

By early today, police said the situation had eased considerably here but several outlying areas were not expected to have power restored until later today.

Livestock was lost in many areas and a 162-foot covered bridge spanning the Meduxnakeag River north of Woodstock was driven six miles downstream.

Fish Best Sold Frozen

MONTREAL (CP) — The fishing industry and the frozen convenience food industry need each other, delegates to a conference on automation and mechanization in the fishing industry were told Wednesday.

"How do we peddle fish?" a delegate asked during an evening seminar on convenience foods.

Albert J. Heathfield of Microwave Industry and Convenience Food Systems saw convenience foods as the answer. Prepared fish that needed only reheating could offer convenience and uniformity of product, eliminating two obstacles to increased fish sales.

Product uniformity, such as that achieved with cheese, was important in the non-gourmet market.

"Let's not look down our noses at the non-gourmet because he likes Kraft cheese. Let's remember that Kraft has one hell of a slice of the market. . . . Why can't we do the same thing with fish?"

Vance Christian, professor of hotel administration at Cornell University in New York State, said "the big problem with convenience foods is that we have not done the market research to see what people want. . . . We create a product and then sell it, or try to sell it."

The fish industry had to use modern merchandising methods to promote specific products, after finding out the public's general desires.

Judge Threatens to Declare Mistrial

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — County Judge Alex C. Hall threatened Wednesday to declare a mistrial in the case of former Metropolitan Toronto policeman Richard Yeowart, charged with kidnapping and conspiracy to kidnap Mary Nelles.

Judge Hall, critical of defence counsel questioning of Crown witnesses, said he would announce today whether he will declare the mistrial.

Saying at one point "it's a mistrial already," the judge objected several times to questioning by defence lawyer Robert Hopkins.

Twice during the day, Judge Hall consulted with Mr. Hopkins and Crown Attorney Bruce Affleck in the judge's chambers.

Each time the judge threatened to declare a mistrial.

Earlier Wednesday, one of five Toronto bachelors serving prison terms for the kidnapping of Mrs. Nelles testified that Yeowart tried to talk him and ringleader Gary Adams out of the scheme.

Michael Whiteside, 27, serving 12 years for his role in the kidnapping, made the comment as a defence witness for Yeowart, a constable with the Metropolitan Toronto police force at the time of the incident.

Whiteside said he introduced Yeowart to Adams at Yeowart's home four or five weeks before the Sept. 7 kidnapping and the former policeman "showed some form of reluctance and advised me to do likewise."

He said he did not know Yeowart was involved in the kidnapping until the six accused men were brought to the county jail after their arrests Sept. 12 and 13.

Airport Site Narrows

OTTAWA (CP) — Location of a new international airport to serve Toronto has been narrowed down to four or five sites, Transport Minister Jamieson told the Commons Wednesday.

At the same time, in a progress report on the search for a site, he gave no hint on the locations of those still in the running.

He ruled out one suggested site on the Toronto waterfront. It was not appropriate for a full-scale international airport although it could be developed some day as a smaller, intercity field.

Mr. Jamieson said that to avoid land speculation he can divulge no information on possible sites. Much more investigation was needed before a final decision could be reached.

He expected the federal and Ontario governments will have finished the investigation job by fall when a master airport plan for the Toronto region can be developed.

Those Who Can't Speak French Said Ashamed

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians who are not able to speak French tend to feel unhappy and a little ashamed these days about not being bilingual, a Montreal interpretor has suggested in a report to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism.

Therese Nilski, considered by commission officials to be one of the most able conference interpretors in Canada, says in her report that the earphone is often thought of as "a public admission of incompetence, a symbol to be self-conscious about, like a dunce's cap."

Her report was one of three tabled in the Commons Wednesday and is among those ordered by the commission as background for its long series of recommendations to Parliament.

A second report, prepared by Marcel Trudeau, professor of history at the University of Ottawa, and Mrs. Genevieve Jain, a history graduate, says separatism is nurtured in the history classrooms of Canada's French-language schools and colleges.

Like the other reports released Wednesday it does not necessarily express the views of the commission.

It says that, at least up to 1964, the teaching of Canadian history has most often only served to set French-Canadians against English-Canadians.

The conclusion is based on a study of eight English- and six French-language Canadian history texts, all part of elementary, secondary or college curriculums during the 1963-64 school year.

"When one thinks that the youth of today has learned its history from these books one is no longer astonished at the great popularity of the separatism movement amongst them."

"If Canada is more than ever menaced by division, it is necessary, we believe, to look for a large part of the cause in the way in which the citizens of today have learned the history of their country."

The study finds that French-language history texts are "markedly inferior to the English texts."

"In the English texts, history is seen as a lesson in civics; but in the French texts history easily becomes a catechism lesson and a sermon."

In general, English authors attempted to give a history of the whole of Canada, while French authors neglected regions outside Quebec.

If the French authors mentioned the Maritimes, they were usually considering the French-speaking Acadians. If they wrote about the West, they mentioned the role played there by French-Canadians.

The study says that the period before 1663—the period of French settlement and expansion in Canada—is given lengthy treatment in French history texts, which describe it as "the heroic period," while in English texts, the period is more or less neglected.

A third report released Wednesday says the Supreme Court of Canada would be more effective—and less a cause of concern in Quebec—if it was stripped of the power to reverse provincial court decisions on matters of provincial law.

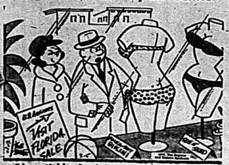
Prepared by political science professor Peter Russell, it says there should be a "federalist reform" of the Supreme Court, confining its jurisdiction to issues of federal law and constitutional disputes.

Mr. Russell, now teaching in Uganda, was formerly at the University of Toronto. He makes clear his views are not necessarily shared by the commission.

Federalist reform, he says, would free the court from a load of petty disputes between private groups and individuals, enabling it to become "a more statesmanlike arbiter of legal disputes of significance to the whole nation."

In particular, the Supreme Court would no longer be in a position threatening to the position of the civil law peculiar to Quebec. It says Canada's constitution never intended that Quebec's laws relating to property and civil rights should be subject to an "homogenizing process."

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes



"As a stickler for decorum and modesty, I say NO! ... As the man who carries your luggage, I say, go ahead and buy it."

He's Not Like Agnew

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Keith Davey, chairman of the special Senate committee on the mass media, said Wednesday that "in terms of moral suasion, we already have had a profound influence."

The Liberal senator from Toronto denied before about 100 Carleton University students any suggestion that the committee is "operating in the spirit of Spiro," a reference to Vice-President Spiro Agnew of the U.S. who recently delivered blistering criticism of some major American newspapers and of TV on grounds of lack of impartiality.

Commons Moves to Put Glitter Back in Yukon's Gold Rush

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons moved Wednesday to put some of the glitter back in the Yukon gold rush.

The House gave second reading and sent to committee a bill amending the Yukon Placer Mining Act that will free areas for construction of historic sites.

Under the bill, prospectors who used to own all surface rights along with mineral rights will see their areas developed to commemorate the thousands of prospectors who swarmed over the Dawson area between 1897 and 1904, taking out millions in gold.

The areas affected by the bill will also be used for national parks, airports and roads.

Russell C. Honey (L—Northumberland), parliamentary secretary to Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, said placer mining is fading out in the Yukon but many of the historic sites will strengthen the romantic tradition of the gold-rush era.

He said $1,700,000 will be spent on a historic sites program in the Yukon.

Opposition MPs later forced a formal vote in the closing minutes of the sitting.

The vote came on a motion to adjourn debate on a bill to amend the National Parks Act on the ground that the responsible minister, Mr. Chretien, was not in the House to explain and hear questions and suggestions.

Government MPs—including Mr. Chretien—answered division bells in force to defeat the Conservative move 109 to 63.

Standing in the 264-seat House: Liberal 153, Conservative 72, NDP 22, Creditiste 14, Independent 2, vacant 1.

Wallace Nesbitt (PC—Oxford) criticized Mr. Chretien's absence for the debate and the bill, which he said is another in a series of moves to diminish the rights of Parliament.

He called for adjournment of debate until Mr. Chretien was present.

The legislation provides for establishment of a national parks leasehold corporation, a Crown body which would administer private leasing rights, commercial facilities and services in the parks.

Earlier Wednesday, Mr. Chretien announced in the Commons that the government will continue its 45-per cent ownership in Panarctic Oils Lt. for at least two years.

As a result, the government was investing an additional $13,500,000 in the consortium, which is seeking oil in Arctic islands.

When the consortium was established in 1967, the government provided $9,500,000 of the original capital of $20,000,000. Twenty oil companies put up the remaining $11,500,000.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said his party supports the government's participation in Panarctic.

David Lewis (NDP—York South) said the government should hold at least 51 per cent of Panaractic's shares instead of the present 45 per cent.

He added that total Canadian ownership in the company now is down to about 69 per cent from 76 per cent in 1967.

Canada Asks Test Facts

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's ambassador in Washington is asking the U.S. government for results of the U.S. nuclear test on Amchitka Island in the Aleutians for examination by Canadian scientists, External Affairs Minister Sharp said Wednesday.

Mr. Sharp told Gordon Fairweather (PC—Fundy-Royal) in the Commons that he did not know whether the conclusions of the Canadian scientists would be made public. He expected that he would be asked about them anyway in the House.

Mr. Fairweather's question on the subject was prompted by fears of the effects of another possible U.S. test on Amchitka.

No Protest Is Planned On ABMs

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Wednesday the government does not intend to issue a formal protest against the recent decision by President Nixon to expand the Safeguard anti-ballistic missile system.

Replying to questions by Les Benjamin (NDP—Regina-Lake Centre), Mr. Trudeau said the Canadian government has no evidence that Russia wil expand its weapons' systems in response to the U.S. decision.

PM Failed To Correct Hansard

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, accused of failing to correct a mistake in the Hansard report of one of his Commons remarks, Wednesday placed the blame on the opposition.

He said that opposition interjections had prevented him from clearing up the question of the right of senior public servants to express personal views on government policy.

Mr. Trudeau, according to Hansard, had said they could. He reversed the position to reporters outside the House.

Patrick Nowlan (PC—Annapolis Valley), who asked the question that led to the wrong impression, accused Mr. Trudeau Wednesday of staying mute later in the House although he "cried foul" in the corridor.

Speaking on a question of privilege, Mr. Nowlan said that the prime minister and other ministers had a duty to make such corrections inside the House.

Putting the blame on the opposition, Mr. Trudeau also said he cannot be blamed for answering questions put to him outside the House.

The prime minister rose in the Commons Tuesday to correct the Hansard report but was denied the required unanimous consent.

Turner To Study Jailing

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister John Turner said Wednesday he will discuss with Ontario Attorney-General Arthur Wishart the case of a Sudbury youth held in a Toronto jail for seven months awaiting trial.

Mr. Turner was replying in the Commons to David Orlikow (NDP—Winnipeg North) who asked whether the justice minister would examine the case of Robert Sweezy, 20, released from jail Tuesday.

Sweezy was released after Dr. Morton Shulman, NDP member of the Ontario legislation for Toronto High Park, put up bail.

Oaks Hope Mo-Hawk Slump Will Grow on Them

Last year's Belleville Mo-Hawks would have given a section of end blues for an OHA Senior A playoff spot.

The 1969-70 version of the Belleville seniors nailed down a playoff berth with one-quarter of their schedule remaining, but now don't seem to know what to do with it.

Stumbling through a horrendous slump, coach Davey Jones is faced with the prospect of regaining the form that enabled the club to fashion a seven - game unbeaten streak early in the season.

The Mo-Hawks have now dropped five of their last six decisions.

Playing without the blueline services of Lou Kazowski and veteran Wayne Brown has been a definite drawback, but lack of offence has been just as obvious a failing.

The Mo-Hawks have accounted for a meagre output of 14 goals in their last five games. They almost equalled that in the two immediately prior games when they beat Barrie 8-4 and lost 6-5 in Owen Sound.

Steve Rexe assumes most of the blame for the 35 goals against the locals in their last five outings.

"If I could just get out of the first period without any goals, I think the fellas would get the confidence we need," says Rexe, who has watched his goals-against average soar from a shade above three-per-game to a shade below four.

But Jones sees the key to Mo-Hawk problems starting a bit further up-ice.

"Our wingers have got to stay with their men along their lanes," Jones said after watching the Kingston Aces skate rings around the Mo-Hawks to an 8-2 Tuesday tune.

"And we can't let anybody shove us around."

One team that did perhaps the best job this season of that is Ooakville Oaks, who manhandled the Mo-Hawks while drubbing them 7-3 a couple of Sundays ago.

The Oaks provide Friday night's 9 o'clock Memorial Arena opposition as the Mo-Hawks join Belleville's Winter Carnival program.

Sunday, the Mo-Hawk Boosters are running a bus to Barrie, leaving the Memorial Arena at 2.30 with $6, covering transportation and admission to the game with the Flyers, who repay the visit in a rescheduled Tuesday night game back in Belleville.

Information regarding Sunday's bus trip to Barrie is available at 962-8078, 962-1350, or 962-2605.

Quinte Secondary School senior basketball player Leo "Cory" Baker attempts to block a shot from one of his Napanee opponents. The Saints took a narrow 44-41 win to complete a three-game sweep for Quinte in Wednesday Bay of Quinte District action.

Saints March Over Napanee Cagers

Quinte Secondary School basketball teams took three in a row from Napanee last night as the senior, junior and bantam Saints all came through with home court victories.

The seniors came back from a 24-21 halftime deficit to take a narrow 44-41 win for their third victory this year. Steve "Stretch" Ogden led the Saints with 13 points. Leo Baker had seven and Gary Richardson six in the low-scoring contest. Cunningham sank 19 points for Napanee.

The Quinte Juniors survived an early spell of cold shooting and came through with an easy 83-20 win. Their outside shooting, particularly in the second half, was outstanding as they outclassed their Napanee counterparts. Kim Hunter (16), Barry Culkin (15) and Rick Meagher (14) were the leading Quinte scorers. Lee had five points for Napanee.

The bantams played a strong all-round game to come out with a 63-43 win. Bruce Nickle with 17 points and Terry Collins with 13 were high men for Quinte.

No scores were submitted for the Moira - Centennial or BCI - Trenton games.

Anglers Fish For Three P's During Carnival

Belleville's first Winter Carnival this weekend will have "A-to-Z" assortment of activities.

From the "A" in Friday night's OHA Senior A Oakville - Belleville Memorial Arena contest to the "Z" in Zwick's Island, the weekend promises an alphabet-full of attractions.

Saturday, for example, will be a particularly good day for minding one's "P's".

Pike, pickerel, and perch — they're the prize-winners in a day-long fish derby being staged with the assistance of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Club.

O'Keefe trophies are available for the best two fish in each category, which may be caught in Kamloops as long as they are entered at Bob Blaind's South Front St. sporting shop by the 4 p.m. deadline Saturday.

No entry fee is being charged, but would-be-winners should register at Blaind's. Out-of-town anglers can enter by phoning 962-6486.

Special prizes will be awarded to under-12 anglers, who will be provided with free bait at Zwick's Island Saturday.

Cops and Rubbers Benefit Under Gump's Eagle Eye

While law enforcement and firefighting may be the business on hand, city police and firemen are concentrating on a little extra-curricular skating, in preparation for their annual exhibition hockey game Friday, Feb. 20 at the Belleville Arena.

Starting at 8 p.m. and officiated by veteran NHL goalie Lorne "Gump" Worsley the game will be a vehicle to raise funds for the firemen's project for better Christmases for underprivileged children.

Both teams are holding secret practice sessions and promise to come out flying — or at least skating pretty fast — in Belleville's annual battle of public protectors, won last year by the hoseholders.

Tickets are available at McKnight's Variety Store, 211 Front Street, O'Neill's Barber Shop on Front Street, or from any policeman or fireman.

Advance purchasers of the 50c tickets will be entitled to chances on 15 substantial door prizes, in addition to admission to the hockey mayhem.

Successful Cougar Hunt Could Mean Ellis Berth

Belleville Junior B's will go Cougar-hunting Sunday night and hope they are rewarded with a "big game." Meanwhile, the Trenton Golden Hawks must win against Kingston, Friday, to maintain any reasonable hopes of finishing in the playoffs.

At the moment the Elis Juniors are in fourth place, three points up on Cobourg and six ahead of Trenton, who enjoy a game in hand on both teams.

Cobourg has a big, tough defence and an excellent goalie in Mike Caine, who shut out Trenton in their last meeting. Since then the Cougars have taken a 4-2 decision from the Oshawa Crushmen and seem to be hitting top form.

The Printers have been getting some fine netminding themselves from Ron Jury, who has lowered his goals-against average 69 points during Belleville's current five-game unbeaten string.

Trenton, who had a victory over Peterborough and a tie with Belleville before the 4-0 loss to the Cougars, hope to get back on the winning track after a long lay-off. High-scoring winger Mike Hall is expected to be back in action and this should boost the attack considerably.

Terry Meagher, whose scoring has tapered off lately, continues to hold down fifth place in the point race with 20 goals and 25 assists, placing him seven points behind the league leader, Gary Brewer of Peterborough.

GREG BURKITT
Ellis Bad Boy

Reed Mallory, who has posted 10 goals and six assists in the last five games has moved to within three points of the top ten scorers. The third member of Belleville's high scoring line, John McConnell, has 42 points, including a team high of 26 assists, for sixth place in the league standings. McConnell has added thirteen points over the five game stretch.

Defenceman Greg Burkitt's 34 minutes in penalties has run his season's total to 70 minutes, tops on the team.

Toronto Welcomes Showboats

Although spring seems a little more than just-around-the corner, Belleville Boaters will get a chance to preview the latest model boats and boating accessories at the 12th Annual Toronto International Boat Show.

A million and a half dollars worth of craft and boating hardware will be on display at the Automotive Building, Exhibition Park, for the ten-day show which opens Friday.

Every kind of boat from $130 dinghies to $80,000 luxury motor cruisers will be exhibited. Included among the various hardware are such way out items as psychedelic waterskis and matching bikinis.

Show hours will be 12 noon to 10.30 p.m. on weekdays and 10.30 a.m. to 10.30 p.m. on Saturdays. On Sunday the doors will be open from 1.00 - 7.00 p.m.

Midget Backs To Wall

The Blake Kerr Imperials facing elimination from the OMHA play-offs, meet Trenton tonight in a "must" game for the Belleville team.

The midgets were clobbered 11-6 in the opening game in Trenton and will be looking for a measure of revenge. Shaky goal-tending had a great deal to do with the opening loss and netminders Eldon Mathews and Roger LaMorre have some making up to do in tonight's 8:30 Memorial Arena game.

The game was almost a complete reversal of their narrow 2-0 loss to Trenton during the regular season and Belleville must hold the Trenton scorers in check on home ice, to avoid an early playoff demise.

To do this, the Imperials have to stop Trenton's high scoring line of Steve Keech, John Gravelle and Dave McInnis, on the ice for all 11 of Trenton goals in the series opener.

A third game, if necessary, will be Feb. 15 in Belleville.

Previous Winners Not Wanted

It won't be "the same old story", for competitors in the 'B' tournament held Saturday by the Belleville Garrison Badminton Club.

An interesting facet of the competition is that winners from the previous year are ineligible to compete, preventing one team or person, from continually dominating play. As club member Jackie Gilbert puts it: "We feel that it gives everybody a chance, when they know they don't have to face the previous champion."

The tournament is expected to draw around 100 "bird belters" to the Belleville Armouries for the all-day competition, as teams from all over the central Ontario district are entered.

The local club has several entries in each category and has high hopes for a strong showing. Dave Bell and Pat Hasselfelt won the consolation round at Trenton last week and are being counted on to held their own against the visitors in mixed doubles, along with Mike Church and Billie Waldron.

Among the other Belleville hopefuls are Tod Melbourne and Dave Bell in men's doubles and the teams of Billie Waldron and Loreen Potts and Pat Hasselfelt and Jackie Gilbert in women's doubles.

Play begins at 10 a.m. and runs through to 7 p.m. There will be a dance in the officers mess, following the competition.

Tricky Sheets No Hindrance to Gurowka's Curling Style

OSHAWA (CP) — "Few people realize how an ice maker suffers," says Marcel DeWitte, head ice maker at London's Ivanhoe Curling Club.

DeWitte made the assessment Wednesday after watching the first two rounds of this year's four-day Ontario curling championship, which ends Saturday.

He was referring to the surface at the Oshawa Curling Club, dangerously tricky because of cold outside temperatures that made stones swing more than usual.

"The problem the ice maker is having," said DeWitte, here as a spectator, "is that the cold snap we are having has taken control of the ice away from the ice maker."

The ice didn't appear to fool the curlers, however, and two of the pre-tournament favorites—Joe Gurowka of Toronto and defending champion Ken Buchan of London—went into the third round today undefeated.

The tournament, with the winner to represent Ontario in the Canadian championship at Winnipeg March 2-6, continued at 9 a.m. this morning. A Northern Ontario representative wil be decided at a separate tournament.

In this morning's round, Harry Sheldon of Unionvile met Jake Edwards of Kingston, while George Ellis of Waterloo played Paul Savage of Toronto, Bruce Munro of Toronto took on John Winford of Ottawa, Cam Guyatt of Hamilton took on Eldon Coombe of Ottawa, Bob Dolishney of Welland met Bob Harris of Unionville, Gurowka went against Terry Patton of Brantford, Howie Atkinson of Toronto played Bob Woods of Toronto and Buchan took on Irving Wallace of Port Carling.

Other rounds today were scheduled for 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Buchan trounced Len Schmidt of Walkerton 14-3 in Wednesday's opening round, while Woods, who skipped a rink to the championship of Sweden in 1967, edged Winford, 8-7, Edwards beat Harris 10-8 and Wallace walloped Gary Hancock of Peterborough 12-6.

Walace, a perrennial underdog at the championship, then edged a co-favorite Toronto rink skipped by Munro 9-8 in an extra end during the second round Wednesday evening.

In other second-round games, Buchan posted one on the final end to edge Ellis 9-8 while Gurowka was trouncing Guyatt 10-2.

Dolishney defeated Atkinson 11-8 in 11 ends, Savage trounced Sheldon 10-4 in 10 ends, Patton downed Schmidt 9-8 in 11 ends, Coombe beat Hancock 14-6 in 10 ends and Woods edged Edwards 11-10 in an extra end.

The double losses sent Hancock and Schmidt packing and left the remaining 16 rinks to battle it out. Winford, Harris, Ellis, Guyatt, Munro, Atkinson, Sheldon, and Edwards, all have one loss and their next defeat will eliminate each from further contention.

Hawks Trounce Bruins

Habs Look for Gold, Panned Instead

By CHRIS AYLOTT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The three Plager brothers led St. Louis Blues into Toronto Wednesday, and skated away empty-handed while Montreal Canadiens failed to strike National Hockey League gold in California.

The Blues, with Bill Plager up from Kansas City of the Central League to join brothers Barclay and Bob on defence, fell 1-0 to Toronto Maple Leafs. Montreal missed an opportunity to take over second place in the East Division, losing 5-2 to Oakland Seals.

In other Wednesday games, Chicago Black Hawks bounced Boston Bruins 8-4, New York Rangers crushed Detroit Red Wings 5-1 and Pittsburgh Penguins bumped Minnesota North Stars 7-5.

The Plagers failed to generate their heavy-hitting style of action as Mike Walton's 15th goal of the season, early in the third period, snapped a scoreless tie and stood up for Toronto's win.

It was the first Toronto appearance in more than 20 years for an NHL team carrying three brothers during regular-season play.

The last time this occurred was in the late 1940s, when Max, Doug and Reg Bentley were together as a forward line for Chicago.

Bruce Gamble turned aside 42 St. Louis shots for his fifth shutout of the season in a game that left 16,375 fans disenchanted with listless play in the first two periods.

Both sides opened up in the third period and Walton succeeded in beating Jacques Plante at 6:05, completing a three-way pass play with defenceman Brian Glennie and Ron Ellis.

At Oakland, the West Division Seals scored all their goals in the final period, preventing the Stanley Cup champions from taking advantage of Boston's loss and moving into second place in the East Division.

BOBBY HULL
At 20 Already

Carol Vadnais led the Seals into a fourth-place tie with Minnesota, scoring two goals. Norm Ferguson, Ted Hampson and Gerry Ehman also scored for the winners before a crowd of 5,920.

John Ferguson gave the Canadiens a first-period lead and Serge Savard scored the other Montreal goal late in the final period.

Bobby Hull and Stan Mikita led the Black Hawks for a capacity Chicago crowd of 16,666.

Hull, who set a single-season record of 58 goals last year, increased his current total to 20 with two. Mikita collected one goal and four assists. Pat Stapleton, Eric Nesterenko, Jim Pappin, Cliff Koroll and Pit Martin also scored as the Black Hawks edged within one point of fourth-place Detroit in the east.

The Bruins held a brief 1-0 lead when Phil Esposito beat his brother Tony, the Chicago netminder, at 3:20 of the first period. John McKenzie, Garnet Bailey and Ed Westfall also scored for the Bruins. Bobby Orr, the Boston defenceman who leads the NHL scoring race, was held pointless.

Ken Schinkel's three goals for Pittsburgh, increasing his season total to 14, helped hand the North Stars their ninth straight loss. Pittsburgh increased its hold on third place in the west to four points over Minnesota.

Dean Prentice, with his 18th and 19th goals, Wally Boyer and captain Bob Woytowich also scored for the Penguins.

The North Stars, ho have only one victory in their last 24 games, got goals from Bob Barlow, Danny O'Shea, Jean-Paul Pare, Claude Larose and Danny Grant.

Ken Broderick, a former goalkeeper with Canada's national team promoted from Iowa of the Central League, replaced Minnesota starter Cesare Maniago at the start of the second period.

At New York, the Rangers unloaded 44 shots at Detroit netminder Roy Edwards and widened their eastern lead over Montreal and Boston to five points. Walt Tkaczuk, Jean Ratelle, Bob Nevin, Dave Balon and defenceman Jim Neilson all scored once for the winners.

Mikita Makes Move

Stan Mikita appears to be making a last-effort bid to regain the National Hockey League scoring title be lost last season to Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins.

The Chicago Black Hawk centre picked up five points Wednesday night to move into fourth place among the scoring leaders with 57 points on 28 goals and 29 assists.

However, Mikita still is 20 points off scoring leader Bobby Orr of Boston, who was shut out Wednesday in Chicago's 8-4 victory over the Bruins. Mikita won the title for two successive years in the 1966-67 and 1967-68 seasons but he lost last season to Esposito.

Esposito, in second place, gained slightly on Orr by scoring his 30th goal. He now has 65 points. Walt Tkaczuk of New York Rangers, in third place, has 61 points. He scored a goal and assisted on another in New York's 5-1 rout of Detroit Red Wings.

A Plus For Rangers

NEW YORK (AP) — Hockey is a game of plus and minus. If your team scores while you are on the ice, it is a plus for you. If the opposition scores while you are on the ice, it is a minus.

It has been a plus season for New York's line of Walt Tkaczuk, Dave Balon and Billy Fairbairn. "They are far ahead of any line in the league in plus-mnius," says Emile Francis, coach of the Rangers.

It has been a big season for Balon, journeyman left winger, who is enjoying his finest National Hockey League campaign. He scored his 22nd goal of the season Wednesday night and assisted on Tkaczuk's 24th as the Rangers blitzed Detroit Red Wings 5-1.

Those two points gave Balon a fat plus of 46-best in the NHL.

For the record, Detroit's only goal Wednesday came with Tkaczuk and Fairbairn on the ice. Balon had skated off on a line change so that one doesn't count against his league-leading total.

Francis assembled the line in New York's sixth game of the season after Bob Nevin had been hurt, creating an opening for Fairbairn, a right wing.

Sports On All Fronts

MONTREAL (CP) — Red O'Quinn, general manager of Montreal Alouettes, said he has filed a complaint with Jake Gaudaur, Canadian Football League commissioner, alleging tampering with quarterback Sonny Wade by Philadelphia Eagles. Wade, here last week to have his elbow checked, informed O'Quinn the National Football League Eagles suggested he play out his option here. However, Wade signed a two-year contract last season when he came here from Emery and Henry College in Virginia. There is one more year to go on that contract plus another year should he exercise the option clause.

OTTAWA (CP) — Russia has expressed interest in playing exhibition hockey games with Canada until the question of professionalism has been decided, Speaker Jean-Paul Deschatelets told the Senate Wednesday. Senator Deschatelets (L-Quebec) who headed a delegation including three other senators to Russia on a 10-day visit in January said there was a great deal of interest in Moscow following the withdrawal last month of the Canadian hockey team from the 1970 tournament which was to have been held in Montreal and Winnipeg.

NEW YORK (Reuters) — Cuban-born Jose Napoles, the world welterweight champion, Wednesday was named Fighter of the Year for 1969 by Ring magazine in the boxing publication's annual review edition. The 29-year-old Napoles, now a Mexico City resident, knocked out Curtis Cokes of Dallas, Tex., to take the welterweight title and retained it the same way against Cokes in a return match.

Drysdale Joins Expos...on Mike

MONTREAL (CP) — Don Drysdale, former star righthander with Los Angeles Dodgers, will join Montreal Expos of baseball's National League in a "multi-assignment capacity," president John McHale announced Wednesday.

"He will work as a member of the Expos game-of-the-week broadcasting crew, perform special duties as a minor league pitching coach and represent the Expos in various public relations functions in both Canada and the United States," McHale said.

Drysdale still holds the record for consecutive shutouts—six in 1968.

Drysdale's 58 2-3 innings of shutout pitching broke the previous record of 58 set by Walter Johnson with Washington Senators of the American League more than 40 years ago.

He won 209 games, the most ever recorded by any Dodger pitcher. He also holds pitching records for the most innings pitched—3,432—most strikeouts—2,486—and most shutouts—49.

Drysdale retired as an active player mid-way through the 1969 season.

Two Wrongs Don't Make A Right: Ashe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro tennis star Arthur Ashe Jr. criticized the South African government Wednesday for refusing him a visa, but said the United States should not retaliate by barring athletes from that country.

"My initial gut reaction is to keep all the athletes from South Africa out of this country," Ashe told a House subcommittee.

"But on further reflection, my moral reaction is that the United States should not stoop to their level. If we should do that it would give a legitimacy to apartheid. And two wrongs do not make a right."

After the hearing, however, Chairman Charles C. Diggs Jr. (D—Mich.) said the United States should take some reciprocal action such as denying golfer Gary Player, a South African member of the pro tour, a visa.

"I think there should be some retaliation on our part by the state department," he said. "And I think it should go beyonda symbolic acton."

Diggs said he would communicate with President Nixon with the hope of getting the United States to take action against South Africa.

The South African government denied Ashe a visa as an individual—but said he could complete with the U.S. Davis Cup team—because of statements he had made against the country which it said were political.

Ashe said he was denied a visa in December because he was a non-white. He also acknowledge he made the anti-apartheid statements, but said be believed his constitutional rights as an American entitled him to speak-out on issues.

Magazine Still Ranks Cassius Clay King of Ring

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay still is recognized as world heavyweight boxing champion by Ring magazine in its annual ratings with Joe Frazier the No. 1 contender and Jimmy Ellis, the No. 3 contender.

Frazier, recognized in six states and some foreign countries as world champ, and Ellis, the World Boxing Association's champ, will meet for the title Feb. 16 at Madison Square Garden.

Ring's heavyweight ratings list Frazier, Leotis Martin of Philadelphia, Ellis, Mac Foster of Fresno, Calif. and Oscar Bonavena of Argentina as the first five in the rankings.

George Chuvalo, the Canadian heavyweight champ from Toronto, is ranked eighth.

The ratings:

Heavyweights—Champion: Cassius Clay, Houston; 1. Joe Frazier, Philadelphia; 2. Leotis Martin, Philadelphia; 3. Jimmy Ellis, Louisville; 8. George Chuvalo, Toronto.

Light Heavyweights—Champion: Bob Foster, Washington; 1. Dick Tiger, Nigeria; 2. Jimmy Dupree, Jersey City, N.J.; 3. Mark Tessman, Houston.

Middleweights—Champion: Nino Benvenuti, Italy; 1. Freddie Little, Las Vegas, Nev.; 2. Denny Moyer, Portland, Ore.; 3. Luis Rodriguez, Miami Beach, Fla.

Welterweights—Champion: Jose Napoles, Mexico; 1. Manuel Gonzalez, Odessa, Tex.; 2. Ernie Lopez, Las Vegas, Nev.; 3. Percy Pugh, New Orleans.

Junior welterweights—Champion: Nicolino Loche, Argentina; 1. Bruno Arcari, Italy; 2. Adolph Pruitt, St. Louis; 3. Jao Henrique, Brazil.

Lightweights—Champion: Mando Ramos, Long Beach, Calif.; 1. Pedro Carrasco, Spain; 2. Ismael Laguna, Panama; 3. Jaguar Kakizawa, Japan.

Featherweights—Champion: Johnny Famechon, Australia; 1. Shozo Saijyo, Japan; 2. Vincente Saldivar, Mexico; 3. Fighting Harada, Japan.

Bantamweights—Champion: Ruben Olivares, Mexico; 1. Takao Sakuari, Japan; 2. Chucho Castillo, Mexico; 3. Kazuyoshi Kanazawa, Japan.

Louis Wants in Ring

NEW YORK (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis said Wednesday he will apply to referee the heavyweight title fight between Joe Frazier, and Jimmy Ellis in Madison Square Garden on Feb. 16.

Frazier and Ellis each said they would not object and Ed Dooley of the New York State Athletic Commission said he would act on the application at the next meeting of the commission.

Frazier, recognized as the heavyweight champion in six states, Mexico and Argentina, worked six rounds Wednesday and Ellis, the World Boxing Association champion, went four as Louis and former middleweight champion Rocky Graziano looked on.

BOSTON (CP-AP) — Boston Patriots of the American Football League, homeless because they cannot obtain a 50,000-seat stadium to satisfy the terms of the pro football merger, have received several bids from other cities including two in Canada, says president Billy Sullivan. Sullivan disclosed Wednesday that Montreal and Toronto were among the cities in communication with the Patriots in the bidding to move the Patriot franchise from Boston.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Russell, who revolutionized modern pro basketball with his defensive wizardry, was named basketball's Player of the Decade Wednesday. The long-time star of Boston Celtics won the honor by a landslide in a special Associated Press poll. Russell, who retired a year ago, polled 375½ votes in balloting by 635 sports writers and broadcasters. Far behind in second place with 122 votes was Wilt Chamberlain of the Los Angeles Lakers, Russell's keen rival during the decade. It was after Russell and the Celtics beat Chamberlain and the Lakers for the 1969 NBA title last May that the 6-foot-10 Russell decided to retire as player-coach.

Irish Sweepstakes, Forty Years Old, Unique Success Story

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish Sweepstakes, celebrating its 40th birthday, has scored a success that others never have been able to copy.

"Many countries have wanted to start a sweepstakes like ours and have written asking how we do it," says one the founders. "We don't tell 'em. It's a business secret.

"We just tell them it's a miracle—and that's exactly what it is."

Since it started in 1930, the Sweepstakes Trust says, it has paid out £200,000,000 in prizes and handed £65,000,000 to Ireland's hospitals. The pound has varied in value over the years but now is worth about $2.60.

The founder quoted is Capt. Spencer Freeman, 77. The sweepstakes' success has made him one of the best-known figures in Ireland.

Here are some of the facts provided by Freeman to describe his "miracle.":

A permanent staff of 1,200 handles the job. Another 1,000 are pressed into service four times a year when the tickets are drawn from a huge drum.

Every year they sell 16,000,000 tickets in 147 countries.

The most recent sweepstakes, in December, yielded almost $9,000,000. As always, 25 per cent went to the hospitals.

"Like everybody else, we are hit by rising administrative costs," Freeman said. "Back in the early '30s, when we started, administration took five per cent of the ticket sales money.

"Now the costs swallow up more than 20 per cent. So the percentage available for prizes has necessarily gone down."

But the prizes amounted to about $4,686,000 on this draw alone.

The prize money is reckoned in units of £120,000 or about $312,000. The number of units may run 15 to 18, according to the number of tickets sold.

The draw is pegged to horse-races. For the Lincolnshire Sweep last March there were 17 units. That meant each horse was drawn 17 times. The 17 people who held the ticket for the winning horse won $130,000 each. There were 17 second prizes of $52,000 and 17 third prizes of $26,000.

Each of the 59 other horses entered in the race was drawn by 17 people who picked up about $1,391 each. There were more than 200 consolation prizes of $260.

Federal Government Is Urged To Pledge Aid to Rural Poor

OTTAWA (CP) — The people of rural Canada must be reassured by the federal government that it accepts the responsibility for countering the spread of rural poverty, the special Senate committee on poverty was told today.

The Canadian Council on Rural Development said in a brief to the committee that because of a break-down in communications between the government and rural Canadians, many people feel that rural Canada is being neglected by the government.

The 32-member council was established in 1965 by the then minister of forestry and rural development to act as an advisory body on the formulation of national policy on rural development. It continues to serve the minister of regional economic expansion in a similar capacity.

Its brief said the emphasis of the department of regional economic expansion on the use of industrial incentives as a central development strategy has been taken by many to imply a down grading of the department's concern for rural affairs.

The brief recommended that the regional expansion minister make an open declaration of the department's concern for the social and economic development of rural Canada, as well as for urban industrial growth.

At the same time, a section of the department should be established to deal solely with the interests of rural people and in particular, the rural poor.

Wasteful forms of welfare such as training redundant elderly workers for jobs from which they will be disqualified anyway because of their age should be eliminated.

The money should be used instead, for establishing development plans that will exploit the human resources in each region.

Often when a new industry was established in an area, the jobs created a demand for skills not possessed by local people, so that workers were imported from other areas where unemployment is not a problem, the brief said.

Good development plans could train the people ahead of time for jobs industry would make available.

It was important that the people in the area actively participate, not only in carrying out the development plan, but also in formulating it, the brief said.

The brief suggested using the mass media to fill the existing communications gap between the government and the people living in rural areas.

To keep the communication flow a two-way thing, local development councils should be established. They would be financially supported by the federal government and would represent all local groups, including the poor.

Securities Body to Appeal Revenue Properties Case

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Securities Commission has filed an appeal against dismissal of charges that real estate developer Revenue Properties Co. omitted to state a material fact in its 1968 financial statements.

The charges were laid last summer and dismissed last month. Judgment on another charge that the Toronto company omitted a statement of source and application of funds has not yet been handed down.

The Crown contended that Revenue had inflated its 1968 net profit by including the profit on an inter-company transaction with Victoria Wood Development Corp., now a Revenue subsidiary.

The Toronto Stock Exchange suspended trading in Revenue shares Nov. 25, 1969, at the company's request. They now trade on the unlisted market and were quoted Tuesday at $1.35-$1.45.

Dubcek Darling Of Turkey's Right

ANKARA (AP) — Alexander Dubcek is the current darling of the angrily anti-Communist right wing in this Turkish capital. The left is maintaining a frigid silence toward Czechoslovakia's former leader turned ambassador.

"It's got to be unique, those right-wing students giving a committed Communist flowers!" a startled Turk said when Dubcek arrived in Ankara Jan. 25 and conservative student groups at the airport presented him with large bouquets of carnations and notes proclaiming him "hero."

Right-wing newspapers also climbed on Dubcek's bandwagon. One even claimed Dubcek made a statement saluting the "nationalist (rightist) Turkish youth."

Actually he has made no statement since he arrived.

Another paper claimed that Dubcek's orthodox Communist predecessor staffed the Czech embassy with watchdog Stalinists, that Dubcek's chauffeur is a Soviet security agent and that his three sons are being held in Czechoslovakia as hostages.

There is no way to check the claim about the embassy personnel or the chauffeur, but other diplomats considered Dubcek's predecessor in Ankara, Pavel Kanka, a liberal.

As to Dubcek's sons, they are 17, 21 and 22 and in school in Czechoslovakia. It is believed that they could not find suitable schooling in Ankara in view of their language qualifications.

A moderate columnist, Kemal Bisalman of Milliyet, attempted to correct the right-wingers:

"Dubcek is not an opportunistic bourgeois ideologist in a socialist country," he wrote, "but on the contrary, an undiluted socialist searching for true democracy in a Socialist country."

The three most popular left-wing columnists and the two most-read leftist weeklies have not once mentioned Dubcek, although his arrival has dominated news columns for more than a week.

Diplomats from the Soviet bloc are reluctant to discuss Dubcek. He himself has maintained total silence in public so far and called on the Soviet ambassador before presenting his credentials to Turkish officials.

Western diplomats have followed a hands-off policy.

"Any approaches we make could only hurt him," said one.

Open-heart Operation Is Filmed

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A two-hour open-heart operation filmed at Kingston General Hospital is to be shown on television later this month.

Dr. J. O. Parker, a cardiologist and associate professor at Queen's University, said the operation on a 47-year-old Arnprior, Ont., man was videotaped by the university and CKWS television in Kingston.

He said the operation, in which one of the man's heart valves was replaced, was a success.

Schools Remain Empty

VAL CARON, Ont. (CP) — Four area separate schools in this community 10 miles north of Sudbury remained nearly empty Wednesday—the third day of a boycott by 400 parents protesting lack of bus service for children living within a mile of the schools.

Pickets were out at all four schools and only 32 of 1,220 pupils attended classes.

The boycott was sparked by a ruling of the Sudbury separate school board cutting bus transportation for children within a mile of the schools. The parents claim it is too cold and hazardous for the children to walk.

There were no incidents of violence Wednesday as police cruisers escorted school buses and a guard at each school kept an eye on pickets. Police were forced to intervene Monday when parents tried to block buses near the intersection of Highways 69 and 634.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Rylstone Women's Institute held a progressive euchre party at the WI hall recently. Seven tables were in play, and the winners were as follows: Alfred Akins, Mrs. Margaret Osborne, Jimmie Meiklejohn, Mrs. Gerald Petherick, Ernest Rowe and Mrs. Ernest Rowe. The next one will be held in the WI hall on Saturday evening, Feb. 4.

Ross Finch has returned home from Kingston General Hospital.

Mrs. Harry Mumby has returned home from Belleville General Hospital.

If you've been waiting for new cars that are really new... you could be Dodge material.

DODGE70

BIG DODGE
Big Dodge is new this year with Torsion-Quiet Ride. A solid Unibody that floats on its undercarriage. Big Dodge is new with a stance that's wider than ever for improved roadability. Big Dodge. A new concept in luxury in the popular price field.

CHARGER
A car that's as performance oriented as it looks. And you'll find all kinds of fast-moving features like hidden headlights, a Rallye instrument panel, Rallye suspension, racing gas cap, bucket seats or bench, and almost any option you'd care for. Charger. A lot of car for a surprisingly low price.

CORONET
Here is the car that's big enough to deliver everything you'd want in a roomy (six-adult-capacity) car at a price that's very hard to resist. Seventeen lively models, running all the way up to the sporty bucket-seated 500. Dodge Coronet. It's almost impossible to get more car for the money.

DART
A new look. A longer hood to house new, larger engines. And wild new colours. But best of all, Dart is still what it started out to be. A comfort-packed compact with room for six. Nimble handling. Easy to own. But still priced beautifully within your budget.

Look out sports compacts, here comes the hot new CHALLENGER

Challenger is the only new entry in the sports compact field you'll see this year. It's a car that grips the road with stance that says solid. Engine choices run all the way up to 426 Hemi. Eight in all.

Six models including convertibles. And they all come with concealed wipers, steering wheel lock, deep-pile carpeting, dual headlights, and more.

What A Night At The Movies!

OTTAWA (CP) — Into the Heart of the Wildwood began quietly enough with a nude love scene in a sylvan glade.

Peering through the bushes was a photographer, who, excited by the scene, went after a girl of his own.

When he found her, on a lonely path, he created the wildest moments the National Arts Centre has had since it opened last June.

"He knocked her unconscious, then began gouging out her eyes," a still-shaken woman recalled Wednesday.

The film, shown Monday night, was made by students at British Columbia's Simon Fraser University under the direction of Timothy Bond of Ottawa.

"Men started to shout 'turn the damn thing off' and people were stamping their feet, but it just went on and on and on," the woman said.

"When I peeped through my fingers, this man was eviscerating a young girl."

"A letter of apology is going out saying it was all an error," Irving Gershkovitch, president of the 1,800-member Ottawa Film Society, said Wednesday night.

"If any of us had seen the thing in advance, it wouldn't have gone on."

"He must have tried to create the most macabre Grand-Guignol scene on film," Maurice Cutler, the society's director for international programs, said of Mr. Bond.

Mr. Cutler, who was there, said he wanted to stop the showing. Some members of the audience of about 1,500 were talking about storming the projectionist's booth. Others were trying to get to a bathroom.

Mr. Gershkovitch, glad he didn't see it, was called by one angry viewer at 2 a.m. Tuesday and was still getting calls Wednesday.

Ancient Skills Revived

Jakob Lischer of Carleton Place, 30 miles west of Ottawa, examines one of the ancient cannon he reproduces using only fire, anvil and hammer. Mr. Lischer, a German-born blacksmith, brought his skill to Ontario 11 years ago and is now commissioned to reproduce four historic cannon for a special artillery display at the National War Museum.

"Industrial Democracy" Needed Says NDP MP

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — Ed Broadbent, New Democratic member of Parliament for Oshawa-Whitby, said Wednesday Canada needs an industrial democracy which would entail a redistribution of power away from the corporate structure to the working classes.

Addressing a public meeting at St. Francis Xavier University, Mr. Broadbent called for the elimination of the practice of a few members of a corporate body making decisions which could be detrimental to the economy of a region or for the country as a whole.

Mr. Broadbent said an independent Canadian identity which would include having foreign-owned companies behave "in the interests of Canada" is needed.

This could, in part, be brought about by "union pressure" on the foreign-owned interests.

Canada should have a fully-developed welfare state within a decade, he said.

But this was not enough and it would be necessary to go beyond this state and develop policies "so that the goal of self-realization will be available to all."

BC Dockers Ordered to Work Despite Rejection of Contract

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's 3,200 longshoremen have been ordered back to work today despite a 51.1 per cent rejection Wednesday night of the third contract proposal in four months.

Union officials cancelled picket lines early today and told the men to be on the docks for work.

The union executive, meanwhile, planned to map out another attempt to reach a settlement in a special meeting this morning.

Dockworkers voting in six port centres turned down the latest—and highest—offer by a margin of 1,391 to 1,338.

Union and company officials were at a loss to explain the vote. Some waterfront sources had confidently predicted acceptance.

The contract would have given them what employers said was the highest longshore wage in North America, plus working conditions that would have brought a new era to B.C. dock operations.

It called for a $1.15 hourly increase in three years on a base rate of $3.88.

Shortly after the rejection was announced, Bob Peebles, Canadian area president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, said there was no alternative but to continue the strike.

An hour later he reversed his stand, calling off the pickets.

Meanwhile, union officials would try "to get their fingers on the trouble," he said. All three contract offers have had tacit approval of union negotiators. All three have been turned down.

"I don't understand it," said Ed Strang, president of the B.C. Maritime Employers' Association, which bargains for 60 longshoring companies.

"They seem to have a divided house," he said of the ILWU.

"I just don't know where we will go from here."

Federal mediation officer William Kelly had no comment but said he would be in contact with federal Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey early today.

Mr. Mackasey, in a telephone interview from Ottawa, said he expects the union will want to reassess its position.

"I don't want to say any more but every time they vote they seem to get a little closer to accepting a contract.

"I expect I will get a little more information on the situation out there in the morning."

Longshoremen had been off work since noon Tuesday discussing the proposal and voting.

Today was the last day of a 90-day truce arranged by Mr. Mackasey to give negotiators for both sides a cooling-off period. Bargaining has been going on for seven months.

The latest contract, worked out last week, would have given the wage increase, two additional paid holidays and improved vacations and an increase in the pension plan and $13,000 retirement settlements to qualifying members at age 65.

For the employers, the contract called for a modernizing of longshoring to adopt to new container cargo handling methods with an around-the-clock, seven-day-a-week port operation.

The contract would have meant a 35.6 per cent wage increase in three years and would have cost employers an additional $24,000,000, Mr. Strang said.

Mr. Peebles could find no explanation for the rejection. He has been president for only three months—elected with a new slate of officers in an attempt to work out a contract acceptable to union members.

Individual longshoremen, however, were reported to be generally in favor of the wage increase but worried about work rules changes that would have reduced the size of work gangs.

FOR SALE

"The Hardest Working Classified Want Ads are the ones that are Written the Best!"

Follow These Helpful Suggestions For Writing A Good Want Ad.

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

2—Be CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. Always include "price".

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions.

You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Losses outnumbered gains by about two to one as the Toronto stock market dropped moderately in light mid-morning trading today.

The market fell sharply Wednesday in light trading, its eighth daily loss in the last nine sessions.

On index today, industrials were down .41 to 176.88, western oils 1.57 to 205.64, golds .58 to 152.52 and base metals .54 to 113.75.

Volume by 11 a.m. was 560,000 shares compared with 646,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Asamera dropped 1⅜ to 13¾. Nabors and Riley's Datashare did not trade but closed Wednesday at 12¾, up ¼, and $2.85, down 15 cents, respectively.

Nabors sold a $1,000,0000 five-year nine-per-cent subordinated convertible debenture to Asamera that matures Feb. 1, 1975. Riley's sold Asamera a $300,000, 9½-per-cent, five-year convertible debenture that matures Jan. 15, 1975.

The market turned around sharply in late trading Tuesday and interrupted a seven-day slump.

The market opened slightly lower Tuesday, then strengthened slightly in the first hour before falling.

On index, industrials were down 1.49 to 177.29, western oils 2.97 to 207.21, golds .98 to 153.10 and base metals .30 to 114.29.

Volume was 2,072,000 shares compared with 2,714,000 Tuesday.

Losses outnumbered gains 268 to 207 with 259 issues unchanged.

OSF Industries, the most active industrial on 72,800 shares, was up ½ to 8½.

OSF said that Roberts Realty of the Bahamas, a wholly-owned subsidiary, has acquired Anderson Cay and the rights to the Pfister property of the Great Harbour Cay in the Bahamas. No price was released.

Inco lost 1 to 43½. The stock rose 1 Tuesday although the company reported annual earnings of $1.56 a share compared with $1.93 in the previous year.

Endako was down ⅛ to 14⅝ although the company reported fourth-quarter earnings of 41 cents a share compared with 11 cents in the similar 1968 period.

Canadian General Electric traded an odd lot of 25 shares at 23¼. The company's 1969 earnings were $1.07 a share compared with $1.06 in 1968.

Ex-OPP Officer New Picton Policeman

PICTON (Staff) — The new constable of the Picton Police Department, Charles Fletcher, was chosen from 20 job applicants by the Picton Police Commission.

Mr. Fletcher is a veteran policeman with almost 20 years service in Ontario Provincial Police.

He resigned from the OPP more than a year ago with the rank of sergeant. He will commence his duties with Picton police as a first-class constable, said commission chairman Jessie Mason.

Beaux Arts Trio Delights Community Concert Audience

By EUGENE LANG

Ingredients: one violin, one cello, one piano.

Add: Three chairs plus two music stands.

Select three first rate instrumentalists placing each on one chair. Allow to mix their superb talents in solo, duet and trio for two hours in carefully controlled fashion plus appreciative applause after each item and the recipe obtained is delectable delight for all present.

To give best results refrain from applause after each movement of a concerted work (if you can) as it spoils continuity of emotional feeling built up during performance. Warning: be sure for finest effect that chairs be occupied by Menahem Pressler, pianist, along with Isidore Cohen, violinist and Bernard Greenhouse, cellist.

A name? Let's call them the Beaux Arts Trio — yes, that will suffice. But the name doesn't really make too much difference just as long as these three are involved.

And involvement it was last evening for everyone concerned — artists and audience alike in what turned out to be one of the finest programs that we have witnessed in the nearly three dozen years of Community Concert existence in this city.

The Trio is known internationally for its excellence of playing with the local showing as no exception to the rule. Formed about a dozen years ago the Trio has appeared in many countries and always drawn superlatives from hearers and critics alike.

Their recordings have also brought them into the glare of musical limelight with each succeeding release. To those with long memories they reincarnate the glories of another famed Trio of decades gone by — Thibaud, Casals and Cortot.

The program was solid both in content and concert. An early Trio (Op. 1 No. 1) in E Flat Major of Beethoven immediately brought out the coordination of response, nuance of tone, and inordinate rapport of the threesome. No aural indulgence was noted but just the truth in recreation of this charming, seldom-heard composition was instilled. Spirited and cleanly crafted were the outer movements as oppossed to the langourous limpidity of the slow section with its interesting variations.

Mendelssohn's masterful Trio in D Minor Op. 49 was treated with intense reading of electrified excitement Here, in one of the great example of trio literature the elements of daramtic fervency and romantic ardor are interwoven with virtuosic demands made on the executants, especially the pianist.

Each movement was given the ultimate three artists that culminated in jet-propelled bravura in the tempestuous finale. This alone was worth the entire evening for those who left the solace of home chairs for the solidity of auditorium seats on such a cooling evening. Here was feasibility of mood with flexibility of music.

Each musician had his day in court before the judges out front, and, after pleading his case, was found guilty of excellence in musicianship, a denizen of his instrument and master interpreter after individual appearances. Sentence by all — rounds of warm applause.

Isidore Cohen gave a vivid rendition of the well known Introduction and Ronda Capriccioso of Saint-Seans that sparkled with violin virtuosity offset with soulful singing in the inner melody.

The 'cello was put through its paces in each of the three short numbers played by Bernard Greenhouse. The Valentini Allegro was handled with agile clarity as opposed to the sustained vibrato engendered in the lovely Traumerei of Schumann. Davidoff's At the Fountain, a kind of perpetual motion for the soloist, saw Mr. Greenhouse in frolicsome fettle at the ungainly Stradivarius. He knows and shows his instrument at its best and to its best. The middle theme was sinuously brought forth from the long bow of the performer.

Menahem Pressler, the pianist (who, by the way appeared here many years ago in solo recital) fulminated in blazing pyrotechnics as he nearly razed the Steinway in a brilliant realization of Liszt's finger breaking Mephisto Waltz.

The conception was of red hot brilliance throughout matched at times by the comparable (red hot?) groanings of the garrulous radiators. By the way, his accomplishments to the others was remarkable in keyboard reflections.

Following a most rewarding musical evening the artists and members of the executive of the local Association were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Burr, Foster Avenue.

To the between movement applauders once again our congratulations for a job well done!

Crest Wins Approval

Miss Eva Baker, area commissioner for the Quinte Girl Guide Association spent Saturday in Toronto where she attended the provincial executive meeting of Girl Guides at their headquarters, 50 Merton St. While there, Miss Baker submitted for approval, a crest to be used by the Quinte Area Guide Association. The crest was designed by Mrs. Joan Coles, captain of a Guide Co. at the Canadian Forces Base, Trenton. The crest won the approval of the provincial council.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Steve McQueen stars in "The Reivers", predicted as 1970's leading Box Office attraction. Evening performances at 7.00 and 9.10. Saturday and Sunday matinees at 2.00 p.m.

AT THE PARK — In Color — "Medium Cool" is dazzling, devastating, brilliant. An exciting piece of work that must be seen by everyone. It stars Robert Forster and Verna Bloom. On the same program "Assassination Bureau" starring Oliver Reed of "Oliver" fame and an all star cast. One show each evening commencing at 7.30. Restricted to persons 18 years of age and over.

NFB Feature Draws Praise From Critics

Prologue, a National Film Board feature film which delves into the turmoil among today's youth, received great reviews from the majority of critics following its world premiere opening at the Thirty Fourth Street Theatre in New York on January 29.

Giving it a three-star rating, Kathleen Carrol of the Daily News said "it has the frankness of the New Left radicals, the off-hand warmth of the flower people and is so pleasantly open that for once the alienation of these young people seems clear".

Writing in the New York Post, Archer Winsten praised the footage of the riots at the Democratic convention in Chicago and said that "as a straight forward view of the longhair protesters and idealists, Prologue can be placed in the record of our times as an Exhibit A".

Mr. Winsten was taken with the performance of Yippie leader Abbie Hoffman — who plays himself — claiming that "Hoffman, the controversialist, demonstrates he has a flair for bold speech in front of a camera as well as in a street demonstration". Well-known critic, Judith Crist said "Abbie Hoffman, making his film debut, proves he is a dynamic and interesting character indeed".

One of the warmest reviews came from Brad Darrach in Life's new movie magazine. "Prologue is a beautifully open movie that tunes in on Yippies and Hippies, the power and the flower people of the New Left and gives us a discriminating sense of where their heads are at".

Talking of the two main characters, Jesse and Karen, played by American John Robb and Montrealer Elaine Malus, Mr. Darrach said they "leave us with two performances so real they seem like person transplants.

"Director Robin Spry sees his generation steadily and sees it whole. Spry faults his contemporaries for making a cult of experience, but he likes their nerve because he believes that under the new hair-do they are trying a new head-do," Mr? Darrach concluded.

Bernard Drew, reviewer for the Gannet chain of newspapers, felt that Prologue "seems better" than the half-dozen or so other films dealing with the Chicago convention. "The scenes in Chicago are very fine . . . much superior to all the others I've seen. Abbie Hofman proves an electric personality".

Mr. Drew was also taken with the performance of John Robb as Jesse, writing that he "is sincere and strong and dedicated and manages to state the case for his point of view most admirably".

The Village Voice, the first and most prominent of the underground newspapers, found the film "so finely accurate as to be the last cinematic word on the subject."

Victoria Sullivan, a professor at Columbia University, also approved of the film as a definite statement on hippie life in a review for 'University Review'.

"Prologue is first-rate", she stated "What makes the film well worth seeing is the sympathetic look into the life of a young radical, the visit with Abbie Hoffman, the excellent footage of Chicago and the cinema verite technique.

"Abbie Hoffman is a master entertainer; well worth the price of admission."

Prologue, which earlier received rave reviews at the Venice, London and Delhi film festivals, will have its Canadian premiere at the Odeon Coronet Theatre in Toronto on February 20.

Shortly after, the film will open in Montreal, Hamilton and Ottawa. It will also open in Calgary in April.

The movie will begin its British run at the Paris-Pullman Theatre in London on February 26.

Toronto Police Chief Voices Praise for Accused Officers

TORONTO (CP) — An inquiry into the conduct of senior Toronto police officers ended Wednesday with Police Chief James Mackey taking the stand to vouch for the integrity of three of his men.

The chief described Deputy Chief John Murray as a "loyal, dedicated, hard-working individual" and Supt. Howard Mahaffy and Insp. Harry Fielding as "excellent officers."

The three were the main targets in allegations of charge fixing brought by Constable Ian Samuel, former constable Peter Lott and assistant Crown attorneys John Kerr and Michiel Roell.

Judge Charles O. Bick, chairman of the Metro Toronto Police Commission which conducted the inquiry, said summations by counsel for the accused officers and their accusers will be heard March 2 and 4. The commission's findings may not be available until April.

During the final day of testimony, Roell charged that Deputy Chief Murray had ordered Constable William Stahlbaum to fake a breath analysis report on the condition of a brewery executive so an impaired driving case would be weakened.

Constable Stahlbaum denied Roell's charge that he falsified a breath test on Donald Joseph McDougall, Ontario sales manager of Labatt's brewery at the time of his arrest Nov. 24, 1967.

The constable also denied telling Roell he had made out a new test report on orders from Murray or having said this was the fifth time he had been called off a case.

Testimony showed that the constable went to court and gave his evidence on the basis of the original test information. The charge against McDougall had been dismissed.

Roy McMurty, counsel for 31 policemen appearing at the inquiry, noted that although Roell gave "vivid details" of his alleged conversation with Constable Stahlbaum, he had not been able to remember McDougall's name without the aid of a computer check.

McMurty asked whether Roell had said the inquiry did not appear to be going very well.

"Something like that," the constable replied. "He mentioned Mr. Kerr. He (Roell) was upset. He was hesitant, under a strain."

Crown Attorney James Crossland later told the commission he accepts full responsibility for dropping two drinking charges against an alcoholic doctor in 1965.

Crossland said he had received an indication that the doctor had "a tremendous contribution to make and that it would be a terrible thing for that contribution to end if this doctor went to jail."

He said final decision on dropping the charges rested with him and he "would make the same decision today, tomorrow and forever."

Gas Could Be Smelled For Days Before Blast

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — An inquest into the death of a woman in a gas pipeline explosion at nearby Malton last October was told Wednesday there had been construction work in the area and a smell of leaking gas up to three days before the blast.

Jean Perigo, 75, was killed and 22 persons were injured in the explosion and fire which destroyed 19 stores, seven apartments and two houses and damaged several other houses.

Two witnesses, George Rogerson and Edward Lemire, told H. B. Cotnam, Ontario's chief coroner, they had smelled gas in front of a restaurant near Mrs. Perigo's home.

Mr. Lemire, who operated the restaurant, said he didn't think there was any need to call Consumers' Gas Co.

Mr. Rogerson, superintendent of an installation project at the Malton post office, said he checked to see there was no leak associated with the project and did not inquire further.

Mississauga Ald. Frank McKechnie testified that Mrs. Perigo had complained of depressions at the edge of her driveway and in her back yard and that these had been repaired about three years ago.

He said there had been a great deal of construction work near her home for several years, including modifications to a sidewalk across from the home, and that "these may have accounted for the depression."

However James Rogers, a neighbor of Mrs. Perigo who used the driveway adjacent to her home, said the depression had been there for at least 18 months.

Anthony Hoskins, owner of a nearby appliance store, and Jan Stachera, who lived opposite the Perigo home, said construction of a water line about six months before the explosion jarred buildings in the immediate area.

Chief Joseph Miller of the Mississauga Fire Department said the only information provided him by Consumers' Gas relating to gas pipelines was in the form of pamphlets containing advice on "the do's and don'ts of gas fires."

He said his department has no authority to interfere with gas mains except to shut them off inside a burning house or plant.

The inquest continues.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

There Is Help For Hyperactivity

I have known so many parents who suffer the emotional pangs of bringing up a hyperactive child — yet do nothing constructive about it. They do not bring him to a doctor. They wring their hands and ask "what has God wrought?" Here is a letter from a mother who did something about it.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I also had the problem of an overactive child. Even as a baby he was excessively active. But being the first, I never gave it any particular thought.

He walked at eight months, and gave up naps by the age of 14 months. It just seemed that he got wilder, more destructive and noisier by the day. He'd be up early with us, and still raising a rumpus when we went to bed about 10:30 or so.

Punishment didn't work, and I finally took him to see the doctor. I told him it was either my boy or me, since I couldn't stand it any longer. He checked him, observed him a while, and wrote a prescription.

Things have now settled down considerably around here. Our boy is now 4½ and has been on the "miracle" medication for about 2½ months.

He sits to look at books, he hasn't yanked curtains down or jumped on the sofa and chairs in all that time. He has stopped his screaming and tantrums and is really quite lovable.

Me? I almost feel guilty for the punishment he got before. He's lots of fun to have around, and is real conscientious about taking his pills. He has three younger brothers and he's quite gentle with them now. It is like having a different child.

Anyone without a child with this problem doesn't understand the frustrating physical and emotional disability. Grandparents and friends think you don't know how to discipline the child and offer all kinds of advice.

My advice? See the doctor earlier. There'll be less suffering all around. — Mrs. T.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: About six months ago my sister had a breast removed and has subsequent 22 x-ray treatments. During the past two months her arm has become quite swollen — from the fingertips to the shoulder.

She has taken medicine, but neither family doctor nor surgeon has been able to aid her. Would you know of any therapy that might help? — Mrs. M.

Comment: Not being on the spot, I can only guess. Sometimes exercises, although painful and tiresome, help. I know of a few patients who improved after having been given antibiotics on the assumption there was some infection along the veins and lymphatic vessels. However, the outlook in each patient depends upon individual circumstances.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: How does one catch cold? — Mrs. I.

Comment: I wish I knew. Then we might be on the track of how to prevent and cure these pesky nuisances.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: Will you tell me what causes and how to cure heart palpitations? — Mr. C.

Comment: Palpitations is a vague word. It might mean anything from simple heart skips (premature contractions) that sometimes occur in the healthy heart to auricular fibrillation or other heart irregularity, associated with specific heart disease such as rheumatic heart, hypertensive heart, atherosclerotic disease, overactive thyroid, etc.

Better learn the true cause. Once it's found there is usually a way to control or lessen the palpitation.

Strictly Personal

Who Would Elect Doctors?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

Politics should not be an occupation; public administration should be; for the health of the community is surely as important as the health of the individual, yet nobody would think of "electing" men to be doctors simply because they proclaimed themselves doctors.

• • •

The man who always knows a shortcut finds himself on more detours than his plodding companions who take the customary route.

• • •

The world seems divided into those who aren't sick and imagine they are, and those who are sick and insist they aren't; physicians benefit from the former, and morticians from the latter.

• • •

The relativity of "wealth" was acutely expressed by Thoreau, when he said: "If you wish to give a man a sense of poverty, give him a thousand dollars. The next hundred dollars he gets will not be worth more than ten that he used to get."

• • •

Only if you believe a thing the second time around — after having come to doubt it — is your belief likely to be grounded in objective realism (those who believe things from birth never really understand them.)

• • •

Some men feel so proprietary about their own ideas that if, in a conversation, you simply restate their own argument with minor modifications they will fiercly disagree with what you say, and contradict their own earlier position. (This irritating habit tends to be truer of self-styled intellectuals than of anybody else.)

• • •

It's amazing how naturally graceful most children are — until they are taken in hand and given lessons in graceful deportment.

• • •

Nothing is better for our character than to have someone around (not breathing down one's neck, of course) who doesn't like us and forces us to re-examine our attitudes and actions in light of this harsh judgment. (In such situations, the weak merely succumb to self-pity, the petty try to retaliate, but the wise gain insight.)

• • •

Every people imagine that its own language sounds "natural" and foreign tongues sound "funny" — and it is hard to believe that English sounds like "unpleasant little mews" to so cultivated a Spaniard as Ortega, or that his regimen for learning the language was to "begin by thrusting the jaw forward, almost clenching the teeth, and practically immobilizing the lips."

• • •

Mankind cannot stand unorganized society, which exposes us to peril, or organized society which envelops us in dullness; and all political conflict is a struggle to find an equilibrium between risk and safety.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For February 6

Your birthday today: Every day in the coming year contains subtle changes of spiritual progress, improvement of inner strength. It is not a matter of what you do for a living or what your situation in life may be, but what you strive to become.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Finish the week's routines at the earliest possible moment and relax with window-shopping or light entertainment. Bring your loved ones together for a festive evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Reach out to be friendly. Things turn quickly; perhaps a new angle in your work gives you a better advantage. Celebrate tonight at somebody else's party or a good show.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You can hide little today, particularly among strangers seeking recognition.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): You get help where you least expect it. Accept graciously and make the most of the opportunity while it lasts. Take the initiative in partnerships.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Pursue a calm and serene course for best results. Nearly everyone around you offers cooperation, according to your needs and recent activities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Persistence pays. Your organizing ability should show up well now. Press for contacts to promote your vocation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): All that you do today partakes of the quality of vacation or a round of fun. Discipline yourself to take care of enough to then go along with the mood of the day.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): The New Moon at 2:14 AM Eastern Standard Time sets off a action today. Settle for what you had yesterday. Hold off action until you've given it a weekend's thought.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Try listening in preference to direct response to provocation. You may come to see the matter in different perspective.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Anything you offer now by way of comment or judgment will come back to plague you later, so keep your opinions discreet or moderate in their expression.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Reflection during the course of settling the workweek will reveal that today you turn a corner in your personal development.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): The tasks of the morning tax your patience. Get out and alone to think things through. Let others show off — you can't do much about it. Avoid undue fatigue.

Downtown Re-development Years Away

Consultant Says City Has No Alternative But to Back Plaza

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

The city of Belleville has no alternative but to support the proposed north-end regional shopping plaza as opposed to consideration of downtown urban redevelopment.

This is the view of Richard Hamilton, of W. W. Urban Consultants who carried out a Belleville and district economic survey in support of the city's application for rezoning to allow the proposed regional shopping centre.

Testifying yesterday at the Ontario Municipal Board re-hearing into the plaza question, Mr. Hamilton said that any downtown urban renewal — even if the money and property was now available — is still four-and-a-half to five years away.

And inside that time the demand for increased shopping facilities in the Belleville trade area would be so great that in all probability a large shopping centre would be constructed outside the city.

As a result of his economic study of the Belleville area, Mr. Hamilton said in his view the impact of the proposed northend shopping plaza would not be great —possibly six to seven per cent of business — then would thin out and disappear within two to three years.

Most of the impact would be on Towers discount store immediately to the west of the city, and to a lesser degree on Walkers in downtown Belleville, according to M. Hamilton.

However, both of these stores were currently doing well and would continue to do well in the future.

Projecting growths in the area, Mr. Hamilton estimated Belleville's population would be 37,000 in 1971. The Belleville trade area population would be 128,000 in 1971 with the people at that time having available disposable income of $59 million.

Of this, $45 million would be spent in the Belleville trade area, with possibly more than 20 per cent being spent outside the area on what was described as "big ticket items" not now available in local stores.

However, with Simpsons-Sears as the major tenant in the proposed shopping centre, some of the money now being spent outside would be recaptured or retained in the trading area.

With establishment of the plaza Mr. Hamilton foresaw possibly six or seven downtown businesses transferring to the new site, while some downtown merchants might establish branch stores at the plaza.

The proposed plaza would cause downtown merchants to "spruce up" their premises and provide better services. Competitive attrition might result in some marginal merchants passing out of the picture.

Mr. Hamilton expected the proposed plaza to do an $11 million dollar business during the first year of operation, gradually increasing to $13.9 million as tenants settled in.

But of this amount $5 million would be as a result of dollars "recaptured" as customers purchased "big ticket" items not now available in the trading area.

Taking into consideration the additional spending dol-

Evidence All In, Argument Monday

The Ontario Municipal Board re-hearing into the North Front Street shopping plaza was suddenly adjourned this morning when opposing counsel announced they would call no witnesses.

The hearing is now adjourned until 11 a.m. Monday for the start of argument by the three counsel, R. B. Robinson for Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd., E. Gus Porter for the city, and opposing counsel Robert A. MacAulay.

Yesterday, Mr. B. S. Onyschuk, who for the past three days has conducted cross examination of witnesses in the absence of Mr. MacAulay, said that he would be prepared to call Toronto consultant Allen Brass today as his witness.

Mr. Brass was subpoenaed as a Cambridge Leaseholds witness, and has been present all week at the hearing, but just prior to the Thursday afternoon adjournment Mr. Robinson said he would not call the Toronto consultant.

Mr. Onyschuk said the onus was on either the city or Cambridge to call Mr. Brass. He then said he would be prepared to put Mr. Brass on the stand but this morning announced he would be calling no witnesses.

Redel After Beating

Police Challenge Victim's Version

QUEBEC (CP) — The Quebec Police Commission investigation of the police beating of a high-ranking British Columbia civil servant will probably have to consider conflicting versions of the incident.

Walter Robert Redel, 48, director of lands for the B.C. lands and forest department, was beaten and pistol whipped by two plainclothes provincial police Sunday.

It was revealed late Tuesday that the victim, mistaken for a member of an English-speaking gang trying to steal $1,500,000 from a Quebec City branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, was a senior government official from outside the province.

A spokesman for Quebec Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand, announcing the police commission inquiry Thursday, said the "unfortunate" accident could be attributed to the language barrier.

Quebec Justice Minister Remi Paul and a Quebec Provincial Police spokesman said police identified themselves in French and English and that Mr. Redel refused to obey orders.

At his Victoria home, where he is recuperating from a several cut which closed his left eye, Mr. Redel denied these versions.

He said the two policemen did not show him their badges and spoke no English except the word "police."

He described as "completely false" reports attributed to Quebec government officials that he had put his hand in a pocket to imitate a gun.

Davis Charges 'Massive Raids'

MONTREAL (CP) — Federal Fisheries Minister Jack Davis Thursday lashed out at Russian, Polish and East German fishermen for depleting Canadian fish resources.

"These massive raids are leaving gaping holes in our fish stocks," he told a conference on automation and mechanization in the fishing industry.

"They are taking great chunks out of important year classes. They are tending in some places to upset the balance of nature. These intrusions are unfortunate. They are bound to have long term repercussions.

"They remind me, for all the world, of the heedless actions of the so-called Imperialists of old."

Although Mr. Davis did not mention Russia, Poland or East Germany in his speech, he later confirmed to reporters that those were the countries he considered responsible for the "intrusions."

"The really big fleet operations are all the Communist countries," he said. The three countries were identified in the written text of his speech.

Asked whether he had omitted the nation's names in giving the speech because of a desire to be "diplomatic" in the presence of Soviet fishing officials, Mr. Davis said "I intended to say every word."

He shortened his speech because "the audience was getting restless."

In his speech Mr. Davis said all fishing nations should cooperate in stablishing quotas on North Atlantic fish stocks.

The minister also said the fishing industry is behind the times in mechanization.

"The in-shore fishery off Newfoundland, the Gulf of St. Lawrence and parts of Labrador hasn't changed very much in 400 years," he said. But the prime target for automation and mechanization was the off-shore fishery.

"To further mechanize that industry without moving the people is to deny them gainful employment," he said.

Automation would help the problem of recruitment for off-shore fishing crews and raise the morale of these crews.

Earlier, two computer experts described the benefits of computerized fishing.

The four-day conference, attended by almost 400 delegates from 16 countries, ends today with a panel discussion that brings together businessmen and fishing trawler skippers.

'Red Capitalism' Gives Indians Hope

MONTREAL (CP) — Red capitalism could help impoverished Indian reserves, the president of the Alberta Indian Association said Thursday.

Harold Cardinal, also author of The Unjust Society, a biting critique of white treatment of Indians, was explaining an agreement just signed between a trailer manufactured and the Blood tribe of Lethbridge, Alta., to a McGill University teach-in on Indian affairs.

The company has agreed to finance a factory which will eventually be owned and managed by the Indians themselves, he said.

"This will generate jobs and income within the confines of the reserve," he said. "It points out there are viable alternatives for the red man—other than the destructive framework of the Indian white paper."

The federal government white paper has proposed turning over responsibility for Indian affairs to the provinces and has been widely attacked by Indians.

Mr. Cardinal suggested that the Indian movement could use the techniques of anti-war and civil rights protest.

"They made the most powerful government on the face of the earth stop and consider perhaps they're not right on Vietnam," Mr. Cardinal said. "We should do the same."

Ojibway Fred Kelly from Kenora, Ont., then explained Red Power, a movement of young militant Indians strong in parts of the west and Ontario.

"It is the quest for self-determination and the struggle the, Indian people have to achieve this—by whatever means necessary."

Walter Curry, president of the Indian-Eskimo Association of Canada which also includes whites as members, noted words such as mulatto, half-breed and nigger created by "Western Christian civilization to apply to skins other than white."

"Half-breed: what an awful word to confer on a man who has the blood of two races coursing through his veins.

"You wouldn't call the son or daughter of an English and French marriage a half-breed. Think about it. If you use these words, it reveals something about yourself."

Boeing Purchase Assailed

Trenton Setup Called 'Unnecessary Airline'

OTTAWA (CP) — Don Watson, chairman of the Air Transport Association of Canada, said Thursday the government's decision to buy four Boeing 707 jets "is an irresponsible and unnecessary appropriation of public funds."

The government announced earlier this week that the big jets were being purchased at a cost of $55,900,000 to replace older Yukon transport aircraft for the Canadian Armed Forces.

Mr. Watson said in a statement that the commercial air transport industry in Canada had the capability of meeting the government's transport requirements.

"The United States government and Britain have found it less expensive to have commercial carriers perform logistic movements when compared to the military," he said.

"It is high time that the public of Canada was made aware that they are paying for an unnecessary airline operated by the military from headquarters at Trenton, Ont., who operate to a timetable larger than Air Canada's."

Mr. Watson said the government could not expect industry and others to hold the line on prices in an attempt to curb inflation when the government demonstrates "this kind of disregard for the very policies it is preaching."

Consultant Gives Views on Impact of Plaza to OMB

lars available as the result of expansion, Mr. Hamilton did not feel the net impact of the shopping plaza would amount to more than $1.4 or $1.5 million on downtown stores.

The witness said there were very few trading areas left in Canada with the potential of the Belleville trading area.

Many areas with comparable total population were served with a variety of large department stores.

Mr. Hamilton said the plaza site proposed by Cambridge Leaseholds was the best possible site in the area, with location and highway networks being to its advantage. He felt the McFarland site north of Highway 401 was not as good.

Mr. Hamilton didn't rule out downtown urban renewal in Belleville. He said there were many possibilities for urban renewal but without demolition of big areas of expensive buildings couldn't see a shopping plaza of any size being established.

"There will be redevelopment but it will not happen overnight," he said. "Downtown stores will continue to be competitive in that they serve a local market rather than a regional one."

Mr. Hamilton estimated the proposed plaza would employ between 200 and 300 persons.

This, he said, would encourage many young people to remain in the city and continue their education.

During the afternoon cross-examination by opposing counsel B. S. Onyschuk, Mr. Hamilton elaborated on his earlier statement that the proposed shopping plaza could be expected to gross $11 million in its first year of operation.

Realization of this potential would fall into the six following categories:

1. The recapture of $5 million now being spent outside the Belleville trading area, and described as "unsatisfied potential."

2. From the competitive impact on Towers discount store, estimated at $500,000.

3. Dollars resulting from new growth in the Belleville trading area estimated at $1.5 million.

4. The transfer of sales from the downtown area estimated at $1.4 million.

5. Sale transfers from other Belleville trade area stores, such as in Trenton and Napanee, $1.5 million.

6. Sales potential from other trade areas and from tourists $1.1 million.

Mr. Hamilton said Towers, and to a lesser degree Walkers store in downtown Belleville along with Kresges, Zellers and Metropolitan stores, would feel the major impact as the result of the plaza.

However, he said the impact would not be permanent and in an expanding economy he would be surprised if it lasted more than five years.

The impact was expected to exceed more than 6 per cent of downtown department store merchandizing but Mr. Hamilton said he would not be alarmed if it rose to as much as 10 or 15 per cent.

"There are few vacant stores on Front Street and I feel downtown merchants are "very healthy" said the witness.

Store Is Topic of Testimony

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Towers discount store on the city's western outskirts is pretending to protect downtown merchants but on the other hand is raking in dollars by remaining open when they are closed a Bellevillian claimed yesterday.

This was the criticism of a private citizen testifying at the Ontario Municipal Board re-hearing into the city's application for rezoning to allow the proposed North Front Street plaza.

The Towers store was the principal objector of the proposed plaza at the original hearing last year.

(The lone objector at this week's rehearing is Marchland Holdings).

"I am not a religious man," said Belleville resident Jack Cunningham, "but I don't like Towers. They pretend to be protecting downtown merchants but stay open every night to 10 o'clock and on every holiday possible . . ."

Mr. Cunningham was one of six private residents testifying in favor of the proposed northend shopping plaza at yesterday's session.

Others included two local housewives, an area landscaper and a union official.

William Hockley, plant security guard living in Belleville said an 11,000-name petition raised by the Belleville Citizens of Belleville Committee, was "tangible evidence" that the proposed plaza was needed.

"We live here, we can see the new factories, can feel the pulse and know the area is booming," he said.

The fact that a reputable developer has shown the patience and energy to renew options and was prepared to spend $3,000,000 was proof of the area's prosperity, he said.

"I don't feel any developer would even dream of this kind of an expenditure without doing exhaustive research as to potential."

Referring to possible downtown urban renewal, Mr. Hockley said there was no assurance that federal financial assistance would be available for this even in three to five years.

On the other hand, he said the plaza was a real and tangible thing.

"It is real, it is here, if the Ontario Municipal Board in its wisdom allows it."

The developer had its money in one hand and a shovel in the other and was already to go, Mr. Hockley said.

Boot and Shoe Workers Union representative Ian Reilly said his main reason for supporting the plaza was more selfish.

As a resident of West Dundas Street (living almost opposite Towers) he said that with Thursday and Friday night traffic to and from Towers that he could hardly get out of his driveway.

He feared the traffic would worsen with completion of the Gowanbrae subdivision — numbering more than 900 housing units — now being built in the area.

Like two local housewives testifying on Wednesday, Mr. Reilly said he had difficulty in buying clothes in Belleville and felt the proposed plaza might offer him a wider choice.

Ivan May, Foxoboro - area landscaper, said north Belleville had a potential population increase of more than 6,000 people and claimed the proposed plaza would allow local shopping without adding to the already onerous downtown shopping problem.

Mrs. Agnes Wilson, 11 Tracey Street, said there were already approximately 1,000 homes in the North Belleville area west of North Front Street and north of College Street with no shopping facilities unless residents go downtown.

As a mother of six children she said she had difficulty finding the right size ranges of clothing in Belleville stores. As a result she was forced to use mail-order shopping.

Mrs. John Curtin of Hillcrest had a similar claim of no shopping facilities in her area. Added to her problem was the fact she had no car to get downtown.

The proposed shopping plaza would cost the taxpayers nothing, taxes would come to the city and jobs would be provided.

"If city taxes increased because of the plaza would you still be in favor?" asked opposing solicitor B. S. Onyschuk in cross examination.

"You bet I would," was the reply.

Marchland Objects Lawyer Emphasizes

Oshawa Wholesale and Towers discount store just outside the western limits of the city are not opposing the proposed North Front street plaza at the Ontario Municipal Board rehearing.

This was stated emphatically at this morning's session by opposing counsel B. S. Onyschuk who objected to newspaper accounts which he said indicated his firm was acting for Oshawa Wholesale.

"We represent Marchland Holdings, not Oshawa Wholesale or Towers," he said.

Mr. Onyschuk said Marchland Holdings owned a piece of property at the corner of College and North Front Streets.

This brought a comment from R. Robinson, counsel for Cambridge Leaseholds, who said it was strange that the hearing went into its fifth day before learning exactly who opposing counsel represented.

He said at the last hearing a year ago Mr. Onyschuk's firm had represented several companies, including Oshawa Wholesale and the Belleville Plaza merchants.

"I am pleased to know that Towers has withdrawn its objection," he said.

City Solicitor E. Guss Porter observed that the Belleville Plaza Association had apparently also "seen the light".

Simpsons Plan Automotive Centre

Simpsons Sears Ltd. the big national department store chain announced earlier this week as being the major tenant for the proposed North Front Street shopping plaza, is also planning an automotive centre for the site.

This was indicated by a Cambridge Leaseholds Ltd. witness at this morning's brief Ontario Municipal Board re-hearing on the northend plaza question.

Mr. Ron Ellingwood, treasurer and assistant secretary for plaza proponents Cambridge Leaseholds told the hearing that Simpsons - Sears planned to occupy 90,000 square feet of the proposed 180,000 square foot floor area at the plaza. The automotive centre would be part of their operation.

Earlier testimony at the hearing indicated there would be 60,000 square feet of ancillary stores floor space and about 25,000 square feet for a food super-market.

Mr. Ellingwood said his firm had had no negotiations with Simpsons-Sears at the time of the first hearing into the northend plaza pquestion but later Simpsons had indicated its interest.

The department chain had a store at Cambridge Leasehold's Burlington plaza and also would have a store at its Windsor plaza which is now under construction, he said.

If the Ontario Municipal Board decided in favor of the shopping plaza, Mr. Ellingwood said, his firm would be prepared to commence construction not later than September of this year with an opening date not later than October and hopefully as early as August.

Citizen Award For All Belleville

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville's citizen of the year is 33,000 people — both male and female.

The Jaycee's annual award went this year to all the citizens of Belleville in recognition of "the many thousands of our citizens who have given enthusiastically and unselfishly of their time and talents to the betterment of our new, progressive city."

On behalf of the citizens of Belleville, Mayor Russell Scott will accept the award at the testimonial dinner at Club Canara Feb. 11. The plaque will be placed in city hall until a community centre is built.

In making the announcement today, Bev McLeod, chairman of the judging panel said: "The names of many outstanding citizens were submitted to the selection committee. In every case, the nominee's contribution to the city in 1969 was a reflection of the general on-going spirit of dynamic progress that is rapidly becoming characteristic of most Belleville citizens."

The unanimous decision of the six judger was "not to name any one person as citizen of the year, but instead, to pay sincere tribute to the many thousands of our citizens who have given enthusiastically and unselfishly of their time and talents to the betterment of our new, progressive city," Mr. McLeod added.

Judges for the event were Linton D. Read, Mayor Scott, Industrial Commissioner Ray Brown, Ian Reilly, Albert Horlock of the Quinte Home Builders Association and Peter Clinkard, Jaycee president.

Winter Driving

City Police Inspector Ralph Blatchford talks with employees of Union Carbide about the hazards of winter driving.

Program Drives Home Ice Hazard to Safety

The hazards of winter driving have been multiplied at a Belleville plant this week, but it's all for a good cause.

With the combined efforts of the city's Police, fire departments the Ontario Department of Transport and Bell Canada, an instruction course complete with hazards has been built to offer instruction for employees of Union Carbide.

Cars are taken over the course and instructors demonstrate proper braking and turn techniques on slippery snow and ice conditions.

Each driver who volunteers for the instruction uses his own car and receives instruction from representatives of Bell Canada or the police department.

Management and supervisors of Union Carbide have also become involved in the safety aspect of their workers at the plant.

Dr. R. Young, Union Carbide office manager, explained that he and several other supervisory personnel have been working with the employees in safety matters.

As part of the project, a defensive driving quiz was given to every employee by the police department consisting of several multiple-choice questions.

Chamber Invites Benson

Finance Minister Edgar Benson has accepted an invitation by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce to speak in defence of his White Paper on taxation, at a meeting in Belleville at an early date.

Mr. Benson will be the third speaker in a series designed to acquaint businessmen and the general public with the implications of the White Paper. A firm date for Mr. Benson's visit has not yet been set.

Meanwhile, at the request of a number of Belleville citizens, the Chamber of Commerce announced today it has arranged for Mr. John Bulloch, the president of The Canadian Council for Fair Taxation, to come to Belleville, Thursday, Feb. 12 to address a special meeting beginning at 8 p.m. at Belleville Collegiate.

Mr. Bulloch, a native Torontonian, spent four years with two major oil companies involved with engineering, sales and sales management.

He was the manager of an independent fuel-oil dealership and heating contracting business in Kitchener, for four years and was an instructor of business management and finance for a five years at Ryerson Polytechnical Institute. During these five years he also acted as director and vice-president of John Bulloch Limited.

JOHN BULLOCH

Mr. Bulloch has expressed himself strongly concerning The White Paper and its implications as far as the economic life of Canada is concerned.

The Chamber feels that this is a subject that is of keen interest to all businessmen and has arranged this meeting without giving any special endorsation to The Canadian Council for Fair Taxation.

No admission will be charged and the meeting will be an open one for all members of the business community and the general public who are invited to attend and are urged to bring with them questions to direct to Mr. Bulloch.

Hands clasped nervously in their laps, 14 contestants await decision of the judges on naming Queen of Belleville's first winter carnival. The contest took place last night at Centennial Secondary School auditorium, with an enthusiastic audience on hand to urge their favorite on.

Queen Chosen for Carnival

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

Belleville now has its own kind of royalty.

And so does its Winter Carnival.

It didn't take long for the judges to come to a decision last night, and when they did, 17-year-old Bonnie Branigan walked away with the crown.

The competition for Belleville's first Winter Carnival Queen began in the lecture theatre of Centennial Secondary School — with an overflow turnout that delighted organizers.

In fact, there were so many enthusiastic observers, there just wasn't room for them all.

So organizers moved the 14 contestants, the judges and the audience to the auditorium.

Before an audience of parents, teachers and carnival officials, the 14 girls each answered two impromtu questions on topics ranging from the generation gap to whether or not a career and marriage mix.

There was a good representation from each of the high schools in the city, and, it was obvious during evening that each contestant had her own cheering section.

Along with the Queen, two princesses were also chosen.

First runner up was Nancy Dillon, 16, a student at the Ontario School for the Deaf. Second was Lois Watts, 18, a student at Albert College.

The Queen and her two princesses will attend almost all the carnival events during the three-day event this weekend.

Monsignor J. P. Sullivan crowned the Queen, and members of the carnival committee presented all three with the white and blue Carnival toque, trophies and gift certificates. Mayor Russell Scott was also on hand to congratulate the regal party.

The contest was run under the sponsorship of the Belleville Kinette Club, working in conjunction with the Winter Carnival Committee.

Most of the judges were drawn from the Tweed Kinette Club, because, as one Kinette official explained, "we will act as judges at the Tweed Winter Carnival, and we invited members of their Kinette Club here on sort of a reciprocal basis for this reason."

Bonnie and her two princesses will lend a touch of royalty to the three days of action-packed events, beginning with tonight's torchlight parade at 7 p.m.

Other scheduled events are the barrel rolling contest, to be held in front of the Belleville Memorial Arena at 7:30 p.m. and for snowmobilers, a safari, cookout and dance at the Oak Hills Ski Club starts at 9 p.m.

For hockey buffs, there is a between Belleville and Oakville, with the Quinte Figure Skating Club providing entertainment between periods.

Youth In Carnival

The young people at By Word of Mouth are doing their part for a successful Belleville Winter Carnival with their contribution to special events tonight.

The drop-in centre will present Snow Ball, two events at the Ben Bleecker Auditorium beginning at 8 and 9 p.m.

At 8 p.m., Fog, will play a dance that will last until 9 p.m. The Tyme and a Half, RCA Victor recording artists, and Bill the Lizard will play a second dance from 9 until midnight.

Admission can be obtained to both events at once — $1.50 per person — enabling rock fans to remain for both dances.

Frankford Also Has Winter Gala

This community's drive toward an artificial ice surface for its new Dr, McMullen Arena will get a boost this weekend from a two - day winter carnival.

The carnival's advertising chairman, Harold Abbott, reports the rink has just been paid for, and the winter carnival is the first major project designed to raise money for the estimated artificial ice surface costing $50,000 - $60,000.

"We are quite proud of the fact that this is the first big event in which all community organizations are taking an active part," Mr. Abott said.

Among organizations participating are local firemen, the Lions Club, Canadian Legion, Community Women's Organizations, local hockey teams and area snowmobile clubs.

NFU Speech Attacked

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County Milk Producers held their annual meeting last night featuring guest speaker Charles McLaughlin, chairman of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board.

More than 200 farmers filled the auditorium at Pinecrest Memorial School to here Mr. McLaughlin's address.

Several of his remarks were directed against a speech made in Prince Edward County last week by Hubert Earle, National Farmers Union chairman of district 11 of the milk grievance committee.

Mr. McLaughlin was basically opposed to Mr. Earle's statement concerning the supposed inaccuracies of the new milk testing system which will become compulsory for Prince Edward farmers in 1970.

Mr. Earle had observed that samples tested in Guelph could be up to three weeks old and that although the test machines were accurate they could not compensate for the age of the milk.

He felt that the milk would test higher when fresh than it would three weeks later.

Mr. McLaughlin remarked that he wished Mr. Earle could have attended last night's meeting.

Today NFU district director Kenneth Marisette said that Mr. Earle had agreed to come at the request of the Prince Edward NFU.

Mr. Marisette added, however, that Mr. Earle had not been invited because it was agreed that "local punch" might be removed from the meeting.

Mr. McLaughlin's address, according to Mr. Marisette, "cleared up a lot of misunderstandings concerning confusions in milk marketing."

BIC Chairman Advises

Expansion Common Cause For Quinte Municipalities

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville and its municipal neighbors have been advised to make common cause in grasping economic opportunities.

For starters, the city and surrounding local governments must broaden concepts of industrial promotion. Offered provincial government assistance for serviced land should be accepted.

The advice comes from Ald. Gerald Joyce, last night re-elected chairman of the Belleville Industrial Commission.

His return to office came as the commission, in its annual meeting at city hall, reviewed events of 1969 — the year that launched industrial expansion in Belleville.

But a new year calls for new concepts, indicated Mr. Joyce:

He spelled them out this way:

"Since Belleville may not be able to provide serviced industrial land of the character, size and location required by a potential industry . . . sites must be found in adjacent townships rather than have the industry establish in other parts of Ontario . . .

"Belleville has a trained and competent staff in its industrial commission. It's my opinion that their talents and quests for industrial promotion be not limited to the confines of Belleville alone."

To this end, "conversations" must be held with municipal neighbors.

Such joint effort was deemed "desirable" by Hastings County officials meeting last year with himself and Industrial commissioner Ray Brown, Ald. Joyce said.

The benefits of new industrial assessment to a single municipality must be secondary to over-all economic effects.

"Desirable as the new assessment is, I feel it's second to the jobs which it provides and the resultant economic impact on the community," said Ald. Joyce. "I feel it's high time that the elected representatives of all councils in this area recognize the fact that they have a responsibility, not only to this generation, but to the generations which are to come.

"In this time of expansion and development, we must chart the future of the Quinte area in a sane and orderly manner."

Ald. Joyce recalled an Ontario Water Resources Commission offer to assist in providing a serviced land area in the Belleville district. The OWRC would underwrite capital costs, and provide a 15 per cent grant for major service installations.

"It's my opinion that Belleville and the surrounding townships cannot afford not to avail themselves of this provincial assistance," he stressed.

Other factors stressed in the chairman's report:

- The industrial commission must seek more funds from city council in 1970 for advertising and promotion. Last year it benefited from much free publicity, generated in part by the city's sudden boom times. Such sources will not be available this year. (The commission had a budget of $30,400 in 1969, ending with a deficit of $400).
- Close liason is necessary with Loyalist College and other educational centres, to assist in continued upgrading of the city's labor force for new industrial demands.
- "Every effort" must be made to realize an air service for the district. Air freight services are a specific advantage in parts and tools delivery to local industry.

Additional office help needed as special promotion projects developed during the 1969 industrial bustle cost $885 and was a reason for the $400 deficit the commission was told.

Cash realized by Belleville Week also was turned into the city treasury, although much of the effort was organized through commission facilities, added Ald. Joyce.

Named vice-chairman of the 1970 commission was Bruce Nickson, Corby distillery purchasing agent.

Other directors elected last night were James Driscoll, former alderman Kenneth Soden, James Marker, Dr. J. N. Hartt and Bruce Curtis.

Mayor Russell Scott and Ald. Ben Corke, along with Ald. Joyce are city appointees to the nomination.

Murray Studies Plant Waste Disposal Plan

WOOLER — Murray township council will study a waste disposal system proposed by representatives of Stokely Van Camp of Canada Ltd. at a special meeting Thursday evening.

Officials of the Trenton company's processing plant said the firm proposes to pump liquid waste onto a 49-acre site located in Murray township.

The effluent would be pumped through an eight-inch irrigation line at a maximum rate of 5,000 gallons per day onto Canadian National Railways land which Stokely-Van Camp has leased for 10 years.

In seeking Murray township's approval, the firm stressed that the waste disposal system would be in operation for only three or four summer months and that the possibility of odor from the effluent was remote.

Representatives of the firm said that necessary Ontario Water Resources Commission approval rests on results of soil and air pollution tests but felt that OWRC approval would be granted. A company spokesman said it would be two months after the OWRC approval was granted before the system was operational.

The OWRC previously had ordered the Dufferin Street firm to stop dumping its effluent into the Bay of Quinte and suggested the firm hook into the Trenton sewer system, or find a suitable alternative.

However, Stokely-Van Camp officials stressed that the cost of joining to Trenton's sewer system would be prohibitive and the plant would have to cease its operations here, unless another alternative was found.

Stokely-Van Camp officials met with members of Trenton council Thursday afternoon, but results of that closed meeting have not yet been public.

War on Crime and Pollution Are U.S. Priorities

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon presented a mini-surplus budget Monday at the expense of penny-pinching in just about every phase of government spending except the wars on crime and pollution.

Traditionally no budget pleases everyone and this one doesn't even please Nixon who had banked on a much greater surplus than the $1,300,000,000 he carved out of the $200,800,000,000 total.

In essence the budget and accompanying economic report to Congress are sombre documents that promise no easy solutions for the year—indeed, a number of years—ahead.

It pointedly avoids the use of the word recession but allows that there is a grey patch of unemployment between now and the anticipated happy days several years hence when the U.S. economy reaches the realm of 4.3 per cent growth, 3.8 per cent unemployment and negligible inflation.

How deep and how broad that area is that must be crossed remains to be seen.

Having isolated inflation as a prime domestic target, Nixon now must make war on it without bringing about a recession—which would be the first since the last previous Republican administration of Dwight Eisenhower, architect of several such severe interludes.

Thus Nixon's Council of Economic advisers has acknowledged that its policy "must be cautious and tentative and feel its way along"—none of the stop-and-go tactics of the past.

From a political point of view, avoidance of any hint of a recession is vital, with Senate and house of Representatives elections coming this fall that could result in the Republicans gaining a majority in Congress.

In the political context, Nixon also has translated into dollars and cents the thrust of his recent State of the Union message. He has named inflation, rising crime and concern over the environment as his administration's prime targets in this election year.

Additionally he has granted an increase in funds in the field of consumer protection programs.

But the defence budget and spending for the space program, foreign aid, welfare and urban assistance have all been curtailed.

As was his State of the Union message, it seems tailored to please middle-class Americans whose ambitions for their country centre in their country—not in foreign involvements or in outer space.

Still, Nixon's slim surplus is based on the doubtful prospects of co-operation by the democrat-controlled Congress in granting him access to certain new sources of revenue such as higher postal rates.

With elections on the horizon, Nixon has swiped the Democrats' prime issue of environment and has generally seized the initiative through a recent series of surprisingly successful television appearances.

Thus the battle to salvage his surplus can be expected to lead to some pretty shrewd political poker when he looks to Capitol Hill for backing.

The Jet Age

Few aircraft in operation today have provided such sustained and efficient service as the big turbo-prop Yukon of Transport Command. Possibly only the DC-3 (Douglas Dakota) has been in use longer and it is a small, short-range plane.

The Canadian built Yukon has been a familiar sight in this area since 1961. It has been in constant use shuttling troops back and forth to Europe and on other overseas missions.

Now progress and economics have caught up with the fleet. Indeed, the aircraft have been in such regular use that the maintenance bill must have been staggering. This is borne out by the fact that the Boeing 707 jets which will replace them are much cheaper to run — some $10 million annually compared with the $16 million for the Yukons.

Soon the Quinte region will enter the jet age as the 707s (for some years now one of the mainstays of commercial flying) whine overhead, circling Belleville as they turn onto the glide path for touchdown at Trenton.

Now if only we could have a commercial service as well . . . there has been talk of it and this development may provide further impetus; and not forgetting the announcement in the last day or two that four new industries may locate in the Belleville area.

More and more, Belleville shows the promise of a major industrial centre — one with the added advantage of good educational and recreational facilities, and an attractive outdoors. In the circumstances a local air service is rapidly reaching the stage of a necessity.

A Refreshing Touch

Tonight's the night at a local beauty salon when a dozen stylists will work through the wee hours to set the hair of a willing clientele. They will be dressed in the manner of the 1920s and prices will be to match — shampoo and set $1; hair cut 50 cents and a perm $4.

Could this be the answer to inflation? The salon, we learn, was booked solid within a day or two of the advertisement in The Intelligencer. There is nothing like a cut in price to draw a public which finds it increasingly difficult to make ends meet.

What a boon such an idea would be to our senior citizens for example — and what a pleasure for them to be reminded of the fashions of nearly half-a-century ago.

These are sales days too in city stores, and bargains are plentiful as 1969 stock is cleared.

Speaking of the older folk and the difficulties they face these days, here is an interesting monetary comparison. It was passed on to us by one of those same senior citizens, a retired teacher. In 1957, he said, the top salary of a teacher was $6,600. Today it is around $16,200.

Not everyone earns that kind of money; and it is those who don't, pensioners especially, who feel the pinch more keenly than most. Refreshing then are the New Year sales and the occasional imaginative touch by a local enterprise, such as the initiative described above.

Busy Scribes

We have often wondered at the labors involved in the work of the dedicated writer — how even the part-time greats of the literary world, men like Winston Churchill, in his day, and a host of others still alive, find the time for such endeavors.

There is time enough, but it means excluding practically every other activity of the average man. Consider Bertrand Russell; the great philosopher and mathematician related how he worked up to 12 hours a day from 1907 to 1910 to complete his Principles of Mathematics.

Fifty years later he wrote in his autobiography that his intellect never recovered from the strain; and that, from then on, he was less capable of dealing with difficult abstractions. Well, maybe he was being modest, for Russell labored on until his death the other day at the age of 97, brilliant and active to the last.

The late Richard Hayward, author of many books about his native Ireland once told us that he shut himself away for days on end, permitting no interruptions or any other activity. That is the way books get written, but it is a lonely, exhausting task.

Inflation Curbs—Communism Through the Back Door?

Editor,
The Intelligencer

Your editorial of Feb. 2, warning us to be on guard against revolutionary communist activity led by students reminds one of the essay of John Locke "Concerning the true original extent and end of civil government", and particularly his statement: "to understand political power aright, and derive it from its original, we must consider what a state all men are naturally in and that is, a state of perfect freedom to order their actions, and dispose of their possessions and persons as they think fit, within the bounds of the law of Nature, without asking leave or depending upon the will of any other man".

It would be harder to find a clearer contradiction of the doctrine of communism and I respectfully submit that Locke was right then, and his principles are right today.

It is interesting to contrast Locke's views with the following quotations from The Globe and Mail of Tuesday, Feb. 3:

1. "Penalties studied — will ask business to take lower profits — John Young, the Chairman of the Prices and Incomes Commission, will ask the Federal and Provincial Governments to act against businesses that refuse to keep price increases below the cost increases they will face this year. — The Chairman and other members of the Commission have never spelled out exactly what they mean by "appropriate action" to penalize unco-operative business men."

2. Excerpt from House of Commons proceedings, Monday Feb. 2, 1970 — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield "I wish to ask the Minister of Consumer and Corporate Affairs a question relating to an announced price increase of milk by one firm in the city of Toronto. I asked the Minister whether there were consultations with the Government or the Prices and Incomes Commission prior to this announcement?"

I wonder Mr. Editor if you are looking for the Communists under the right beds?

Perhaps it would be more honest to have communism brought in — if it is going to come — with a clean sweep by youth — rather than have it introduced through the back door in the guise of fighting inflation — by Members of Parliament who find no great difficulty in increasing their own salaries paid by the taxpayer!

A plague on both types of communists.

When are we going to have a good old-fashioned free enterprise party which believes in work, personal freedom and competition? — surely the day of Big Brother is upon us!

KENNETH G. M. ROSS, QC

EDITOR'S NOTE: Under a democratic government, as eloquently expressed by essayist John Locke, self-styled revolutionaries like Robert Cruise are free to come and go as they please. At the same time Canadians should be aware of the declared aims of people like Cruise — the violent overthrow of established government and its replacement by a Communist regime — just as they should be aware of the subtle hints of "Big Brother" ideology.

Reader's Suggestion

A 'Y' Independent Of The United Appeal

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

What has been written in The Intelligencer in reference to the problem involving the "Y", the City Council, the United Community Services and the public at large, does not appear to offer a solution satisfactory to all concerned.

Your editorial comment reflects a neutrality which from the point of view of a one-newspaper city might be expected. Mr. Soutter's eight points, one of which would have the various agencies reduce their budgets, would certainly create hardship for some of the citizens of the city, and another which suggests an examination of what is being done in other areas is not a solution. Nor do the remaining points appear practicable in any large degree.

The Belleville "Y" has a problem peculiar to itself. It over-extended its financial capabilities in attempting to establish, in a relatively small city, "Y" services which, while commendable, appeal only to a limited number of people. The majority find their pleasures in other locations in an atmosphere more to their liking and offering the same facilities.

The "Y" council chose its present location on very valuable acreage in the eastern section of the city. It is surrounded by the residences of the more fortunate of the citizens of Belleville and it can be assumed that it expected to attract this type of clientele, people with money to spare for the usual fees and for the general support of the "Y". Hindsight proves this choice of location not altogether wise. It is remote from the older, more heavily populated central and western sections of Belleville and complaints are heard of the inaccessability of the "Y" for younger prospective members without transportation, other than by foot.

This then is the Belleville "Y". Remote, financially over-extended, its facilities duplicated to a large extent, its membership critical of the condition of its equipment, its staff a bit fearful of the future — which indeed seems not too bright. And this is not good.

There is a solution.

Delete from your budget all that is not absolutely necessary. Aim at something less than the preposterous 30 per cent allocation asked from the United Appeal, and commence at once on a fund raising campaign independent from the United Appeal. From your membership and from a sympathetic public there is a very good chance the objective will be reached. Commencing now, with May 1 as the closing date, your drive will not interfere with the United Appeal, and they, too, with a goal reduced from the usual $100,000 plus will have better success.

And raise your fees for family membership. $70 is selling yourselves too cheaply. It may give the "Y" a little something more for free to those who need it.

Suicide Rate

Sweden Libelled Again

Letter to The Globe and Mail

I am tired of reading that hoary old fib that Sweden has the highest suicide rate in the world. Here it comes again, from the mouth of Dr. Jack Walters, president of the Ontario Medical Association. You report him as saying "The Swedes would not be my ideal for a survey on depression. They have the highest suicide rate in the world." Globe and Mail, Jan. 23.

According to the World Health Organization, the highest rate in the world is in East Berlin. Next comes Austria, then Japan and then Switzerland. Sweden has fifth place.

How Did Boy Meet Girl In the Long Long Ago?

Regina Leader-Post

How did a girl meet a boy in the days — maybe a few hundred thousand years ago — when they had no perfume or after-shave lotions?

They may have used natural body odors, thinks one scientist.

John H. Law, professor of biochemistry at the University of Chicago's Pritzker School of Medicine, bases this hypothesis on the fact that insects and animals often communicate sexual attractions, as well as alarm or the discovery of food, by means of body odors.

Law is conducting research on pheromones — organic compounds excreted by animals as a form of communication.

"Alfactory communication", he says, "is probably one of the oldest and, in some cases, the most efficient means of communication employed by animals.

"Among humans, this form of communicatin may have existed but was dulled by the evolution of verbal language and civilization."

What the human race may be missing is suggested by the fact that if a woman's perfume were as potent as the pheromone used by the female silkworm moth to attract the male of the species, and if a man's nose were as sensitive as a moth's antennae one drop would stagger men blocks away.

We're not doing too badly, though. Judging by marriage and population statistics, the human sexes are reading each other's messages loud and clear.

A Little Help from the Script

Picton actors, Bill Watson, John Cross and Wendy Foster, take time out during rehearsal for a rehash of the script of The Lark, Belleville Theatre Guild's upcoming Eastern Ontario Drama League festival play. Wendy plays Joan of Arc in the production and Bill and John play the archbishop and a soldier respectively.

Picton Actors In Guild Play

By MARGARET HAYLOCK

PICTON — Four Prince Edward County players have been cast in the Belleville Theatre Guild's upcoming presentation of The Lark, now in rehearsal.

Leading lady in this two-act play on Joan of Arc is 17-year-old Wendy Foster of Picton, who won the role of Joan over 38 other young actresses.

Miss Foster, a grade 12 student at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, has earned recognition for her fine acting in school drama club presentations on several occasions. She is remembered for her outstanding performance in the dual role of Cesario - Viola in a drama club production of The Twelfth Night.

Playing the role of the Archbishop of Rheims is Prince Edward Collegiate Institute English teacher, William Watson. No stranger to stage clerical garb, Mr. Watson portrayed a minister in a London pageant commemorating the 200th anniversary of the Society for Propogation of the Gospel. He performed in several one - act plays before winning his role in The Lark.

Mr. Watson says that in The Lark, although he plays the part of an archbishop, he actually receives an opportunity to play the villain. Mr. Watson has been active in the Belleville Theatre Guild for the past several months and is chairman of Prince Edward County's Quinte Island Theatre.

Back stage is Joanne Cunnington, a Bloomfield resident nationally recognized for her creative pottery designs. Mrs. Cunnington joined the theatre guild last fall and appeared on stage in its opening production this season. She is contributing her talents to The Lark by acting as prop mistress. She noted that "masses of props are required for this play as well as many costumes."

Playing the role of a soldier in the Guild's fourth presentation this season is John Cross of Picton. A grade 11 student at Prince Edward Collegiate, John's appearance in The Lark will mark his first role on stage. He is, however, no stranger to show business. John has had a great deal of backstage experience with Quinte Island Theatre productions. For him rehearsals of The Lark are anything but hard work. He confessed that he is a little stage struck by "the excitement of travelling out-of-town for rehearsals."

At present the Quinte Island Theatre produces only children's plays but organizers and supporters look forward to the day when adult plays will be performed too. John remarked that the topic of adult plays within the scope of Quinte Island Theatre productions has been discussed on many occasions. "We need involvement to get started," observed the young player.

Child Killed In Toboggan Accident

A six-year-old Frankford-area girl remains in critical condition in Kingston General Hospital today following a toboggan accident that resulted in the death of a playmate yesterday.

Cindy Mitchell, RR3, Frankford, suffered head injuries when the toboggan she was riding slid into the path of a car driven by Donald Weese, 45, of RR3, Frankford, say police.

Ronald Paul Mitts, seven, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Mitts, RR3, Frankford, was killed in the mishap.

The children were tobogganing down a hill near the Mitts home two-and-one-half miles north of Frankford on the Glen Ross road when the accident occurred about 4:20 p.m. The Mitchell girl was taken to a local hospital and later transferred to Kingston.

Exhibition Manager Cautions

Ontario Fall Fairs Must Alter Roles

Fall fairs must alter their roles in the community—they must become a bridge between the producer and the consumer.

The warning was sounded yesterday by Everett Gowsell manager of Quinte Exhibition in Belleville at the annual meeting of Centre Ontario Fairs Association at Club Canara.

Mr. Gowsell noted that, in the past few years, the ratio of producers to consumers in Ontario had switched from 85 per cent producers and 15 per cent consumers to 15 per cent producers to 85 per cent consumers.

"This is an almost 180 degree turnabout," he said. "Are your fairs changing to keep pace?"

Fairs are now run solely for the exhibitor, but 85 per cent of those attending are city people, he told the directors of 18 fall fairs gathered at Club Canara.

"With modern transportation, you have the potential of drawing people from many miles beyond your area," Mr. Gowsell said. "But your fairs must be attractive to spectators."

Mr. Gowsell urged the fair directors to put their operations on a self-sustaining basis.

"The time has come when we must design, organize and operate our fairs without the donations and handouts we were accustomed to receiving in the past," he said. "The subsidies we used to get from many sources are steadily diminishing."

He said the city of Belleville cut off its fair grant last year and the townships have cut their grants this year. Tight money policy is given by many other donors as the reason they can no longer support fairs as they have in the past.

"These changes are not trends, they are here with us now," the manager warned. "But in many cases we have not changed to meet the new times." I know of many pitched battles at meeting of fair boards because of directors' resistance to change."

Legion News

COL. PHAY WILLS BRANCH

The president of the Col. Phay Wills Ex-servicewomen's Branch Royal Canadian Legion, Mrs. R. Rollins announced that Governor-General R. Michener would be visiting the Legion, while touring Belleville in March.

Mrs. Rollins explained the tentative plans for the visit at the regular meeting of Branch 587 on Tuesday evening. On the invitation of Jack Rasbolle, president of Belleville Branch 99, the ex-servicewomen would fall in with the guard of honor to meet the Governor-General and his wife at the Legion Hall along with representatives of the other veterans' organizations in the city. It was also requested that Branch 587 invite the Silver Cross Mothers to be present for this occasion.

Public speaking and citizenship chairman for both Belleville Legion Branches, Mrs. "Billie" Kirby, reported that all the local contestants were top speakers at the Zone competition, held in Madoc and they would be speaking next at District level in Trenton Feb. 15.

Plans are well under way for the St. Patrick's dance, at which time the ex-servicewomen will present Branch 99 with a cheque in appreciation for the use of the hall, Mrs. Rollins told the gathering.

Welfare officer, Mrs. Clara Jamieson, reported one member, Mrs. Betty Dunphey is still a patient in a Kingston Hospital, while another member, Mrs. Joan Martin, has both her son and husband in Belleville General Hospital.

The 50/50 draw money was returned to the fund, as the winner, Mrs. Rose Coe was not present at the meeting.

Poster Contest Sponsored by Music Teachers

The poster contest was the main item on the business agenda when the Belleville Registered Music Teachers' Association held a meeting recently at the home of past president Mrs. G. H. Rennie.

President Mrs. P. Wall chaired the meeting and reminded all that the closing date for the Canadian Federation of Music Teachers' Association poster contest is Feb. 15. Entries for this contest are to be sent to 364 Victoria Avenue, Belleville.

Winning posters from Hastings and Prince Edward Counties will be forwarded to provincial headquarters for judging at that level. The winning posters from Ontario will be judged with the winners from the other nine provinces with the first prize of $100 awarded. Mrs. Wall expressed hope that there will be a good participation from this area.

Secretary Mrs. H. Van Ochten read a letter from the Oshawa Branch Association advising of the nomination of Mr. Wayne Vance, vice-president of the Belleville branch, to the office of eastern zone representative on the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association Council.

It was announced that a dinner meeting would be held Feb. 28 which will be a joint meeting of the Bay of Quinte Centre of the Royal Canadian College of Organists and the music teachers. Following the dinner, slides of Mexico will be shown. The annual student recital will be held in March at the Sir John A. Macdonald School, Harder Drive.

Following adjournment of the meeting the teachers listened to recordings of music written by Canadian composers.

Church Groups

ST. MARGARET'S ACW

On Feb. 2 St. Margaret's ACW held its first meeting for 1970. Rev. J. A. Dunlop led in a communion service for the members around the meeting table using a new shorter version of the sacrament.

Before the business meeting, the following new executive was installed: honorary president, Mrs. J. A. Dunlop; past president, Mrs. George Mountford; president, Mrs. William Black; 1st vice, Mrs. Leslie Reid; 2nd vice, Mrs. A. Locke; 3rd vice, Mrs. Joseph Miles; recording secretary, Mrs. M. Kerr; treasurer, Mrs. Murray Coles and corresponding secretary, Mrs. Carleton Miller.

Several new projects were discussed. ACW members are assisting in the staffing of the refreshment booth at Hastings Manor. Mrs. Dunlop informed members of a quiet day to be held at St. Margaret's Feb. 21.

hTe ACW diocesan president, Mrs. Diane Maybee will be guest speaker at the 10.30 service on Feb. 8.

Guest speaker for the evening was Miss Diana Savage, audiologist from the Ontario School for the Deaf. Miss Savage participated in "Operation Beaver" in northern Alberta last summer. She illustrated her report with color slides and conveyed to all her enthusiasm at being involved in such an interesting and worthwhile project, that of helping to replace inadequate housing for Indian families.

Mr., Mrs. Harry Taylor Wed for 50 Years

Well over 150 persons called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor, 54 Cannifton Rd. to honor them on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

During the afternoon and evening tea was served by the immediate family, a niece Mrs. Dorothy Hudgins and three grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were married in Stirling on Feb. 3, 1920 by the late Rev. B. F. Byers but have spent most of their married life in Belleville. They are members of St. Thomas Anglican Church where Mrs. Taylor is active in the Anglican Church Women's group and the Altar Guild. There are three children, Mrs. Everett (Edna) Hall, Mrs. James (Marion) Lloyd and a son Earl; also 14 grandchildren.

The honored guests were the recipients of many lovely gifts, cards and flowers and received congratulatory messages from Hon. John Roberts of Ontario; Lee Grills, M.P. and from leader of the opposition Robert Stanfield. A scroll was presented on behalf of the Provincial Government by Hastings M.P.P. Dr. R. T. Potter.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor are active members of the Senior Citizens Club and at the last regular meeting were presented with a tray and anniversary cake by Donald Soutter on behalf of the Recreation Arena committee and members of the Senior Citizens Club.

More Complete Equality for Women in India

MONTREAL (CP) — While Western women still want their doors opened by obliging males, one woman from India considers it a privilege to be able to open her own door.

"You get doors opened for you," says Mrs. Ashok Bhadkamkar, wife of the high commissioner for India in Canada, "but I'm able to open my own doors."

In her opinion, Indian women are farther along the road to complete equality than women in the Western world.

"We have all rights including the right to equal inheritance, complete property rights and the right to any job," she said in a recent interview. With a woman as prime minister in India there seemed no need to mention equal political rights and equal political opportunity.

On her first visit to Montreal since her husband was appointed to Ottawa in December, Mrs. Bhadkamkar said that women in her country play an important role in leadership.

They have always had a strong voice in village councils, she said, and when India became independent in 1947 women automatically won full adult franchise without having to fight for it.

Arranged marriages are still socially acceptable and common in India. Mrs. Bhadkamkar said that although parents often have a voice in deciding whom their children would marry, it does not lower the position of women.

She herself married Ashok Balkrishna Bhadkamkar in 1950, after meeting him socially in Bombay. Her parents did not in any way arrange her marriage.

"But, if my father had been looking for a husband for me," she said, "I think he would have chosen as I did."

She said that in India the majority of arranged marriages work well.

"If I could I would like to arrange a marriage for my daughter.' Her 12-year-old daughter attends a French school in Ottawa.

Mrs. Bhadkamkar, who took an honors degree in economics and studied law prior to her marriage, says that professional women are fully accepted in Indian society.

She never practised law because "as a diplomat's wife I'm often on the move and it is hard to have my own career."

However, had her husband remained in India she would most probably have pursued her profession.

The couple have been stationed in Washington, Brazil, Peking, London, New York, Laos and Ottawa. Prior to coming to Ottawa they were in Delhi for three years.

Wearing the traditional sari with Western shoes, she said the only Western attire really accepted by Indian women is the tunic pant-suit "because it is adapted from national Delhi costumes."

Goodwill Promoter

Consumer Affairs Officer Named

VICTORIA (CP) — The British Columbia government will be using Michael Hanson and his philosophy of goodwill to fight consumer dissatisfaction this year.

Mr. Hanson, recently named a provincial consumer affairs officer under the attorney-general's department, says the basic goodwill of dealers and consumers will be his main weapons in marketplace misunderstandings.

"It's basically a misunderstanding or personality conflict that causes much of the problem between consumers and dealers," he said in an interview.

"When a third person comes in and looks at the situation and makes a recommendation, they usually are prepared to agree."

Mr. Hanson, a former London poice detective, feels most of his work will be as a "permissive arbitrator" between two parties who agree to have him investigate a complaint.

If either party refuses, he says he will recommend the complainant see a lawyer.

"But there is usually a basic goodwill on the part of those involved," he said. "And traders, of course, know they depend on satisfied customers for a growing business."

Mr. Hanson, 37, was a security supervisor with Pinkertons of Canada before being appointed to the consumer position which Attorney-General Leslie Peterson says will deal with complaints and give information regarding the province's Consumer Protection Act.

"There are too many people who don't even know the act exists or don't know how it protects them," said Mr. Hanson.

Until his office was set up, the only recourse for a disgruntled consumer—whose problem is included in the provincial legislation—was to initiate civil action in the courts.

Communications Officer Takes Messages on Braille Typewriter

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Letha A. Dangerfield is the civil defence communications officer for the Joplin area and the only thing that makes her different from others is that she takes messages on a braille typewriter.

Mrs. Dangerfield is blind.

She has been a ham radio operator since 1936. She lost her sight when she was stricken by polio at the age of four.

Her husband, Al Dangerfield, built her a transmitter and shared her love of ham operating. He died last year.

She uses the code system of dots and dashes with a telegrapher's keyboard and averages about 30 words a minute. She goes on the air every evening around 7 to exchange messages with about two dozen other operators around the state.

Mrs. Dangerfield also drills for an hour with the civil defence network each Sunday at 8 a.m.

Hospital Strikebound

Expectant Mother Not Alarmed by Events

ESTEVAN, Sask. (CP) — Mrs. Paul Thieven wasn't worrying about the rights and wrongs of the three-month hospital workers' strike when she was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital to have her seventh child.

"It can't concern you right at that time," said the mother of Estevan's first baby of 1970, a seven-pound, 5½-ounce girl born at 9:21 p.m. Jan. 1. "You don't think about that."

Pickets outside the hospital, the only one in this city of about 10,000 population located in Saskatchewan's southeast corner, broke ranks and let people like Mrs. Thieven through.

Inside the hospital, odd things happened.

Nurses cooked meals, volunteers scrubbed floors, hospital board members sweated in the laundry room and nuns rolled up their sleeves to pitch in while book-keepers totted up the overtime.

"It was a bit shabby in spots but by and large it was not bad," said Fred Harmsworth, who had to go into the hospital for a minor operation in December.

Some sick people, fearing that the union might try to shut down the strikebound hospital, travelled 50 miles to Weyburn, the next nearest hospital.

Many of the more able-bodied patients were sent home by the Sisters of St. Joseph, the Roman Catholic order that has been running the hospital since they built it in 1938.

With the number of in-patients down to about 55 from the 75 or so normal for that season, the hospital somehow muddled through the strike that ended Jan. 15.

Estevan breathed a sigh of relief when the Canadian Union of Public Employees local, whose 93 members had launched the strike in October to back demands for higher wages, decided to return to work on the promise of raises equal to an arbitration board award in a 26-day strike by about 180 CUPE members against a Prince Albert hospital.

The Prince Albert strike ended Dec. 11 with the provincial cabinet's invoking of emergency back-to-work legislation. The province, through the Saskatchewan Hospital Services Plan, provides most of the funds to operate hospitals.

There were some tense moments near the end of the Estevan strike.

The pickets, most of them women, who regularly had stood aside to let through cars carrying patients and trucks bearing food and medical supplies, spoke of stopping the trucks.

Some truckers promised to stop crossing the picket line if CUPE members wanted them to.

But it didn't come to that.

"They ran a good picket line," said John Reynolds, manager of a dry-cleaning firm.

"I'm glad it's over. It was a concern to everybody. The ones who filled in for the strikers—the cooks and that—were called a few names but otherwise they weren't bothered."

A farmer's wife, Mrs. Blake Andrist, was relieved that the hospital is back to normal now.

"When you have one hospital to go to, you have no other choice. I would have hated to be the one who was sick. I would have hesitated to go myself."

Ann Landers

Guest Annoyed By Host's 'Hobby'

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do I owe our host and hostess an apology? George and I were invited to dinner by a couple we knew only casually through George's work. The dinner was in their home — just the four of us. After dinner our host brought out his "hobby." I was speechless when he displayed a folder with about 150 photographs of naked people. There were pictures of men and women together, groups of two, three, four and six. Some pictures included animals — in living color. I though I'd die.

ANN LANDERS

George couldn't get his eyes full enough. The other couple seemed very pleased with his interest. I just sat there. Finally the wife said to me, "Apparently you don't appreciate art." I replied, "Art, yes. Pornography, no."

Our host then launched into a lecture about erotic masterpieces going back to ancient Greece and Rome. I started to say something about Sodom and Gomorrah and George nudged me and whispered, "Button your lip. I'm having a ball."

On the way home he read me the riot act because I was "rude." George says, when in Rome you're supposed to do as the Romans do. Is he right? — GEORGE'S SQUARE WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: It depends on what the Romans are doing. In my opinion, your husband owes you an apology for subjecting you to such an evening. Tell George that in the future he's not to take you to places where the people are so mentally bankrupt that they have to haul out dirty pictures because they are too dumb to think of anything to say.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Billy is the youngest of three boys, small for his age and not inclined toward athletics, which makes his father angry. The older boys excelled in sports so the comparison is glaring. Billy likes poetry and plays the piano beautifully but his father considers this sissy stuff and belittles him. He is also an excellent student, which the other boys were not, but he gets no praise from his dad on this score.

To complicate matters, Billy has a noticeable lisp. I was told he might outgrow it, but he hasn't. Last night Billy asked his father to pass the salt and this was the response: "Yeth, I will path the thalt, if you will thop lithping."

The older boys faked a weak laugh but it was apparent they didn't think it was funny. Billy had all he could do to fight back the tears. I was heartsick. This is only one incident among many. How can I protect the boy against his father's cruelty? — OHIO M.

DEAR M.: That bully husband of yours is in need of counselling. If he refuses, I hope you will go instead and learn how to be a buffer between father and son without coddling the boy and damaging him further.

I urge you to take Billy to a speech therapist. Lisping can be conquered with proper help. And good luck to him, and to you, too, dear.

Baby-sitter: "Johnny said you always let him get up to watch the mystery movie if he couldn't sleep. He fell asleep on the sofa about 10 o'clock."

Mother: "I never let him stay up. Those movies are too violent for a little boy."

Mother: "Johnny may watch TV with you until 8:30 tonight and then he may have a glass of milk and a cookie before he goes to bed. I keep a schedule and a list of rules on the bulletin board in case there is any confusion about what he's supposed to do when I'm not here."

If you have some definite rules you want the baby sitter to follow, write them down. A child is not likely to argue with the printed word.

READ CWL

READ — The January meeting of Read Catholic Women's League was held at St. Mary's School last Tuesday evening following Mass.

After opening proceedings, the conveners of the various committees gave their monthly reports. A letter was received from Rev. James Farrell acknowledging the receipt of used clothing. These clothes will be put to good use at a mission in northern Ontario.

Mrs. Josephine Lally introduced the guest speaker Thomas Lally, a well - known Belleville lawyer who spoke on areas of legal matters that were of interest to his listeners. Following his talk he answered a number of questions from the "Question Box."

Mrs. Veronica Harrigan expressed thanks to the speaker.

After the close of the meeting lunch was served.

Successful Living

Society's Controls Necessary: Psychiatrist

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: About the woman who complained about vandalism and badly behaved children who stole from her: it is true that punitive responses alone do not solve the problem.

At the same time, I think it is important for us as professionals not to lose sight of the fact that even though delinquent anti - social acts are frequently the result of psychological problems, this does not rule out the need for proper disciplinary and control responses from the society around.

We in the field have to make quite clear that we do not plead for removal of society's controls. — Hamilton Psychiatrist.

Dear Colleague: Couldn't agree more. Especially since we know that all discipline is first imposed from without, before it can be incorporated within, a personality.

Thank you for your comments.

Dear Doris: How can I be sure that it is all right for my daughter to marry her first cousin? After all, we don't know everything about their inherited health or physical tendencies and we don't know the meaning of what we do know. — Worried Father.

Dear Father: True. And as we go into the study of genetics more and more, we become more thoroughly convinced that every case must be considered individually. Wherever persons who are closely related wish to marry, they would be wise to consult a genetic counsellor.

I am happy to say there are some such specialists now, in a fair number of the larger centres. I have a list of them and will send you the address of the one nearest you.

Even if in your daughter's case this means a trip to anothr city, the expense and trouble are very much worth while, to discover whether she and her cousin are on firm ground as far as children are concerned.

Dear Doris: My problem is my nose. I sure hate it. It is quite long and has a bump in it. I envy people with small noses something fierce. All my life I have imagined me with a small nose.

How would I go about finding a good doctor? With Medicare out now, would it be as expensive as it used to be? — Nosy.

Dear Nosy: Well, you don't have to live with it if you care enough to save up between $400 and $800. It is not covered by insurance unless the operation is needed for repairs after an accident.

Your family doctor will refer you to a plastic surgeon.

But don't make a mountain out of a mole hill. Maybe you notice your nose far more than anybody else does.

WEDDING

CLAIRMONT — TINSLEY

MARMORA — Church of St. John Fisher, North Harrow, Middlesex, England, was the scene of a recent wedding of Aileen Mary Tinsley, daughter of Mr. William Tinsley and the late Mrs. Tinsley, and Charles Louis Clairmont, son of Mrs. John Clairmont of Marmora, and the late Mr. Clairmont. Rev. Father J. McKenna celebrated the nuptial mass and performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a semi-fitted gown of gold brocade. The sleeves and neckline were edged with gold insertion as well as the train, fastened from the bodice. A floor-length veil was held by a tiara of pearls and sequins. She carried a nosegay of shasta daisies and mixed flowers.

The Misses Elizabeth and Frances Whittle were bridesmaids for their aunt, and wore pale green bonded gowns with deeper shades of green velvet sashes. The flower girl, Julia Neighbor, was dressed similarly in pale yellow.

John Clairmont of Oshawa was his brother's best man, and usher was William Whittle.

After a reception at St. John Fisher Church hall, the couple left for a motor trip through England.

Mr. and Mrs. Clairmont will reside in Canada.

Lesson in French

MONTREAL (CP) — The Societe d'Etude et de Conferences, formerly a group promoting culture among French - speaking women, has decided to give English - speaking women a chance to practise their French. During an eight - week period, English Montrealers will get together at home with French-speaking counterparts and for each two - hour session will talk and play games to "help bypass thinking in English."

Pancakes for A Large Gathering

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Each year in February we put on a pancake supper to raise money for Cubs and Scouts. In the past we have used a commercial mix — delicious but expensive . . . I do hope you can help us out. — Ethel B.

ANSWER: You did not tell me how many you expected so I am giving you the recipe for

PANCAKES TO SERVE 50 PEOPLE

- 6 lbs. sifted pastry flour
- 6 oz. baking powder
- 1¼ tbsps. salt
- 8 eggs (approximately 1½ cups)
- 1½ lbs. sugar
- 2 qts. plus 3¾ cups milk (could be made from skim milk powder)
- 2 tsps. vanilla
- 1 lb. melted shortening or 2 cups oil

Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs slightly and beat sugar, milk and vanilla into them, mixing well. Gradually add dry ingredients and beat until perfectly smooth. Add melted fat or oil and mix again. Select a measure or ladle that holds 2½ oz. batter. Drop on greased hot griddle (or one that is so well impregnated with fat that grease is not necessary). Cook until firm around edges and bubbles break on upper surface. Turn and "bake" other side until pale gold. Serve with maple or pancake or corn syrup.

QUESTION: Would you give the recipe for uncooked Hollandaise that you mentioned on broccoli? I think I could tackle that. I have been married only two months but want to be a good cook. — Marie T.

ANSWER: Good girl!

HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

(uncooked — may be made in ADVANCE)

- ½ cup butter
- 2 egg yolks
- ½ tsp. salt
- Speck Cayenne
- 1 tbsp. fresh lemon juice

Melt the butter gently in a small saucepan until hot but not bubbling. Meanwhile beat egg yolks at high speed until thick and lemon-colored. Add the salt, cayenne, ½ tsp. at a time, three tbsps. of the hot melted butter, beating hard between each addition. It will be quite thick. Then add slowly and alternately the butter and lemon juice while beating until all has been added. Pile in small fancy bowl in which it is to be served and store in refrigerator. This sauce melts readily on hot vegetables when served. Serves 6 to 8.

Briefs Released

Four Daily Newspapers Voice Diverse Views

OTTAWA (CP) — Four daily newspapers representing widely separate readerships in Canada about relations between press and public in submissions to the special Senate committee on mass media.

The committee released today the submissions of Montreal-Matin, two Ontario dailies—the Sudbury Star and Kingston Whig-Standard—and The Columbian of New Westminster, B.C. None is scheduled to be represented in person at committee hearings.

Among other subjects, the committee has invited comment on relations between newspapers and the public, especially on suggestions that a press council or councils on the British pattern should be established in Canada.

Such councils, representing both newspapers and the public, air grievances and form a liaison between the press and readers.

Montreal-Matin said it would support establishment of provincial press councils rather than a national body.

"A national council could not . . . make adequate pronouncements regarding journalistic problems that concern the Maritime provinces at times, Western Canada at other times, and more particularly that concern the province of Quebec along with the rest of the country," the morning newspaper says.

The Sudbury Star, one of the Thomson Newspapers group, commented through publisher J. R. Meakes:

"The local newspaper is judged by its own community—accountable to local public opinion. . . . We do not believe that a press council can prescribe a modus operandi if the press is to remain free."

Michael Davies, publisher of The Whig-Standard, said he is accessible to discuss with anybody any question of his newspaper failing to act responsibly.

"Therefore, I feel formation of a press council would be redundant but if the majority of my peers were interested, I would not strenuously object."

The Columbian, which publishes separate editions for each of the suburban Vancouver communities of New Westminster, Surrey, Burnaby and Coquitlam, made no direct comment on the press-council idea but cautions:

"A free press—free of government control—is essential to the existence of responsibility to the people by any government."

Commenting on another committee concern—concentration of ownership in newspaper groups—Mr. Meakes said local control of editorial viewpoint has characterized the Sudbury Star's policies under four forms of ownership during his career there—personal proprietorship, a willed trusteeship, owned jointly by himself and three other Sudbury citizens and, since 1955, as part of the Thomson group.

"As a member of the Thomson group, the newspaper is notably less exposed, less vulnerable to financial and social pressures from 'elite groups' in Sudbury or elsewhere," he said.

Mr. Davies said he would prefer to see most of the media independently owned, but it could never be a reality. Newspapers nowadays were costly enterprises, family shareholders did not wish to lock all their capital into one asset and taxes and estate duties tended to dilute ownership on passing between generations.

Succession duties played "a major role" in the family's sale of the Peterborough Examiner to the Thomson group and the currently-proposed sale of radio and television stations in Kingston and Peterborough to Bushnell TV Co. of Ottawa, Mr. Davies said.

The publisher added that the government should not contemplate any legislation to deal with concentration of ownership.

The Columbian commented:

"We recommend that government intervention in any media be undertaken only if there is significant need.

"Concentration in the media does not, and never will, approach the concentration of power in the hands of the government."

Student Loses Suit

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal jury Thursday denied a $15,000 damage suit against the city of Chicago brought by a seminary student from Ontario.

Roy Ries Jr., 26, of Mount Albert, Ont., claimed in United States district court that a policeman hit him in the face with the butt of a shotgun when he and a group of 60 clergymen tried to prevent violence between police and demonstrators in Lincoln Park in 1968.

Dead Man's Son Says Union Chief Ordered Beating

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five days before he was beaten at a rally, word was sent down from United Mine Workers headquarters "to discipline Jock Yablonski," a Senate group investigating the union has been told.

Joseph A. Yablonski Jr. told a Senate labor subcommittee Thursday that the beating at a union rally in Springfield, Ill., was one of the first indications of the "reign of terror" that enveloped his late father's campaign for the union presidency and still hunts his family and supporters.

"I now go to sleep at night with a loaded pistol under my pillow," he said.

Yablonski, who unsuccessfuly challenged incumbent UMW President A. W. (Tony) Boyle in the union's Dec. 9 election, was found shot to death with his wife and daughter at their Clarksville, Pa., home Jan. 5.

The three men, Paul Eugene Gilly, Aubran Wayne Martin and Claude Edward Vealey, have been charged in a Pennsylvania court with murder in the Yablonski deaths.

Gilly's wife, Annette Lucy Gilly, was indicted by a federal grand jury in Cleveland Thursday and charged with interfering with the rights of a union member by force or violence, obstructing of justice and conspiring with others to interfere with a union member's rights by force or violence.

The slain unionist's son said his father accused Boyle of "playing Russian roulette with UMW pension funds" shortly after Boyle became trustee of the union's welfare and retirement fund June 13.

Within days, Yablonski said, "word went down from Boyle to discipline Jock Yablonski, and don't worry how rough you are about it."

"Five days later, in Springfield, Ill., my father was beaten up," he said.

Yablonski forces furnished the FBI with names of persons who attended the meeting and asked for an investigation, he said. At the same time, they requested FBI protection.

"If there was an investigation, I didn't know anything about it," Yablonski said. "And we certainly weren't provided with protection."

Yablonski also said repeated pleas for intervention in the election were ignored by the labor department.

Labor Secretary George Shultz has turned down an invitation by the subcommittee to participate in the hearings, contending his appearance would jeopardize an investigation of the election now under way in his department.

Boyle and other UMW officers have not yet been invited to testify, but a subcommittee staff member said they would be provided with transcripts of testimony and a chance to answer accusations later.

English Minority Hits School Bill

QUEBEC (CP) — Lack of protection for the English-language minority was criticized Thursday during the first day of public hearings into a bill to reorganize the school system on Montreal Island.

Four groups, including two church groups and the Montreal Board of Trade, demanded that the school system on the island of Montreal be divided on the basis of language and criticized the proposed centralization of authority under the Union Nationale government's Bill 62.

The St. Jean-Baptiste Society, a French-Canadian patriotic organization, stressed the need for a system focusing on religious lines, much as it now does.

Bill 62 would replace 42 existing denominational schol boards with 11 neutral, regional boards controlled by a government-appointed school council.

Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal said he," will take whatever time is necessary to assure that we are not acting hastily." But the bill deserves passage, he said.

Mr. Cardinal said he hoped it could be ready for adoption before the next sitting of the assembly and permit some action for the next school year.

The Board of Trade, representing 3,500 Quebec firms, said Bill 62 "would have a substantial retardant effect on the economic growth of Montreal and the province of Quebec."

The St. Jean-Baptiste Society said the bill must provide that the proposed school council emanate from the school boards "and not become a creature of the Quebec government.

In a joint brief, the Montreal dioceses of the United Church of Canada and the Presbyterian Church of Canada suggest that the bill would create ghettos of English-speaking groups.

The Throndale Home and School Association, Protestant elementary school in the Montreal suburb of Pierrefonds, said the bill "threatens the right of an individual to an English-language education."

And, the Montreal Association of School Administrators, said "the survival of the English-language culture in Quebec is at stake."

In general, the briefs welcomed such features as equalized property assessment for school-tax purposes, a uniform school-tax rate, reduction of the number of school boards and provision for non-denominational education.

The Board of Trade stressed that the Quebec economy operates within the North American worlds "and the language of international business is English."

Parents Reject Offer by Board

VAL CARON, Ont. (CP) — An offer by the separate school board to study the school bus situation in this community 10 miles north of Sudbury was rejected Thursday by 400 angry parents.

Claude Lalande, chairman of the Val Caron parents committee, said the board was too late with its offer and it will not convince parents to return more than 1,000 children to school.

Parents, angered by a recent school board decision to cut bus transportation for all students living within one mile of the four area separate schools, have kept their children home since Monday.

They say it is too cold and hazardous for their children to walk.

The gutsy new Datsun 1600 Pickup is lots more truck for $2205*

We took the best-selling imported truck in North America and gave it a new heart. A gutsy 96 horsepower powerplant. That's 43% more power than it had last year. Now it zooms along even when you load it with a ton of anything. And it just won't quit. Buy it and it pays you back. Quickly. Because you can trust Datsun 1600 to deliver up to 30 miles per gallon, and it's practically maintenance-free. It's built like a truck, with heavy duty suspension and steel girder frame, but that doesn't mean it handles like a truck. It's like a car — easy to handle and a cinch to park. And it has all the good things: instant-acting heater/defroster with blower, all synchro 4-speed stick shift, quad headlights, 3-place bench seat. And the performance is something else — lots of pull. Great acceleration. Easy all-day cruising at 70. Datsun 1600 pickup. When you're careful with a buck, this is your truck. Why spend more than you have to? Test-drive a Datsun at any of the 200 dealers in Canada.

Canadians More Aware of Snowmobile Risks - - - After 38 Die

By CRAIG ASPINALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

"A snowmobile is not a magic carpet, it is a mechanical means of transportation designed to travel over snow and ice-covered areas within the limits of its ability."

The deaths of at least 38 Canadians in snowmobile accidents so far this winter attest to the failure of many enthusiasts to heed that warning published in the RCMP Gazette and echoed by police and safety officials across the country.

With an estimated 350,000 snowmobiles now criss-crossing the Canadian winter scene, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows governments and the public alike are becoming increasingly aware that the nation's second most popular winter sport—after skiing—can be a killer.

The general opinion prevailing among concerned officials and private citizens is summed up by Bob Passmore, director of the British Columbia Snow Vehicle Association:

"My own observation about any accidents or near-accidents (on snowmobiles) is that they are the result of some harebrain acting up on one. It's mostly the irresponsibility of the driver."

The Ontario Safety League has said that snowmobiling may have the highest fatality rate of any recreational activity in the world.

It is impossible to estimate total number of injuries resulting from snowmobile accidents, since only those involving automobiles or occurring on public roads normally are reported to police.

But snowmobiles have been driven off cliffs, into open water, through thin ice, into trees, other snowmobiles and into cars. Operators and passengers have had their feet caught in the tracks, their faces injured by branches and fence wire—or they've simply fallen off.

The RCMP say that until recently, one of the main hazards of the sport was breaking through thin ice and drowning. But the current trend indicates more deaths from collision and from operators being thrown from their machines.

Some provinces have established specific legislation to control snowmobiles, while others have applied provisions of existing traffic regulations.

Ontario, Quebec, Alberta and Prince Edward Island have specific legislation prohibiting the operation of snowmobiles on highways except in specified situations, such as when a highway is impassable to other traffic.

In the other provinces, snowmobiles are regulated under sections of the motor vehicle act, but again only as their operations apply to public roads.

Only New Brunswick and Manitoba ban snowmobiles from the highways. New Brunswick accomplishes this under a section referring to snow vehicles, but not specifically to snowmobiles. Manitoba issues snowmobile licences only sparingly.

But the increase in snowmobile fatalities has prompted Alberta, Manitoba, New Brunswick, Ontario and P.E.I. to consider new legislation, while Nova Scotia is studying use of the machines.

B.C. already has perhaps the widest control over snowmobiles under legislation governing the use of "vehicles of unusual or novel size."

And police departments are moving to be ready to enforce the law. Quebec Provincial Police and the Edmonton city police already have snowmobile squads.

Some Like It Slushy

TORONTO (CP) — The British Empire Motor Club has described driving conditions as "ideally difficult" for its 1,117-mile Canadian International Winter Rally which starts here this evening.

Ice and snow drifts have piled up along the back roads between here and Ottawa during the last couple days.

But the 87 entrants may also encounter some slush during their 30 hours travelling time because of warmer weather forecast for the weekend.

Temperatures were expected to reach 35 today at Peterborough which the drivers will skirt on their route to Ottawa.

Beliveau Hitting Stride When Montreal Needs Him Most

By CHUCK SVOBODA
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Jean Beliveau appears to be hitting his stride just when Montreal Canadiens need him most.

The big centre who missed a month of the National Hockey League schedule because of an ankle injury suffered last December, scored twice and assisted on a goal by Yvan Cournoyer Thursday night in a 5-3 win over Los Angeles Kings.

It was a key win for the defending Stanley Cup champions, holding them even with Boston Bruins in the battle for second spot in the East Division.

The Bruins also won, 5-1 over Philadelphia Flyers, leavig Boston and Montreal tied with 65 points, just three behind the leading New York Rangers who were inactive Thursday.

In one other game, Detroit Red Wings strengthened their hold on fourth place in the east with a 4-1 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Los Angeles contest, before a crowd of 11,310, was marred by a penalty-filled first period.

Montreal defenceman Ted Harris and Bill Flett of the Kings got the melee started with less than two minutes gone in the game. Within seconds, Bill White of the Kings and John Ferguson of the Canadiens joined in and the Kings' Ted Irvine and Canadiens' Terry Harper mixed it up in a third duel.

All six combatants were handed major penalties. In addition, Ferguson and Flett were assessed minor penalties and Irvine and Harper misconducts.

Referee Bill Friday sent Montreal's Henri Richard off with a game misconduct in the second period after the Canadiens centre, angered by a minor penalty handed him, slammed his stick on the ice, breaking it in two.

Beliveau's first goal of the night at 15:49 of the first period was his ninth of the season and first since Jan. 8, the night he returned to the Canadiens lineup from his ankle injury.

The goal also put the Canadiens in front 2-1 and they never looked back with the Montreal captain getting his second goal early in the second period. Lucien Grenier and Jacques Lemaire rounded out the Montreal scoring.

Brian Campbell gave the Kings a brief lead in the first period when he beat Canadiens goalie Phil Myre with a 20-foot shot. Ross Lonsberry and Flett added second-period goals for Los Angeles which now has lost 11 of its last 12 games.

Red Wings manager-coach Sid Abel said after the game at Detroit that it was a key win for his club.

"It was important to us not only to push Toronto farther back but it was important because it was our game in hand over Chicago," Abel said.

The Red Wings now have a three-point edge over Chicago Black Hawks in the battle for the fourth and final playoff spot in the east with Toronto now 11 points behind Detroit.

Alex Delvecchio, Wayne Connelly, Frank Mahovlich and Gary Unger scored for the Red Wings while goalie Roger Crozier held the Leafs to but one goal by Bob Pulford.

Orr Up to 80

Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito continued their domination of the National Hockey League individual scoring race Thursday, combining for five points in Boston Bruins 5-1 defeat of Philadelphia Flyers.

Orr, the superstar defenceman, raised his points total to 80, 13 more than his team-mate. He scored twice, raising his goal total to 19 and assisted once, his 61st of the season. Esposito managed one goal, his 31st, and one assist, his 36th, to pull six points ahead of New York Rangers Walt Tkaczuk, who has 61 points.

Jacques Lemaire scored one goal, his 29th of the year, and Bobby Rousseau assisted once in Montreal Canadiens' 5-3 win over Los Angeles Kings, but both failed to advance.

Brill Bend Up to Six Feet

TORONTO (CP) — Two young women set world indoor track records Thursday night but it was a slim 16-year-old who missed who won the loudest cheers.

Debbie Brill of Haney, B.C., twisting backwards over the bar at the Telegram-Maple Leaf Games, soared to six feet in the high jump—higher than any girl her age has gone before—and a Canadian open record.

But when she raised the bar two more inches to leap at the world record of 6-1¾, owned by Iolanda Balas of Romania, she found she didn't have enough left.

However, two world indoor records did fall.

Chi Cheng of China, in the first final event of the night, fought off world record-holder Mamie Rallins of Chicago to lower the time for the 50-yard hurdles to 6.5 seconds from 6.6. Miss Rallins equalled her record time to come second with Tereza Nowak of Poland third.

Cheryl Toussaint, 17, of New York, in her first crack at the 600-yard indoor run, set a world mark of 1:22.2, eclipsing the 1:22.4 set by Francie Kraker of the United States in 1967.

Miss Cheng, who later won the women's 50-yard dash, smiled when told she had broken her own record.

"The program was wrong," she said, adding that it was the first time she had ever contested the event.

She said she was "not in shape," that she had been back in action only two weeks after having a planter's wart removed from her left foot.

Miss Cheng, 25, is from Formosa and has lived in the U.S. for seven years. She attends California Polytechnical Institute at Pomona.

Miss Toussaint, 17, said she "practised very, very hard for this one, although this is the first time I've ever competed in this event."

"I'm an 880 gal. I went into the 600 because there was no 880 on the program."

John Carlos, the U.S. Olympic star drafted recently by Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, won two events and then became sick to his stomach and retired to his hotel.

Carlos repeated his 1969 meet victory with a time of 5.2 seconds for the 50-yard dash. His time was matched by Herb Washington of Michigan State, who was placed second. World record-holder Kirk Clayton, who has a time of 5.0, tied for fifth at 5.3.

Carlos won his second event when he set a Canadian open record of 31.3 seconds in the men's invitational 300.

Another Canadian record fell in the invitational three miles when distance man Bob Finlay fought off marathoner Jerome Drayton. The Toronto runners were well ahead at the tape.

Finlay's 13:19.0 was a native record but was nearly 10 seconds off the world mark. The record he broke was his own—13:22.2 set last year. Grant McLaren of the University of Guelph was third.

Reynaldo Brown from California soared 7-2¼ in the men's invitational high jump to break the Canadian open record of 7-1 set by Otis Burrell of Los Angeles in Saskatoon in 1966.

Ken Lundmark of Sweden, a Brigham Young University student, jumped 7-1¼ for second.

Bob Raftis of Toronto went to 16-5½ in the pole vault to tie world record-holder Bob Seagren of Los Angeles. Neither could catch Sam Caruthers of San Jose State, who cleared 17 feet. Seagren was second and Raftis, although third, demolished the Canadian native record of 16-2, set by Gerry Moro of Trail, B.C., in 1968.

Australian Ralph Doubell set a meet record of 2:07.6 in the 1,000 yards, thrusting ahead of Tom von Ruden of California with half a lap to go.

Martin McGrady of Louisville, Ky., was an easy winner over Lee Evans of San Jose, Calif., in the 600-yard run.

Palmer Best Sport in 60's

NEW YORK (AP) — Arnold Palmer, whose boyish charm and faculty for miraculous comebacks sent professional golf into a multi-million-dollar spiral, was chosen today Athlete of the Decade.

The 40-year-old fairway slugger from the little mill town of Latrobe, Pa., beat out Bill Russell, towering basketball star of Boston Celtics, in a nation-wide poll of sports writers and broadcasters to select the top performer of the 1960s.

It was a victory for personal magnetism.

Although he did not dominate the game as thoroughly as Bob Jones in the 1920s, Byron Nelson in the 1940s and Ben Hogan in the 1950s and failed to overshadow his rivals as did men in other fields, no individual made such an impact on golf and the sports world generally during the period.

Arnie received 231 of 655 votes in a poll by The Associated Press, with Russell a close second with 194.

The blue ribbon personalities of the nation's major spectator sports—professional football and baseball—trailed far behind these two men, each a legend of his time.

Sandy Koufax, the left-handed pitching ace of Los Angeles Dodgers, was third with 56 votes, followed by Johnny Unitas of Baltimore Colts, outstanding in a dazzling parade of football quarterbacks, 47, and Mickey Mantle, the home run punch of New York Yankees, 43.

Rounding out the top ten, in order, were Willie Mays, baseball; Bart Starr, football; Jimmy Brown, football; Wilt Chamberlain, basketball, and Bobby Hull, hockey.

Quebec Peewee Tourney Coming Down to Wire

QUEBEC (CP) — The annual Quebec international peewee hockey tournament enters its second-last day of competition today with finalists established in class B and C and semi-finalists in classes AA and A.

Class champions will be determined in all four divisions in play today, with the tournament's grand championship game scheduled for Saturday.

Veteran Skip Jake Edwards Shows Rookie How It's Done

OSHAWA (CP) — The oldest skip at the Ontario curling championship beat the youngest in the fifth round Thursday night and then said the loser "is the greatest curler I have ever played."

Jake Edwards, 48, making his sixth appearance at the championship, had just skipped his Kingston rink to a 10-9 extra-end victory over Paul Savage, 22, of Toronto, on a combination of master shot calling and precision shooting.

"But don't think I feel smart about it," Edwards said as spectators rushed to the ice to congratulate him after he came through a 15-inch port to make a takeout and win the match.

"I've always prided myself on my ability to outguess another skip. This young man can't be fooled. In fact, he's so good that he had me guessing.

"If my team hadn't given me every shot I asked for in the last two ends, we couldn't have come close."

Savage was leading 8-5 after nine ends, but left his final draw shot on the 10th unguarded and Edwards took it out to tie the game with a three. Edwards then stole one and forced Savage to come down the outside of the sheet, around three guards, and draw the eight-foot circle to tie the game on the 12th and final regulation end.

Edwards almost hid his first shot on the extra end, but Savage came through the narrow port to take it out and the Kingston skip followed the same path to win the game.

Edwards and Savage were among six rinks still in contention at the start of today's sixth round at 2:30 p.m. Both have single losses along with Bob Woods of Toronto and Bob Dolishney of Welland.

Meanwhile, Joe Gurowka of Toronto, the 1966 champion and Eldon Coombe of Ottawa were the only rinks still undefeated after five rounds.

Gurowka played Dolishney, while Savage met Coombe in the sixth round at 2:30 p.m., with the winners meeting in the evening round at 8 p.m.

The tournament, which began Wednesday with 18 entries, winds up Saturday with the winner advancing to the Canadian championship at Winnipeg, March 2-6.

A Northern Ontario representative will be decided at a separate championship.

In Thursday's first of three rounds, Gurowka downed Terry Patton of Brantford 10-8, while Edwards walloped Harry Sheldon of Unionville 14-8, Savage beat George Ellis of Waterloo 12-7, John Winford of Ottawa beat Bruce Munro of Toronto 10-7, Coombe downed Cam Guyatt of Hamilton 9-6, Bob Harris of Unionville defeated Dolishney 11-8, Woods beat Howie Atkinson of Toronto 14-7 and Irving Wallace of Port Carling edged Ken Buchan, the defending champion from London, 9-8 in an extra end.

In the afternoon round, Gurowka eliminated Buchan with an 11-6 trouncing over 11 ends, Savage disposed of Patton 6-3, Dolishney beat Wallace 11-4 and Coombe downed Woods 11-6.

In other fifth round games Thursday evening, Coombe eliminated Winford 10-6, Woods knocked Wallace out of contention with a 10-6 victory and Gurowka sent Harris home with an 11-3 victory that the Unionville crew conceded after eight ends.

AHL Playoffs Revised

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The American Hockey League, which took on a "new look" with the addition of the Montreal Voyageurs and a new divisional setup this season, announced today a revision for the Calder Cup playoffs.

League president Jack Butterfield said the new plan for the playoffs will eliminate the head-on clash between divisional leaders in the quarter-finals.

Under the new format, which will be effective after the end o the regular season April 5, the Eastern Division champion will meet the third-place team in the Western Division: The Western champion will play the Eastern's third-place finisher, and the two second-place teams in each division will play off.

All playoffs will be best-of-seven series, each opening in the city of the team which finishes higher in the final standings.

The three quarter-final winners will meet in an elimination home-and-home semi-final series with a minimum of four games and a maximum of seven. The two teams with the most points in the series will meet in the finals.

Pair of 69's

Vollmer Sticking with Pack

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — The marathon Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic swung into the 54-hole phase today, with 36 more to go, and leading the way through the wreckage of par was Larry Ziegler, a young man who would just as soon watch ice hockey as play golf.

The tall, blond, 30-year-old from Terre Du Lac, Mo.—near St. Louis—broke out of a first-round tie with a seven-under par 65 Thursday and went into this third round with a score of 67-65—132.

It gave Ziegler a three-stroke lead over Australian Bruce Devlin, who had 67-68—135. Tied at 137 were former U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, 70-67, and Moon Mullin, who followed a 72 with a 65, a competitive course record for the La Quinta Country Club.

Vancouver's Wayne Vollmer was just six strokes off the pace, tied with Jim Wiechers at 138. Volmer scored 69 on both the first two rounds.

Toronto's Al Balding was well back with a 142 after rounds of 74 and 68 while George Knudson, also of Toronto, stood at 71-74—145.

Ziegler, who won and finally collected $20,000 in the Michigan Classic last fall, has one particular goal.

"I'd like to win here so I can take a break and take in the Stanley Cup hockey playoffs," Ziegler said, explaining that while he could never learn to skate he has a deep passion for the game.

Ziegler played Indian Wells' short but tight course in 33-32—65. He banged out five birdies and finished the day with an eagle-three on the 18th hole. He hit a four-wood 25 feet from the cup and holed the putt.

"I putted better than I have all year," Ziegler said.

Gaudaur Assured Patriots Not Coming

TORONTO (CP) — Jake Gaudaur, commissioner of the Canadian Football League, said Thursday he has been assured that there is no possibility of the homeless Boston franchise in the National Football League moving to Canada.

Boston Patriots, who played in the American League last year, announced Wednesday they will probably have to relocate because the city lacks the 50,000-seat stadium they require under the terms of the AFL's merger with the NFL. Patriots' president Billy Sullivan said Montreal and Toronto interests were among the bidders.

Gaudaur said he has received repeated assurances from Pete Rozelle, his NFL opposite number, that he will offer no encouragement to Canadian applicants for a franchise.

Gaudaur said Rozelle has gone on record as saying his league would not contemplate a move into Canada in the foreseeable future.

"In my conversations with Rozelle he stated quite strongly that for adequate scheduling any Canadian city interested in U.S. football would have to have a domed stadium for November football."

OHA Reconsiders Punch

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association was to reconsider Thursday a five-game suspension given Barry Hearn, coach of St. Marys Lincolns of the OHA Junior B series, OHA president Tubby Schmalz said Wednesday.

The suspension, which would put Hearn on the sidelines for the balance of the season, was meted out because he punched Squires trainer Pat Kelly in the face during a London-St. Marys game at London two weeks ago.

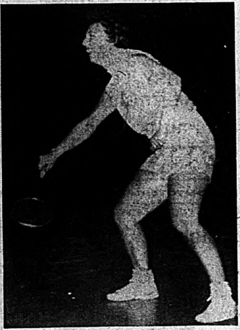
Belleville deputy fire chief Bob Emerson misses connections on an attempted smash, in a practice round for Saturday's 'B' tournament. Emerson and his Belleville Garrison Club teammates hope to fare better in the competition tomorrow at the Belleville Armouries.

Garrison Club Badminton Meet Features Three B's

Birds, belts and backhanders will be featured at the Belleville Armories tomorrow when the Garrison Badminton Club holds its B tournament competition. A turnout of 99 competitors will see action beginning at 10 a.m. with the finals at 7 o'clock in the evening.

The local club has several entries in each section of the tournament and is hopeful of copping some of the honors from the out-of-town rivals.

A dance and buffet in the officers' mess will follow the competition.



At the Ready

Garrison Club member Jackie Gilbert prepares to return a shot, during a tune-up round for Saturday's 'B' tournament play. Teams from all over central Ontario will be entered in the all day competition.

Midgets Square Series with Trenton

A one-man James' gang and a robber by the name of Eldon Matthews were important ingredients last night in keeping the Blake Kerr Imperial Midgets playing hockey.

Facing elimination from their first-round OMHA playoff series with Trenton Lions, the Belleville Midget all-stars got a three-goal effort out of right-winger Doug James and a clutch third-period stand out of goalie Matthews to whip Trenton 5-3 and knot the best-of-three series at a game apiece.

The Imperials weren't the same team that lost the series opener 11-6 in Trenton.

Matthews' goaltending, and dogged forechecking and penalty-killing by forwards like Robbie Foster and Dave Smith kept the Imperials in the game as they went into the final 20 minutes trailing 2-1.

James' first goal after only 50 seconds of the middle frame had given the Imperials first blood, but David McInnis and Doug Stutsky made it 2-1 for Trenton before the period ended.

With the third period barely two minutes old, James rapped Cliff Janitsch's pass into an upper corner of the Trenton net to make it 2-2.

Less than two minutes later, Dave Smith converted Phil Kirby's centering pass into a 20-footer along the ice that gave the Imperials a 3-2 edge.

Just past the 12-minute mark, James tucked his third goal into a low corner of the Trenton net, with Janitsch drawing his third assist to make it 4-2 Belleville.

John Gravelle ignited a Trenton threat by scoring at 18.46, but was the goat on his next rush, losing the puck at his own blueline to Rick Meagher, who went in alone to score an insurance goal at 19.06.

The Belleville midgets outshot the Lions 43-24, and drew six of 14 minor penalties called.

The third and deciding game of the series will be played in Belleville's Memorial Arena Sunday, Feb. 15.

Hawks Hope Moon Rises Tonight

There are better positions to be in than the hot seat occupied by Belleville Mo-Hawk backup goaltender Bob Moon tonight.

Moon has draw the starting assignment — only his third in 34 OHA Senior A games — as the Oakville Oaks invade the Memorial Arena for a 9 p.m. game.

Mo-Hawk coach Davey Jones made the decision to start the 22-year-old Moon following Tuesday night's 8-2 loss in Kingston.

Moon stopped 18 shots, and allowed two goals — one a breakaway effort, the other a deflection off defenceman Greg Marchen's leg — after replacing Steve Rexe in the third period.

Changing goalies is one of the more popular methods of stump-breaking, which is precisely what Jones is in the market for right now.

Rexe, although far from being solely responsible for the club's 2-6 record over the past eight games, has been playing sub-par as his goals-against average has soared dangerously near the four-per-game mark.

Moon's other two starting assignments this season were in a 5-3 home win over last-place Woodstock Nov. 16, and in a 7-3 trouncing in Oakville two Sundays ago.

That loss to the Oaks was one of the more degrading the Mo-Hawks have suffered during their unbelievable slump.

The Oaks dished out a physical as well as scoreboard pounding that Jones has insisted be avenged tonight.

In addition to being put on the spot to help bring the Mo-Hawks out of their current doldrums, backup backstop Moon will be facing the OHA Senior league's leading producer.

Centre Jim 'Obie' O'Brien's 34 goals and 67 points make him the leader in both departments. The towering six-foot-three, 195-pounder beat Moon twice in their first meeting two weeks ago.

The only sure non-starter for tonight's 9 p.m. game is defenceman Lou Kazowski, whose ankle injury could cost his presence until playoff time.

Meanwhile, the Mo-Hawk Boosters continue to stick with their club through the thin part of the "thick-and-thin", sponsoring a Sunday bus trip to the road game with Barrie Flyers.

Leaving the Memorial Arena at 2.30 Sunday, $6 fee will cover game admission and transportation. Mo-Hawk loyalists should call 962-6078, 962-1350, or 962-2605.

New Moon?

Stand-by goaltender Bob Moon will be the new face in the Belleville Mo-Hawk net tonight as the local seniors try and get back on the winning track in a 9 p.m. Memorial Arena game against Oakville Oaks.

Ski Report

The Bata Ski Club will be open this weekend from 10 a.m. to 4.30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Three tows will be operating and the Alpine Ski School will be open. The club reports six inches of base and two inches of fresh snow. Ski conditions are EXCELLENT.

Picton Police Give No-stars Ice Test

PICTON — Ontario Provincial Police are hoping that the CKWS No-Stars fail the Point Zero-eight test tonight, and plan on handing out fines in the form of goals.

Rather than the drinking and driving habits of the Kingston crew, however, the law enforcers will be concerned with their on-ice manoeuvring, as the OPP Point Zero-eight hockey team tackles the No-Stars in the Picton Memorial Arena at 8 o'clock.

Proceeds from the game will go to the Prince Edward County retarded children's fund. The Picton OPP detachment have already raised in excess of $700 of the project's $1,000 objective.

Golden Hawks Must Win Tonight

TRENTON — As coach Charlie Drake of the Trenton Golden Hawks assesses his team's chances, "We have to win four out of six and hope like heck that Belleville loses."

Trenton is currently six points out of fourth place in the Eastern Ontario Junior B league with a game in hand over both Belleville and Cobourg. The Golden Hawks chances aren't enhanced by the fact that three of their remaining games are with the second place Kingston Frontenacs, who they play tonight in Trenton.

"We haven't won a game against Kingston this year," says Drake. "But we were shorthanded in a couple of them." The team received more bad news when it was learned that winger Mike Hall will be out for at least another week. Hall, who has sat out with a broken arm for much of the schedule was previously expected back for tonight's 9 p.m. Community Gardens fixture.

Film Chain To Award Students

TORONTO — Famous Players Canadian Corporation, celebrating its 50th anniversary in 1970, has approved an annual grant of $10,000 for six awards to university and high school students producing the year's best 16 mm. and 8 mm. films in English and French.

Mr. George P. Destounis, president and managing director of the country's largest theatre circuit says Famous Players will award the top university film-makers first and second prizes worth $2,500 and $1,750 for both English and French productions in 16 mm. First prizes of $750 will be provided at high school level for English and French students using either 16 or 8 mm.

Detailed plans for the annual Famous Players Student Film Awards will be announced shortly, Mr. Destounis said. It will be organized on a regional basis with the four top films from each province, representing the two official languages, being eligible for final adjudication in Toronto and Montreal.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Supervising Women Frustrating Task

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I have frustrating work — keeping our women employees on the job. As I'm responsible to the boss, it makes a nervous wreck out of me trying to keep our work force up to full efficiency.

Would you give up the job as supervisor and just be "one of the girls'? Is there a solution? I guess it's not my nature to bear down on our office employees. — Mrs. O.

Comment: Unhappiness in one's work is a frequent cause of nervousness. It takes courage to give up one job and go looking for another. Nevertheless, in many cases, this is the only solution.

In your own problem, as it's admittedly not your nature to be a supervisor, a less demanding job may be better than taking tranquilizers.

Many studies have been done on the problem of absenteeism. Women stay away from work more often than men, according to D. C. Bews, M.D., of Montreal, Canada. I suppose the reason is family responsibilities, children or husband becoming ill, etc. Those in non - management jobs have an absence rate 56 per cent higher than those in management positions. Absenteeism is greater among married women than single ones.

Those under the age of 30 have the worst records, although no health reasons have been pinpointed. Monday rates 40 per cent higher than any other day as the first day of work absences.

So you see, Mrs. O., there is a pattern throughout industry similar to your own experience with workers. Whether or not this will make you feel better, I do not know. At least you will realize that you have a lot of company. Other supervisors have a problem similar to yours.

Mrs. D. writes: "I have just had a cataract operation on both eyes and found that it was relatively simple and has given me great hope for the full return of my sight. I was terrified weeks before the operation. I know many friends who need the operation but refuse to have it done out of fear. I hope I can allay their fears if you will print this in your column."

Comment: With the newer techniques (for example, cryosurgery — freezing) the cataract operation has become less hazardous, less painful, and productive of better results. Patients are out of bed, and up - and - around sooner than was the custom a few years ago. I believe Mrs. D. has done a good service in bringing comfort to those who need cataract surgery, but are putting it off because of fear.

For Mrs. G.: Do not condemn aspirin because you are sensitive to it. It is still one of the most valued drugs in our medical armamentarium. Doctors wouldn't be without it. It is perhaps the most innocuous pain-killer we have.

But I agree you shouldn't use it because it causes you to itch and have blotches all over your skin. In some sensitive people it causes bleeding.

I suggest that when you have a headache that you ask your doctor for a preparation that combines acetanilid and caffeine preparations. These are often excellent substitutes for aspirin — and quite effective for headaches.

For Mrs. E.: All you need is one good-functioning tube and ovary to become pregnant. The fact that you were operated for a ruptured tubal pregnancy doesn't mean it is certain that you will never become pregnant again.

Damage Done to Wildlife By Oil Leaking from Tanker

HALIFAX (CP) — A fisheries department official has reported damage to wildlife along the Cape Breton coastline following the grounding Wednesday of the Liberian tanker Arrow.

The official reported oil along "a couple of miles of shore" between Cape Auget and Arichat and said he counted 17 dead birds Thursday, unrecognizable because of a heavy coating of oil. He said he saw others along the shore "but didn't count them."

The tanker Imperial Acadia arrived early today from Corner Brook, Nfld., and a spokesman for Imperial Oil Ltd., to whom the Arrow is chartered, said it was hoped enough oil could be pumped from the stricken vessel to lighten her load and assist in refloating her.

Homophones Give Trouble

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A homophone is a word that is pronounced the same as another, but differs in spelling or meaning, like pair and pear and pare. There are many of these in the English language, and in most cases the wrong word is written for the right one.

Even so literate a journal as the New York Review of Books, in a large headline offering special holiday subscriptions, wrote "Christmas Doesn't Phase Me," when the word it meant was faze. It is a common error; most people think phase is proper in this usage, and faze is only a slang variant, but they are totally different words.

The New York Times, which also should know better, not long ago reported in a story that a person was "hailed into court." The homophone that should have been used is haled, which means "drawn by force." To be hailed into court is to be shouted for, which was not meant. Yet hailed has almost driven out haled in this kind of context.

Recently I read a story in which one character was described as being hair-brained. This is a common homophonic mistake for hare - brained which means giddy or nutty behavior, such as associated with the March hare and other rabbits that seem to go wild in some seasons. The notion of hair has nothing whatever to do with the case.

Every language has such problems. Cinderella's famous glass slipper is the result of a homophonic mistake in French. The original title of Perrault's Cinderella was La Petite Pantoufle de Vair, or The Little Fur Slipper, but the sound of vair was confused with "verre", meaning glass, and the mistake is now ineradicable.

But English is especially burdened with this problem. Some 50 years ago, Robert Bridges, the poet and scholar, wrote an essay on English homophones with a list of 835 entries involving nearly 1800 words. These words are troublesome and self-destructive; also, because we are careless in speech and smudge the vowels, words originally different begin to sound alike, and we lose important distinctions.

Almost everyone calls it Welsh rarebit, when it should be Welsh rabbit; all children refer to cole slaw as cold slaw, and I have seen it printed as such on some menus; buttonhold long ago lost out to buttonhole; sweetheart has nothing to do with the heart, but is a corruption of sweetard, like dotard and coward.

If I recall my Alice correctly, it was the Gryphon who remarked that school-hours in the sea grew shorter every day. "That's why they're called 'lessons,' you know," he said to Alice, "because they lessen each day." Alice knew there was something wrong with this explanation, but a 7-year-old girl can hardly handle a homophone.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For February 7

Your birthday today: The coming year is a search for more workable career approaches, preparation for future activities beyond your present reach. This unsettled period is only resolved with patience, meditation, and concentrated concern for self-improvement.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Bread cast on the waters long ago may come back now with butter and jam on it. Be grateful for your own past generosity.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Your sense of humor makes all the difference to people around you. Accept friends on their terms; don't push them into things they're not ready for.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): The accent is on old things, memories of incidents long past. Avoid excess in food and drink, otherwise go along with the mood of the day, renewing long-lapsed acquaintances.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): If you are dissatisfied with your home and its neighborhood, today is a good time to begin doing something about it.

Leo (July 23 — Aug. 22): Aside from a tendency to spill anything that is liquid today is a happy interlude if you will go along with people and their whims. Include older friends; they may be surprisingly helpful at odd moments.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Your energy is more available today — clear off long deferred heavy chores, the earlier the better. Get rid of belongings which have lost their purpose in your life.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): You are likely to overreach in trying to get too much done, particularly in matters like clearing out your den or work space. Get some help, spread the work, take an occasional rest.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Pushing your plans today creates more confusion than results. Take into account what you learned yesterday; revise your ideas for another try later. Seek serenity in meditation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Creative endeavor is highly favored. Take minor changes of household and garden plans in stride.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Your thrifty tendencies need overturning just for now. Put in a practical day of attending to whatever needs organizing, then celebrate the evening in style.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Faraway places, exotic schemes attract your attention. Some of them may not be quite as daydreamy as you first suspect; reach out for better information, longer-range planning.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): If you must mix into what your friends and family are doing, make sure everybody knows exactly what you intend, and more important, why. A showdown is better than an insecure truce at this point.

Canada's West Coast Ports Idle Once Again

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada's West Coast ports were at a standstill today as the long-simmering contract dispute involving 3,200 British Columbia Longshoremen returned to the boil.

Picket lines were thrown around the ports late Thursday, immediately halting loading of grain and other cargoes.

In Vancouver harbor, 15 ocean-going vessels were sitting idle, including four freighters loading grain when the work stoppage went into effect.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey announced in Ottawa that the longshoremen and their employers have until the weekend to settle their differences or face direct government intervention.

Mr. Mackasey said he would not tolerate another port shutdown in Vancouver and would not hesitate to recommend measures to the government. He did not say what measures he had in mind.

During a six-week strike which was suspended in November when the dockers approved a 90-day truce, the National Harbors Board operated grain loading facilities and the union provided gangs to handle grain cargoes in compliance with an undertaking given earlier by the union to Mr. Mackasey.

Edward Strang, president of the British Columbia Maritime Employers Association, said Thursday the resumption of the strike means that "everything in the ports" is closed up, including grain bulk and regular cargo facilities.

Earlier this week the longshoremen rejected for the third time settlement terms negotiated by their union and their employers. The latest contract proposal was turned down by a vote of 51 per cent.

Union leaders at first ordered their members to remain on the job Thursday but there was only a partial return to work in Vancouver and New Westminster and little work was done.

Work went on in Victoria, Port Alberni and Chemainus on Vancouver Island but dockers on the island joined Vancouver and New Westminster in going on strike at 5 p.m.

Federal mediator William Kelly met briefly with both sides Thursday and said afterward he had received no commitment from either to talk again.

Vancouver, New Westminster and Port Alberni voted against the proposed settlement terms and the other ports accepted them. But the over-all vote was against acceptance.

The terms would have provided a $1.15-an-hour pay increase over three years on a base of $3.85, a guarantee of 26 weeks of work at 35-hours a week, two additional paid holidays, improved vacations, pensions and a $13,000 retirement settlement to qualifying members at the age of 65 and other improvements.

Earlier offers, rejected in two votes before the temporary truce, provided for 85 cents an hour over 27 months.

Robichaud to Get Flood Damage Report

FREDERICTON (CP) — A report on New Brunswick flood damage was to be given to Premier Louis J. Robichaud today by a special committee appointed during an emergency cabinet meeting Thursday.

The committee, composed of senior public servants, was formed in the wake of heavy flooding Wednesday which swept away buildings, killed livestock, washed out at least 15 bridges, blocked roads and rail lines and claimed at least two lives.

Premier Robichaud called the situation "one of emergency proportions" and said he would decide "what further steps the government must take" when he received the committee's report.

Highways Minister Andre F. Richard estimated bridge and road damage at $5,000,000 Thursday night and said the figure would likely go higher when all reports come in from smaller centres.

There was no estimate of over-all damage but speculative assessments by some government spokesman said the total could top $20,000,000.

Mr. Robichaud said no request for federal assistance would be made until damage had been more accurately estimated. However, Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand was being kept informed.

Canadian Armed Forces personnel had been authorized to restore electricity to areas still blacked out.

U.S. Emphasis Is Different

Canada's Fight Against Inflation Not Easing

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadians should not think the fight against inflation in this country is waning in importance because the United States might ease its emphasis on tight money, Dr. John Young, head of the prices and incomes commission, said in an interview Thursday.

On the eve of the commission's crucial meeting next Monday and Tuesday with leaders of Canadian business, Dr. Young told The Canadian Press he is convinced the Nixon administration is as determined as ever to stop inflation.

But Canada and the United States are tackling the problem from different angles. When the right time comes, the Americans want to ease out of restraints and into a moderate, carefully-controlled expansion.

Canada has tackled inflation by using the traditional economic instruments of tight money, high taxes and government spending cuts. Dr. Young now wants to supplement these with agreement in the business community first, and later in both organized and unorganized labor, to restrain price and income increases.

He has invited more than 275 Canadian business leaders, from railway and insurance company presidents to shoe and cookie manufacturers, to meet in public and private sessions here on price restraints.

Dr. Young wants them to agree to a set of criteria by which price increases can be measured against cost increases. He is urging them to hold price increases sufficiently below cost increases to make it plain to everyone that they are not merely expanding their profits.

If and when this is done, the prices and incomes commission can make another pitch to labor.

The Canadian Labor Congress and the Confederation of National Trade Unions rejected the commission's first bid last fall for them to show restraint in wage demands. They said they wanted to be shown that other forms of incomes—profits, interest, rent and the like—would be held in check.

Dr. Young noted that before the Nixon administration took office, the Democrats under President Johnson tried to get price restraint by setting guidelines. Dr. Young said this was a much less orderly approach than his, without his attempt to get a consensus on restraints before they are put in place.

Dr. Young thinks his approach will work here because Canada is a smaller, less heterogeneous country, of more manageable size.

Tight money policies in the United States have been about as strong as Canada's, but the two countries have a different strategy, the former University of British Columbia economist said.

"The Nixon administration is playing what you might call the long game. It is not playing the game of having a strong impact and counting on that in the short run to do the job.

"What the American authorities are doing is to impress upon the business community, and those responsible for decisions in labor markets, that . . . they do not intend to make the mistakes of previous periods of expansion. They intend to move out of this very cautiously and not rush up to what they call their full employment level very quickly."

Dr. Young described in the interview the logic of his approach.

First, he said, it is clear the government is determined to have inflation brought under control.

Alternative approaches are to stop inflation by curbing the economy with fiscal and monetary policies alone, or in conjunction with supplementary measures to scale down price-and-income increases temporarily.

"If we put reliance simply on taxes and expenditure and monetary restraints, then the transition period between the kind of inflation we have now and reasonable price stability may be accompanied by some increase in unemployment and loss of output.

"The purpose of our exercise is to try, through shortening and softening that transition, to get through it with less unemployment and less loss of output.

"We think we can get from the present inflationary situation to reasonable price stability with a higher level of income and employment throughout that process. There is a net national gain to be had through the use of this program—a net national gain."

Dr. Young said the principal beneficiaries of this net national gain will be those who might be thrown out of work if the country has to depend on high taxes, spending cuts, and monetary policies alone to dampen the economy.

The great majority of people will come out about even. Their money incomes might not rise as rapidly as they would in a highly inflationary economy, but then prices will not rise as rapidly either.

The ones who might be hurt by Dr. Young's approach, he said, are the few people who have enough market power, or are fast enough in their financial transactions, to take advantage of inflation. He called these people the ones who "might have done a little better under the law of the jungle."

Marchand Comes Under Fire Over Cape Breton Projects

OTTAWA (CP) — Cape Breton Island and its many problems suddenly got lost in a clash in the Commons Thursday between a former coal miner, Donald MacInnis (PC—Cape Breton-East Richmond) and a former labor leader, Regional Expansion Minister Jean Marchand.

It came at the end of a debate over second reading of a bill which would authorize increase the loan total the Cape Breton Development Corp. may guarantee to business.

The bill was given second reading and goes to the Commons regional development committee.

Mr. Marchand led off the debate, saying the bill would greatly expand the Crown corporation's ability to attract industry to the economically depressed island.

Mr. MacInnis replied that Devco, established in 1967, had sold Cape Breton miners and others "down the river" and the government knows it but "does not give a damn."

Mr. MacInnis demanded the resignation of Devco President Robinson Ord and Gerald Blackmore, general manager of the coal division, "to stop the lies that are being told."

He said Mr. Ord assured miners, before Devco took over the coal mines, there would be no effect on employees. Then, many were told they would be retired prematurely at age 60. Also he said, money from the unemployment insurance fund was misused.

"How much are we going to take from Blackmoe and Ord?" Mr. MacInnis asked.

Other opposition speaker joined in.

David Lewis New Democratic Party House leader, said the corporation has done nothing but reduce by half the standard of living of the miners in two years.

Robert Muir (PC—Cape Breton—The Sydneys) said Mr. Marchand has been to secretive about Devco operations and arrogant and indifferent to the problems of Cape Bretoners. "The minister acts like a stupid little idiot," Mr. Muir said.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) refrained from personal attacks on Mr. Marchand but demanded to know what Devco has done and why it should be given greater financial powers in the face of accusations against it. He was followed by Edward Broadbent (NDP—Oshawa-Whitby) who warned that violence could flare up on the island at any time.

Mr. Marchand granted that Devco has not wiped away economic depression. But, he said, it had created 1,700 jobs by attracting new industries and reopening a mine.

The pension plan for retired miners had been approved by the United Mine Workers Union and 78 per cent of the miners given the option to retire had done so.

He was interrupted throughout his defence by Mr. MacInnis demanding to raise questions of privilege. At one point, Mr. MacInnis said he had in files a letter signed by Mr. Marchand "that makes a liar out of Mr. Blackmore and a fool out of the minister."

Mr. Marchand refused to let his opponent interrupt him again. "I would if he acted like a civilized man," he said. "Ive never insulted him in this House but I shouldn't respect him more than he respects me."

Students Would Take Liberals Into Street

TORONTO (CP) — Three members of the Ontario Student Liberal Association have prepared a background paper for the parent party's Feb. 19-21 convention in Ottawa urging major changes in the party's relationship to the community.

Kathy Robinson of Trent University, Wayne Crossen of Waterloo Lutheran and Duncan Read of the University of Waterloo said Liberals have been out of power in Ontario since 1943 "and we will remain out of power until we take the Liberal party into the streets."

They urge steps to involve the party in community action and to bring a greater number and variety of people into the party.

"We must begin to identify the Liberal party with those who are suffering at the hands of society and government, be it federal, provincial or municipal."

The paper urges members to write letters, organize and join picket lines at polluted beaches or join marches such as the December farmer-labor protest against the government's medical policies.

"The Hardest Working Classified Want Ads are the ones that are Written the Best!"

Follow These Helpful Suggestions For Writing A Good Want Ad.

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

2—Be CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. Always include "price".

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions.

You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

Be ready for your newspaperboy

When your carrierboy comes to collect, please make sure you're ready. With the right change, if possible. He'll appreciate it with a broad smile and a "Thank you". You see, because he is in business for himself, your newspaperboy depends on the full collection of his route for his full profit. Repeat calls mean extra work with no extra profit. So—give the boy a break. And thanks!

Salvage Efforts Continue

Order to Burn Ship Issued by Jamieson

Canada Ousts Red Diplomat

OTTAWA (CP) — The government announced Friday that it expelled Hungarian diplomat Janos Hegedus Jan. 10 but refused to confirm or deny a report that he had "incomplete success" in recruiting Canadians to gather military data.

A statement from the external affairs department said Hungary was asked Jan. 7 to withdraw Hegedus for activities "incompatible with his status as a diplomat."

"It would be undesirable to expand on the reasons for expulsion," the statement said.

Hegedus, first secretary for economic and commercial affairs, departed with his wife Jan. 17.

Also announced was the expulsion by Hungary "in retaliation" of Stanley G. Noble, visa officer at the Canadian embassy in Budapest. He and Mrs. Noble drove to Vienna, Austria, Feb. 1.

Noble, a Niagara Falls, Ont., native with the immigration department since 1956, went to Budapest last August as the first Canadian visa officer to work there.

Shortly after Hungary was told to withdraw Hegedus, Noble found himself being "harassed" and closely followed. His tires were slashed at one point.

Details behind the expulsion of Hegedus weren't disclosed. An Ottawa Citizen report, however, said he had been trying to recruit Canadians to a spy ring to gather military information. It added that this hadn't been "a complete success."

There have been periodic expulsions by Canada of Communist diplomats since 1946, when Soviet cipher clerk Igor Gouzenko disclosed the existence of an extensive spy network in North America.

ABMs Threat To Talks

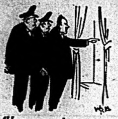
WASHINGTON (AP) — A former United States ambassador to the Soviet Union says expansion of the Safeguard missile defence system could undermine strategic arms talks with Russia by giving the impression the U.S. is stalling while developing new weapons.

"Our position ought to be very clear," George Kennan told the Senate foreign relations committee Friday in warning against what he called "plunging ahead with the development of new weapons systems while these talks are going on."

The subject of the missile defence system and the U.S.-Soviet talks was brought up as Kennan and former ambassador Averell Harriman appeared before the committee to endorse proposals for expanded exchanges between American and Russian public officials as a means of improving relations between the countries.

Today's Chuckle

The problem that baffles Washington is how to dig the country out of the hole without making the hole any bigger.



"How come that tree on the right has no ABM behind it?"

Professor Offers 'Safe' Detergent

BROCKVILLE (CP) — A University of Toronto professor Friday told the International Joint Commission that the non-phosphate laundry detergent he has developed can be manufactured as cheaply as present phosphate detergents.

Prof. P. H. Jones told the IJC, which is studying pollution on the Great Lakes, that he has invited health and water authorities to submit requests for confidential information, and to receive samples for their own examination.

In an interview later, the professor said his product could saturate the market within six months if the proper authorities thought phosphates were becoming a crisis problem.

One of the commission's advisory boards has recommended that all phosphates be removed from detergents by 1972 because the chemical feeds algae which use up the oxygen in water, thereby killing other marine life.

"I'm sure the industry could meet that 1972 deadline," said Prof. Jones, an associate professor of microbiology.

With his product, he said, housewives could do their washing with one teaspoon of detergent rather than one cup as is required presently.

He said 50 per cent of the content of today's detergents is not needed.

"That 50 per cent is sodium sulphate, a nothing chemical. Look at all the space those boxes of soap are using up on store shelves.

He said the product has been tested for its effects on fish and plants, among other things, and for its effects on materials. There have been no adverse findings, Prof. Jones said.

Imperial Oil Studies Means

HALIFAX (CP) — Efforts were continuing today to pump as much oil as possible from the Liberian tanker Arrow, hard aground off the east coast of Nova Scotia, a spokesman for Imperial Oil Ltd. said here.

The spokesman said that in the meantime, the company was gathering as much information as possible on details involved if it become necessary to destroy the 11,379-ton tanker and her cargo of 3,800,000 gallons of bunker C oil.

Transport Minister Don Jamieson said in Ottawa Friday night that he had ordered the destruction of the tanker and her cargo after department officials at the scene reported that the situation was deteriorating.

The Arrow ran aground Wednesday on shoals off Arichat, a small community 190 miles north of here. She was down by her bow and waves were rolling across her deck.

Some of the oil has been seeping through holes in the vessel's hull, causing a slick about three miles long and 100 yards wide. A light northerly wind was pushing the slick out to sea, but some patches have drifted onto the Cape Breton coast.

The Imperial Oil spokesman said that before the vessel and cargo could be destroyed, a way had to be found to ignite the oil, keep it burning and maintain safety. The Arrow is grounded just three-quarters of a mile off the coast.

He said the company feels that the best way it can prevent pollution at the moment is to continue working to remove as much oil as possible from the tanker. He said the company "had some success" this morning in getting steam up aboard the Arrow. He said the oil has to be heated before it can be pumped out.

A second tanker, the Imperial Acadia, is standing by and it was hoped to start transferring oil to her later in the day.

A thick black mire covered the rocky shoreline near Arichat and a fisheries department officer said Thursday that he had spotted at least 17 birds coated in oil.

The Arrow went aground while en route to Nova Scotia Pulp Ltd. mill at Point Tupper, N.S.

Savage Mideast Duel Continues Unabated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The savage pattern of thrust and counter-thrust by Arab and Israeli forces continued unabated today with Egyptian war planes streaking across the Suez canal to hit an Israeli outpost.

An Israeli spokesman said there were no casualties or damage in the raid on the waterway's northern sector.

A spokesman in Cairo said the planes strafed artillery positions and encampments in the area scoring "direct hits." He said all the planes returned safely.

The action followed Friday's violent land, sea and air engagements, in which two Israeli navy vessels were mined by Egyptian frogmen and an Egyptian ship was sunk by Israeli war planes.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Union accused Israel and the United States today of blocking a political solution to the Middle East conflict which it said could only be accomplished by "unconditional withdrawal" of Israeli troops from occupied territory.

An article in the official Communist party newspaper, Pravda, showed no weakening of Moscow's support of the Arabs.

Its publication followed U.S., British and French replies to Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin's note Monday on the Middle East. Kosygin is reported to have threatened increased Soviet military aid to the Arab states if Israel steps up hostilities.

Morally Wrong for Canada To Be Ally of U.S.--Camp

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian foreign policy is "idiotic," Dalton Camp, former Progressive Conservative national president, said Friday at a teach-in on Canadians at the University of Alberta.

Mr. Camp said it is morally wrong for Canada to be associated in its foreign policy "with a nation that would contemplate the use of nuclear weapons."

Chester Ronning, a retired diplomat who spent several years as a Canadian observer in China, contended Canada has been "fairly successful on occasions" in peace-keeping operations, but felt that perhaps the only hope for a lasting peace is the United Nations.

Andrew Brewin, NDP—Toronto Greenwood said "it is time for another revolution in Canadian foreign policy.

Canada should contribute at least two per cent of its gross national product to underdeveloped countries and devote less money to military alliances, he said.

Liberal Senator Paul Martin rejected the non-alignment statements of Mr. Camp and Mr. Brewin and said Canada "must share the burden of maintaining collective security" through organizations like NATO.

The United Nations is a cornerstone of Canadian foreign policy and the country is not dominated by the U.S. in its foreign policy development, Mr. Martin said.

Mott Plan Pioneer

Queen Vic School Taking on New Role in Community

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

One of Belleville's oldest schools has become the focus for new and vital community project.

Queen Victoria School on Pine Street, built in 1911, has been chosen to pioneer the newest concept in community living — use of the schools as neighborhood centres for all ages.

Within two weeks, the Mott plan of Flint, Michigan, will become a reality in Belleville, as old Queen Vic opens its doors to a men's evening activity hour Feb. 18.

In announcing the decision to open the school for neighborhood use, principal Donald Lockyer said the mini-Mott plan will begin with a small program designed to grow with its participants' demands.

"Anything offered here will be a reflection of the expressed desire of the people concerned," he said yesterday.

The transformation that Queen Victoria, hopefully will work on the city is based firmly on its 59-year-old tradition. It was chosen, its principal thinks, because the old school offers a traditional layout of spacious corridors and large basement rooms; because it sits in a balanced neighborhood with people of all ages and interests to draw upon; has a core population of second and third-generation graduates bound to their school by ties of affection and respect, and has existed long enough to have developed a strong home-school relationship.

Nucleus of the plan for community use of the school is a group of about 40 people living in its vicinity, led by three staff members: Mr. Lockyer, vice-principal Murray Workman and teacher Mrs. Helen Jones.

Vital to the launching of the mini-Mott project is Queen Vic's home and school association. Its president, Mrs. S. C. Skrill, wrote the first letter to Hastings county board of education, offering the school as a pilot project.

Later, the group of organizers was invited by the city's steering committee on recreation to determine what use would be made of the school facilities if they became available to the community.

Soon, interviewers will fan out into the streets surrounding the school. They will visit about 300 houses to interview families on their interest and willingness to participate in recreational and education programs. Grade 6 pupils at the school will deliver an explanatory flyer to every household.

The questionnaire is designed to discover the number of people interested in activities grouped into four categories: cultural (drama, art, crafts); athletics (volleyball, jogging, badminton, table tennis); social (lounge area, cards, square dancing) and academic (speed reading, report writing).

The interviewers also hope to mine the neighborhood for buried talent they can put to use in directing, instructing and supervising the programs.

Under the Mott plan, elementary schools become the hub of the community, used in the afternoons and evening by all ages from infants to pensioners. The schools are open from about 8 a.m. until midnight — in service for everything from well-baby clinics to senior citizens' lounges.

"Until now, we have used our schools inefficiently," noted Mr. Workman. "They sit here after four o'clock every day of the year, warm and spacious, but empty and dark."

To one member of the pilot group organizing the project, the Mott plan is a familiar fact masquerading under a new name. An Estonian, he told Mr. Lockyer that the schools in his homeland have always been used as community centres.

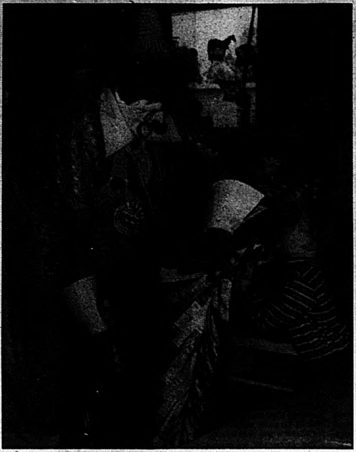
"Because we were such a poor country, we couldn't afford the luxury of keeping our schools closed after classes," he said.

Another member of the group, from England, remarked that schools there meet the social and recreational needs of young people, married and unmarried, in the 18 to 30 age group.

"This is the most neglected group in our city," declared Mr. Workman. "We serve the extremes, the very young and the very old, but there is nothing in Belleville for the young person after he graduates from school."

Community involvement at Queen Victoria means just that. Active in the pilot group organizing the programs is the school's custodial staff, whose members have come up with suggestions for discussion sessions and the cross guard, a native of Flint and an enthusiast for the Mott plan.

And linking the past and the future of Queen Victoria are its principal and vice-principal. Both Mr. Workman and Mr. Lockyer took their elementary schooling in the institution they are leading into a new era of educational ferment.



Nursery Entertainment

Family clown, Red Barney, representing Belleville's new Red Barn, arrived at the Belleville Day Nursery this morning where he entertained some of the city's younger audiences of humor.

Prompt Payment of Claims Depends on Accurate Data

Co-operation by claimants in providing the proper information will do much to speed up payment of claims by the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

This has been emphasized by J. L. Stevens, regional director of the UIC at Belleville who says that failure to submit claims promptly, omission of Christian names, proper addresses and the name and address of the last employer are all reasons for possible delays in claimant cheques.

As an indicaton of the volume of work being processed Mr. Stevens said the Regional office, during the month of January, this year paid out $18 million in benefits to Ontario residents.

This compares with $9 million for the same period in 1968.

Workers on claim at the end of January totalled 189,240 as compared with 156,722 a year ago.

But despite the increased number of claimants, claims are being processed faster this year with 97.5 per cent being ready for payment in the third week of the month.

To assist in meeting the January work load 637 casual workers were employed throughout the region — about the same number as last year. All offices are working overtime and some even have night shifts.

The Belleville payment centre is producing claimants' cheques and despatching them to the post office th[illegible] day reports are received, while the post office is giving every assistance to expedite the delivery of cheques.

"We are having problems with a small percentage of claims because of incomplete information supplied by the claimants," Mr. Stevens said. "In some cases the employers are responsible for not forwarding contribution records."

Mr. Stevens said the onus was on the claimant to obtain his contribution records from the employer when he or she is laid off.

The regional director said 85 per cent of employers are now on what is known as the bulk payment plan whereby stamp books are no longer in use by claimants. This accentuates the need for the contribution slip records. Weekly deductions are needed to calculate the weekly benefits to be paid to claimants.

British Musicians Coming As Festival Adjudicators

Entrants for this year's Rotary Music Festival will have their performances judged by two leading British musicians, Ranken Bushby and Sidney Harrison.

The festival is being held over a four-day period, Feb. 24 - 27. This represents an extra day — a measure of the success of last year's initial three-day presentation.

RANKEN BUSHBY

Entries total more than 400, including many from outside the city.

Born in the Tyneside village of Chopwell, Mr. Bushby studied mining engineering at King's College, Newcastle-on-Tyne. An accident prevented him from pursuing this career, and already an established amateur singer he decided to take up singing professionally.

Today, in addition to being professor of singing at the Royal College of Music he is a leading concert artist, appearing regularly on BBC television and radio.

In 1960 he was invited to organize singing tuition at the newly formed music department of Colchester technical college. From an initial five students the department now has more than 70.

As a youngster, Sidney Harrison displayed an early gift for the piano, appearing at Queen's Hall at the age of 13. In his early twenties he was the youngest professor at the Guildhall of Music and Drama.

During the war Mr. Harrison was a conductor and concert pianist in between his civil defence duties. Well-known in Britain for his television and radio lecture-recitals, he has also published books on music and piano technique.

Mr. Harrison has been to Canada twice as an adjudicator. As well as piano, he also judges strings and vocal classes.

Women Can Take Home Nursing Course

A home nursing course is again being offered Belleville women by the Red Cross.

Consisting of two-hour sessions every Tuesday night for 12 weeks, the course is being given at Education Hall, Belleville General Hospital. Starting time is 7.30 p.m.

Enrolment was Feb. 3, but openings are still available for girls and women of all ages interested in learning the techniques of home nursing.

All aspects of home nursing will be taught by the registered nurse instructors, Mrs. Joyce D. Badgley and Mrs. Marion McGee.

Baby care, poison control, nutrition, pre-natal and post-natal care and emergency delivery are among the topics covered.

Following the examination at the end of the course, certificates and pins will be awarded at an achievement day.

The enrolment fee, including cost of the textbook, is two dollars. Mrs. Joan Young, in charge of registration, welcomes queries at 962-0960.

Teachers Discuss Physical Education

PICTON — Participating in professional development day 25 secondary school teachers from Belleville, Trenton, Napanee, Bancroft and Picton discussed programs in physical education at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute Friday. All regular classes were cancelled at PECI during the presentation of slides and lectures concerning physical education. Three visiting teachers addressed 'fellow students' yesterday morning to examine physical education from new standpoints. Gordon Smith, a physical education instructor from Moira secondary school reviewed innovations in teaching this subject in health and physical education activities.

A camping trip taken by Belleville's Moira Secondary School students last June was discussed and illustrated with slides. Brian MacKenzie, also a teacher from Moira described certain changes in their health program. Napanee instructor Lorne Verbioff spoke of a system of options his school has implemented experimentally in the grade 11 and grade 12 physical education program.

Special speaker from the Albion Hills Conservation Society, John Passmore addressed the teachers in an afternoon program focusing on conservation, outdoor education and orienteering. Head of the physical education dept. at PECI, Joseph Scott, explained 'orienteering' as an outdoo activity comparable to a sports car rally on foot. He added that it represents a new activity involving the use of a compass and maps. Participating runners are given maps and compasses and work against time to cover relatively rough terrain.

Mr. Passmore outlined various systems of such a program and explained how each could be adapted to physical education classes. His address concluded the afternoon program at Prince Edward Collegiate's professional development day presentation.

IN MEMORIAM

STAPLEY — In loving memory of Craig Stapley, who died one year ago.

From our happy home and circle,
God had taken one we loved,
Borne away from sin and sorrow,
To a nobler rest above.
No one knows how we miss him,
None but aching hearts can tell:
Lost on earth, but found in Heaven,
Jesus doeth all things well.

—Sadly missed Grandmother and grandfather Kenneth Loft.

BALDWIN — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother away 2 years ago today, Feb. 7, 1968.

Softly the leaves of memory fall,
Gently, I gather, treasure them all,
Some may forget now that you're gone,
But I will remember no matter how long.
I mention your name and speak of you often,
God bless you dear mother you are not forgotten.
Beautiful memories woven in gold,
This is the picture I tenderly hold,
Deep in my heart your memory is kept,
To love, to cherish and never forget.
The tears in my eyes, I can wipe away,
The ache in my heart will always stay.

—Lovingly remembered by daughter Ruth and son-in-law Jim and grandchildren Steven and Rose Marie.

BROOKS — In loving memory of a dear, loving husband and father George Charles, who passed away Feb. 7th, 1963.

God saw you getting weary,
So He did what He saw best,
He came and stood beside you
And whispered, come and rest.
You wished no one a last farewell
Nor even said good-bye,
You were gone before we knew it
And only God knows why.

—Lovingly remembered by wife Daisy and family.

ELLIOTT — In loving memory of a dear sister, Nettie M. Elliott, who passed away suddenly Feb. 7, 1969. Also, a dear brother-in-law, James Alfred Elliott, who accidentally drowned on July 30, 1965.

"They live with us in memory."

—Sadly missed by sisters Clara Flatt, Helen Chisholm.

MARTIN — In loving memory of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Martin who both passed away, February 7, 1968.

The faces we loved are now laid low,
Their loving voices are still,
Their hands so often clasped in mine,
Lie now in death's cold chill.
We often sit and think of them,
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing,
That grief can call its own.

—Lovingly remembered by their daughter Beatrice Westlake and son-in-law George Westlake.

BROOKS — In loving memory of our dear brother George, who passed away February 7th, 1963.

What we would give if we could say,
Hello George in the same old way,
To hear your voice, see your smile,
To sit with you and chat awhile,
We who loved you, sadly miss you,
As it dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever near.

—Sadly missed by sisters, Kitty of Toronto and Dorothy of Dartmouth, N.S.

TERRY — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mabel Terry, who passed away, Feb. 8, 1968.

What would I not give to clasp her hand,
Her dear sweet face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
That meant so much to me.

—Never forgotten by daughter Fern and son-in-law Archie and family.

TERRY — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mabel who passed away, Feb. 8, 1968.

Years of striving, little of play,
Loving, giving, the whole of the way,
A cherished smile, a heart of gold,
To the dearest mother a world could hold.
Happy memories, fond and true,
From us who thought the world of you.

—Always remembered by daughter Mary, son-in-law Eugene Tracey and family.

IN MEMORIAM

ELLIOTT — In loving memory of a dear friend and neighbor, Nettie Mae Elliott, who passed away Feb. 7, 1969.

Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears in silence often flow,
For memory keeps you ever near us,
Though you died one year ago.

—Sadly missed by Ralph, Helen, David and Steven Sine.

BURKITT — Treasured memories of our only son Doug Burkitt, who passed away Feb. 7, 1968.

Since you've gone first and we remain,
One thing we'd have you do,
Walk slowly down the path of death,
For soon we will follow you,
We want to know each step you take,
That we may walk the same,
For some day down that lonely road,
You'll hear us call your name.

—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Mom and Dad.

VANCLIEF — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother Elizabeth Vanclief who went to rest on Feb. 7, 1969.

You bade no one a last farewell,
Nor even said goodbye,
You were gone before we knew it,
And only God knows why.

—Always remembered by Lena, Gerald and families.

BURKITT — In loving memory of my dear husband, Doug Burkitt, who passed away, February 7th, 1968.

The world may change from year to year,
And friend from day to day,
But never will the one I loved,
From memory pass away.

—Never forgotten by wife Betty.

Three young participants in last night's Winter Carnival activities, Kimmberly and Judi Lynn Gilbert and Kevin Stafford had an audience with the Carnival Queen, Bonnie Branigan from Point Anne.

Early Morning Celebrant

Wading into a pancake breakfast at the Legion Hall this morning was five-year-old Allan Bunnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bunnett of Belleville. The lad joined the crowd opening the first full day of Winter Carnival activities at the breakfast sponsored by Club Alouette.

Carnival Spirit Moves Outdoors

Belleville's first annual Winter Carnival rolled off to an enthusiastic start last night with a torchlight parade wending its way through the heart of the city.

And of course the mood was "carnival" all the way.

A good crowd of Bellevillians turned out to join in the fun and to watch their city's first winter carnival get off the ground.

Along with more than 100 torches to light the way, the parade pushed off from Church and Station streets, proceeded down Front St. and culminated in front of the Belleville Arena.

Winter Carnival committee officials termed the parade a "tremendous success" and indicated they were pleased at the good turnout.

"We are delighted at the success of the parade, and particularly the number of Bellevillians who came out to watch and participate in their winter carnival," said one committee official.

Service clubs and other city organizations had floats in the parade, with members of the carnival committee riding a Model T Ford driven by Ald. Gerald Joyce, on behalf of the Mayor.

The Snow Queen and her two princesses rode atop their own float waving at an enthusiastic crowd of well-wishers lining Front St.

Torches were carried by members of the Kinsmen Club, as well as players on the local minor hockey teams.

Parade Marshal Peter Clinkard led the procession to the front of the Belleville arena where teams lined up for the barrel rolling contest.

Winners of the first two heats of the contest will face off again for the finals today at the Belleville Plaza at 2 p.m.

"The crowd was good and the weather was just great—as if it were made to order," Mrs. Joan Kells. "We are hoping for increased enthusiasm for today's events and those scheduled for Sunday afternoon at Zwick's Island."

Events for today include a fishing derby, skiing events at Oak Hills, snowmobile rides at Zwick's Island and a hockey game in which the Belleville Firefighters will face off against a team made up of secondary school teachers.

Dr. Walters Well Known In City

DR. CHARLES HENRY AUSTIN WALTERS

Well-known Belleville doctor and family physician, Dr. Charles Henry Austin Walters, 231 John Street, died Friday in Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto.

Born in the city and a lifetime resident of Belleville, Dr. Walters was the son of the former Josephine Austin and the late Charles Walters

A member of the Medical Corps during World War II, Dr. Walters served with the Carleton-York First Division in England, Italy, and in Northwest Europe. He was in charge of army hospitals in both Sicily and in France. He held the rank of major and following the war acted as medical officer for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

He remembered army associations and never missed Remembrance Day dinners.

An ardent sports enthusiast, Dr. Walters had a particular interest in baseball and hockey. He was a member of Moira Lodge No. 11 AF and AM, and was a director of The Belleville Club.

Besides his mother, Dr. Walters is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Gertrude Chant, sons Douglas Austin Walters, Toronto, and Thomas Chant Walters of Belleville, and two daughters, Mrs. Leonard (Nancy Jane) McDougall of Ottawa, and Miss Dorothy Kate Walters of Belleville. There are four grandchildren. One son Joseph Charles Walters predeceased him.

The funeral will be held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Monday with service in the chapel conducted by Rev. Peter Tett of St. Thomas Church. Interment Belleville Cemetery.

Piasecki Would Rent Plant Space

PICTON (Staff) — Resident representative here for Piasecki Aircraft Walter Symmons, says several Canadian companies have enquired about establishing manufacturing branches in some of the helicopter company's Picton - owned buildings.

Two of these firms, said Mr. Symmons are not connected with the aircraft industry. A German firm which does much of its business by air, demonstrated interest in locating here because of the available hangars and runway.

"We have more space than we can possibly use at the present time and it would be a good idea to lease it," noted Mr. Symmons.

He stressed that tool manufacturers and companies involved with plating would be welcome tenants at Piasecki Aircraft, Picton branch.

Speaking generally of the local attitude concerning Piasecki, Mr. Symmons remarked:

"I am trying to get these people to take an interest for example, in the development of an airport."

Carnival Court

Robert Innes gives Carnival Queen Bonnie Branigan a hand in descending from her throne on the float that carried her in the parade last night. With her are princesses Nancy Dillon from OSD and Lois Watts from Albert College.

The Canadian Funeral
Useless tradition
for the dead...
or useful therapy
for the living?

In an age of change and challenge it is healthy to re-examine traditions . . . to appraise whether they are useless relics of the past or have become customs because they serve human needs.

What about the traditional Canadian funeral?

Beyond providing the dignity of a proper burial certainly it can do nothing for the person whose life is ended.

According to leaders in medicine, psychology, sociology and religion, the funeral ceremony does a great deal, however, for those whose lives go on. The bereaved family. Their friends. Their close circles in the community.

One thing it does is to help those who grieve accept the reality of death. They know it happened. But a part of their mind rejects it, runs away from it.

Money Isn't Everything.

In a country like Britain it is still considered impolite in most circles to discuss money matters openly.

Perhaps it is just that the humanities, including a host of offbeat social activities — the sort of thing you see advertised in the personal column of The Times — tend to blot out the driving materialism that is such a feature of life here.

It gives the British a cultural edge too, albeit with overtones of eccentricity not found on this continent where the "money talks" concept is omnipotent.

Perhaps there is hope, though, for a new generation here, which without having to go hippie, or embrace the contemporary group living cult of some, feels there is more to life than money and possessions, a big home and two cars in the garage.

Like with people of the calibre of Madeleine Boscoe, a 17-year-old high school girl who recently attended a two-day trade and industrial development conference in Vancouver. She had seen an invitation in a newspaper to "participate" in the conference.

Her main impression was that "everything centres all the time on money. Everybody is so money-minded. What really surprised me was that people would come right out and say that they're in business to make money . . . I somehow thought they would be more subtle about it."

Yes Madeleine — that's the way it is in this country; and it is what has made us the people we are, Still, remember that we have a growing culture too, an increasing artistic awareness, a greater realization of the intangibles. We have poets and painters, writers and creative people in a host of other fields.

Such people are necessary to help us cultivate those inner resources that have nothing to do with money and which help a man stand in the evil day, when money may be scarce — and one day perhaps, valueless — if inflation is carried to its ultimate date with recession.

Glimpse of Holland

The most beautiful city in the world? Many a great metropolis could lay claim to this accolade, and all to some degree would be right.

If you are a Dutchman, Amsterdam would be top of the list, and Robert Brouwer's superb camera shots of the city, in the Kiwanis Club's current travel series, are a measure of the pride the Hollander takes in this metropolis and in his country.

At night the clean lines and tidy appearance of this city of canals assume a more dramatic aspect under floodlights, as if to match the color of the day in the dazzling rows of tulips in the parks. For all the level terrain of Holland, the overriding impression, captured by this film, was the clear atmosphere, contrasts of light and shade from buildings and trees, and the sense of orderliness for which the Dutch are renowned.

In Rotterdam there were scenes of renewal in the downtown area about which municipalities in Canada argue endlessly but which in the Dutch city are a reality — shopping mall, sidewalk restaurants and all the rest of it. But then the centre of Rotterdam was devastated by bombing during the last war and there is no more startling incentive to rebuild than that. How long though, without such awesome prodding, must we wait in Canada before our smaller cities can achieve such architectural perfection?

And those parks, in Amsterdam, with their tulips — the glory of which Mr. Brouwer gave full justice with his background musical setting of Massenet's Meditations from Thais — who would not be proud of such a spectacle?

How many know, incidentally, that tulips were introduced into Europe from Turkey during the latter half of the 16th century, to achieve their greatest perfection in Holland?

Postal Troika

Now Russia is worried about its mail service, which puts it in the same league as the United States (one of the world's most inefficient) and Canada.

The newspaper Literaturnaya Gazeta says mail delivery was faster before the revolution. It calls for the introduction of automation and even stoops to suggesting methods in use overseas might be adopted. Perhaps the U.S., Canada and Russia should hold a postal summit conference on how to speed the mails. Postal officials might be surprised by what they learn.

The Russians would call such a meeting a "troika," and the delegates from the three countries could drown each other's sorrows on vodka, bourbon and rye!

No More Extras to Pay Off Loans

At Last—Parliament (Or P.M.?) Places Curbs on CBC Budget

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — After all these many, many years of escalating extravagance in the CBC, a magic formula has been found — or perhaps only re-discovered — to stop the wild overspending.

Year after indulgent year, Parliament, apparently helpless to curb the steep climb of CBC self-propelled costs, has voted it more and more money.

Last year the increase was a relatively modest $15,000,000 — from $151,000,000 to $166,000,000.

Parliament in angry frustration routinely protested the eve rising cost-of-CBC-living, and just as routinely provided the funds.

But no more.

Prime Minister Trudeau has found a way at last — a simple if almost magic device — of bringing big-spending CBC to financial heel.

How, pray, has the impossible been accomplished?

Nothing more difficult or complicated than telling CBC it will have this-many-dollars to spend and, they better believe it, that is all. Not a nickel more.

And you should hear them moan and groan out at CBC executive headquarters here over the agony of it all.

No longer can happy-go-doll-r-lucky CBC gaily spend whatever it fancies and then go laughing all the way to the federal Treasury for more of the taxpayers' money.

And this comes as a dreadful shock to its bosses.

Just listen to CBC President George Davidson weeping tears of corporate poverty the other day in Parliament's Public Accounts Committee.

He was lamenting how absolutely miserable CBC financial life had become since the Prime Minister cut him off at the Treasury pass.

Used to be, explained George Davidson with charming candor, that when the CBC needed money to repay its loans to Parliament, all it had to do was ask the House of Commons for a few more milions.

Simple as that. Ask and ye shall receive, at least if you are the CBC.

The publicly-owned broadcasting corporation which often specializes in displaying its contempt for its owners — Parliament and the public — operates chiefly on an annual grant from the Commons.

But although the grant always increases — never once in all the years, decreasing — it is often not enough, and so CBC has had to borrow.

From the government.

These CBC loans, like most other borrowings, have to be repaid.

And in the past, when the time has come to pay up on the loan, the CBC has only had to ask Parliament for the required money in a bigger budget to write off the debt.

Wonderful system, what?

Like asking the bank to give you the cash to pay off your loan to it.

Truly, life can be beautiful, if you are the CBC.

Except this year.

The Prime Minister, hard of heart and hard of head, having had enough of this wonderful fiancial nonsense, has ruled the CBC — like any other federal agency — must keep within its budget.

And if it finds that some of its past loans from the government are due for repayment, then do not come crying to Parliament for the customary handout, but take it out of the CBC budget.

But with that budget "frozen" the CBC faces the horrible truth that it can not get the money to repay those loans by the easy-come-easy-go process of asking Parliament to sweeten the budget pot.

"It means," cried CBC President Davidson, "that we have to 'squeeze' it out of what we have."

What they have is that $166,000,000 given them by Parliament, and what they must squeeze' out of it is $11,000,000.

It also means they have to economize and try to get by on $155,000,000 instead of their budgeted $166,000,000.

There is some fine print to all this CBO financing, but that is the broad arithmetic of it.

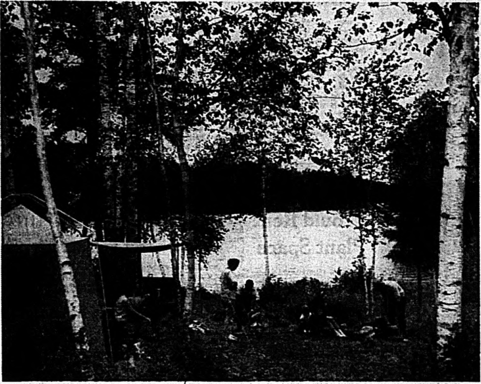
When it came to getting "extra" money — over and above the annual parliamentary grant — allowed President Davidson, he would much prefer a straight government gift to a loan. Like naturally.

"The way it is now," he sorrowed, "the system has a restraining influence on the CBC."

How about that!

"That is the greatest argument I ever heard," Public Accounts Committee member Norman Cafix, Liberal MP for Ontario, told him, "for not giving grants to the CBC. Anything, like loans instead of grants, that will save money, will be welcome indeed to the Canadian taxpayer."

You can say that again, Norman Cafix, again and again and agin.



We are still in the grip of an old-fashioned winter — but we can still dream. And here is a picture that reminds us of summer days to come. The quiet surface of the lake beyond the campsite belies the name of the location — Rushing River provincial park at Kenora — but one way or another the mood is tranquil, with city dwellers escaping for a little while the ceaseless round of urban activity.

Bertrand Russell—A Life of Genius

Ottawa Journal

Bertrand Russell was a paradox. He tried to make philosophy the handmaiden of science, so as to illuminate it. Thus he based his system of thought on the cold objectivity of mathematics. He would have banned from philosophy all its concern with ethical considerations, which originated with Plato. In Russell's philosophy, dogma and mysticism were to have no place.

Yet he had his own mysticism, a noble one which harked back to the Eighteenth century philosophers in that he believed in the inherent perfectibility of man.

His pioneer work with Whitehead in symbolic logic, "Principles of Mathematics," marked him as a great mind. If one were to stab for the essence of his outlook, it might be in his statement: "William James used to preach the 'will to believe.' For my part, I should wish to preach the 'will to doubt' . . . What is wanted is not the will to believe, but the wish to find out, which is the exact opposite."

That atitude was in the tradition of his ancestors and other English radical aristocrats: it made him not only philosopher and mathematician, but journalist and agitator, ready for jail (one ancestor was beheaded) for his beliefs. They were a great but bygone breed.

Montreal Gazette

"Don't trust anybody over 30," and "Anything that happened before Chicago is ancient history," are,, we are told, two of the favorite slogans of today's youth. The measure of the greatness of Bertrand Russell, who died at his home in Wales this week, is that he was not only well known but highly respected by the youth of most countries of the world — and he was almost 100 years old.

A rebel from his youth, a champion of a long series of unpopular causes, Lord Russell brought a brilliant mind, a mathematician's logic and a facile writing skill to the causes he championed. And his last, greatest cause, since the beginning of the nuclear age in 1945, was the abolition of war.

Not only was he on of the first to see the danger of national suicide in man's acceptance of the new development as "just another weapon," he was the first to organize and to lead nationwide and world-wide public protests to press his views on world governments.

And he believed that any war, of any size, carries with it the threat of expanding into a nuclear war.

The reason why he gained a multitude of youthful disciples around the world is obvious. This week, they may be remembering some Russell phrases:

"We will not tolerate the incineration of human beings because governments are occupied with idiotic matters of prestige." The world must "replace the present futile competition, from which nothing but catastrophe can result."

Peterborough Examiner

Russell knew much unhappiness in youth. As a little boy of five he reflected that should he live to be 70, then he had endured one fourteenth of his whole life. The rest stretched out as intolerable boredom. A remarkable thought for one so young and undoubtedly a sign of the astonishing brilliance of his mind, for this world is often unbearable for the intelligent. His favorite hymn as a child was "Weary of earth and laden with sin".

In adolescence, Russell was so bored with life that had he not been fascinated with mathematics, he later admitted, he would have committed suicide.

A lonely and unhappy boyhood, a miserable youth, three divorces and four marriages did not deter him from becoming a philosopher and remaining one. A sensible view would be that these were excellent qualifications, if only for telling people how not to live their lives.

Russell did not confine himself to that. In many books he told people how to live their lives positively, rationally and happily. Since his views were often at variance with the social mores of his times, particularly when he advocated trial marriage, and a Rousseau-like upbringing for the young which included boarding school boys and girls taking a bath in the same tub at the same time, it is not surprising that he infuriated millions.

Manitoba's 'Socialist' Money

Winnipeg Free Press

Transport Minister Joe Borowski's remarks about the Mid Canada Development Conference, as reported from Thompson, are interesting.

The conference is investigating the development of the North. So far there have been few, if any, political overtones in its discussions. However, Mr. Borowski is reported as saying: "I'll tell you one thing they can do . . . If they want our tainted socialist money to work with and then have the gall to think we'll give it to capitalists, they can shove it."

That sounds sufficiently like Mr. Borowski's style of conversation to be an accurate report of what he said. His listeners will note that he was honest enough to say "socialist" money, not "social democratic" money or any other sugar-coated adjective.

But what "socialist money" is Mr. Borowski talking about? He can only mean money that the provincial government has at its disposal. This money comes from all Manitoba taxpayers — many of whom are anything but socialist. But, by Mr. Borowski's lights, once the government gets its hands on it, it becomes "socialist" money.

Interesting.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Tribute to Howard Green

Ottawa Journal

Howard Green has been away for seven years, removed by the electors from the House of Commons, but a lot of Ottawa people in spirit attended the testimonial dinner given him in Vancouver the other day.

Howard Green, Public Works minister and then External External Affairs secretary in the Diefenbaker Government, was an uncompromising man, non-drinking, non-smoker and apt to judge a changing world by the stern standards of the 54th Kootenay Battalion in which he served in the First World War. He may have been the last of the puritans in the House of Commons. But it is hard to think of a puritan winning the affection Howard Green secured, even when as the newly - appointed Minister of Public Works he was telling Conservatives that patronage was out, right out, and being a Tory wasn't going to help anyone get anything from Ottawa.

Perhaps it was his sense of hunor that made Howard Green esteemed in Ottawa for 28 years. This ensured he would enjoy a tribute written for him by a B.C. Grade [illegible] student, Theresa Marciniuk, [illegible] an essay contest:

"Howard Green, Vancouver's gaunt and rough - hewn ambassador was one of the finest men to enter Parliament. He worshipped Prime Minister Diefenbaker and brought a new honesty into the Public Works Department. Later in External Affairs, he was far outside his depth, and his honorable stubborn resistance to nuclear weapons planted them invisibly in the vitals of the party machine for future explosion."

Press Club Bars Women

Brantford Expositer

The all-male National Press Club of Ottawa has predictably received a bad press as a result of a majority decision to exclude female members.

A private club, male or female, is entitled to determine the make-up of its membership. But where men and women follow the same profession and even work for the same paper, it seems to be carrying exclusiveness a little far to segregate press club membership by sex. Are the male writers afraid that the women will be taking notes about their behaviour with a view to reporting it in other quarters? Maybe, having [illegible] come accustomed to look up[illegible] female reporters as people who work for the women's page, despite the number of women now covering general beats, a majority of the all - male Ottawa club membership considers them inferior.

It would be ironic if the National Press Club rejection of women were voted the top news story of the week, or if Senator Davey decided to have his committe investigate this display on his own doorstep of press monopoly.

U.S. Theological Seminaries Overhaul Training for Priests

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Faced with a serious dropoff in candidates for the priesthood, Roman Catholic theological seminaries in the United States are overhauling training methods to replace rote conformity with personal initiative.

"The priesthood is no longer a status symbol," says Rev. Louis Putz, a member of the French resistance against the Nazi oc- Second World War.

"Today's priest must be involved—he must have a specialty. He has to be a good pastoral man, a good financier or a good writer, for example. And, above all, he must be able to relate to people. The priesthood is not an ivory tower. It will no longer protect men who can't fit these criteria."

Moreau seminary, which Putz heads, has instituted academic and personal training programs which stress maturity for aspirants to the priesthood.

To this end, smaller, so-called minor seminaries, which formerly took in candidates as they entered high school, are being eliminated. The emphasis now is on attracting college graduates who will receive a master's degree in theology on completion of four years of seminary study.

"In the old days, we would take in applicants for the priesthood and keep them all through high school, then through four four years of theology—a total of 12 long years," Putz explains.

"I call that brainwashing.

"Here at Moreau, we encour- other than just theology. We have a joint program with the university law school, for example, to offer courses to candidates for the priesthood."

The atmosphere at Moreau, founded by the Holy Cross Order which established Notre Dame University 128 years ago, is informal, almost casual.

"Training in a seminary in former days was all based on conformity to the system," says Putz. "It was based on a monastic system but that's all out now. If a man wants to become a monk, OK. But candidates for the priesthood should not have to go through a monastic experience to become men of action.

"What we are aiming for now is a true graduate program, one where there is freedom of action. Students here decide their own personal style of life.

"I think this is the coming thing. You can't stop it. More and more, personal decisions are coming to be recognized."

For all is progressive outlook, Moreau, like other seminaries, feels the pinch created by a shortage of applicants.

The seminary has 88 students, which once housed 200.

At the core of the shortage, Putz acknowledges, is the issue of celibacy. He thinks this eventually will be modified.

For candidates who plan to go into parish or diocesan work without joining a formal religious order, such as Holy Cross or the Jesuits, celibacy often creates a major stumbling block, Putz believes.

The formal orders attract those men who are prepared to take all the vows prescribed by the church, including that of celibacy.

"The diocesan clergy is made up of people who want to be priests so they have to vow celibacy, too," says Putz. "But I think we will eventually have these men."

The bride is the former Dawne Anne Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Clarke, Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray McLennan of Corbyville. Rev. Roy Vessey officiated at the ceremony.

High Commissioner for Guyana Outstanding West Indies' Woman

CASTRIES, St. Lucia (CP) — Women are taking a prominent place in all facets of public life in the emerging Commonwealth Caribbean states. They are also prominent in professions such as law, medicine, and education, in social work, journalism, and the theatre, and in businesses—often inherited.

Many such women come from prominent and well-to-do families able to provide a good education; others have risen by scholastic ability and scholarships.

One of the outstanding women in the West Indies is Winifred Gaskin, recently appointed high commissioner for Guyana to the Associated States. Prior to this appointment she was chairman of the People's National Congress, the party now in power, and served as minister of education in the Forbes Burnham government.

Born in 1916, the daughter of two chool teachers, she was educated in Guyana, taught for a while in local schools and took a course in journalism. She is married to Berkley Gaskin, deputy registrar of the Supreme Court.

Another prominent woman is Senator Verna Mercedea Critchlow, recently appointed high commissioner for Trinidad-Tobago to the Associated States. Prior to this appointment Senator Critchlow was parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Eric Williams, and acted as his public relations officer. In addition she has been active in social work as well as in the Peoples National Movement, the party in power. Born in 1923, she is married to Albert Barkart Critchlow.

Dame Hilda Bynoe became first governor of Grenada after that island became a member of the Associated States in 1967, and the first woman governor in the Commonwealth. She is the daughter of T. J. Gibbs, the former administrator of Grenada.

Born in Grenada in 1921, she received her medical degree from the University of London in 1951 and served as a medical officer in Trinidad-Tobago, Guyana and Grenada before entering private practice in Trinidad in 1965. In 1947 she married Peter C. A. Bynoe, an architect and former Royal Air Force officer.

In addition to Mrs. Gaskin of Guyana, several have become cabinet ministers, including Isabel Teshea, minister of housing in the Trinidad-Tobago government and Mabel James, minister of home affairs in Dominica.

Janet Jagan, the Chicago-born wife of the controversial Dr. Cheddi Jagan, served as a minister in her husband's cabinet in British Guiana before it became independent Guyana under the Burnham administration in 1966.

Women also have become senators—generally appointed by the government—and members of the local assemblies. Among the senators are Esme Grant and Elsie Bailey in Jamaica, Lucky Samaroo and Kalawatee Permanand in Trinidad-Tobago, and Hazaline O. Gitten in Barbados. There are about 10 assembly members in the islands.

Other West Indian women have taken an active part in politics as wives of politicians. One of the most distinguished of these is Edna Manley, widow of Norman Manley, first prime minister of Jamaica after independence in 1962. Apart from her political activities, Mrs. Manley is an outstanding sculptor and has exhibited in Europe.

Perhaps the best-known non-West Indian woman in Caribbean public life for many years has been Princess Alice, widow of the Earl of Athlone, former governor-general of Canada.

Club Activities

NEIGHBORS' AID

2ND THURLOW — The Neighbors' Aid held its monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon at the hall with 24 members and visitors present.

President, Mrs. Robert Atkins was in charge and welcomed the gathering. Secretary, Mrs. Sam Peoples read the minutes of the previous meeting and several thank-you cards received from those who were sent cards, fruit or gifts while ill.

A short business period ensued at which time it was decided to hold a potluck dinner and quilting on Feb. 18 with Mrs. Harry Thomson as hostess. A euchre was also planned for Feb. 20.

Guest of the meeting, Mrs. Boldrick showed a number of slides on a recent trip to the east coast.

Mrs. Atkins expressed thanks to Mrs. Boldrick and on behalf of the group presented her with a gift.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Sam Peoples, Mrs. R. Atkins and Miss Sara Stickney.

• • •

Mrs. Gene Stratton, Mrs. Robert Atkins and Mrs. Douglas Atkins convened the group's euchre party on Friday evening with nine tables in play. Prize winners were: Mrs. Gene Stratton, Mrs. Charles Wood and low, Donna Hoskins; Raymond Higgins, Walter Way and low, Brian Whalen. Door prize was won by Mrs. Scott.

Snow Queen Is Chosen

DESERONTO — Jackie Thompson, 18, was chosen snow queen to reign over the Deseronto "Spirit of Winter" carnival in Deseronto over the weekend. Her majesty is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Thompson. She is a hairdresser in Napanee.

A very close second was Virginia (Mrs. Clifford) Maracle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klaver of Deseronto, natives of Holland.

Third place went to Gail Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Fraser.

Each of the nine other contestants had some outstanding feature.

Mrs. Bernice (Bert) Asselstine and Mrs. Marie (Herb) Knuth were the other judges. All three are from Napanee, and were active in such activities as this one during Centennial year.

The Legion hall was packed for the occasion; master of ceremonies was Earl Murphy. Each contestant appeared in outdoor costume and again in evening dress. Points were given for general appearance, poise, inner fire or animation and answers given. Each had to answer several questions.

The event was marred by the fact that Mrs. Dorothy McCullough, chairman of the committee for the contest, was not present. She had been in a car accident on her way back from Belleville and was under observation in the Belleville General Hospital.

Church Groups

FREE METHODIST WMS

MARMORA — The home of Rev. and Mrs. W. A. McMillan was the scene of the Free Methodist Women's Missionary Society meeting on Feb. 1 at 10.30 a.m. The president, Mrs. Ritchie Wells, was in the chair.

An editorial in the Missionary Tidings entitled "What I Am and What I Think I Am" was read by Mrs. Everett Derry. Mrs. McMillan, stewardship secretary, checked on prayer calls activities and reminded members of their secret prayer partners and stewardship pledges.

An interesting and enlightening talk was given by the pastor's wife. As she opened her imaginary box of treasures, she held up a bundle of "precious memories" which she shared with members. The next package contained the "opportunities" which had been presented to her down life's pathway. The next bundle contained the "friends" whom she had made through the years. The last treasure to be held up, bright and shining, was "hope," and anchor for the soul, then "Jesus as Savior," the greatest treasure for all mankind.

In the absence of the treasurer, Mrs. Jones gave the treasurer's report.

Lunch was served by the hostess and an hour of fellowship followed.

UCW MEETINGS

PLAINFIELD UNIT

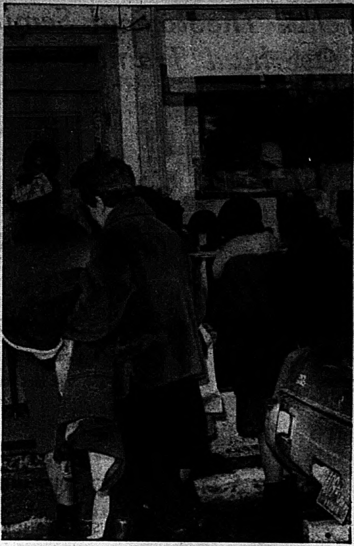
PLAINFIELD — Mrs. Clayton Hall was hostess for the February meeting of the Plainfield unit of Roslin UCW and leader Mrs. Grant Kerr opened the meeting in the usual manner.

Mrs. Frank Hodgen took charge of devotions with the theme based on "Reconciliation". Bible readings were given by Mrs. Rowe; also by Mrs. Harrison who also supplied accompanying music on the accordion.

Business discussions centred around the banquet to be catered to, at the Masonic Temple in Belleville on Feb. 4 and members were reminded of the Presbyterial annual meeting in Napanee on Feb. 4 and 5.

Mrs. Arnold Dilts was in charge of the topic on "Alienation and Reconciliation". After some thought-provoking passages were read, a lively discussion followed.

The president closed the meeting. Lunch was served by the hostess and a social half hour was enjoyed.



Line Up for 'Petticoat Lane'

Shoppers line up on Murphy Street in Trenton Friday afternoon waiting to enter "Petticoat Lane" at the opening of the Trenton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary's "good-as-new" store. An auxiliary spokesman said that the store was well stocked with contributions and Friday afternoon and evening it was full of customers.

Commissioner Attends Brownie Enrolment

1st BAYSIDE BROWNIE PACK

WHITE'S DISTRICT — Madam Commissioner Broughm attended the meeting of 1st. Bayside brownie pack on Wednesday evening, Feb. 4 at Bayside School where she gave the brownies their golden hands and one brownie her golden bar. She also enrolled two tweenies as brownies.

The tweenies were found by Tawny Owl Lynn Morrison. Brownies Sheila Broughm and Kim Loader guided the tweenies Kathy Elms and Cathy Weigand along the stepping stones to the magic pool then to Madam Commissioner.

Brownie Carrie Darlow received her golden bar after walking down the golden road where Madam Commissioner was waiting to present her bar. The brownies then made an arch for her to walk under, after which she received the pack salute.

Brownies Sheila Broughm, Sandra Christian and Debbie Phillips stood on a large golden hand which demonstrated everything they had done while working for their golden hands. While giving each brownie her best wishes, Madam Commissioner pinned on the golden hands assisted by Snow Owl Maxine Thibault.

Tea and cookies were served to the mothers and leaders by brownies Darlene McKellar, Claire Gagne, Karen Croft, Lynn Warkentin, Christine Wardhaugh, Carrie Darlow, Kim Loader, Lisa Grills and Janice Harnden, after which the meeting was closed.

On Sunday afternoon Tawny Owl Lynn Morrison, Snow Owl Maxine Thibault and Brown Owl Phyllis McKellar of 1st. Bayside brownie pack arranged a skating party for their brownies at Sullivan's ice rink. At the conclusion of the party, sandwiches and hot chocolate were served to the brownies in the Sullivan's recreation room.

Institution Administrator Now with Day Care Agency

TORONTO (CP) — Aideen Nicholson, who was the top woman in the Ontario department of correctional services, left her job last March at a time when the province was gaining a reputation for its achievement in the rehabilitation of prisoners.

The administrator of adult female institutions subsequently became executive director of a day-care agency.

"So often I thought," Miss Nicholson said in an interview, "if something had been done earlier, if these people had been helped when they were children, they wouldn't be here today."

So now she works with children ranging in age from 2 to 5 at the Cradleship Creche, a United Appeal agency.

At those ages only a few children will display attitudes that could lead to trouble later in life, but when such attitudes arise the teacher is able to take action to alleviate the situation.

One of the things that exasperates Miss Nicholson most is the attitude in some quarters that children have to attend day-care centres because of a lack of parental attention. She says parents send their children to such centres to enrich the child's life and because of the professional attitude of the staff.

And Aideen Nicholson has ideas beyond the running of the centre with a capacity of 55 children.

The agency, she feels, should expand its services to include children of kindergarten age. Her proposal would involve children after they leave their daily classes. The children would go to selected neighborhood homes where they would be cared for by neighborhood adults until their parents returned from work. She hopes that funds to help support such a scheme will come from the United Appeal.

"I think some people don't realize just how much children need to talk to adults," Aideen Nicholson said.

CWL Holds Annual Meeting in Honor of Grandmothers

MARMORA — Members of Marmora Council of the CWL participated in the celebration of Mass Monday evening prior to their Feb. meeting, held annually in honor of grandmothers.

The meeting was opened by Father T. G. Scanlan, and the grandmothers and other members were welcomed by president, Mrs. Joseph O'Neill.

The president and Mrs. Charles O'Connor plan to attend the meeting at St. Andrew's Church parlor on Feb. 10 being held to prepare for the World Day of Prayer service on March 6. The League will cater to the Boy Scouts' father and son banquet on Feb. 19.

Mrs. Bill Monk and Mrs. Paul Brady, using excerpts from the League Magazine as a guide pointed out that everyone connected with an organization is doing public relations work in her everyday contacts with people in all walks of life, and good internal relations among members is beneficial. The need of the Catholic press as a means of publicizing and interpreting facts pertaining to the life of the church was emphasized and members were urged to support it. Marmora Council will undertake a campaign to complete subscriptions to the Canadian Register in the parish.

The powerful influence of TV was discussed in Mrs. Brady's report. She expressed the viewpoint that the media should be commended for merits of good programs just as they are criticized for others. A motion was passed that a letter be sent to CBC regarding last week's program "The Manipulators" expressing approval of the moral of the story and the actors' ability, but objection to the semi-nude scenes in the play.

There was discussion on the possibility of publicizing the names of any good family films to be shown at the local theatre.

It was announced that pornographic literature has been removed from a Marmora store and the CWL is grateful to other churches for their co-operation and assistance.

Mrs. Breen O'Connor, social action convener, suggested that the social action program for Lent should be directed towards 'Development and Peace' and as secretary of the Diocesan committee of the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace, reviewed the functions of the CCODP, in helping those overseas to develop themselves. Special project this year in the 'Share-Lent' program in the diocese is the raising of money for the purchase of a dump truck and bulldozer for building of roads in Ocoa in the Dominican Republic.

Each parish council is asked to donate 1 per cent of its funds made in the year up to March 31, 1970 and the collection of 1 per cent of personal expenditures will be made in September. Penny banks distributed to Separate School pupils will make children aware of the hunger in the world if they contribute pennies at each meal.

Proceeds of card party sponsored by the League will be sent to the CCODP, and before the card games there will be a showing of slides depicting conditions in impoverished countries.

Before adjournment, Father Scanlan spoke on the need for parents and children to be educated on the use and abuse of drugs and had available for study, booklets from the Drug Addiction Foundation.

A program was presented by Mrs. Tom Hanley, and contest winners were Mrs. Charles Brady, Mrs. Charles Crawford and Mrs. Breen O'Connor. Prizes were won by the following for their various roles of grandmotherhood: Mrs. Bob Gawley, Mrs. Vincent Lynch, Mrs. Charles O'Connor, Mrs. John Scanlan and Mrs. Arthur Sheridan. Taking part in a skit entitled "The Back Road to Grandma's" were Miss Mary Hughes, Mrs. Ross Campbell and Mrs. Monk.

During lunch each grandmother received a souvenir of the evening.

W. I. Group Enjoys Dinner

Members of the Cannifton - Corbyville Women's Institute enjoyed a social evening recently when they had dinner at the Belmont Restaurant banquet room, an annual event.

Following the meal a short business period was conducted, and this was followed by an enjoyable sing-song. Bingo and other entertainment concluded the evening's entertainment.

WI Delegates To Attend Conference

The regular monthly meeting of Melrose WI was held at the home of Mrs. Roy McLaren with an attendance of 36.

Following the opening exercises, the treasurer reported a balance of $437.00. The provincial president's letter was read and coming events dealt with. The officers' conference will be held in Guelph April 29 and 30. Delegates eligible are conveners of agriculture and Canadian industries; branch presidents and members in general. The Melrose delegate was appointed as a general member representative and the admittance fee of $30. will be mailed at an early date to the conference treasurer, Mrs. Don McLaren.

Mrs. G. Stratton and Mrs. J. Sherman will be hostesses for the Feb. 5 euchre and Mrs. K. McMechan and Mrs. J. Macfarlane for the Feb. 19 one.

Melrose WI accepted an invitation to cater to an early April wedding.

The WI is determined to find out if the township school is available to organizations such as the institute and a member will approach the school board for information.

Two provincial honor girls, Sandra Weese and Susan Lazier were invited to this meeting and Mrs. J. Summers presented each with a gift of a traveller's clock. The girls then thanked the W.I. for the support they had received from it through the six years required to reach the above goal.

Mrs. K. McMechan acted for the program convener and opened with the reading "Take Time For Ten Things". Mrs. Bates Jr. read "The Menace of my Life" which turned out to be the early morning school bus which took her family to school.

Mrs. McMechan introduced the guest speaker, constable Willis of the O.P.P. who was given an indefinite time to present his subject, "Symptoms of Drugs and Law Enforcement". During the remainder of the evening a discussion took place. Mrs. Harold McAvoy thanked Mr. Willis and presented a small gift to him for accepting the invitation to speak.

Mrs. Mac Lazier concluded the program with a reading. Refreshments were served by Mrs. V. Pascoe; Mrs. R. Clarke; Mrs. D. McLaren; Mrs. J. Walsh and the two hostesses.

First Candles Made In the 14th Century

Making candles in a mold is said to have started in the 14th century. They can also be made by dipping, and housewives in Canada used both methods.

Candles were made of tallow, which is rendered animal fat. Sheep or beef fat was usually used, but any animal fat will do.

They prevented problems in making and use. They melted in warm weather, burned unevenly and then only for short periods, usually about a half hour. They required constant trimming of unburned carbon and replacement as they burned out.

Although candles were available commercially, most housewives made their own. First they had to leach wood ashes to get out the "ley" or lye, used in making soap as well as candles. If they followed Dr. Chase who published his $1,000 Practical Recipes in London, Ontario, in 1866, they were advised to "take their tallow and put a little bees-wax with it, put it in a suitable kettle, adding weak ley, and gently boil an hour or two each day for two days, stirring and skimming well, each morning cutting it out and scraping off the bottom. The third morning use water in which alum and saltpetre were dissolved at the rate of one lb. each for 30 pounds of tallow, then simmer, stir and skim again, and let cool and take off for use".

The results could then be used for molding or dipping. This recipe was guaranteed to make candles that would not run in summer or crack in the winter, and burn brilliantly in use. The recipe made about 15 dozen candles, possibly enough for about a month.

Dipping could only be done in certain temperatures. The best time were spring and fall and the technique was designed for mass production. The housewife had to keep dipping as long as strength and tallow lasted.

Molding could be done in small convenient quantities and judging by the number of candle molds still available most housewives used this method at one time or another.

Candle molds were usually made of tinned sheet iron, which rusts quickly when not used. Molds like the one shown now fetch about $10 in good condition in Canada about twice that amount in the United States. They cost less than a quarter in 1900 when candlesticks were five cents and candles 11 cents a pound.

Origin of Spurtle Questioned

By MARY MOORE

LETTER: The heart of every Scotsman in the city cried out in anguish when you called a spurtle a Japanese wooden spoon. There are many in the city, some were brought from Scotland, others have been hand made in the handy man's corner in many houses. — Jeannie

ANSWER: I want one, Jeannie. I cannot buy the Scottish made spurtle in Hamilton where I live. If you do not mind sending me a Scottish made spurtle, do so and let me know the cost and I will remit at once.

QUESTION: You mentioned that other meats (besides beef) may be cooked in your fondue pot. I received one for Christmas too and want to use it when we have some of my husband's friends for dinner . . . Sally Ann

ANSWER: I chose your letter because I am receiving so many letters from new fondue pot owners. Last night we cooked shrimp in batter followed by banana fritters. As I test other items I will report in this column.

This amount of batter will coat 1½ lbs. of shrimp and 4 or 5 medium-large bananas (see below)

FRITTER BATTER

(For fondue-ing shrimp and bananas)

NOTE: Please save this fritter batter recipe for I'm sure I will be referring to it later when I cook other batter-covered foods. One and one-half pounds shrimp served five of us.

2 cups sifted all - purpose flour
1 tbsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. sugar
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 tbsp. melted fat or oil

Sift together dry ingredients and beat in eggs, milk and fat only until batter is smooth. Divide batter in half. Add shrimps to ½ of batter. To other half of batter add 1 tbsp. sugar and add four or five underripe bananas cut in 1" pieces diagonally.

Fill fondue pot with corn oil to 1½" in depth. Preheat to 375 deg. Fahr. on kitchen stove. Transfer to prelighted fondue burner on round dining-room table (methyl hydrate or Sterno will not maintain high heat — a Ronson burner is best. Be sure it is fully fueled.) With fondue fork impale battered shrimp and cook until rich gold. Be careful not to eat shrimp directly from fondue fork. When all shrimp are cooked proceed in same manner with battered bananas.

A delicious and exciting meal.

25th Anniversary Marked

NAPANEE — Rev. Samuel A. R. Delve and Mrs. Delve of the Cooke's - Portsmouth charge, Kingston were pleasantly surprised on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary when a family gettogther was held at the home of Mrs. Delve's brother Howard Hawley in Napanee.

They were the recipients of many lovely gifts and many good wishes which all came as a complete surprise.

The couple are well known in this area. Mrs. Delve, formerly Marion Hawley was county treasurer of Lennox and Addington from 1942-45 and Mr. Delve was minister of the Morven-Fourth Line charge from 1937-39. They were married Jan. 31, 1945 immediately following Mr. Delve's return from overseas.

Among those present for the surprise celebration were Mrs. Delve's sister, Mrs. F. W. H. Tuckett and husband, and their sons James and Paul of Peterborough.

Play Therapy Is Special Kind of Treatment

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: There is a child care centre in our area and I am told that they use play therapy as a kind of treatment. Does this mean simply that the children are helped to play together as friends, or is there something special about it? — Mother of Two.

Dear Mother: It is a special kind of treatment.

Children find it more difficult than adults to express their feelings in words. So they are given toys and dolls with which they act out their feelings.

For instance, a little girl may be given several dolls, to which she assigns certain roles. One of the dolls may be "baby brother", and if she dislikes her real baby brother, she may take it out on the doll.

One of the dolls may be given her own name and she may lock this little doll in a toy house saying, "Nobody loves this little girl because she is bad." Such an act communicates to the therapist the way she feels about herself, or about members of her family. It is an acceptable way for her to give vent to emotions which she has felt to be wrong and therefore which she has supressed.

This makes it possible for her to get rid of all those bad feelings and form new relationships with the "authority figure" — the therapist. Anxious ways of behaving are replaced by freer, more confident, more effective ways.

DORIS CLARK

At the same time, all of this is interpreted to mother, whose task is to get new understanding of what her child is going through, and to help bring about friendlier behavior around the home.

Dear Doris: Am interested in your leaflet "Know Your Groceries", for which I am enclosing 10 cents and an addressed envelope. I am not one to lunch, but I do miss my sweet dessert at my meals.

Do you think this leaflet would help my hunger for sweets and maybe reduce a few pounds? — Sweet Tooth.

Dear Sweet Tooth: Know Your Groceries deals with what is right to eat to keep fit; useful for underweights, overweights, and medium weights. It is true that there is a sort of hidden hunger when a diet is not balanced, and this may be adding to your craving for sugar-sweetness.

You don't have to punish yourself beyond all sense. There is the sweetness of fresh fruit to enjoy, without a great addition of calories; there are the foods in cans for diabetics, sweetened with acceptable artificial sweeteners like saccharine.

Knowledge of food values and some new eating habits may well do what you need. If you want special ideas about a safe diet to reduce on, write in for my Simple Reducing Diet (enclosing 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope).

Confidential to Golden Wedding: No need to seat all seven sons and daughters at the head table. Put the surviving bridesmaid and her husband there; the clergyman who performed the ceremony, since he is still available; the oldest son and his wife.

The separated daughter's male guest would sit with her, and the ex-husband (who is a good family friend), might well be placed in another part of the room.

The leaflet on Fiftieth Wedding Anniversaries is on its way to you.

ALL ABOARD!

"- - - a dazzling play of patterned hues - - -" — Walter De La Mare.

* * *

"There's nothing like a railroad station — to sit and watch people." How often have you heard that or perhaps said it yourself.

There's no denying that a large railroad station is a world in itself. It seethes with hurry and bustle; filled with people now here, now gone. A mosaic of the heart: joy, sorrow, fun, desperation, delight. A kaleidoscope of a thousand simultaneous themes. Inconsistent in its reality as it is consistent in its change.

This is the place Francis Bacon must have had in mind when he said: "A crowd is not company and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tinkling cymbal, when there is no love." For a railroad station draws in fragments of life, shattered for the moment, from its own setting.

Still, sometimes one is drawn closer to these very fragments, as a detail in a painting, by virtue of the ear. Either by indirect or direct conversation, such as right now, where in this huge Canadian station, we must make a phone call before our train is due.

The phone booths are recessed within a small room to send telgrams. As we are about to dial our number, an older couple walk hurriedly to the desk. The woman is dejected. The man pugnacious.

"Confound it all, anyway," he bursts out as he takes a pencil to write out a telegram then looks at the operator. "Can you believe it? We just arrived in the city from New York a couple of hours ago," pounding the desk with his fists, "and parked at one of your big hotels to register, only to return to the car to find everything we had — our top coats, movie - camera, traveling bags, stolen! !

"Yes, the car was locked. All committed in broad daylight, right in front of the hotel. We've nothing but the clothes we have on our backs. It happened within 20 minutes after our arrival. The car's been tampered with and is at the garage.

Another telegraph operator sides over to hear this alarming tale. "Let me, for one, say I'm mighty sorry to think you should meet with this sort of thing, in our city," he says. "We're proud of the place and this puts us in a very bad light. Let me say again, sir, how sorry I am. I hope you get your belongings back. Our police will do all in their power to help. They are efficient here."

"That goes for me, too, sir. Both you and your wife," speaks up the first operator.

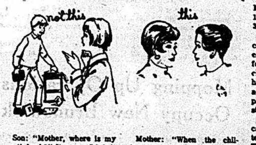
The distraught couple receive this unexpected expression of sympathy with surprise. There is a perceptible change in their manner toward everyone in general and the city in particular. Said the man, "We are going home, today, by train."

Our call completed, we happen to sit next to a rather plain, young lady in the waiting-room, who tells us: "I'm on my way home from the Maritimes, where I've visited an aunt. I noted their expressions much different from ours. For instance they'll say: 'Don't slam the door. People will think you are brought up on a raft.' They say, 'cup-towel' for 'tea-towel'; things like that . . ." But just then the train man cries, "All aboard!" — and conversation, people, have vanished leaving behind traces of glittering, interesting shafts of life.

There's magic in "All aboard!" with promises of life made whole again.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON



Son: "Mother, where is my math book?" I'm sure I left it in the living room."

Mother: "You were using it in the den. Did you look there? Maybe you took it to your room. Hurry or you'll miss the bus."

Mother: "When the children started to kindergarten, I had them take time every night and lay out clothes books and things they would need the next morning. Now they're in the habit of planning for the next morning's routine the night before."

The hectic morning rush that starts the day off wrong can be avoided by constructive planning that builds orderly habits when children are young.

The Bra-less Fad; Is It Good or Bad?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The bra-less fad is getting to be a bore. I've read dozens of comments by so-called authorities. Of course they are all men. In my opinion, no one is an authority unless he has had some firsthand experience. So, please tell all those Big Mouths that unless they have worn a bra, to shut up because their comments don't count.

And now may I have your opinion, Ann? Is it a good fad or a bad one? — MAINE.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR MAINE: In my opinion, only two things should be considered — and you can take that statement any way you want. Do you feel more comfortable without a bra? Do you look better without a bra? While many women can answer yes to the first question, I know of very few who can answer yes to the second.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 15. The boy I am crazy about is 18. Tom was arrested for breaking and entering last week but it wasn't his fault. He was high on pot and some guys dared him to do it. This was not Tom's first offence, so things might go a little rough on him.

He promised me four different times he would stop drinking. He has kept his promise, but pot is doing the same thing to him that the booze used to do.

My folks don't like Tom so I have to see him on the sneak. I am worried now because I think he is in real trouble. He is a wonderful guy but he is mixed up. I want to help him but I don't know how. Please give me some advice in the paper. If my folks knew about this, they'd kill me. — WEEPING WILLOW.

DEAR W.W.: Tom needs a doctor, a lawyer and continued counseling from a professional. Since you aren't any of these, I urge you to stay away from him. You can do nothing for him but he can do plenty for you. But nothing good.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother is not raising children. She is raising vegetables. That is the best name I can think of for two girls, 16 and 17 years old, who are not allowed to date. Dad died seven years ago and Mom is letting her older brother tell her how to raise us. He was born in the old country. His own children turned out terrible — a son in prison, two girls who ran away from home and another girl who got pregnant at 14. His philosophy is to keep kids locked up and give them no freedom. You can see where it got him.

My sister and I are good students. We help in the house and have never done anything to give Mom the idea we can't be trusted. We have also read your book on Teen-Agers and Sex and know what to do and what not to do. Our whole life is school, church and relatives. It's gruesome. The boys think we are queers because we can't date. None of our friendse are cooped up like this. Can you help us? — IMPRISONED IN BILLINGS.

DEAR INMATES: Girls 16 and 17 should be allowed to date if they have proven themselves to be dependable and trustworthy. You two sound as if you have earned the privilege. Ask your favorite teacher to talk to your mother. Or perhaps your pastor can help. You need an adult to speak in your behalf. Maybe if you show her this column, it will help. Good luck.

Tax Proposals Not Perfect But--

Walter Gordon Calls Benson 'Very Able Man'

TORONTO (CP) — Former finance minister Walter Gordon Friday defended the Trudeau government's finance minister, Edgar Benson. But he made it clear he has his own criticisms of Mr. Benson's white paper on tax reform.

"I'm disturbed over the obviously organized criticism that is developing—especially about Mr. Benson personally," Mr. Gordon told the Ontario branch of the Canadian Bar Association.

"We should criticize the proposals but we should limit it to that," he said. "Mr. Benson is a very able man, and we're fortunate to have him."

There were, however, weak points in the government's white paper, including the proposals for periodic revaluation of the shares of widely-held corporations for tax purposes and taxes on unrealized capital gains.

"I'd like to see the government drop the five-year revaluation and the taxation of unrealized gains.

"I'd tax all realized capital gains, but not unrealized gains. Of course this would not achieve true equity between wage and salary earners and those whose income is in the form of capital gains. But then you never do get real equity."

The loss in equity, he said, would be balanced by greater simplicity and better acceptance for the tax changes.

Mr. Gordon dismissed critics of the white paper who say the proposals should exempt capital gains resulting from inflation or who argue that the white paper is really a tax increase disguised as reform.

Most important, he said, is that the reforms must be devised in a way which does not lead to a fall in revenue.

"There would be a real problem if revenues fell in the first year," he said. "If it produces substantial increased revenue in later years, it would be a simple matter to reduce taxes."

To laughter he added: "It has happened before. I don't know whether you are following the monthly figures, but the government is building up such a tremendous surplus that it may be able to reduce taxes by the end of the year."

Mr. Gordon also said he did not agree with criticism that the proposed tax changes would be inflationary.

He said the amount to be diverted from savings to consumption has been estimated at about $500,000,000, or just over one half of one per cent of the gross national product.

"It's not so staggering in those terms. The dangers of this transfer have been very greatly exaggerated."

Threat Seen to Canadian Ownership

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians will inevitably lose control over companies in which they now hold the majority of stock if a proposal in the white paper on taxation is accepted by the government, a tax expert said Friday.

Philip Vineberg, a former chairman of the board of governors of the Canadian Tax Foundation and a partner in a Montreal law firm, said if the government accepts the white paper's proposal to bring in a deemed realization of gain on company shares every five years Canadians will be forced to put those shares on a limited market, perhaps at depressed prices.

Therefore Americans could easily buy control, he said. Canadian securities will "lose their attractiveness," encouraging Canadians to buy American securities instead.

Walter Gordon, former Liberal minister of finance, told a meeting of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Bar Association, he would like to see the five year rule and unrealized income plan proposed in the white paper dropped.

Deemed realization of gain means the established value that securities have increased i a five year period. The federal white paper proposes that only half the gain realized from widely-held Canadian companies would be included in yearly income.

Direct Federal Controls on Consumer Credit Are Urged by Commons Finance Committee

OTTAWA (CP) — A parliamentary committee has called for direct federal controls on consumer credit and more official pressure to encourage voluntary restraint on rises in prices and pay rates.

The Commons finance committee, in a majority report released Friday after studying interest rates and inflation generally, says the federal government should have power to control consumer credit by regulating down-payment terms and limiting repayment time.

The federal govenment should also set and announce voluntary guides for wage and price increases, with proposed limits to be related to the annual growth rate in productivity.

Federal tax powers should be used more freely to regulate private investment, the committee says.

"The relationship of incomes and productivity, of wages and salary increases which exceed productivity increases, is in our view crucial to the problem of rising prices, to the problem of inflation."

The majority of the 20-member committee—New Democrats Max Saltsman (Waterloo) and John Burton (Regina East) dissented from the main proposals—concluded that inflation is the main culprit forcing the cost of borrowing money to unprecedented heights.

In a minority report, the New Democrats denounced the official report as "a meagre compendium of unimaginative orthodoxy."

The majority report says inflation distorts normal market forces—high interest rates do not seem to limit demand for credit—preventing governments from raising enough money for housing and other social needs, weakening the economy, endangering essential foreign trade, causing unemployment and hitting the weakest hardest.

Interest rates in Canada are determined largely by foreign rates and the influence of inflation in the United States, the majority report says, but there is still some room for domestic action.

Inflation and so-called inflationary psychology—the expectation that costs and prices will continue rising—must be curbed at home if Canada is to exert what influence it has over its interest rates, the committee says.

A long list of recommendations consists mainly of suggestions for making voluntary restraint more effective and proposing, further studies of Bank of Canada powers, exchange rates with other currencies, the impact of service industries on inflation and the possibility of getting more detailed statistics from banks.

Of interest rates themselves, the majority says it was unable to decide whether the banking system uses a justified spread between the rate it pays or funds and the higher rates it charges to lend the funds. It calls for a special study on interest-rate spreads in the banking system.

The committee majority says its recommendations aim to make management, labor and all sections of the economy more accountable to the public interest.

Further, the suggestions are designed to increase the effectiveness of federal powers to regulate the economy and encourage co-operation among federal, provincial and municipal governments in devising spending plans.

The report proposes a number of measures designed to increase the persuasive impact of a federal guide that would suggest limits on price and pay increases.

The federal prices and incomes commission — currently attempting to work out systems of agreed price restraint with business and the professions—should suggest in advance what wage demands by major unions and what price ranges in the industries involved would be appropriate, the report says.

The commission should be ready to intervene when asked with advice to conciliation boards and government agencies which rule on prices or investigate business combines, the report adds.

Further, a parliamentary committee should be empowered to investigate specific pay and price decisions to focus public attention on industries and unions that ignore persuasion.

Price and pay restraints should be matched by voluntary limitations on professional and service fees and dividends, the committee says.

The report does not spell out how its suggested direct controls over credit would be applied.

Control over the terms of consumer credit raises a constitutional issue, because experts say jurisdiction over retail trade rests with the provinces.

Observing that the Bank of Canada exerts only indirect control by adjusting the money flow to banks, the report says the central bank should be asked to say whether its regulatory influence over credit would be more effective if it could intervene directly with non-bank financial institutions. It does not suggest how the control would be exerted.

Meantime, present federal measures designed to curb credit and spending should be retained until there are clear signs that inflation is losing its zip, the report says.

If there is a conflict between a Bank of Canada view that money supply should be restricted and a government wish to raise more money through borrowing, the conflict should "not automatically" be resolved in favor of the government.

The government should use tax powers more freely in encouraging or discouraging private investment in different areas or enterprises, between budgets if necessary, the report says.

Mr. Saltsman and Mr. Burton say the majority failed the Canadian people by not outlining new and effective policies.

They propose a comprehensive incomes policy designed to develop through trial and error as a regulator of all ofrms of income—profits, rent, interest and fees as well as wages and salaries.

The government should play a stronger role in allocating credit among pre-planned priorities, they say, and efforts should be made to reduce the interdependence of the Canadian and U.S. economies to increase Canada's freedom of action.

Markets Continue Downward Trend

By NICK FERRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets continued their downtrend of 1970 this week, falling for the third consecutive week.

Markets declined in four of the five sessions this week with the only advance coming Tuesday when markets appeared on the way to another decline.

However, prices picked up sharply in the final 90 minutes of trading following reports that David M. Kennedy, treasurer-secretary of the United States, said a break in the inflationary psychology in the U.S. and a resultant drop in interest rates may be closer than most people realize.

Canadian markets followed American markets in the reversal.

A cut in interest rates in the U.S. would prompt a reduction in Canadian rates. Tight money, a result of the federal government's fight against inflation, has been the main reason for the decline in the last half of 1969.

But Tusday's rally was short-lived.

Investors apparently took a second and closer look at Kennedy's statement Wednesday and left that there was no concrete sign of when credit restraint in the U.S. would be relaxed.

Lower corporate profits in the final quarter of 1969 has been another major market depressant.

A sampling of fourth-quarter net earnings of 46 listed Canadian companies in 17 industries showed a decline on average of about 15 per cent compared with earnings in the similar 1968 period.

For the same companies, annual earnings were down by about an average of one per cent.

The severity of the decline in annual earnings could be accented by the fact that first-quarter earnings were up an average of 23 per cent in 1969 over earnings in the corresponding 1968 period.

And second-quarter earnings were up an average of 16 per cent.

Statistically, on index at the Toronto Stock Exchange this week, industrials were down 1.39 to 176.58, western oils 4.08 to 204.69, golds 3.39 to 151.16 and base metals .79 to 113.19.

Volume was 11,038,000 shares compared with 14,247,0000 last week. Losses outnumbered gains 467 to 302 with 233 issues unchanged.

On the Montreal and Canadian exchanges, the composite index was down 1.60 to 173.95. Combined volume was 7,316,000 shares compared with 6,654,000 last week. Losses outnumbered gains 216 to 142 with 97 issues unchanged.

Three Ordered to Pay Profits to Texas Gulf

NEW YORK (AP) — Three men were ordered by a United States federal judge Friday to return to Texas Gulf Sulphur Co. $112,000 in profits they made through the use of inside information on the company's 1963 ore strike near Timmins.

A fourth man was directed to surrender 1964 stock options to the company. The court noted that two officials of the company already had surrendered their stock options.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission originally brought a civil suit against Texas Gulf and 12 of its employees, charging they violated government regulations pertaining to insiders trading in stock.

The SEC claimed the defendants had news of the Ontario copper strike when they bought up company stock. The suit charged that they then issued an April 12, 1964, news release downgrading the reports about the size and grade of the ore.

Four days later, Texas Gulf publicly acknowledged the rich extent of the find and the price of the company's stock rose.

Heavy Insurance Planned for A-plants

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons, with a minimum of rhetoric and maximum haste, gave second reading to three government bills Friday, and witnessed two major announcements and the tabling of a weighty report by its finance committee.

Given second reading and sent to committee:

—A measure that would make operators of nuclear installations liable for damages, resulting from an explosion, up to $75,000,000. Operators will be required, under the bill, to carry the maximum $25,000,000 insurance now available commercially and a government plan providing the remaining $50,000,000.

—Legislation to abolish the Dominion coal board, founded in 1947 to administer subsidy programs for mines in the Atlantic region, Alberta and British Columbia.

—A bill to expunge criminal records where an offender had shown himself to be rehabilitated and hasn't committed an offence for five years.

Earlier, Prime Minister Trudeau announced that funds for research facilites would be granted to Liberal back-benchers similar to those granted opposition parties in 1968.

The prime minister told the Commons $130,000 would be allocated for this purpose. All opposition parties expressed approval.

Since 1968, the Conservative party has received $125,000 a year and the NDP and Creditiste parties have each received $35,000 to establish research offices and acquire staff.

Resources Minister J. J. Greene announced at the opening of Friday's sitting that federal regulations to control phosphate content of detergents will take effect "not later than this summer."

Phosphates would likely be banned within three years. Canada would work with the United States and the provinces to control the threat posed by phosphates to lakes and rivers.

Gaston Clermont (L—Gatineau), chairman of the Commons finance committee, tabled the committee's report recommending the government establish guides for wage and price increases.

Among other major recommendations in the report were calls for regulations on consumer credit extension of the federal taxing power to control investments and maintenance of the present fiscal and monetary restraints.

Bud Orange, parliamentary secretary to Mr. Greene, said the "nuclear protection bill is a technical measure."

In the case of a nuclear accident—an "inconceivable event" —where claims exceeded the $75,000,000 insurance ceiling, Parliament would have to take special action.

Mr. Orange said the bill puts on operators the onus to prove they are not guilty of a dereliction of duty resulting in an accident causing damage or injury.

Mark Rose (NDP—Fraser Valley West) and Louis Comeau (PC—South Western Nova) both praised the bill.

During debate on the bill abolishing the coal board, Mr. Orange said conditions had improved so much that the mines department would now be able to carry out all functions of the board.

R. G. L. Fairweather (PC—Fundy-Royal) and Ran Harding (NDP—Kootenay West) said abolition of the coal board is a sound move but the government should take precautions to protect miners in areas still economically backward.

The bill also provides for repeal of the Canadian Coal Equality Act and Coal Production Assistance Act, both of which were administered by the coal board.

Rene Matte, speaking during debate on the bill to expunge criminal records in some cases, lashed out at police brutality and alleged abuse of power. power.

He said Walter Redel, a B.C. government official, had been mistakenly arrested and beaten by Quebec Provincial Police last Sunday.

Mr. Matte said police had mistaken Mr. Redel for a bank robber and because he is high-ranking official, the police might apologize.

"But if he had been an ordinary citizen, police might have maintained at all costs that they were right."

Fishermen Fearful of Effect Of Mechanization on Supply

MONTREAL (CP) — A Vancouver fishing captain told the closing session of aconference on the fishing industry Friday that increased mechanization and automation in the industry may lead to depletion of fish stocks.

"It scares me a little," said Capt. Stanley Savage. "Everybody's thinking in the lines of automation and possibly better ways to kill a nice fishery."

Capt. Savage was speaking during a panel discussion of the industry point of view.

He thanked designers of modern equipment for the aids they have given fishermen, but said: "They did it at such a tremendous cost it doesn't leave much for the people using it."

Money that might be spent to build large central fishing harbors—forecast by Fisheries Minister Jack Davis Thursday night—would be better spent to improve marketing of fish products, he said.

H. P. Connor, chairman of the board for National Sea Products Ltd. of Halifax, said anti-pollution programs for the fishing industry should not be rushed. Pollution problems "are going to be very difficult and expensive to solve" and crash programs would cost industry or the taxpayer more than was necessary.

Anti-pollution programs should be carefully considered and "evolutionary," he said.

Capt. Gerard Hache of Maisonnette, N.B., said that with present market conditions greater mechanization caused concern to in-shore fishermen. Prices were low and sometimes catches could not be sold.

He recommended that the federal government create a national fish marketing board.

Paul Russell, general manager of Bonavista Cold Storage Co. in St. John's, Nfld., said fish prices may be too low to provide an adequate return on the high cost of buying a trawler.

Capt. Jim McCauley from Rhode Island asked the panel whether mechanization would give Western fishermen "a head start" on Iron Curtain fleets which were not required to show a profit.

Mr. Russell said Canadian fishermen are as efficient as any foreign country, in terms of fish landed per man. The offshore fleet was about as well mechanized as was economically feasible.

He saw no reason to try to match the total catch of countries like the Soviet Union if the fish could not be sold.

Dr. A. W. H. Needler, federal deputy minister of fisheries, predicted higher prices for fish in the next year. He said public demand for fish products is increasing and the maximum annual yield from fish stocks may soon be reached.

The four-day conference, sponsored by the federal-provincial Atlantic fisheries committee, drew almost 400 delegates from 16 countries.

Mopping Up Operations Occupy New Brunswick

FREDERICTON (CP) — Mopping up operations continued today in the wake of heavy damage caused earlier this week when heavy rain sent rivers over their banks to flood dozens of New Brunswick communities.

Premier Louis J. Robichaud toured some of the worst-hit areas by helicopter Friday and later said the destruction was greater than earlier reports had led him to believe.

The federal government announced in Ottawa it was prepared to assist the province in offsetting damage from the flooding which knocked out about 20 bridges, cut off roads and rail lines, wiped out power and telephone lines, isolated communities and claimed at least two lives.

Damage to bridges and highways was estimated over $5,000,000 and, while officials declined to estimate over-all damage, they speculated the figure could top $20,000,000.

Premier Robichaud said an accurate estimate would be prepared by adjustors. An offer by the Maritime Insurance Adjustors Bureau to assess damage to individuals was accepted by the province.

Power was restored Friday in all affected communities except Cain's River in Northumberland County and Bonny River in Charlotte County as water levels were returning to normal.

Mo-Hawks Miss Chances In 7-5 Loss to Oaks

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

If Perry Mason played hockey, he would have called last night's Memorial Arena offering "The Case of the Unnaccounted-for 46."

That's how many Belleville Mo-Hawk scoring chances — most of them Grade A — failed to find their way up in lights as the Mo-Hawks dropped a 7-5 loss to Oakville Oaks.

League-leading point producer Jim O'Brien showed 1,661 paid customers — and Mo-Hawk goaltending replacement Bob Moon — why he holds the honor, scoring three goals and assisting on another. Frank Hincks scored twice for the fourth-place Oaks and veteran Pete Bettiol added the other.

Billy Armour, Ralph Plane, Lorne O'Donnell, Ray Johnston and Wayne McConnell cashed in on five scoring opportunities for the Mo-Hawks, who outshot the Oaks in every period, and 51-30 overall.

Offensively, the Mo-Hawks' seventh loss in nine games was a moral victory.

They enjoyed a 4-3 lead and most of the play for 30 minutes and were putting on their best display since THE SLUMP began. Their five-goal output was the club's highest in nearly three weeks.

But O'Brien's first two goals just past the midway mark of the second period changed the game's complexion, and served to de-starch the hometowners.

At 10.37, O'Brien banged in a loose puck after Bob Moon had outguessed Ron Robinson's breakaway bid, and 25 second later the six-foot, three-inch, 195-pound centre cruised into the slot to bang in Robinson's centering pass and give the Oaks a 5-4 lead.

O'Brien's third goal of the night — and 37th of the season — early in the final period dimmed Mo-Hawk comeback dreams.

Defensively, the Mo-Hawks left everything to be desired.

Bob Moon was particularly sharp in the first two periods, but lack of blueline support left him holding the defensive bag too often.

Lou Kazowski's absence and that of newcomer Bob Wilson —coaching his Havelock juveniles in playoff action — didn't make the job any easier for Lionel Botly, Greg Marchen, Wayne Brown, and converted forward Billy Armour.

After blasting a point shot past "Boat" Hurley to open the scoring, Armour turned out to be the defensive goat.

With the Mo-Hawks enjoying a two-man advantage and a 2-1 lead; Armour let Frank Hincks slip past him on the point in Oakville's end for a breakaway tying goal.

It was the fourth short-handed goal the Mo-Hawks have given up in the past seven games.

Brown, returning under a helmet after being sidelined two weeks with a concussion, played a steady game, helping keep the Oaks hemmed in when the Mo-Hawks were carrying the play during the first 30 minutes.

Captain Ralph Plane scored a popular first-period goal and played aggressively all night despite badly-torn side muscles that kept him out of Tuesday night's 8-2 loss in Kingston. Plane played left wing on a line with Davey Jones and Lorne Ferguson that proved to be an effective new scoring threat.

Lorne O'Donnell's goal, a gift-wrapped crease-edge rebound from Al Ferguson, was the hard-working Peterborough winger's 20th of the season. The two linemates are the only Mo-Hawks in the 20-goal club to date, and among only a dozen-or-so in the eight-team Senior A league.

Wayne McConnell shook the flu bug out of his system on a pretty breakaway goal late in the final period.

The Mo-Hawks travel to Barrie Sunday and the Flyers return the visit in an 8.30 Memorial Arena game Tuesday. The Mo-Hawk Booster Club is running a bus to Barrie, leaving the Arena at 2.30 Sunday afternoon.

Printers Have 'Hairy' Problem

Defenceman Dalton Lambert of the Belleville Ellis Juniors has a problem these days. It seems that the Printer's rearguard gave up shaving when the Printers started their five game unbeaten streak, and if they maintain the calibre of hockey that they've showed lately, Lambert could end up looking like a mop with muscles.

Right now it appears that coach Floyd Crawford's main problem, outside of dealing with advocates of the clean-out look, is preventing over-confidence.

The Ellis coach must take a large share of the credit for the latest Ellis upsurge, for issuing his team a swift kick in its collective hockey pants, when it was badly needed. The Junior B's who had been clobbered by Oshawa and Kingston, and blew third period leads to Trenton and Peterborough, had the boom lowered on them before their Jan. 16 game with Kingston. The Printers went on to post a 6-4 win over the Frontenacs and haven't lost since.

Star goaltender Mike Caine and performers like hard-rock defenceman John Lunn and high-scoring forward Al Fenton, would be more than happy to take over any kicking chores required, as Cobourg could take over fourth place with wins Sunday and Monday.

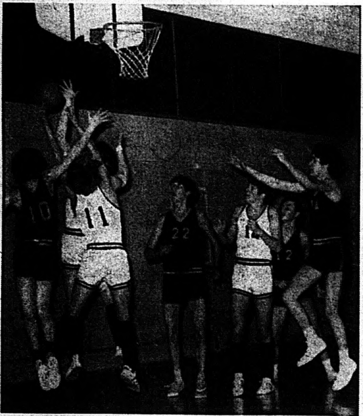
Ralph Plane, current heavyweight champion of the Senior A League, ran the Printers through a stiff scrimmage Thursday in their last practice before their Cobourg encounters.

Belleville received a shot in the arm, with the news that right-winger Ron Fuller will be available for Sunday's game, Fuller has been working in Rochester and has missed practically all of the current season.

A regular season game between the Belleville Barriages women's hockey team and the Picton Bemkies, will precede the Printer's 8.30 contest. Admission will be one dollar for both games.

There will be a bus leaving the Arena at 6 p.m. Monday night for Cobourg, with seats still available for interested spectators.

DALTON LAMBERT



Fred Locke of the Moira Junior Trojans battles for a rebound in last night's contest against Madoc. The juniors went on to post an easy 56-16 victory.

Moira Cagers Split

Moira's basketball Trojans took two out of three games from Centre Hastings District High School in Bay of Quinte action last night, as the bantams and juniors came through with convincing victories, while the seniors were being upset by the visitors.

Madoc took a close 63-60 win in the senior tilt, for their second victory of the year. Mah had 26 points to lead the Madoc scorers. For Moira, Ralston scored 23 points and Thomson 13.

The juniors continued their winning ways, stopping Centre Hastings 56-16. Phil Kirby took advantage of a weak man-to-man defence to hoop 19 points, many of them on driving lay-ups. Pulver and Gardiner each had 11 points. Wellman was the high Madoc scorer with an eight point total.

The bantams won a lop-sided contest 65-11 against the hapless Madoc squad. Arthur Dent (10), Dave Rutherford (8) and John Loder (7) were the top Trojan point getters.

In action Wednesday, BCI won all three games against Trenton High School. The seniors won 71-51 with Dave Wright hitting for 38 points. The junior Collegiates came out on top of a 54-36 contest as Paul Simmonds had 13 points and the bantams were 50-43 winners as Keith Watson showed the way with 16 points.

Golden Hawks Lose

Trenton Golden Hawks had the noose pulled a little tighter in their battle for a playoff spot as they dropped a 7-3 decision to the Kingston Frontenacs.

Coach Charlie Drake of Trenton offers no excuses for his team's loss. "They just outplayed us," says Drake, "they were hungry and we weren't."

Trenton suffered a second period defensive lapse, which saw the Frontenacs pull ahead 6-1 after the teams scored once in the first frame.

Pete Utman, Jim Bennett and Jeff Howard scored the Trenton goals. Despite being on the losing end of seven markers, goalie Brian Wilson played a strong game for the Golden Hawks. The defence was weakened by the fact that Randy Castellerin missed last night's game.

Trenton outplayed the visitors in the final frame but were victimized by some fine netminding by the Frontenac's Clyde Harris.

The Hawks who drew 13 of the games 25 penalties, travel to Oshawa tonight to meet men.

Fists Fly Instead of Pucks

Los Angeles Kings Bill Flett (9) and Montreal Canadiens Ted Harris (10) exchange blows during first period melee in the National Hockey League game at the Forum in Los Angeles Thursday night. Both were put in the penalty box. The Canadiens went on to win, 5-3. (AP Wirephoto).

Campbell Has 'Fine' Time After Weekend Fisticuffs

MONTREAL (CP) — Last fall, the National Hockey League's board of governors handed president Clarence Campbell power to impose stiffer fines for players leaving their benches to join fights on the ice.

At the same time, the board gave the league president the power to fine the management of clubs which allowed their players to employ such a tactic.

Since then, the NHL players' emergency fund—recipient of all NHL fines—has swelled its coffers to the tune of more than $15,000, with $7,350 added Friday after two decisions by Campbell.

The decisions followed incidents last weekend when St. Louis Blues visited the Penguins in Pittsburgh Saturday and Toronto Maple Leafs were in Boston Gardens against the Bruins Sunday.

Campbell fined the Pittsburgh, Toronto and Boston clubs $1,000 each for failing to exercise proper control over their bench troops when outbreaks occurred on the ice.

In addition, Pittsburgh netminder Al Smith was handed a $300 fine for leaving his crease to mix in the brawl. It was his fifth such infraction of the current campaign and the $300 included the automatic $50 fine that goes with the offence.

In the Toronto-Boston scrap, Toronto defencemen Rick Ley and Brian Glennie were the big losers. They were each fined $200, with Ley getting the additional $100 assessment for leading the Toronto charge over the boards and Glennie for leaving the penalty box to join the scrap.

There is an automatic fine of $100 to any player leaving the bench to engage in a fight.

Bob Plager, St. Louis defenceman, was the only member of the Blues to take such action at Pittsburgh. He paid $100.

The Penguins had 12 players fined $100: Goalie Joe Daley, defencemen Duane Rupp, Bob Woytowich, and Tracy Pratt, forwards Val Fonteyne, Keith McCreary, Ken Schinkel, Ron Schock, Wally Boyer, Jean Pronovost, Dean Prentice and Michel Briere.

In addition to Ley and Glennie, 11 Toronto players must pay $100 each: backup goaltender Gerry McNamara, defenceman Jim McKenny, and forwards Ron Ellis, George Armstrong, Murray Oliver, Jim Harrison, Dave Keon, Mike Walton, Floyd Smith, Paul Henderson and Norm Ullman.

The 12 Bruins contributing $100 each were spare goalie Ed Johnston, defencemen Rick Smith, Dallas Smith, Gary Doak and Don Awrey; and forwards Ken Hodge, Wayne Cashman, Garnet Bailey, Ed Westfall, Jim Lorentz, Don Marcotte and Wayne Carleton.

Another $50 was contributed by the Blues' Barclay Plager—Bob's brother—and Glen Sather of Pittsburgh. They each drew automatic $25 fines after they incurred misconduct penalties as the result of double majors.

Earlier, Campbell assessed the St. Louis club a $1,000 fine for a Nov. 13 incident and docked 11 players from the Blues $100 each. Pittsburgh was the opponent on that occasion also, but the only Penguin to suffer was Bryan Watson, who got nicked $200 for fighting from the bench.

CLARENCE CAMPBELL
Everything's Fine

The Blues repated their bench-clearing tactics against Montreal Canadiens two days later. This time, Campbell fined the club $2,000 and picked up another $1,000 at $100 each from the 10 players who left the bench. Noel Picard, the Blues defenceman, got nicked for $250 on that occasion, and teammate Tim Ecclestone paid $200.

For their part in the incident, the Canadiens management shelled out $1,000, while 11 Montreal players contributed $100 each for their off-bench waltz.

Campbell said the latest St. Louis-Pittsburgh incident followed a second-period fight between Barclay Plager and the Penguins' Sather.

After the officials had broken up the original conflict, the pair resumed the fight. This prompted Bob Plager and Pittsburgh's Tracy Pratt to leave their respective benches.

Prompted by a signal from Pratt, the remainder of the Pittsburgh team left its bench to join the fray. Campbell said the fine against the Pittsburgh club came because the action "seems to have had some measure of club approval."

About the Boston-Toronto scrap, Campbell said:

"I have examined the reports of game officials and of the referee-in-chief, Scotty Morrison, who attended the game.

"From these investigations it is apparent there was no acceptable justification or excuse for these actions by either team, and the authorized penalties should be applied."

Sports On All Fronts

VAL GARDENA, Italy (AP)—A threatened boycott by top skiers apparently fizzled Friday and plans went forward for qualifying runs today in the men's special slalom of the world alpine skiing championships. Led by Karl Schranz, the Olympic veteran from Vienna, Austrian and French skiers had said the world's best performers would boycott the event unless the 30 top men in the International Ski Federation standings were automatically qualified. The championship race is scheduled Sunday, leading off eight days of competition involving more than 300 of the top men and women skiers of the world. The FIS governors considered a protest submitted by the skiers and then rejected the request. Marc Hodler, president of the FIS, said governors had voted unanimously that all skiers would have to qualify as in the past. However, the skiers' demands would be considered at a future meeting, Hodler added. Frenchman Georges Mauduit, who had joined Schranz in leading the protest, acknowledged that there had been a breakdown in the united stand of the competitors. "Things have changed since the others have decided to run," he said.

OTTAWA (CP) — The case of outfielder Lee Thomas, formerly of Houston Astros of the National League, was cited Friday as one reason major league baseball players back Curt Flood's lawsuit against the reserve clause. Rusty Staub, popular outfielder with Montreal Expos, told a news conference called by the Expos that Houston's treatment of Thomas, who quit the sport in 1968, brings out one of the beefs players have against management. Under baseball rules, a player who has played eight seasons in major leagues cannot be sent to the minors if he can make a deal with another club. Staub was a team-mate of Thomas's in Houston in 1968. Staub said Thomas would have completed eight seasons in the majors on the last day of the 1968 schedule. But Astros took him out of the roster on the last day. Stripped of the chance to make a deal for himself should Houston decide to demote him, Thomas quit baseball. Staub indicated he was an unhappy player with Houston. But he said the Montreal management had changed all that.

Seals Tie Pittsburgh For West's Third Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Norm Ferguson hasn't been having the kind of season that almost won him the National Hockey League Rookie-of-the-Year award in 1968-69 but he can still manage to lead Oakland Seals to an important victory.

The 24-year-old native of Sydney, N.S., who scored 34 goals in his rookie year, counted only his 10th and 11th of the season Friday night but it was all the Seals needed for a 2-1 win over St. Louis Blues.

The victory before a St. Louis crowd of 16,162 moved the Seals into sole possession of fourth place in the West Division, two points ahead of Minnesota North Stars.

The Seals could move into a tie with third-place Pittsburgh Penguins tonight when Oakland visits Toronto Maple Leafs. The Penguins, however, have the advantage of home ice in their meeting with last-place Los Angeles Kings.

In other games, Minnesota, which has dropped to fifth from second place in less than a month, plays host to Montreal Canadiens while Detroit Red Wings visit Boston Bruins and Philadelphia Flyers meet the Black Hawks in Chicago.

Sunday, Los Angeles visits New York Rangers, Canadiens are at Chicago, St. Louis at Boston, Philadelphia at Detroit and Minnesota at Pittsburgh.

Ferguson, who was just two votes behind Minnesota's Danny Grant in the Calder Trophy race last season, barged down his right wing past the St. Louis defenders to beat goalie Glenn Hall for both his goals.

He eluded defenceman Al Arbour for his first shot at 4:44 of the first period and 53 seconds later he slipped past Bob Plager to assure the Seals of their first victory on St. Louis ice in 12 tries.

Orillia Widens Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Two-goal efforts by George Vail and George Westfall helped Orillia Terriers increase their Ontario Hockey Association Senior series lead Friday with a 7-4 win over Woodstock A's.

In other games, Belleville Mo-Hawks fell 7-5 to Oakville on home ice, despite outshooting the Oaks 51 to 30, and Owen Sound Crescents overcame Barrie Flyers 6-5 in sudden-death overtime.

The Terriers, who posted their 27th win of the season and shifted 11 points ahead of Galt Hornets, also got goals from Steve Monteith, Gary Milroy and Ray Dupont. Monteith, a newcomer to the Orillia lineup, is a former member of Canada's national team.

Toby Black, with two goals, Jerry Harrigan and Mac Westgate scored for the last-place A's, who suffered their 31st defeat in 35 starts.

At Owen Sound, Dale Watson scored with his second goal of the night, and Bob Foster followed him 17 seconds later in the final minute of the third period for the Crescents to force overtime.

Bill Abbott fired the winner, his 26th goal of the season, at 3:16 of the extra period while Barrie defenceman Jack Smith was serving a major penalty for high-sticking.

Keith Smeltzer and Garrie Vaughan completed the scoring for the seventh-place Crescents. Fern St. Onge, Rick McClocklin, Mike Dubeau, Paul White and Corby Adams all scored once for Barrie.

Swimmers Make Big Splash

TORONTO (CP) — One Canadian and two Ontario records were set Friday night as the three-day Ontario senior swimming championships began, with Angela Coughlan setting one and participating in a second.

Miss Coughlan broke her own Canadian record in the 800 metres free style event shaving more than a second off her old mark. She finished the event with a time of 9:33.3, compared to the previous mark of 9:34.5.

In the women's 800-metres free-style relay she anchored the University Settlement team to a new Ontario standard of 9:32.8 almost two seconds less than the previous record of 9:34.5.

The University of Toronto men's team set a new Ontario mark in the 800 metres relay event of 8:46.4 compared to the old record of 8:53.1.

In the men's 1,500 metres free style event, George Gross of Toronto finished first with a time of 18:24.3.

Results:

Women's 800-metres relay: 1. USAC (Angela Coughlan, Jennifer Glanert, Alison Bays, Shiela Van Spronsen); 2. Winnipeg Cardinals; 3. North York Aquatic Club. Time 9:32.8.

Men's 800-metres relay: 1. University of Toronto (Mike Guinness, John Twohig, Doug McIntosh, Terry Bryon); 2. North York Aquatic Club. 3. Etobicoke Memorial Aquatic Club. Time 8:46.4.

Women's 800-metres free style: 1. Angela Coughlan, USAC; 2. Kathy Brown, Etobicoke Memorial Aquatic Club; 3. Wendy Wansbrough, Etobicoke Memorial Aquatic Club. Time 9:33.3.

Men's 1,500-metres freestyle: 1. George Gross, USAC; 2. Shawn Larri, Etobicoke Memorial Aquatic Club; 3. John Sebben, North York Aquatic Club. Time 18:24.3.

EDWARD A. ADAMS

Funeral service for Edward A. Adams was held Friday afternoon at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home with Rev. Roy Vessey officiating.

Interment took place at Belleville Cemetery.

Public Hearing Planned On Closing of Road

WOOLER — Murray Township council will hold a public meeting at the township offices in Wooler Feb. 17 to hear the views of affected landowners and residents with respect to the proposed closure of Barcovan Beach Road.

The federal transport committee presented the proposal to council in a letter, after consultation with both the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways.

Basis of the proposal was the reconstruction of a half mile section of the Power Line Road which has been closed for over 30 years. This would provide an alternate route for traffic and allow the closure of Barcovan Beach Road at the joint CN-CP level crossing, just south of Highway 2.

Advantages of the closure of Barcovan Beach Road were cited as the elimination of a level crossing and a saving of approximately $45,000 — the estimated cost of erecting a railway crossing light and gate warning system at the present level crossing on Barcoven Beach Road.

Murray council will also study a complaint registered at Friday night's council session by a township resident, Victor Peck.

Mr. Peck, whose property adjoins Riverview Speedway, told council that the Domtar plant waste dumped on the track at the Speedway had saturated the ground and spoiled his well.

He told council he has no alternate water source and wants something done. This situation also was the subject of a report from the Ontario Water Resources Commission.

Clerk - treasurer Angus Gunter told council that it had the power to refuse the Speedway a licence if the Speedway owner, Clifford Stillman, was convicted of any offence. He said that the bylaw regulating race tracks does not specify the nature of the offence.

Disguised Police Kill Hi-jacker

SANTIAGO (Reuters) — Two Chilean policemen disguised as aircraft mechanics killed one hijacker and wounded another here Friday night in a gun battle aboard a crowded Caravelle jetliner being forced to Cuba.

The policemen were slightly injured in the duel, but one stewardess was severely wounded and taken to hospital.

The two policemen clambered on the LAN Airlines plane, carrying 70 passenge... when it landed at Santiago's Pudahuel Airport to refuel before heading for Havana.

The pair of air pirates—a Chilean university student, Pedro Lenin Valenzuela, 19, who was slain, and Omar Marcelo Vasquez, 20—seized the plane while it was over Temuco, 460 miles from Santiago on a domestic flight between Punta Arenas in southern Chile and here.

EXPLORES SIBERIA

A National Geographic Society program in the 1969-70 season will explore Siberia via the Trans-Siberian Railway, truck caravan and Aeroflot jet.

ASK THE STAFF

Question :	If I have a building in a single family zoned area in the city can I use it as a variety store?
Answer :	Unless the store was in existance before the zoning bylaw was passed you cannot under the single family zoning open a variety store. If however there was a store in existance in the building prior to and since the zoning you can operate but only in the previously used area.

WE SEEK A MAN WITH AMBITION

We're looking for a man with confidence in his ability to earn substantially more than his present job offers . . . who believes in the future because he believes in himself . . . who by helping people in the booming educational field will also be helping himself.

As our international company continues its tremendous growth, our need for salesmen with ambition continues. Our national advertising produces potential students by the thousands and we need men to call on these people - - NOW.

Famous Artists, Writers and Photographers Schools . . . The Famous Schools of Westport, Connecticut, offers America's most distinguished faculty including: Norman Rockwell, Jon Whitcomb, Rod Serling, Bennett Cerf, Faith Baldwin, Richard Avedon, Bert Stern, Irving Penn.

Now in addition to these 3 renowned courses Famous Schools has added the new, exciting Famous Artists Course for talented YOUNG people.

The man selected will earn a very high income - - in commissions - - the very first year. Many of our men increased their income 100%, the first year and while enjoying a prestige career. They work only qualified leads. Full company benefits including major medical and company paid insurance.

The ideal man is mature, owns a car, and can do some travelling.

"The Hardest Working Classified Want Ads are the ones that are Written the Best!"

Follow These Helpful Suggestions For Writing A Good Want Ad.

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

2—Be CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. Always include "price".

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions.

You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

New Site Necessary For Town Dump

CAMPBELLFORD — A topic which created concerned discussion at Campbellford council meeting was the condition and location of the present town dump. A letter had been received from the Department of Energy and Resources and one also from the Public Health unit stating immediate steps should be taken to find a new site and better supervision.

The present site is at the southern end of the town limits, according to new legislation this alone is prohibitive, also burning creates air pollution, refuse is left uncovered. These conditions are against local legislation but due to being unsupervised are difficult to control. It was decided the present site should be closed as soon as a new site can be procured.

When a new location is established it will be properly fenced with gate and a supervisor put in charge. Specific days and hours for dumping will be established.

A new site, not disclosed, was suggested and Mayor Tanner with property committee was asked to find out if the price was favorable and it was suggested they meet with Seymour township council to see if a joint solution could be reached. Until such time as a definite decision can be reached signs will be placed on the present location limiting days and hours of dumping with a man in charge to give rigid control.

Deficit Of $5,400

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford council received a report from the Board of Education regarding the adjustment of assets and liabilities of the former school boards under Bill 44 which required a board of arbitration to check the assets and liabilities of former area boards.

In Campbellford the former elementary school board had a credit of $10,117. The secondary school board had a liability of $15,533 which means when figures are balanced the town will be asked to pick up a deficit of $5,400 in the next budget.

A request from LODA for color slides of the area for promotion use was held over as there was some difference of opinion whether council would become a member of LODA this year.

CN Places Multi-million Piggy Back Car Contract

MONTREAL — Orders for 1,150 flat cars at a cost of close to $19-million have been placed by Canadian National Railways.

The largest order, for 1,000 70-ton steel bulkhead flatcars, at a cost of $16-million, went to Marine Industries Limited, Sorel, Quebec.

One hundred and fifty, 50-ton 63-foot piggyback flat cars, costing $2.7 million have ben ordered from IEC-Holden Limited, Montreal and will be built at their plant at Napanee, Ontario.

The Marine Industries cars will be used in CN's lumber and pulpwood service. Delivery is to commence in June 1970 and continue through to November, 1970.

The piggyback cars will be used to meet the growth in piggyback traffic handled by Canadian National, delivery will start in August and be completed by November 1970.

Woman Is Injured

DESERONTO — Returning from Belleville recently Mrs. Dorothy McCullough of Deseronto lost control of her car, and it went into a deep ditch. She is in the Belleville General Hospital, where she was found to have injuries to her face, and chest, and a cut on her knee. There are no broken bones.

The first person to reach the scene of the accident was Stan Merrick, proprietor of the Skyway Lounge. He found her dazed, but conscious. A woman from a nearby house, Mrs. Tom Drummy, came out to offer assistance and called the doctor, the ambulance, and the police.

The accident occurred near the Roman Catholic Church in Marysville at Drummy's Corners. No estimate has yet been made of the damage to the car.

Possibility of New Town Barn Is Discussed at Council Meeting

DESERONTO — The question of a new town barn came up for considerable discussion during the recent meeting of the council. At a previous meeting an offer was made to sell to the town the garage which David Saunders no longer operates. The question now is whether it would be wiser for the town to pay the asking price of $13,500 for an old but sturdy building into which the town's machinery can be moved immediately or to build a new one. The matter was left to the street's committee under Percy Brooks to bring further information to the next council meeting, Feb. 16. It is estimated that the material alone for a new building would cost the town at least $4,000 and the finished building would cost approximately $15,000.

A second factor must be considered by the council. Mr. Saunders has offered to allow payments to extend over a period of time, allowing the town to handle the financing itself. Should a new building be erected, debentures must be issued and the consent of the Ontario Municipal Board would be necessary.

Deseronto this year for the first time joined the Association of Mayors and Reeves and Mayor J. W. Sharpe and Reeve George Lyons will attend the convention in Toronto in May if at all possible.

The question of parking abuses was brought up and councillor Eddie Gordanier was advised to talk the matter over with the police department. Deseronto has no parking meters. Police Chief Carl Beattie stated later that councillor Gordanier had approached him naming the offenders mentioned during the meeting. He said the matter was taken up with these people and they had co-operated.

A matter which has vexed Deseronto citizens for some time is at last receiving attention. The small park near the town hall and the firehall is on a corner and for years people have been taking short cuts across it. Now a cross walk will be installed. Percy Brooks now has the authority to direct the streets' foreman to see that such a cross walk is built as soon as the weather permits.

The meeting was a protracted one, as council interrupted its deliberations to talk over matters with Deseronto's represenattive on the Hastings County Board of Education, Mr. J. L. Gunning.

Board of Quinte Pastoral Charge Has Annual Meeting

MELROSE — The annual meeting of the official board of Quinte pastoral charge was held recently on Jan. 28 in Melrose Church with an attendance of 14.

Reports were received from the treasurers and the 1970 budget was presented by Gerald Lott. It was approved.

Business included the question of continuance of transportation by bus to Melrose Church. A motion passed by which Melrose congregation will assume the whole cost of operation for 1970.

It was agreed that since use of the church telephone had decreased to the extent that it was no longer a necessity, it will be removed.

Mrs. C. Milligan resigned as caretaker and Mr. Sherry Demille will assume the duties at Melrose for this year.

Mr. Piercy of Deseronto was appointed to send the combined contributions to the missionary and maintenance fund monthly. A committee of three was appointed to look into the matter of insurance on the Shannonville Church property.

Traffic Lights Cost Estimated

CAMPBELLFORD — Council received a price of $645 from a firm of traffic engineers to instal flashing lights at the intersection of Doxsee and Market streets. The price includes Federal and Provincial taxes. Cost of material alone was quoted at $295.

The installation would consist of two eight inch flashing amber lights and two eight inch flashing red lights. Council decided to contact the Public Utilities Commission asking for a price on labor for installation of the lights to ascertain the least expense in having the work done.

To continue the traffic discussion it was disclosed that cars are parking too close to some intersections particularly in the high school area. It was decided parking regulations would be applicable to more intersections to improve visibility.

Signed Confession by Accused Introduced in Kidnap Trial

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — A signed statement by former Metropolitan Toronto police constable Richard Yeowart that he participated in the kidnapping of Mary Nelles last Sept. 7 was introduced at his trial Friday.

The statement by Yeowart, taken by police six days after the kidnapping, was accepted as evidence before County Court Judge Alex C. Hall and a 12-man jury.

Yeowart, charged with kidnapping and conspiracy to kidnap Mrs. Nelles, said in the statement he was involved in a struggle at the Nelles' home in Claremont, Ont., on the night of the kidnapping.

Five other Toronto men—Gary Adams, Ralph Cameron, Michael Whiteside, Peter Burns and John Rogan—pleaded guilty to kidnapping charges and were sentenced last November to sentences ranging between 10 to 15 years.

Mrs. Nelles was held captive for almost two days and released after her husband, Cliff, paid a ransom of $200,000.

The Crown concluded its evidence Friday and the trial will resume Monday.

In his signed statement to police, Yeowart admitted he pulled Mr. Nelles to the floor when he and Mrs. Nelles returned to their home from an evening in Toronto.

Yeowart said in the statement he saw Mary Nelles on the floor and "told her no harm would come to her to give her peace of mind if possible."

The statement said Yeowart was to receive $150,000 for his role in the kidnapping.

Yeowart said Whiteside invited Adams, the admitted ringleader of the kidnapping, to his home where Adams discussed the plan and "a large sum of money."

Metro Toronto Detective Wallace Harkness testified that when police came to Yeowart's apartment six days after the kidnapping to make an arrest, Yeowart said:

"I'm glad it's all over."

Det. Harkness said the confession was four pages and took Yeowart an hour and a half to make.

In the statement, Yeowart said on the night of the kidnapping he broke into a basement window at the Nelles home, walked around upstairs, became scared and left.

He said he met Cameron outside and told him someone was sleeping inside.

"Actually no one was home, I just wanted to get out of it," the statement said.

He said Adams talked to the group and they decided to continue the plan. He said he returned inside the house with Cameron to wait for the Nelles.

Yeowart later sat sobbing in the prisoner's box as Inspector Jack Reid of the Metropolitan Toronto police said Yeowart resigned from the police force two hours after giving his statement.

Insp. Reid testified he told Yeowart he would have to suspend him from the force until the charge against him could be heard in court or Yeowart would have to resign. Yeowart decided to resign, the inspector said.

Judge Hall also accepted into evidence notes written by two Ontario provincial police officers about a conversation they had with Yeowart after his arrest.

The officers, Sgt. Reginald Rackham and Constable Joseph Ward, were permitted to read from their notebook direct quotes they said were made by Yeowart.

One of the quotes had Yeowart saying: "How long will I get? 10 years. I guess I'll be lucky with 10 years."

In another quote read to court, Yeowart said he was sorry for the crime and added, "I don't know what we were thinking about."

Gas Pressure in Malton Main Was Above Specified Limit

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — The pressure of natural gas in the 12-inch main that exploded and destroyed most of the business section of Malton last fall was more than the main was meant to contain, a coroner's jury was told Friday.

Ralph Jones, chief engineer for Consumers' Gas Co., testifying at the inquest into the death of Jean Perigo, 75, said that the 12-inch line was designed to carry 175 pounds a square inch but it was connected to a 30-inch line in which the pressure was about 300 pounds a square inch.

He said that 45 minutes after the explosion the pressure in the 12-inch pipe went down to about 90 pounds.

The explosion and resulting fire last Oct. 25 caused $1,500,000 damage. Twenty-two persons were injured.

Mr. Jones said the ruptured 12-inch main was not in use at the time of the explosion. He said the line was no longer used to send a flow of gas to consumers but there was gas in the pipe to maintain pressure.

Earlier witnesses said there was an open valve which should have been closed at a point in the pipe between the 30-inch line and the rupture.

Mr. Jones said a copy of a chart showing the pipeline and valve layout in the area did not show the 12-inch pipe looping into the 30-inch pipeline. He said the plan he had was blurred and he couldn't see the 12-inch pipe connecting to the 30-inch one.

Mr. Jones said the fire was the worst in the company's 122-year history. He described it as "a one-in-a-million chance" because three separate pressure systems are centred in the Malton area, a unique situation in itself.

There was evidence given Thursday that the fire burned about four hours before the line feeding the flames was finally shut down.

STOP KILLING YOURSELF

By Peter J. Steincrohn, M.D., F.A.C.P.
Author of "The Doctor Looks At Life"

Disregard Claims Naps Are Harmful

Don't take naps! This is the latest don't. Before you get me wrong let me add my own don't: I don't agree. For many years I have advocated naps for patients.

Therefore I was more than upset when I read a wire dispatch in today's newspaper that quoted a noted heart surgeon who said, "A nap helps to kill the human body."

Another don't added to the long list which includes: don't smoke; don't drink liquor; don't drink coffee; don't relax — keep exercising; don't sleep too long; don't retire from work early; don't do this and don't do that.

Now it's: don't take naps! Pretty soon we'll be advised to stop breathing.

• • •

I advise naps for heart patients; for ulcer patients; for those who have high blood pressure; for those suffering from nervous tensions; and for the healthy who want to keep healthy.

When you nap for at least an hour a day you recharge the human body instead of "killing it." Your blood pressure falls, your heart beats more slowly, you breathe easier, and your tensions are washed out for a while. For many, naps are life-savers rather than killers.

One reason put forth that naps are dangerous is that in many Latin countries people are in the habit of overeating and taking a two- or three-hour siesta. Besides, they are under great tension getting home in crowded traffic.

If such naps are harmful, blame it on the traffic or on overeating. The nap itself is innocent.

I suggest that you take my word for it. As an internist I wouldn't dare to try a heart transplant operation. Likewise, heart surgeons should stick to their own territory and not poach on ground of medical doctors whose experience testifies to the healthful results produced by the daily nap.

If still in doubt, why not ask your family doctor? I'll wager that at least nine medical practitioners out of 10 will say the daily nap is a welcome adjunct in managing the healthy as well as the sick. And I'll give you odds.

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 76 and in good health for my age. I have never been addicted to drinking alcohol or smoking. Nevertheless, I have tried wine or whiskey occasionally in small amounts. What kind of liquor shall I take? Does a nip before bedtime help sleep? — Mr. Y.

Comment: I believe that an ounce of hard liquor is well tolerated by people in your age bracket. Some take bourbon or Scotch. Others prefer wine.

Many students of the alcohol problem have agreed liquor in small amounts is helpful for the elderly. I doubt you are in danger of becoming an alcoholic now.

As for helping sleep, many of my patients have preferred a glass of stout before bedtime, rather than a sleeping pill.

• • •

For Mrs. J.: Feel suicidal when you look in a mirror? I suggest you have your doctor refer you to a good plastic surgeon. Let him decide what is best for "me and my ugly nose."

• • •

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am writing this to bring hope and courage to men who are afraid to have a necessary prostate operation. I am 80, just had mine out a few months ago. Was in recovery room for about four hours, had an uneventful convalescence and my operation has been a complete success. I sleep right through the night and am not bothered during the day.

Jean Dixon's Horoscope

For February 8

Your birthday today: Your personal new year beginning now should be directed to learning more of the needs of people and finding good ways to attend to them. Modernization schemes are featured strongly in and near your community.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Stay on the surface — a Sunday afternoon discussion can easily turn into bitter dissension. A sudden whim may be the answer to the situation — if it's feasible, then follow your intuition.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): The more down to earth you are today the better. Your friends are full of schemes that promise no great results, remember people have a right to make mistakes.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Make your appearance early, take your share in the community expression of unity. Tend social contacts and cultivate new acquaintances.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Check letters carefully — your immediate reaction may lead you to overlook something important. Your own correspondence can wait for a better time.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Much of what people project around you today is incorrect or misleading. You needn't join in the stampede or be taken in. Seek mental stimulation rather than mere entertainment. Unexpected visitors are normal; be gracious.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): For once you are promised a Sunday when everything goes right along and in moderation. Make the most of it, include your loved ones, and enjoy life as it comes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Get out and make the rounds—there's so much to find out that is not printed in newspapers. A great deal can be done to improve your surroundings; set a good example, and enlist the cooperation of your neighbors.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Even the best laid plans go astray this Sunday — the more complex the more off-course.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Enjoy this fairly pleasant Sunday. A period follows in which your friends and loved ones are too taken up with other matters to spend much time and attention on you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): News from relatives and business connections in distant places may puzzle you. Wait for better information before you jump. Time will show that criticism received today is unfair or incorrect, so hold your reply.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Put in a conventional Sunday for all to see and join. Your passing moods of internal emotional conflict are better kept hidden or at least unspoken for the moment. The evening brings good news.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Special surprises do not necessarily concern you and your affairs directly.

For February 9

Your birthday today: It is quite easy to break up such major contracts in the coming year. You may reach a state in which personal independence is of more importance to you than co-operation or sharing the major part of your time and effort.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Cheer up your surroundings; use your intelligence to charm all concerned into a better frame of mind. Work hard to get the week off to a good start.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): It is rather easy to shock people whose opinion counts. Others expect you to be responsible or pick up the cheque. Sort out the obstacles; keep trying even though matters bog down in trivia.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Impractical and unreliable people get mixed into whatever is going on. People of greater authority expect you to comply promptly with their plans.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Changes in the home could lead to unexpected, dismaying results today. An element of mystery in your emotional ties may take a capricious turn in the evening.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): The early morning hours may bring a very promising proposal. Take a positive attitude; explore all the possibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Take a passive role today if you can. If tolerable, let things go unnoticed while you plan actively for the next two or three weeks. You need relief from the heavy pace some people would like you to pursue.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Get a solid breakfast or early brunch. You may not have much chance later. Take great pains to be punctual for all arrangements

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Conflicting aspects in group or partnership efforts hinder your efforts somewhat, but continue promoting your pet theories and ideas. Make the evening a social adventure.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Tensions in the family must be ignored, people jollied out of their moods, your mate encouraged and assisted.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Personal affairs must, at nearly all costs, be left out of career efforts. Your deliberate insistence on details and explanations only complicates matters for everybody around you today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Begin a survey to discover neglected possibilities for extra income, unused resources.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Follow your intuition implicitly — force issues, sales, disclosures. Plans for distant travel, holiday tours, and the like can be fascinating.

Hawk Rusk Was Behind Bombing Pause--LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson says his secretary of state, Dean Rusk—rather than the defence secretary, Clark Clifford—played the key role in a 1968 decision to stop bombing most of North Vietnam without concessions by the North Vietnamese.

Rusk, who had been considered the hard-liner in the Johnson cabinet, declined comment on the former president's version of the events except to say Johnson's account of the bombing halt preliminaries "seems to be accurate."

Clifford, who generally had been considered the most powerful Johnson administration advocate of reducing the fighting, declined comment. Johnson said in Friday night's televised interview that Clifford had proposed putting conditions on a bombing halt.

Clifford, reached at his home in a Washington suburb, said: "It would be inadvisable, inappropriate to be drawn into the discussion."

But there was comment from a war critic who came under fire by Johnson in the interview, Senator J. W. Fulbright (Dem. Ark.), who said Johnson misrepresented the facts in winning congressional approval of the Gulf of Tonkin resolution. The Johnon administration had cited the 1964 resolution as providing the authority to dispatch large numbers of U.S. troops to Vietnam.

Johnson said the resolution had been explained to Fulbright.

"It just never occurred to me that the president of the United States would lie to the members of the Senate about a factual situation," Fulbright, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, said Friday. "I was completely taken in as was the whole Senate." He said the congressional action on the resolution followed "an absolute misrepresentation of the facts."

Johnson said in the interview: "Don't tell me a Rhodes Scholar (Fulbright) didn't understand everything in that resolution, because we said to him at the White House and every other member of that committee that the president of the United States is not about to commit forces and undertake actions to deter aggression in South Vietnam to prevent this Communist conspiracy, unless and until the American peopse through their Congress sign on to go in."

The former president said he asked for the Tonkin Gulf resolution in August, 1964, rather than for a declaration of war because he feared North Vietnam might have secret treaties which would bring Communist China and the Soviet Union into the war.

Johnson made his comments in the second of a series of televised interviews with Walter Cronkite. It was filmed by CBS several months ago at the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

Johnson said Rusk made the first suggestion that they stop the bombing when they were going over recommendations from top advisers in early March.

"Secretary Rusk came back and said—while we were evaluating these things, he said, 'Now I think the time's come where we can stop the bombing.' " Johnson said.

"Some of them suggested—I think Secretary Clifford suggested and we and some of the others joined him—that we stop the bombing on the condition that the North Vietnamese do something.

"And Secretary Rusk said: 'That won't work, this reciprocity won't work. We ought to just stop the bombing.'"

Johnson said he then ordered his advisers to work up a plan.

The former president said that at about the same time United Nations Ambassador Arthur Goldber, unaware of Rusk's proposal, asked him to stop the bombing.

PM Meets Students

Beaded Trudeau Enchants Young

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, wearing love beads and fondling daffodils, Friday night brought smiles to the faces of student Liberals who had earlier shown dissatisfaction with their party.

The 200 delegates to the Canadian Student Liberals' national convention welcomed their leader with cheers and applause as the prime minister took the hot seat to face questions on pollution, arctic sovereignty, United States ownership in Canada, marijuana and other currently-volatile political issues.

Mr. Trudeau handled the questions—including some brittle comments from western delegates—with easy grace, leaving his followers glowing in his presence.

The highlight of the evening was the surprise presentation of flowers—flown in from Vancouver by British Columbia delegate Rox Mellander, 18. Miss Mellander, who said she felt sorry for the prime minister in the frigid Ottawa winter, was rewarded by a kiss.

Mr. Trudeau called his young audience, which grew up with television, "the uncensured ge-television, "the uncensored ge-little control over what they learned or thought.

He urged the students to assume the role of critics—of each other as well as their elders.

"Young people should challenge each other more. . . . Your role is to contradict others."

The prime minister defended the government's arctic and Indian policies, but said he welcomed the debate he got from the floor as a necessary aspect of participatory democracy.

He said there was "no preconception in the cabinet" on the issue of marijuana, but as for himself: "The world is so exciting I get my high from inside."

On another issue on delegates' minds—U.S. ownership in Canada—Mr. Trudeau said his government plans to "reorient Canadian capital and Canadian technology into sectors important in the future." Communications satellites and nuclear power were some of those areas.

He warned that the only alternatives to U.S. investment are a lower standard of living or acceptance of capital from other sources.

The prime minister also rejected limits on U.S. professors in Canadian universities.

"I'd hate to see the universities putting quotas on brains."

Mr. Trudeau's visit capped the first day of the three-day convention.

Earlier, delegates had listened to a wide-ranging paper by outgoing president Tom Bernes on Society in the Cybernetic Age in which the party was urged to gear up for a social and political revolution to match the technological revolution already under way.

Court Told Pollution Was Severe

OTTAWA (CP) — Raymond Manson, an officer of the Ontario Water Resources Commission, says oil pollution that forced the closing of two local beaches here last June was the worst he has seen in nine years on the job.

Mr. Manson, whose district stretches in a triangle from Toronto to Cornwall to Algonquin Park, was testifying Thursday at the trial of Public Fuels Transmission Systems Ltd.

The firm is charged with unlawfully discharging, or permitting to be discharged, fuel oil into storm sewers emptying into Nepean Creek, which in turn empties into the Rideau River.

Mr. Manson told provincial court Judge Harry Williams that he took water samples from the creek outlet June 6 and found high oil ratios in it.

"I'd never seen so much oil coming out," he said.

Lawrence Armstrong, the firm's president, said the contractor hired by his company was responsible for the leak because he did not adhere to job specifications.

Decision on the case was reserved to Feb. 16.

Politics Bothers Student Parley

MONTREAL (CP) — A national student conference, convened at McGill University here to discuss formation of a new national student union, bogged down Friday in disagreement over whether such an organization should be political.

The conference to establish a successor to the defunct Canadian Union of Students enters its third day today.

CUS disbanded last fall after students at severa lofism t member universities voted to withdraw from the organization, the crushing blow coming with the withdrawal of the University of Toronto.

A campaign against CUS at the U. of T. criticized the union's political involvements.

Ian Brooks of the University of Western Ontario, London, said Friday he supports a politically-oriented organization because "it must deal with the problems of society as a whole."

But a position paper presented by the University of Ottawa opposes a politically-involved body.

"Any organization which combines national student affiliation with an ideologically-constricted approach will and should fail," the Ottawa brief noted.

John Campbell, delegate from the University of Winnipeg, said "we don't see the need for a national association."

He says he speaks for the [illegible]5,000-member Manitoba Association of Students and adds "I am not a western secessionist."

Gus Abols, University of Toronto student president, and key man behind that university's non-confidence vote in the Canadian Union of Students last October, suggested Friday that militant students should wait till people like him are out of the way before attempting to form another "politically-oriented union".

..His remarks may have been directed at an ad hoc coalition comprised of Brooks and another University of Western Ontario delegate, Gary Cwitco, together with University of Toronto delegate Bob James.

The three mounted an impromptu filibuster Friday afternoon and proposed a resolution that delegates abandon the square conference table information and get down to the "nitty gritty" by sitting on the floor.

That resolution was defeated, but delegates came up with no ideas of just what a national student union should be.

The conference continues until Sunday.

Nixon Issues Appeal For War on Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, sounding a call for total mobilization against unclean air and water, says he will send a special message to the United States Congress Tuesday outlining his plan to fight pollution.

The president disclosed Friday in pollution-ridden Chicago that the first of 22 messages he promised Congress in his State of the Union address will concern the anti-pollution campaign.

"It will cover water pollution, air pollution and also the acquisition, through new innovative financing as well as other methods, of open space for the future generations," Nixon said.

The president took note of what he called "a rather sterile discussion as to who really deserves the credit for discovering the issue . . . of pollution."

But Nixon said: "Let's just get right to the fundamentals. . . . There is pollution of the air. There is pollution of water. We do have a major problem with regard to recreation areas in this country.

"If we do not act now on all these problems, we are not going to have an environment that is fit to live in the United States within 10 to 15 years."

Bandit Eludes Two Pursuers

By MALCOLM JOHNSTON
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Kenneth Albert Wright, 26, of Hillier, is in the lockup at the Trenton police station.

He will appear in court here tomorrow morning on a charge of armed robbery. He is expected to be remanded.

Wright surrendered to the Picton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police yesterday, four hours after the Trenton branch of the Bank of Montreal on Dundas Street West had been robbed by an armed, unmasked man.

A bank employee, Larry Proulx, and another man, whose identity police refuse to reveal, chased a man from the vicinity of the bank into Prince Edward County. Proulx left the pursuing car to telephone police. His companion continued the pursuit but his quarry eluded him.

Wright's surrender at 6.15 p.m. culminated a four - hour manhunt which involved four police departments — Trenton police, and provincial police detachments in Belleville, Brighton and Picton — and entailed the setting up of roadblocks at the Murray Canal, Carrying Place, the Bay Bridge at Rossmore and the Quinte Skyway near Deseronto.

Trenton Police Chief R. J. Rutherford said that a lone gunman entered the bank at approximately 2.20 p.m. and robbed a teller of a sum of money in excess of $5,000.

Witnesses say that the gunman approached Mrs. Betty Lawson, the first teller on the right just inside the door, reached over the counter and took a bag of money which she was preparing for deposit in the vault.

No shots were fired and the holdup went virtually unnoticed by customers and bank employees until Mrs. Lawson pushed the alarm and screamed "I've been robbed."

In an effort to apprehend the gunman, the bank's personal loans officer Larry Proulx, is reported to have pursued the gunman out the front door and west along Dundas Street a short distance to Albert Street, where the suspect fled the scene in a 1969 yellow mustang.

Proulx was one of two men giving chase in another car. As the gunmen sped south on Highway 33, Proulx got out of the second car and telephoned police while the driver of the vehicle continued to pursue the bank robber, who turned onto Pleasant Bay Road which leads to North Bay Provincial Park.

Police have not confirmed a report that the gunmen fired at the second vehicle in an attempt to discourage pursuit.

The search was called off and the roadblocks were lifted shortly after the suspect surrendered. Police said Wright had a gun and some money in his possession. The gun was believed to be a rifle or sawed-off shotgun.

Records seem to indicate that Monday's holdup was the first armed bank robbery in Trenton.

Police said that earlier reports seemed to indicate more than one person was involved in the robbery. This is now believed to be untrue.

Two factors led to the identification of the suspect before his surrender. The car in which be fled was rented from an agency in Belleville and the man who entered the bank did not wear a mask.

Hoodlums May Kill Mardi Gras

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mayor Victor H. Schiro says hoodlum behavior in the Mardi Gras revelry threatens to force abandonment of the famous annual celebration.

Trumpeter Al Hirt, struck in the face by a brick while riding a parade float, expressed fear Monday that a 15-stitch lip injury might end his career.

Hundreds of youths toting sleeping bags and knapsacks had been arrested on charges of vagrancy or carrying concealed weapons.

Long-haired types who had been sleeping in cars or in the streets tossed bottles to enjoy the shattering crash.

Many city residents avoided the French Quarter, centre of the Carnival, for fear of being punched or insulted.

Mounties Called Kidnappers

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association Monday accused RCMP officers of kidnapping three United States military deserters and turning them over to American authorities.

John Stanton called for the arrest and punishment of the officers together with any of their superiors involved.

Forty Die as Avalanche Hits Alps Youth Hostel

VAL D'ISERE, France (CP) — Forty-two persons were killed today when an avalanche swept through a youth hostel and hotel and crossed a nearby national highway during a blizzard.

The avalanche of fresh powder snow was unleashed by one of the worst storms in the Alps in memory.

About 50 persons were reported injured and rescue workers said most of the victims were inside the government-run youth hostel when the avalanche hit.

The great snow mass roared down the side of a mountain during the breakfast hour at this major ski resort, home of French champions Jean-Claude Killy and Marielle and Christine Goitschel. It smashed a path 50 to 100 yards wide, burying cars as it went.

Some cars were dragged 150 yards from their parking places, and rescuers feared more dead or injured were in vehicles under the snow.

Rescue workers said most of the dead were French, although about 20 Belgians and six West Germans were also staying in the hostel.

The hostel, reinforced with concrete, was built four years ago in a spot which had never before been hit by an avalanche.

Arabs Bomb Israeli Jet

MUNICH (Reuters) — Three Arabs hurling bombs today ambushed passengers about to board an Israel El Al airlines jet, perhaps in an attempt to assassinate the son of a "prominent Israeli personality" reported flying to London.

The son was not identified and it was not known if he was hurt. However, one passenger was killed and 10 were injured. Police shot and wounded one of the attackers.

Black Oil Covers 11 Miles of Coast

ARICHAT, N.S. (CP) — Patches of thick, black bunker C oil stretch along a rocky, 11-mile section of the southern shore of Nova Scotia's Chedabucto Bay today, after leaking out of the grounded Liberian tanker Arrow.

Dr. Richard Warner, a marine biologist from Memorial University in St. John's, Nfld., said he spotted the oil from a helicopter Monday.

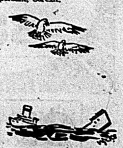
The oil varies from "light to very heavy." It covers rocks along the shore and is trapped in nooks and natural tidal pools along the coast.

"It will be months . . . years before there will be any life there again because the oil covered the surface," Dr. Warner said.

He said that bunker C is the least toxic of oil compounds but will kill plant and shell life with which it comes in contact.

Dr. Warner said most of the ecological damage from the Torrey Canyon oil leak off the British coast resulted from "massive use of detergents."

He said high pressure representatives of the manufacturers of dispersants and detergents came to get their product used. This has not happened here. Representatives of New Jersey Chemical Co. were not particularly anxious to use their dispersant, Corexit.



'It's called a tanker -- and it's used to pollute the sea.'

Doors Close Again on Discussion

Opening Talks on Price Stability Fail to Settle Anything

OTTAWA (CP) — The national conference on price stability goes back behind closed doors today, and indications are that all is not rosy in those private talks.

Dr. John Young, chairman of the prices and incomes commission which called the meeting of 235 top professional and business men, said similar closed talks Monday "didn't settle on anything."

By the end of today, Dr. Young hopes to have found a common ground on the specified aim of finding a formula to hold price increases below cost factors. Decisions of the conference will be made known at a final, open session late today.

The opening Monday was in public and on national television and featured a re-statement of the commission's objectives, a call by Prime Minister Trudeau for effective action, and testimonials of at least qualified support from several trade associations which previously had made their positions known.

Officially, Dr. Young told reporters that the closed session had dealt with detailed questions of interpretation, and will get down to trying to work out a consensus later.

He said the main debate was the concern of industry for the commission's ability to "influence the future level of wage and salary adjustments."

Unofficially, it was learned that the talk was tough.

Delegates speaking off the record to reporters said the necessity for restraint on labor wage demands was a hot topic. One delegate was reported to have received an especially-rousing reception for an outspoken speech on the subject.

Others told of concern for white paper taxation proposals and one delegate was reported to have said bluntly:

"Get the governments off our backs and we'll get off yours."

He objected particularly to the problems of making long-range corporate plans, and then being hit with new taxation at municipal, provincial or federal levels.

Another delegate in the woods products industry is reported to have told the session the government had made tariff agreements without consulting his industry, which affected profits for years. Now the industry was looking for a reasonably-good year and it was being asked to hold back on profits. He couldn't accept this reasoning.

Still another delegate in the home construction industry said his main problems were tight money and high taxation. This was a result of government action, and only the government could solve it.

Bankers, trust and loan company, and manufacturers associations, along with the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, told the opening session they were willing to urge their members to adopt price restraint for 1970.

Their big condition was that other cost factors be held in line, especially the demands of labor.

Community Not Participating

Social Services Not Keeping Pace with Expansion

By BARRY McCULLAGH
Staff Reporter

In a Belleville experiencing steady urban growth it is up to business, industry and corporations to recognize and deal with the social problems that accompany such growth, just as they give increased attention to employee relations, management development, industrial relations and job evaluation.

This was the theme of an address to Belleville Rotarians yesterday by Ronald Conlon, supervisor of the Family and Children's Service of Hastings County.

Mr. Conlon noted that business and industry often were blamed, if erroneously, for the ills of society. Nevertheless, a higher quality of life should be the responsibility of everyone — from the businessman and social worker to the working man.

Suggesting that Belleville was an old-established community which functions in many traditional ways, Mr. Conlon said the city was about to be propelled into further urbanization and "will soon become a city demanding more social services."

Areas of need, according to Mr. Conlon, included a private agency to deal with family and individual problems — not so much a counselling service, but one which works along with families and individuals, a larger mental health clinic, and a larger United Community Service fund and services.

Of the UCS, Mr. Conlon expressed concern that the service, as in many communities, finds it so difficult to operate and make its way.

"What disturbs me has nothing to do with personnel or even the agencies' knowledge of public relations or fund-raising techniques. Rather it is that our community and its leaders — financial or otherwise — do not have the insight and understanding of the necessity, and benefits of these funded services to all concerned.

"Certainly an influential and knowledgeable executive director would be desirable, but it should not be necessary for a basic functioning— the type that two volunteers are presently trying to uphold for the good of the city."

From a social service standpoint, he said, Belleville was not ready for expansion and may not even be meeting present needs.

Mr. Conlon referred to the confusion arising from the number of agencies in Belleville with similar names. There was the one to which he belonged, the Family and Children's Service (formerly the Children's Aid Society), which deals with children who are, or potentially are in need of protection; the Family and Social Service (above the Uniroyal store), dealing with old age pensions, mothers' allowance, disability pensión and the like; and Family Services, at the courthouse, which deals with local municipal payments to persons unable to obtain employment.

Mr. Conlon said that of all the public and private agencies offering programs in the province he knew of only a few able to provide services that were completely adequate.

"Their work is crippled by a shortage of funds and staff. often staff members are poorly-trained; some do not have sufficient understanding of client needs and as a result their goals may be unsound. Their programs suffer from want of co-ordination and planning with other agencies in the community, and from want of communication and helpful relationships in society at large."

But the biggest lack of all, he said, was community support.

"All communities need more citizens who know about and understand the needs of others and are concerned enough to work for such services so they will be adequate."

In a society living at a greater level of awareness than 20 years ago, business people, said Mr. Conlon, would have to become even more concerned with the total community, its functions and action programs.

Heart Appeal Okayed

The Belleville Financial Appeals Review Board has approved the plans of the Belleville Chapter, Ontario Heart Foundation, for a campaign for funds.

Scheduled to begin Feb. 26, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Dorothy Howell, assisted by Mrs. Isabel Hartt, the campaign will seek $8,000 from the citizens of Belleville and district. The area will be canvassed on a house-to-house basis, also about 100 direct mailing letters to professional men and a few local firms and individuals.

The members of the board agreed that the affairs of the Heart Foundation were in good order and noted that administrative, educational and campaign expenses of the national organization were kept in reasonable figures. The Belleville chapter's operating expenses for the year, July 1 1968 to June 30 1969, including campaign expenses were only $235.07 or 2½ per cent of funds raised.

Service Clubs Invited To Hear School Panel

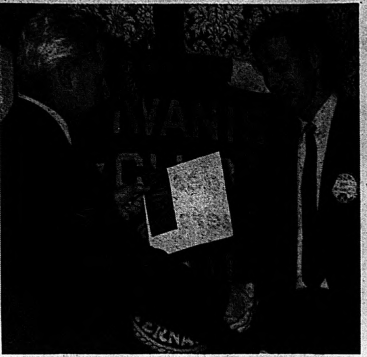
PICTON — A panel discussion focusing on the open team teaching system scheduled between members of the Prince Edward county board of education and Picton Kiwanis has been expanded to include two other service clubs.

Kiwanians have decided to invite members of the Rotary and Kinsmen Clubs to attend the Feb. 23 panel talk. Four representatives of the Prince Edward county board of education, including county director of education John McNeil and business administrator E. A. Shortt, will be present.

It was suggested also that town and county councillors attend the meeting.

Remarked Kiwanian Jesse Mason, "I think it is a subject vital to everyone's pocket and is one thing that should be given a lot of thought."

The open team teaching program has been implemented experimentally at Queen Elizabeth Public School in Picton.



Kiwanis Club Recognized

Chris Lockyer, Picton, last night presented the lieutenant-governor's divisional achievement award to Picton Kiwanis Club president Donald Stewart for the first time. Presented quarterly to a club within the division, the award is based on monthly points given for certain achievements. Mr. Lockyer, a member of the Picton Club, is beginning a year as lieutenant-governor in Kiwanis.

Ice Dam Endorsed But Site Uncertain

Belleville city council yesterday agreed to construct an ice control dam on the Moira River, but deferred deciding upon which site to build the structure until further information has been received from municipal committees.

A motion by mayor J. Russell Scott to refer the proposed project to the planning board, the recreation commission and the parks board for their advice was carried.

Council has yet to make a decision on one of two sites for the proposed dam — a site just north of College Street or just north of the Church Street and Station Street intersection.

City manager J. R. Reynolds told council that Belleville's share of the costs of the $670,000 project — $180,000 — would probably be put in the capital works budget for next year.

Adl. Robin Jeffrey summarized the differences in the two sites by explaining that the Lott dam site (Church and Station Streets) would contain one and one half million cubic feet of ice and that the College Street site would contain a half a million cubic feet.

Ald. Donald Soutter added that both sites were considered to be adequate in holding back ice and preventing a flood threat to Belleville.

Firm Office Is Entered

Would-be thieves broke into the Peacock Plastering Company, 14 Newberry St., early this morning by removing an air conditioning unit from the east side of the building.

Police reported that the plant office was ransacked, and the telephone ripped from the wall. It is not known whether anything is missing. Investigation into the incident is continuing.

Lottery for United Appeal Recommended to Council

The United Community Services has asked Belleville City Council to consider a UCS proposal to hold a lottery in the spring to provide adequate funds for its 1970 operation.

The proposal was one of three suggestions made by Msgr. J. P. Sullivan, director of the UCS, during his attendance at yesterday's regular meeting of council.

Msgr. Sullivan, reading from his own letter, said, "that since agency budgets were cut back prior to last fall's campaign, and since 100 per cent allocations are really needed if present level of service is to be maintained, city council is asked to pass the necessary legislation for the UCS to hold a lottery in the spring of the year."

The second proposal asked council to consider "that since it is deemed desirable to wipe out the UCS accumulated deficit of $18,000 as soon as possible, rather than spread it over a five-year period as previously suggested, the Financial Appeals Review Board be requested to authorize an approach to certain citizens for major contributions.

Since social planning is essential to our growing city and since the volunteer co-ordinators of the UCS cannot continue to give their time and talents indefinitely, city council make provision for a continuing allocation of $10,000 a year to help defray the cost of adequate staff for UCS," he said.

Msgr. Sullivan rehashed aspects of a recent "informal" meeting between directors of the UCS and council when council learned of the deficit position.

He explained that the deficit was not surprising and assumed proper dimensions when the fact was recognized that certain agencies operated with deficits before becoming part of the United Fund in 1966.

"Over a three-year period then, which included a rather disastrous campaign for 1968 funds, is it not understandable that the United Fund should have placed itself in the deficit position," he said?

He added that a further deficit of $13,000 incurred during 1969, "due in large part to the fact that an anticipated city grant was not forthcoming, must be paid out of the recent campaign receipts."

Msgr. Sullivan also suggested to council that discussions between the UCS and city council were urgent.

Council referred the proposals for consideration at a future date.

Road Cut Sparks Debate

A request by the Bell Telephone Company to cut into the pavement on Pinnacle Street to permit installation of an underground television cable linkage provided impetus yesterday for discussion in Belleville city council of protecting the city's newly-paved streets.

The cut would involve a 12-foot long trench in the asphalt in line with the north wall of the National Grocers Co. Ltd. building.

Discussion began when the decision to grant a permit was referred to council when the city engineer, Wilbur Purcell, had decided he was not prepared to agree with the cut.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said that council would have to be alert about the cutting up of city streets.

He introduced a motion to not grant permission, but it was lost when council learned from Mr. Purcell that further information received about the proposed cut had made him change his mind.

Council then decided that the city engineer, Mr. Purcell, could take appropriate action in making the decision.

Area Boards Sought

Belleville city council yesterday agreed to make application to the minister of Municipal Affairs for approval of the establishment of an area planning board together with subordinate zoning boards for each municipality involved.

The area planning board as suggested by Belleville would consist of the municipalities of Belleville, Trenton, Frankford and Murray, Sidney and Thurlow Townships.

Council agreed to the application after Mayor J. Russell Scott reported that each head of council for the municipalities involved had agreed at a recent meeting to take the resolution to their respective councils.

Also discussed at that meeting was the proposed establishment of a water and sewage area board.

Council yesterday agreed to a resolution suggesting application to D. J. Collins, chairman of the Ontario Water Resources Commission for approval of the establishment of such a water and sewage board comprised of representatives from Thurlow Township, Sidney Township and Belleville and the OWRC.

IN MEMORIAM

STAPLEY — In loving memory of a dear little boy Craig, who passed away one year ago.

No stain was on his little heart.
Sin had not entered there,
And innocence slept sweetly on,
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold earth,
Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's holy angel bore,
Our darling one away.

—Lovingly remembered by Mommy, Daddy and sisters.

LEE — In loving remembrance of Harry A. Lee who passed away one year ago today, February 10, 1969.

Rest in Peace. Your life was Beauty, Truth, Goodness and Love.

McCRORY — In loving memory of our dear mother, Myrtle, who passed away Feb. 10, 1969.

From hospital bed to heavenly rest,
God took you home to be His guest,
You suffered too much, your pleasures few.
You never deserved what you went through.
You stood the test and stood it well.
I was not there, Mom, to see you die,
To hold your hand or kiss you goodbye,
But I will remember my whole life through,
The last words I had with you.

—Ever remembered by her sons and daughters and grandchildren.

McCRORY — In loving memory of my dearest wife Myrtle, who passed away one year ago, Feb. 10, 1969.

If I had seen you at the last,
And held your dying hand,
And heard the last sigh from your heart,
I would not have felt so bad,
I did not know the pain you had,
Nor did I see you die,
I only know you went away,
And could not say goodbye.
I mourn for you in silence,
So no one could see me weep,
But many silent tears I shed,
While others are asleep.

—Sadly missed by husband Andy.

Depends on Budget

Board Endorses $114,000 Teacher Training Proposal

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings county board of education last night approved in principle a professional development and in-service training program for teachers that would amount to a $114,750 item in the 1970 budget.

In moving approval of the program in principle, Macdonald Smith warned "it may not be possible to implement the program due to budget limitations."

But he was challenged by Donald Williams of Stirling who countered with "I hope we won't revise this program downwards.

I have been in many schools this past year, and I'm shocked," he said. "We might better spend money on teachers' training, rather than put any more into buildings."

His sentiments were echoed by superintedent L. F. Reid, who presented the detailed training program to trustees.

"With the possible exception of schools, the church seems to be the last institution in our society to learn to spend money on personnel rather than buildings. Many trustees point with pride to new school buildings, but forget that the teachers' desks can be strongholds of ignorance," he said.

"In my 23 years in Hastings county I saw hundreds of classes in operation," continued Mr. Reid. "Because of the teacher shortage we have had to accept teachers with varying abilities. Now it is our job to make them all knowledgeable and productive."

"This is a provincial problem," commented director of education Eric Runacres. "The teacher is the most vital element in our system. Buildings, supplies, equipment are secondary. They could go by the board if all our teachers were topnotch."

Mr. Reid told the trustees that 30 per cent of the teachers in the county system are starting their careers or have less than two years experience in the classroom. Educational authorities estimate that one per cent of a board's budget should be spent on educational research.

"Our teachers need help," he asserted.

The professional development program approved in principle consists of five sections.

The first, staff meetings, would allocate a total of $26,250 in 1970 to principals to allow them to send teachers to workshops, local conferences or to visit other, exceptional teachers at work. The sum would cover participating teachers' expenses and pay for supply teachers.

The second section involves educational advisory committees, and allocates $11,200 for their expenses.

Set up following the creation of the county board, the educational advisory committees are composed of 15 teachers, including all secondary school department heads, four representative elementary school teachers and curriculum consultants. They prepare curriculum guidelines, consider research, promote workshops and analyze research.

"This grass-roots operation is probably the most valuable contributor to the achievement of the goals of this board," said Mr. Reid.

Mrs. Jean Hutchison noted that the committees seemed "loaded in favor of the secondary schools," and asked for "a more balanced representation".

Third section of the program would allocate money for the two co-ordinators (of instructional media and psychological services) and 15 consultants in the system to attend and conduct workshops and visitations. The amount involved is $4,250.

In the fourth section, $15,200 will be allocated for conventions attended by department heads, principals and vice - principals, superintendents and trustees.

The fifth section is called a "system program" and involves workshops and training sessions conducted by the superintendent of academic services (Mr. Reid) for teachers. This takes the lion's share of the in-service training budget, $57,900, for 10 weekly sessions involving a total of 240 teachers a year.

"As well as giving the good teachers insight into new administrative procedures, teaching methods and developments in education, the systems program will look after upgrading the poor teacher," said Mr. Reid.

"The poor teacher won't ever apply," noted Everett Fairman, a retired elementary school principal. "He should be made to go."

"It is a privilege, a bonus to go to national and international conventions," said Mr. Reid. "We try to send the best teachers, those who show leadership qualities."

"I don't think the best teachers should go," interjected Mr. Williams. "Send the poor ones. It's always the guy who is going well in his work who gets this bonus."

Mr. Runacres said he would hesitate to send a poor teacher to a national convention for two reasons — the material presented would be beyond his ability to grasp and he would be a poor representative of the board. The in-service training proposed on the local level was the place to improve the poor teacher.

Mr. Williams confessed he was "bothered" by the amount of supply teaching proposed in implementing the training program.

"What happens to the students?" he asked.

"The student loses out," admitted Mr. Reid. "But if you take a poor teacher out of the classroom temporarily and make him a better teacher, the student gains in the long run."

Vandals Concern Board

In a move to curb vandalism, county schools will be posted with signs declaring "unauthorized vehicles and persons prohibited".

Posting the 68 schools in the county will give police access to the schools and authorize them to act as agents of the board of education in halting any unwarranted activity around the premises.

In approving the move, trustees expressed concern that the posting might appear to be contrary to the program for encouraging the public to make greater use of its schools.

"At the same time, there is the ever-present problem of vandalism," noted business administrator Kenneth Wormald, in a written report to the board. "There is an increase in unauthorized activities with some damage, interference with organized activities, the safety of children and adults and the quiet life of school neighbors."

As examples, he cited snowmobiling, car racing, motorcycle racing, horseback riding, and golfing.

"Police officers, on their regular patrols, check doors and windows for security, but they advise that they are powerless to remove unauthorized persons loitering on school property unless the property is posted," he added.

"Who will interpret the intent of the sign?" asked Milford Waller of Thurlow.

Other trustees noted that "busybodies" might flood the police with calls protesting legitimate activities authorized for school property.

"We have a delicate public relations situation here," agreed director of education Eric Runacres. "We have no intention of stopping public use of the schools and grounds, but simply want to give the police power to act to stop damage to persons and property."

He suggested that each principal meet with pupils, parents and community representatives in his school neighborhood to decide what activities are permissible on the school grounds.

"Each situation is unique, and must be worked out by principal, parents and children," Mr. Runacres said. "The principal must take the responsibility for exceptional cases — for instance, deciding whether Sunday picnics are permissable if a request for one comes in."

He assured the trustees that letters explaining the posting would go out from each school, and "an intensive public relations campaign would be put in action to assure the public it is invited to use the schools.

Cost of materials for the 68 signs is $300, and the board's staff will do the painting and lettering.

Police Investigate Robbery

Trenton Police Department detective Sid Vickers questioned bank employees yesterday afternoon after an armed man made off with $5,000 from the Dundas St. West branch of the Bank of Montreal. He is seen leaving the bank to continue the investigation that led to the arrest of a man in Picton last night.

Belleville Men Attend Human Relations Talk

Two Belleville men, Bert Messacar of the YMCA and Ronald Conlon from the Family and Children's Services, were delegates to the founding conference of a new national council on human relations training.

Eighty-five delegates from Vancouver to Halifax, representing industry, the universities, churches, YMCA, government departments, and institutes of human growth were present at the conference in Toronto.

Discussions covered a wide range of topics, including training of human relations instructors, research, standards and design of human relations programs.

The new national organization, not yet officially named, will be led by Dr. Hedley Dimock, Sir George Williams University, Montreal; Yvon Tellier, Institute of Group Development, Montreal and Alex Owen, of the national council of YMCAs, Toronto.

Permanent regional representatives on the national council will be named by local groups later. The Belleville and Kingston group interested in human relations training will probably relate to the Ottawa and Eastern Ontario group.

Board Decides Danger Too Great

The spectre of school bus accidents haunts every school board in Ontario, but Hastings county board of education has decided to do something about it.

Last night, trustee Donald Williams of Stirling carried a motion through the board meeting to make it mandatory for all students to be seated on school buses when the vehicles are travelling at speeds over 30 miles an hour.

The recommendation will be sent to "appropriate governmental bodies" in an attempt to have it declared a law.

Mr. Williams confessed he was "frightened" when he saw buses travelling county roads with children standing in the aisles.

"When you realize we transport 9,000 to 10,000 students around the county every day, you know we have been fortunate to have had no accidents," he said.

"Are you prepared to spend more money for extra buses?" asked Laurison Gunning of Tweed. "If this recommendation becomes law it will mean more buses because there is not enough space in our present buses to permit high school students to sit down."

The board was told by a department of transport official at a previous meeting that regulations allow students to sit three to every two-seat grouping on a bus. Senior students complain this is satisfactory for elementary school children, but three 16- to 18-year-olds cannot squeeze in three to a seat.

Trustees discussed policing the regulation, and decided the bus driver should refuse to put his vehicle in motion until all are seated, even though this might result in the students being late for school.

"Let them be late and notify the principal," said Mr. Williams. "It is better that they be late a few times than never show up at all."

Milford Waller of Thurlow said too great a burden is placed upon the school bus driver.

"No teacher is expected to look after more than 30 or 40 children, yet we expect a bus driver to look after 50 or more and drive his bus too. This is a tremendous responsibility."

At the suggestion of Everett Fairman, the administration decided to send for copies of the New York State regulations governing school buses, considered to be the best in North America.

The bus recommendation will be sent to the departments of transport and education, and the provincial home and school organization for its support.

You Sold My School Trustee's Quick Answer

A uniform system of academic awards for graduating secondary school students in Hastings county is under study, but will have to await a report from administration to the board of education.

Trustees last night shot down the suggestion of one of their number that each trustee donate the money for awards to the schools in his ward.

"Divide the eight secondary schools among the trustees and let them donate the money," said Milford Waller of Thurlow.

"You sold my school; I'm out of it," commented Laurison Gunning of Tweed, amid a chorus of objections from the trustees.

Everett Fairman suggested the board give $100 to $150 to each principal to award as he saw fit.

At present, the board is continuing the policy of former individual boards in the county in granting cash awards. Prizes for commencement amount to about $100 for each school, with extras such as pins and leather bound books for honor students pushing the sum as high as $700 in some schools.

Further Education

More and more Belleville is becoming a real "going concern," to use an old-fashioned term.

Industrial progress speaks for itself. So too does housing construction. On the recreation scene, the city's first winter carnival has been a notable success, while in the offing there is the Rotary Club's second annual music festival and the opening of Queen Victoria school as a community centre after school hours.

These are all encouraging signs of Belleville's growing community awareness. At the same time there is still a gap between the provision of such activities and facilities and participation by citizens, including the young.

It could be mentioned, for example, that on Saturday afternoon the downtown area was as crowded as ever with young people. They stood around in groups on the sidewalk, presumably because they had nothing better to do. Yet over at Zwick's Island the carnival was in full swing.

So there are many youngsters to whom Queen Victoria school, and others which may come into this scheme modelled on the Mott Plan in Flint, Michigan, should be of incalculable value. And to adults as well.

Speaking of the young — and in particular the very young — a Toronto program outlined in The Globe and Mail recently told of the work of a group of agencies fostering creative music from an early age. Children aged three to six are being encouraged to enjoy music at the Willowdale and Downsview branches of the North York public libraries. Co-operating is the regional YMCA.

For the most part teachers Lois Lilienstein and Gwen Martson use the guitar, banjo, autoharp and piano. Films and records are also used and some children bring their favorite records from home. The children give their reactions to the music, sometimes with chalk illustrations.

According to the organizers the program, in addition to fostering interest in music, helps the child develop self confidence and co-ordination.

This is just another example of the importance of the early years in a child's upbringing. The earlier they are exposed to this kind of stimulus, and to the company of other children, the better; and as the years pass there is the further education, both in school and out, which is epitomized by the kind of programs and activities outlined above.

Quebec Incident

It would be wrong to assume that the beating of a visiting civil servant from British Columbia by Quebec provincial police is typical of what a visitor to La Belle Province can expect.

Nevertheless, this is not an isolated example of the kind of "mistake" that can occur where the authorities in Quebec are concerned. There was the incident we recounted on this page last December. It concerned a Hawkesbury man arrested by a policeman on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River.

Taken to St. Phillips (halfway to Lachute) for questioning, then another 25 miles to St. Jerome where he spent the remainder of the night in jail, the Hawkesbury citizen then had to pay $15 out of his own pocket (in addition to a fine for speeding) for a taxi back to his car.

All that for speeding — even though it had been necessary, to shake off the tailgating policeman and make a turn into Grenville, just across the bridge from Hawkesbury.

We could be correct in assuming at the very least that the police in Quebec are not particularly concerned about the rights of citizens. In the case of Robert Redel, 48, director of lands for the B.C. lands and forests department, the excuse that he resembled a bank robber is not good enough. The brutal beating handed Mr. Redel does not speak well for the conduct of the police in Quebec. Nor does the arrest of the Hawkesbury man in the other incident.

The Corner Store

The corner store is a place for all seasons — and all people. There is everything to satisfy the inner man — candy and the funnies for the kids, movie magazines and records for the teenagers, paperbacks for mum and-dad. And (surprise maybe) a bit of culture, too, in the works of some of the great writers of our day and the past.

You find these in growing numbers of course among the paperbacks, but also in attractively-bound hardbacks, and at reasonable cost. The poems of Boris Pasternak for example, and of Anne Morrow Lindberg, the works of Emerson and Thoreau and Benjamin Franklin; Sonnets from the Portuguese by Elizabeth Barrett Browning and so on.

Even the supermarkets have long since been in the culture field, with their encyclopedias and other book series for young people especially.

Now It's 'In' to Be in A-G's Report

Tax Money Down the Drain—But Nothing Is Done About It

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It was just about this time of year back in 1968 that Auditor General Maxwell Henderson blew the whistle on CBC.

Maxwell Henderson is Parliament's private "policeman," assigned to preserve and protect the federal Treasury from raids by Big Spenders, Wasters and assorted specialists in the fine government art of extravagant expenditure.

The theory is that when "policeman" Henderson catches the rascals in these Treasury raids he alerts Parliament to their depredations by writing them up in his Auditor General's Report.

This, traditionally, as long as anyone around here can remember, was one of the most respected, even feared documents ever to appear on Parliament Hill.

Civil servants in both High Places and Low would await its annual publication in fear and trembling that their names might appear in the dreaded "AG's Report," as it was known.

But not any more. Instead of the badge of dishonor it used to be to make the "Report," it seems to have become kind of campy, the chummy "in-thing" to have your name listed.

Sort of shows you have arrived in the exalted ranks of the Big Spenders.

And since nothing much ever happens about it these days, there being no public spanking nor seldom any other form of punishment, everyone who is anyone in official circles enjoys a good giggle over how cleverly inventive you are in coming up with such interesting new ways of wasting public funds.

It was altogether fitting that Maxwell Henderson should blow his policeman's whistle on the CBC, for before he became Auditor General he was a Big Wheel in the publicly - owned broadcasting corporation.

So, actually, who could know more about the wasteful ways of "Mother CBC?"

Look what the CBC has done now, he cried in alarm back in early '68, block-booked hundreds of Montreal hotel and motel rooms at a wasted cost of thousands of dollars, never occupying much of this accommodation.

All these rooms were booked in advance by CBC for its staff covering Expo. The bill ran a total $351,000 for the seven months of the big Centennial show.

Remember how difficult — often impossible — it was for Joe Taxpayer to find a hotel or motel room at Montreal or sometimes within 100 miles of Expo?

But not for the CBC. They had so much space they did not know what to do with it except leave it vacant.

Of the $351,000 spent, whistled "policeman" Henderson at that time, $166,900 was wasted on rooms the CBC never used.

Well, all this was made known then by Maxwell Henderson, reported to Parliament in his annual Auditor General's accounting and "referred," as they put it in these political parts, to the Commons Public Accounts Committee.

Beyond that, nothing happened about those empty rooms and that wasted $166,900.

Came 1969 and again Maxwell Henderson blew his whistle on CBC repeating — just in case Parliament had not heard him the first time around—the same story.

Now suddenly and finally, after two years there is CBC President George Davidson on the carpet before the Public Accounts Committee.

Could it be true, the Committee asked him, what the Auditor General said about those empty rooms and that $166,900 down the drain?

Alas, yes, confessed President Davidson.

How come, asked the Committee?

Well, it was this way, explained the CBC boss, they had become "panicky" — months before Expo opened — about the still theoretical shortage of hotel and motel space in and around Montreal and "over-estimated" their requirements, grossly "over-booking" accommodation they would never need.

In one hotel, 34 percent of CBC room bookings went vacant, at a second the vacancy rate ran 41 per cent, and at the third, 50 per cent.

Then, admitted President Davidson, there was the business of "booking out" of a motel, found by the staff to be so "shoddy in extreme," that no self-respecting CBC hand would stay there. It took a month's rent — $18,900 — to cancel that booking.

But what, President Davidson seemed to pout was all the fuss about? Was not every federal government agency guilty of the same wasteful Expo hotel caper?

Maybe yes, maybe no — Maxwell Henderson has yet to blow his whistle on them.

But if it takes Parliament all of two years to get around to investigating, who is afraid of the big bad Auditor General? The heat goes off anything in that cooling space of time.

So who is the AG scaring or the Committee kidding?

Assessment and Taxation Report

Editor,
The Intelligencer

A comprehensive report regarding farm assessment and taxation for 1970 has been written by A. N. MacKay, chairman of the Committee on Farm Assessment and Taxation for Ontario.

In my estimation, a copy of said report and tactics to be employed should be studied well and a good number of questions should be asked of your Reeve and also the County Warden of your district.

Here are some questions you should know about and undoubtedly there are many more pertinent questions regarding the Assessment and Taxation of your property.

The evaluation suggested on the qualities of land found on your farm which are numbered from Grades one to seven and estimated from $200 per acre down to $15 per acre, and no less, also how these grades apply to your buildings in number and condition as found at the time of assessment.

Particularly, questions regarding a manual in plain Grade 8 English that could be procured or mailed to the owners of farms and taxpayers at all levels from the assessment department of the Ontario Municipal Board, free of charge, so that farmers and taxpayers might intelligently confer with the assessors, Court of Revision or Higher Court, if and when an appeal reached this situation, to get an honest, just, evaluation.

Why educate inexperienced men for this purpose, when men of years of actual experience and practicability are available with farm, orchard, milk, weed and bug control and pollution? These men have management experience and could be educated more easily and be more knowledgable.

These men can be found in farming arees. Villages adjacent to these areas. Men who have been brought up and actually experienced these conditions from before daylight until long after dark, every day of the year.

When assessing farms, what soil qualities workable or otherwise, as no two farms are alike side by side?

When this assessing is complete, is a farmer to be compelled to produce from every square foot of land deemed workable, regardless of hill, stone, bush, swamp, underbrush etc?

Where does drainage come in and at whose expense, regardless of distance required, plus the protection of your neighbor from dumping or flooding his land?

What about milk contracts, veterinary services, cheese factories, local or municipal schools rather than bus transportation up to Grade 8 level? Even United States is recommending the old school house be brought back into existence

After assessment is completed, how are taxes to be paid? By the month, semi-yearly or yearly — and if they cannot be met, what happens — and in what period of time?

If taxes are paid in advance, what discount is allowed?

To whom are the taxes to be paid? A tax collector, locally, by mail to the County or Regional office wherever it may be? Will cheques, certified without exchange be accepted, regardless of distance?

What penalty is applied when late, or what days of grace could be expected, due to illness, disaster or epidemic?

Whose signature would be required at the local level to recommend consideration be granted and how prompt could this consideration be expected—days, weeks or months?

If no money were available, where can assistance in food, medical and relief be procured immediately when telephone, hydro and water are not even available or shut off?

Why can't we know the answers now, or are we too late?

If this is to take five years to be put into operation, why should some municipalities pay the increase in taxes now — not subsidize?

Why not the whole province pay at the same time?

When farms are sold today — is the sale price the basis for taxation?

Does taxation fluctuate with the sale price of the farm when the farm is sold for less or more found on the deed of the property?

Is all real estate taxation based the same way?

Why is sale price of real estate put on the deed?

Does the sale price of the farm include just the buildings and land and orchard, if any?

What about stock, milk contracts, tractors and farm implements, milk coolers, milking machines, orchard sprayers, hay elevators and silo unloaders?

Define.

These are just a few questions but I feel that they are quite important and would appreciate any comments from interested persons who would like to delve further into this assessment and taxation question.

Minor Hockey Week

Arena in Use for Another Event

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I would like to answer Marion Andrews regarding Minor Hockey Week which she says has passed into 'oblivion'.

I am sure that she knows that Minor Hockey in Belleville is at any time, stressed for ice time. However, as the CAHA had designated last week as National Observance — Minor Hockey Week — and (for some unknown reason) the Quinte Skating Club had, months before, reserved this time for their carnival, instead of the latter part of March as in the past, Minor Hockey was shut out from all activities at this important time.

How could we, the so-called officials, create any interest in hockey if we could not have any time whatsoever to show the public our teams in action. It was not that we were waiting for 'George' to do it, for I find that in this city there is plenty of interest and assistance in the operation of Minor Hockey. The writer can find out any Saturday or Sunday, if she so wishes, by coming to the Arena to see for herself the number of adults coaching and managing the teams, all on voluntary time, and from 6 a.m. Saturday morning. These are our two big days as almost three-quarters of our schedule is played then.

Perhaps Mrs. Andrews could find out for me just why the Quinte Skating Carnival was moved so far ahead in the season, and why, when they did want ice time, was Minor Hockey not consulted to see if there would be any reason for not giving up this particular weekend?

One thing for sure, this brings forth very strongly the need for another ice surface in this city. Another thing I personally would like to see is a bit more co-operation between factions using the facilities that we have at the present time.

TOM CAVANAGH,
President, Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

Ottawa-Quebec Misunderstanding

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: Once again, the government of the province of Quebec and that of Ottawa are on the point of opening a "new constitutional war." . . .

(Marcel) Masse (Quebec intergovernmental affairs minister) has revealed that Quebec does not accept the proposition of the Canadian government for a Canadian representative in the new Agency of Cultural and Technical Co-operation of French-speaking Countries. . . .

It is high time the Quebec and Ottawa representatives settle this question once and for all. . . .

Quebec, . . . being the only province with a French-speaking majority, must be represented at these meetings (of the agency). . . .

Mr. Trudeau recognized several years ago when he was a journalist that Quebec had urgent need of these encounters.

But today, the situation is no longer the same. The prime minister of Canada places a sort of veto in the field of relations between Quebec and French-speaking nations. . . .

However, Mr. Masse, before launching into a diatribe against the federal government, would be better off to reveal the clauses he considers unacceptable in the federal position.

British Citizen Finally Given Shelter in Hunt for A Home

LONDON (AP) — Ranjan Vaid, an Asian woman from Kenya whose quest to enter Britain has spanned three continents and about 12,000 miles, will be allowed to enter England, a British consulate spokesman official said in Frankfurt today.

"I just received a mesage that I would be able to tell her if she gets to London, she will be allowed in," said Raymond Nusion.

Her brother Shantilal, met her at the Frankfurt airport when she arrived earlier today from Africa.

"This is fine," said Miss Vaid in halting English when told that she would be allowed to enter Britain. "This is very good."

Miss Vaid had been rejected entry into Kenya twice in less than 24 hours.

Miss Vaid, 22, is a British citizen with a British passport, but in effect she has been a girl without a country since she was refused entry to Britain last week. Since then she has been shuttled between Frankfurt, Nairobi and Johannesburg.

She arrived early today in Frankfurt, West Germany, still determined to enter Britain.

She told reporters after more than 36 hours aboard a Lufthansa airliner:

"I feel very depressed at this stage. I have not slept the last two nights at all. I have been worrying all the time."

She was met by her brother Shantilal, an accountant working in Britain for more than three years.

Miss Vaid is one of the thousands of Kenya Asians who after the country became independent chose to remain British citizens instead of taking out Kenya citizenship. When the Kenya government started giving its citizens preference for jobs, those with British citizenship began flooding into Britain, and in 1968 the House of Commons restricted this immigration to 1,500 a year. Miss Vaid is not one of this year's 1,500.

She was refused entry to Britain last week. Lufthansa, the airline that had brought her from Kenya, took her back to Nairobi but the Kenyans wouldn't let her back in. She flew on to Johannesburg, the end of the line for Lufthansa, then came back.

Her brother said he had got in touch with the All-Party Committee on United Kingdom Citizenship in London and was awaiting word from the group of legislators.

The British newspapers urged editorially today that Miss Vaid be allowed into Britain, and members of Parliament from all three parties planned to question Home Secretary James Callaghan in the House of Commons on the government's handling of the affair.

The Times noted that Callaghan said two years ago Britain would act humanely toward Asians in Kenya, and said it is time to live up to that pledge. The Daily Sketch declared:

"If Miss Vaid belongs anywhere now, she surely belongs here. We must take her in. We cannot in all humanity condemn her to a stateless purgatory."

The home office, however, was said to be adamant that Miss Vaid again would be refused entry.

Nothing Settled First Day

Company of Canada, the country's largest steelmaker, endorsed the idea of restraint and said his company would accept "reasonable pricing guidelines."

But Stelco President Harold Griffith said he deplored one suggestion of the commission—that "a limited number" of major industries, including steel, be expected to obtain advance approval for price increase. He called this discriminatory.

Mr. Trudeau in his opening speech emphasized the government's determination to stem rising prices and said it will be more difficult to do in the future if it is allowed to run on.

He said the government is considering new measures to dampen inflation in the more affluent areas, and to step up its aid programs in underdeveloped parts of the country.

Dr. Young made it clear that if business can agree to restraint, the commission will go back to labor to ask it to do something too.

Without singling out labor, Mr. Trudeau said at another point: "Those who refuse to cooperate will bear a heavy responsibility for extending and aggravating unemployment and slow economic growth."

If business at these meetings can reach some agreement on their price-control measures, Dr. Young said, the commission will then go to next week's federal-provincial premiers conference and ask it to back up the agreement with "appropriate action to deal with situations arising from serious cases of non-compliance."

Lawrence To Enforce Trade Laws

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's new minister of financial and commercial affairs indicated Monday he intends to enforce strictly the rules governing the financial marketplace.

A. R. B. (Bert) Lawrence, sworn in last Thursday to succeed Leslie Rowntree, also said in an interview he won't hesitate to change existing legislation if it becomes necessary to do so.

Mr. Lawrence said the scope and complexity of commercial activity and the rate of change in business practices places any legislation, no matter how well drawn, in danger of being obsolete within five or 10 years.

Dead Girl Was Raped

BALA, Ont. (CP) — A post-mortem Monday disclosed that Katherine Hazel Isaac, 18, whose body was found on the nearby Twelve Mile Bay Indian reserve Sunday, died of exposure following sexual assault and the infliction of multiple severe injuries.

Provincial police at Bala, 30 miles north of Orillia, said they considered the girl was murdered.

She had been living and working in Toronto and was home for the weekend visiting her parents.

Man Killed Self

BALA, Ont. (CP) — Police Monday identified a man found dead Sunday on the nearby Twelve Mile Bay Indian reserve as John Henry Williams, 26, of the reserve. Police said a post-mortem showed death was caused by a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Inflation Fighters

Party Lines Are Broken

Common Law vs. Strict Code Is Expropriation Bill Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal back-bencher Douglas Hogarth (New Westminster) had a testy word for fellow Liberals Monday after he voted in favor of an opposition amendment to a bill reforming federal expropriation law.

"They haven't read the bill," Mr. Hogarth told a reporter as he left the Commons after the legislation had received approval in the report stage and moved to within a step of final passage through the House.

Mr. Hogarth's break with the party line was on only one of 11 amendments and was barely noticeable compared with 13 NDP votes supporting the government on the issue.

He maintained he supported the view of Eldon Woolliams (Calgary North), Conservative legal affairs critic, who argued in the debate that the section of the bill he was questioning represented an effort by the government "to control the bench."

The bill, which provides the first substantial reform of federal expropriation law since 1886, has received praise from all parties as an effort to improve a property owner's chances of a fair deal.

It grants to owners the right to a public hearing in expropriation cases and provides penalties against government agencies if the owner wins an Exchequer Court ruling that an initial offer for property being taken is too low.

The bill also sets out strict guidelines on which property values are to be based for purposes of expropriation.

Justice Minister John Turner told the Commons Monday the code will eliminate uncertainty from expropriation proceedings and replace what he termed vague judicial concepts such as "value to the owner."

Mr. Woolliams argued, as he did when the bill was before the legal affairs committee, that the strict code wiped out a whole series of common law precedents which favored the rights of property owners.

In the past, he said, judges had acted with fairness for expropriated-property owners and now the government seemed anxious to tell the judges how they should rule.

"Why do we need a lengthy code when the common law has served its purpose and the judges, with their training and knowledge, are well equipped to interpret that law which over a period of time served the average man well?"

In voting on Mr. Woolliams amendment to strike out the strict code, however, the House sided with Mr. Turner 91 to 42, with only seven Creditistes joining Mr. Hogarth and the Conservatives.

The guides posed a dilemma for New Democrats in the committee hearings when Andrew Brewin (Toronto Greenwood), the party's legal affairs expert, sided with Mr. Woolliams and John Gilbert (NDP—Broadview) supported Mr. Turner on grounds that the law would prevent some forms of land speculation.

Amendments stressing the common law were presented Monday by NDP House Leader Stanley Knowles on behalf of Mr. Brewin but these were easily defeated 72 to 54.

Also defeated by the same majority was another Woolliams amendment which would have permitted an owner to challenge a government expropriation offer in the superior courts of the provinces and not just the federal Exchequer Court. He argued that the Exchequer Court was too remote and too expensive for the average citizen.

Mr. Turner answered that the Exchequer Court was, on many items, less expensive than the Ontario Supreme Court with which department officials had compared it.

He added that cases came up for hearing within two or three months in the Exchequer Court, compared with one or two years in provincial superior courts.

Look Looks at Us

Canada Is Going Somewhere But No One Certain Where

NEW YORK (CP) — Look magazine says in an article on Prime Minister Trudeau's first 20 months in office that "Canada is going somewhere, only no one is quite sure just where."

The article by senior editor Ira Mothner, says that Trudeau sprang to office "on a kiss and a promise—plenty of kisses, just one promise—to put the nation together again."

It concludes with:

"When one stacks up the kinds of problems Trudeau walked into and the nation's mile-high expectations, it's surprising there are any kisses left.

"But there are. There is even a new feeling in Ottawa, a sense of being well used, of purpose, if not direction.

"Canada is going somewhere, only no one is quite sure just where."

The article, entitled After the Kissing Stops, says that Trudeau set out to lead Canadians off a path they had been following for 25 years into what looked, "to some, frightening like a wilderness."

After 20 months in office Trudeau had not moved the country far, some of his magic was gone and his charm charmed less.

But during the time he had grown more comfortable in a public role and had won some solid, though hardly showy victories, "recapturing the government from the civil service."

Many Possible Careers Make A Choice Difficult

By DORIS CLARK

The choice of career is becoming an increasingly difficult one for the individual to make . . . In earlier times the range of choices was limited, and the individual's task of choosing was easier; as society became more complicated, so did the work of this society, and the range of jobs widened.

A quick look at the medical profession illustrates this point. At the begining of this century a boy could make the simple decision to be a doctor; now he must decide whether he wants to be a surgeon (or, more narrowly still, perhaps an orthopedic surgeon), a psychiatrist, a pediatrician or any one of the rapidly appearing medical specialties.

At the present time the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada recognizes 16 medical specialties and nine surgical specialties. — Joan Morris in "Careers Today" of the Curriculum Resource Book Series

Dear Doris: I would like to say a few words of encouragement for young mothers who have had a nervous breakdown after a baby. I have experienced this and am convinced that there is 100 per cent chance of recovery.

DORIS CLARK

After my fourth child I had a nervous breakdown. Luckily I had a wonderful husband and understanding friends. Now after six years I have found myself. My baby is starting school and for the first time in my life I really believe that things in life can get pretty rough, but that they have to get better. I am grateful to be alive. — Lost and Found.

Dear Found: I know. It's like coming up out of a deep well into sunshine.

Give a heap of credit to a loving husband and friends who kept right on believing in you. They helped you to make the grade.

The lonely ones have trouble marshalling the strength; and your words will encourage them.

Dear Doris: Many of Mother Shipton's Prophecies 400 years ago did come true; and there are still people who can foretell the future.

In 1923 I said we would have war with Germany again in 1938. People laughed and said Germany was beaten too bad in the First War to try it again. They did not laugh when it happened. Some of those same boys fought in the Second War. I am a veteran of both wars.

By the way, I would like to know what became of the Crystal Palace after the fire which Mother Shipton predicted. — Just George

Dear George: It does seem that Mother Shipton had inside information, and in psychic research we hear of many unusual people who are able to see into the future. There are many unexplained things in this realm of inquiry, which the coldly scientific minds merely laugh off.

Sorry, but I have no information about the Crystal Palace. Anybody?

Readers Comment On Meat Loaf Recipe

DEAR ANN LANDERS: That lady in Michigan who didn't like your meat loaf recipe should have her head examined. First of all, only a moron would try out a new recipe on guests. I want you to know that I made it for my family the day I saw it in The Salt Lake Tribune and everyone said it was the best meat loaf they ever ate. I have orders to make it again next week. — LOVE YOU.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR LOVE: Please read on. It seems I started something:

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your meat loaf is delicious. I tried it yesterday and my poker club raved about it. I left off the bacon. My mother-in-law lives with us and I keep kosher. If you have a good recipe for beet borsht I'd like to have it. — MIAMI BEACH.

DEAR MI: I'm going to quit while I'm ahead. Read on.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I never measure anything and I hate recipes. But I tried your meat loaf and it was wonderful. That lady in Detroit who said her dog wouldn't eat it made me mad. I gave your meat loaf to our dog and he cleaned the plate and cried for more. — SIOUX FALLS.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: About your meat loaf: It is terrific. We don't have a dog but I gave some to our cat. She ate every bit of it.

* * *

DEAR ANN: That meat loaf recipe must have made you rich. You mentioned three brand names. Now you can retire and it's about time. — I SPY.

DEAR SPY: Sorry to disappoint you but commercials are out of my line. And I have more bad news — I have no retirement plans.

* * *

DEAR ANN: Your meat loaf recipe is good but it would be better if you used whipping cream instead of water. Also we don't like tomato sauce in our family so I used a can of mushroom soup instead. It was delicious. — HARTFORD.

DEAR HART: We don't need the extra calories and we do like tomato sauce in our family, but thanks for the suggestions.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I have improved on your recipe by adding four hard-boiled eggs. I just shoved them into the meat loaf — nicely spaced so everyone would get at least part of one. It looks beautiful when you cut it. — SASKATOON.

DEAR SAS: Sounds great. I'll try it.

* * *

DEAR ANN: Your stove needs to be regulated. One hour is not long enough. My meat loaf was too rare and I had to put it back for an extra 15 minutes. — COLUMBIA, S.C.

DEAR S.C.: I had my stove checked two weeks ago. Maybe your stove needs regulating.

* * *

DEAR ANN: I read your column in Hong Kong. My cook cannot read English. Can you have that meat loaf translated into Chinese? I realize this would put you to a lot of trouble but I see that your name was mentioned on the list of the most admired women in the world and this means you go out of your way to be outstanding and do unusual things. Thank you in advance. — FORMER BUFFALO READER.

DEAR BUFF: Sorry, but I'm not equipped to deal with Chinese translation. Try Madame Chiang Kai-Shek. She was on the list, too.

Fish Fillets Au Gratin

By MARY MOORE

It was worth the nearly one mile walk in zero weather to buy the fish I needed for today's subject. Fresh ocean perch fillets were a "special" at a distant supermarket and I trudged through the snow to get them.

This recipe for Fish Fillets au Gratin may be used for any small fillets and will make fish lovers of many an indifferent fish eater. Clip and file this recipe, will you please, for I know you will want to refer to it again and again.

FISH FILLETS AU GRATIN

(serves 3 generously)

Note: If your fillets are frozen thaw before proceeding

1 lb. ocean perch or sole fillets
1 cup milk
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. mustard
⅛ tsp. thyme
⅛ bay leaf crumbled
About ¾ cup fine soft bread crumbs
1½ tsps. lemon juice
About ¼ cup melted butter or margarine

Arrange the fillets in a single layer on a kitchen platter. In a small bowl mix together the milk, salt, mustard, thyme and bay leaf. Pour evenly over the fillets and let them soak in it for 1 hr. Tip off milk mixture and reserve it.

Coat the soaked fish fillets with the crumbs and arrange in a single layer on a lightly greased shallow baking dish that can be carried to the dining-room table. Drizzle with the lemon juice and melted butter. Carefully pour about 2-3 cup of the reserved milk mixture evenly over the fillets and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 20 min. At this high heat the milk nearly all evaporates and the crumbs brown and are a little crusty.

NOTE: If desired a little grated cheese may be sprinkled over top of fillets before baking but that would be gilding the lily.

Couple Wed 25 Years

ROSLIN — On the eve of their 25th wedding anniversary Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson were guests of honor at a surprise party given by their neighbors to celebrate the event.

An address was read by Mrs. Roy Vance, after which Mrs. Stanley Weir presented the couple with a pole lamp on behalf of those present. The evening concluded with lunch served by the women. This included a special anniversary cake baked by Mrs. Milton McTaggart.

For the actual date of the anniversary, the couple dined with their daughter Barbara in Belleville and were later entertained by the immediate family at the home of their nephew Roque Davis and Mrs. Davis at 16 Symington Drive in the city. After the couple had been presented with various gifts, lunch was served by the hostess and again included a special anniversary cake.

Talk on Drugs Given at VON Annual Meet

"Society honors the high," stated Dr. Andrew Malcolm, guest speaker at the 45th annual meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses held at Education Hall, Monday evening.

Previous to the speaker's address Miss Norma Gusdal, head of nursing service, reported that 4,231 visits were made to 314 patients in the past year - 87% were medical and surgical patients. There is a great need for continued nursing service in the community and surrounding areas she said. "Motivation is the key to better service and one must become involved."

Dr. Malcolm was introduced by Grant Harrison, president of the VON, who noted that the speaker was a psychiatrist working for the Alcohol and Drug Addiction Foundation in Toronto and was graduated from the University of Toronto; interned in New York City, and spent some time practising in both New York City and London, England. Dr. Malcolm is responsible for starting the Mental Health Clinic in Whitby.

During his talk, the speaker noted that "we live in a society dependent upon drugs. People have made use of them for centuries but it is only lately that the rate of use has drastically increased. Many chemicals that are mind-altering were discovered in the 19th century and by the 1940's we had become a stimulant and tranquilizer-using society. The supreme example of these "recreational drugs" is alcohol — over 72% of the adult population uses it." "Society today," stated Dr. Malcolm, uses drugs to solve its problems. Toleration for anxiety seems to have become lower in the last few decades."

Speaking about various drugs, he noted that hemp was used over 3,000 years ago and gradually spread all over the world. By the 1950's the European white middle class became receptive to this drug. Society at this time was, and still is, questioning the values and traditions of its environment.

In 1938 a man named Hoffman discovered mescaline, a drug similar to LSD. The search was on and a period of wild experimentation followed.

The search brought about new ideas — sniffing glue, nail polish and even household cleaners. Dr. Malcolm stated that work is being done all over the world to seek information on the effects of drugs such as marijuana.

In September, 1968 in Toronto a training course was started. Eighteen people from all walks of life are being educated about drugs and how to deal with the drug user and addict. There are just not enough doctors available to deal with the problem. It is hoped that these people will branch out to other communities and act as counsellors for those seeking help.

A gift was presented to Dr. Malcolm in appreciation for his enlightening talk. After the list of new officers was distributed the meeting closed.

The new officers are as follows: past president, Mrs. H. H. McLachlan; president, Grant Harrison; 1st. vice-president, Dr. B. Morgan; 2nd. vice-president, Mrs. S. Gentle; secretary, Mrs. H Gray and treasurer, Mrs. V. M. Peyette. Committees are as follows: education and publicity, Miss Olive Root, Richard Parker, Mrs. M. Waller and Mrs. Bruce White; finance and car, Mrs. V. M. Peyette, Harold C. Mason and J. C. Houstin; supply, Mrs George Stanton. Representative member for the Board of Governors, Canada is Grant Harrison; medical advisor is Dr. W. Bates and city council representative is Mrs. R. L Smith. Honorary member is T. K. Franklin. The nursing staff includes Miss Norma Gusdal, R.N. and her assistant, Miss Lynn Pender, R.N.

Congregational Meeting

CHRIST AND ST. LUKE

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — The annual meeting of Tyendinaga Parish was held in the Guild Hall Sunday, beginning with a potluck luncheon. After a brief worship service the business meeting took place.

For Christ Church the rector's warden is Garnet Maracle and the people's warden is Alfred Maracle, and for St. Luke's Church, Stanley Brant and Michael Brant.

The delegate to the synod for three years is Mrs. Stanley Brant.

An altar guild has been started in both churches, with Mrs. Garnet Maracle the directress in Christ Church, and Mrs. Evelyn Foote in St. Luke's.

The decision was made to re-activate the men's club.

Beginning Feb. 18, study courses will be held of Hendry's "Beyond the Trapline" and of bulletin 201 from the General Synod. Those taking the courses will meet in the various homes.

Student from Ghana Chosen Queen of Ball At 'Open House'

A theme decor, based on "The Age of Aquarius", featuring signs of the Zodiac, constellations of outer space and stars shimmering through simulated cloud formations provided the atmosphere for the 1970 Albert College "At Home", Saturday evening.

Acherman Hall was the scene of one of the social highlights of the year with Lois Watts of Accra Ghana chosen as Queen of the Ball. Headmaster Lorne L. Shewfelt made Miss Watts' selection by a selection committee of students and staff official, by placing the crown on her head as she received the traditional bouquet of roses. Miss Watts was a finalist in the Belleville Carnival Queen contest.

Her attendants were: Miss Anne Murdock of Iroquois Falls, Ontario and Miss Susan Dove of Pakistan, first and second runners up respectively.

The headmaster, faculty and students' council were hosts for the "At Home" and Garry Reidt's orchestra provided music to suit the dancing preferences of guests, graduates, students and staff. The dance program moved from smooth selections for ballroom dancing to the lively sounds and tempos of the 70s.

His Worship Mayor J. Russell Scott and Mrs. Scott were welcomed in the receiving line by Mr. and Mrs. Shewfelt and College business administrator, Taylor Franklin and Mrs. Franklin.

Guests associated with education in the community who attended the event were: Dr. J. G. Demeza, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf and Mrs. Demeza; former College staff members: Mrs. C. M. Irwin and Mr. Irwin, vice-principal, Centennial Secondary School; Mr. W. R. MacKay, principal, Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute and Mrs. MacKay and Mr. L. D. Read, principal of Moira Secondary School and Mrs. Read.

Guests of the principal and the college, included: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Clare, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Fleming, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Hanon, R. R. 3, Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Myles Morton, R. R. 1, Belleville; Mrs. T. C. McMullen and Rev., and Mrs. James Payton, Trenton.

Graduates from out-of-town, included: Mr. and Mrs. James Horner of Quyon, Quebec; Gray R. Duncan of Thunder Bay; Robert R. Sinasac of Waterloo and Paul Crittenden of R. R. 1, Unionville.

The evening concluded with coffee served to guests, graduates, their wives and escorts and students and staff. corts and students and staff in the girls' residence.

AN AFTERTHOUGHT

TORONTO (CP) — Child psychiatry, which for years has been considered as an afterthought to adult services, is finally coming into its own, says Dr. Quentin Rae-Grant, professor of child psychiatry at the University of Toronto. Dr. Rae-Grant says the children's services were pushed into a slot in the adult service mechanism "that was a scaled-down version, a pale echo of the adult services."

Women Lack Confidence

TORONTO (CP) — Myra Ruth Harmon of Lafayette, Ind., president of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, says if women have not reached the top in the public world, they have only themselves to blame.

Speaking Saturday night at a dinner sponsored by the four federation clubs in Toronto, Mrs. Harmon said sometimes women lack the confidence to push ahead to a higher goal. And in public life, women often do not support other women.

Mrs. Harmon told the Toronto group that the federation has a membership of 180,000 in the United States and 7,000 in Canada. She said the federation now is trying to boost membership by organizing teen-age groups in high schools, technical schools and colleges.

Students Prefer Seminar System

EDMONTON (CP) — The lecture method of instruction requires minimal effort from both student and teacher, says Dr. John McLeish.

The University of Alberta educational psychologist, who surveyed student attitudes and environment at colleges and universities in Britain and the United States, said a lecture is "organized in such a way that it becomes habitual . . . you stop thinking."

The lecture system as it now exists calls for students to take notes on what a teacher says in class and relate the material in multiple-choice examinations.

Students who are involved in lecture courses, and to some extent their teachers, learn to regard knowledge and learning as a closed system.

"Students feel they have nothing to contribute. If you ask them to discuss a topic, they think it's a trap."

Dr. McLeish said that of the students he had surveyed, 1½ times more favored the tutorial and seminar system to lectures.

"The feedback at present provides evidence that the lecture system is not acceptable in modern times.

"In spite of their national and cultural differences, students in Britain, the U.S., the Soviet Union and India seem to have reached a consensus."

Dr. McLeish says he plans to organize a course which offers the same content, but which uses eight different teaching methods.

This would not prove that one method is better than another, but would "determine effects on student attitudes."

Woman Now Heads Canadian Legion Branch

WOODSTOCK, N.B. (CP) — The recent election of Gloria Painter as head of the Royal Canadian Legion rbanch here was something of a rarity in the national veterans' organization.

The Legion has a few exclusively women's branches, but veterans of women's divisions of the armed forces can join regular Legion branches if they desire. However, women presidents of regular branches have been few.

Miss Painter has a long military association. Her father served overseas in the First World War and her mother, a Silver cross holder, has long been active in the ladies' auxiliary to the local Legion branch.

A brother, Jack, was killed in action in the Second World War as a pilot with the RCAF. Another brother, Patrick, served with the army and a third brother, Bevan, is still serving with an air unit.

Gloria, a life-long resident of Woodstock, joined the navy in 1955 as a medical assistant and served on the east and west coasts. She now is an accountant with a local finance company.

The Woodstock legion branch has 540 members. It operates a veterans' home with 16 residents.

Canadian Bible Society Meets in Peterborough

The annual general meeting of the Bay of Quinte District of the Canadian Bible Society was held in St. James' United Church, Peterborough on Tuesday, Feb. 3.

The guest speaker was the Canadian general secretary, Doctor Kenneth G. McMillan of Toronto. The reports of the work in the district for 1969 showed a marked increase in the support of the Society and contributions were up over the previous year by $11,000 according to the financial report. The district secretary, Rev. Colin R. Rudd said 1969 had been a record year, not only in financial returns but also in Scripture distribution which reached the figure of 36,000 throughout the Bay of Quinte District. Many branches broke all previous records, for example, Peterborough which raised $9,000. Kingston which was $200 up over any previous year, Cobourg, Bowmanville, Trenton and Port Hope all were higher than ever before. Belleville total $1433. The St. James' Church women served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

The president of the district is Rev. John G. Klomps, minister of Bethel Christian Reformed Church in Brockville. The recording secretary is Stuart W. Howard of Peterborough and the treasurer is Howard Whitney, also of Peterborough.

Integrated Report Asked from Commissions on Church Union

WINNIPEG (CP) — An Anglican delegate at a general commission studying church union among his church, the United Church and the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) has called for an integrated report on the various special commissions studying the union.

Professor J. L. J. Edwards of Toronto, in a motion to the seventh meeting of the commission, called for a group to provide the report by the next session of the commission, scheduled for October.

Prof. Edwards' motion was praised by the various members of the commission charged with producing a general plan for union by 1972. His motion came during consideration of a report on doctrine.

Commission members viewed the motion as a means of getting on with the union proposal. Earlier in the meetings, which began Saturday, Anglican and United Church members had said some expression of immediacy about union was necessary to convey to the various congregations.

During debate Monday on the report of the special commission on doctrine, one of the study groups said doctrine should be stated in simple language as part of the general plan for union.

The Ven. D. P. Watney of Vancouver told delegates a statement of faith in the general doctrine should keep in mind that it is not just union of the three churches.

"It should be open ended," he said, "more ecumenical."

Rev. Dr. A. B. B. Moore of Victoria University in Toronto, chairman of the day's proceedings, said it was evident the commission was reaching a stage "when it must appoint a group to draw up a plan of union."

Earlier in the proceedings an outline plan prepared by a committee was rejected. It was turned over to the executive for study.

Under questions on doctrine, aimed at union of the churches to form what has been called "a new embodiment of the Christian church," one study group agreed there were different practices among the three churches involved and within each one.

Dr. C. H. Cragg of Mount Allison University at Sackville, N.B., said that whatever the commission decides it should be meaningful, not only to theologians, but the people—the emphasis should be on understanding rather than mystery and there will be much less suspicion.

Rev. Dr. John Grant of Emanuel College at Toronto said under current doctrine a child is baptized into the church and completes the rite with confirmation.

Under the new church, he said, it might be a different emphasis on confirmation—rather than bringing a person into the church as is the reason for baptism, it might involve "sending him out in the world on a mission."

Rev. John Coombs of Kingston, Ont., an Anglican minister, told the commission that if older elements of the congregation had the devotion of children "the church might be better off."

Another area of doctrine in the debate was a proposal to keep intact the designation of deacon but to change the qualifications to include social workers, doctors and others who work for the church.

Under current Anglican practice the post of deacon in various cases involves an internship for a person aiming to be ordained. There is no parallel in the United Church which utilizes elders for similar tasks.

A study group on the matter agreed with a commission statement that the diaconate has a future, but disagreed with the Anglican practice of using it as a stepping stone for priests.

It suggested there might be two categories of deacons—one in which persons were ordained as a permanent officer and the other where a person would work at a specific project for a certain period of time.

George Johnston, principal of United Theological College at Montreal, disagreed with the proposals.

He described the diaconate as "old hat, decadent, useless" and said it should be abolished.

"It has not worked, is not working and is a bit of a laughing stock," he said.

He said he could "no longer accept" the premise there should be three orders of the ministry—bishops, priests and deacons.

Ocean Ports Draw Cargoes

Some Say Seaway Will Be Obsolete Shortly

HALIFAX (CP) — New technologies are changing transportation patterns and are drawing general cargo away from lake ports on the St. Lawrence Seaway to ocean ports, like Halifax and Saint John, N.B., shipping officials here say. Some even predict the Seaway will be obsolete for general cargo within three years.

In terms of economics, containerization and fast unit trains are geared to ocean ports, they say. Besides, new ships now under construction and expected to be operating in two years are too large to go up the seaway. Shipping lines are building ships of from 23,000 to 30,000 tons deadweight.

The seaway, built to handle bulk cargo such as iron ore and grains, has also attracted some general cargo in conventional ships. However, more and more general cargo is being sent in containers. Within 10 years 70 to 80 per cent of all general cargo will be containerized, Ray March, executive secretary of the Halifax-Dartmouth port and industrial commission, says.

Halifax has an advantage as a container port over river ports like Montreal and Quebec because it is ice-free year-round and is 300 miles closer to Europe.

Local officials contend the giant container ships and connecting unit trains have sounded the end of the St. Lawrence Seaway for general cargo.

The new container ships will have crusing speeds of 20 to 33 knots and draw at least 31 to 35 feet of water. Shipping men here say speed and fast turnaround are economic necessities in the operation of ships worth $12,000,000. Thus, long and slower trips to inland ports will be too costly, they claim.

Container operations on a regular basis started in Halifax in mid-July when Dart Containerlines introduced its service from Antwerp and Southampton to Halifax and New York. Weekly service began Jan. 13 with the introduction of the line's third container ship.

About 50,000 tons of general cargo in containers has moved through the port of Halifax since last July. J. R. Mitchell, port manager for the National Harbors Board, expects that this year 250,000 tons will be moved in containers, and the figure will jump to more than 300,000 tons in the next two years.

"By that time there could be more than one container line coming into Halifax, which will mean two or three ships a week, and these figures could be terribly outdated," he said.

In 1969 the port handled 10,500,000 tons of cargo, an increase of 600,000 tons over 1968. Of the total, 900,000 tons was general cargo, an increase of nearly 30 per cent over the previous year.

"Once a port reaches a certain point, momentum can carry it along and the port is ready to take the big step in attracting enormous quantities of cargo. I think Halifax reached that point last year," Mr. Mitchell said.

The port of Saint John, N.B., also had a good year in 1969. Both Maritime ports attributed the rise in general cargo handled partly to prolonged longshoremen's strike at United States east coast ports. Cargo destined for these ports was re-routed to the Maritimes.

Saint John handled 5,816,120 tons to the end of November, 1969, an increase of 12 per cent over the same period of 1968. General cargo to Nov. 30, 1969, was 1,045,777 tons, compared to 798,541 tons to Nov. 30, 1968.

Container traffic has been coming to Saint John in conventional ships, but CP Steamships scheduled eight sailings this winter of cellular container ships carrying 200 to 300 containers each trip. The service started in December.

War Laotian Style

Rebels Shop in Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The armored car carrying four Pathet Laos soldiers pulled to the curb. Two of its occupants, wearing uniforms and squad caps, climbed out and disappeared into a store.

The sight created only the mildest stir among Laotians loyal to the government. The most interested witnesses were two Americans in a bar across the street.

"Look at that," said one. "Can you imagine the Viet Cong doing something like that?"

The answer, of course, was no. The Pathet Lao, although they are native rebels fighting their own government under a Communist flag, are not the Viet Cong. And Vientiane is not Saigon—at least not yet.

Comparisons, however, are inevitable. Today's Vientiane is much like the Saigon of a decade ago: a languid, tropical city of trees and temples.

The question of whether Laos ever will be another Vietnam lies at the centre of everything that goes on here but most Westerners here apparently regard as remote the chances for such a repeat of history. They believe the war in Laos likely will continue indefinitely at something approximating present levels.

A ranking United States official says nobody involved in the Laotian affair really wants it to change drastically; not the Royal Laotian government, not the Pathet Lao, and not the Americans or the North Vietnamese who aid those two warring factions.

The 14-nation Geneva accords in 1962 provided for neutralization of Laos and banned foreign combat troops, advisers and other foreign military personnel. Since that time the United States has been countering the continuing activities of Communist countries with a growing legion of military, former military and civilians, many working directly or indirectly for the Central Intelligence Agency.

The official figure on U.S. aid in 1969 was $52,000,000 but the actual American investment may be $200,000,000 a year.

Among the 2,000-plus Americans working here are some 70 called military attaches, circumventing the ban on military advisers.

The government forces are known to have some Americans working with them, sometimes even on field operations. Their presence, and their casualties, never are officially admitted although the state department said last week about 150 military personnel, mostly airmen, have been reported missing or captured in Laos.

The guerrillas in this case are the so-called Armee Clandestine, a collection of perhaps 10,000-20,000 Meo hill tribesmen —nobody ever quotes the same figure twice-led by Gen. Vang Pao and supported from American sources.

Vang Pao's tribal army seized the strategic Plaine des Jarres last summer. That startled the most optimistic Western military observers in Vientiane.

The Pathet Lao control most of the eastern half of this elongated, landlocked kingdom. The government controls the rest, including most of the population centres.

The Pathet Lao have held their ground chiefly through the logistic and manpower support furnished by the North Vietnamese, who are estimated to have 50,000 troops in Laos.

Vientiane, Southeast Asia's smallest capital city with a population guessed at between 130,000 and 200,000, is filled with incongruities. The Pathet Lao who go shopping here are in Vientiane by virtue of accords which set up the neutralist government under Prince Souvanna Phouma as premier and gave the Communists two cabinet seats. They never exercised their political rights and most of the Pathet Lao withdrew to northeast Laos to continue the fight under Souvanna Phouma's half-brother, Prince Souphanouvong.

Hospital Can't Find Qualified Official

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Because the director of the therapeutic community program at the London Psychiatric hospital has resigned, the program in its present form will terminate within the next few weeks, the hospital superintendent said Monday.

Dr. D. M. Wickware said Monday the program, which serves up to 50 patients in a group therapy and counselling role, will have to be changed because of the hospital's inability to find a qualified replacement for the director, Dr. Harold Mountain.

He would continue as director, Dr. Mountain said Monday, if one social worker and one psychologist were added to the staff complement.

Student Says Sit-in Was Spontaneous

MONTREAL (CP) — The students sit-in at the Sir George Williams University computer centre which began Jan. 29, 1969, and ended two weeks later in destruction and fire, was a "spontaneous move," an 18-year-old girl testified Monday.

The girl, whose name was withheld from publication by court order, said she was among a group of several hundred students who occupied the centre.

"It was a show of opinion by a mass of students," she testified at the conspiracy trial of 10 West Indian students, the first of 87 adults to face trial in the $2,000,000 computer-wrecking incident.

The girl told the all-male Court of Queen's Bench jury the students swarmed into the computer centre following a student meeting which spoke out against the makeup of a university-appointed committee investigating charges of racism against Prof. Perry Anderson of the biology department.

When asked by the Crown to provide details, she repeatedly answered "I don't remember" and "I can't say." At this point, Mr. Justice Kenneth Mackay ordered the jury to leave the courtroom while lawyers presented legal arguments.

Shortly after, the trial was adjourned until today.

Earlier Monday, defendants Hugo Ford and Kenneth Williams, both 25, were identified by a Montreal constable as being among a group of students in the computer centre Feb. 11 shortly before the sit-in ended.

The 10 West Indian students each face five charges, including conspiracy to commit arson and conspiracy to damage private property. Damage to two computers alone has been estimated at roughly $1,600,000.

The trial, which began its fourth week Monday, is continuing in the presence of 11 jurors. One member has been ill since last week.

Chatham Tests Elective Study

CHATHAM (CP) — Four primary school girls drop blobs of cookie dough on a baking sheet in the same room as 25 boy classmates assemble model cars, all of them taking part in an educational experiment probably unique in Ontario.

The McNaughton Avenue Public School students are studying an "elective" program which allows pupils in three senior grades to spend one-quarter of their school day taking courses they pick, and sometimes propose, themselves.

For that segment of the day they study astronautics, typing, the theory of selected spectator sports, astronomy, choral workshop, or a dozen other subjects seldom seen in a conventional curriculum.

Ninety-six per cent of the children taking the elective program which began on an experimental basis last September, in a survey said they found the electives "enjoyable" and said they are learning things that interest them.

Seventy-two per cent of the students were so impressed with the program they suggested ways to make it better.

The teachers agree the program is generally achieving its aims and want to see it continued.

Area superintendent J. A. Townsend says there is no danger pupils will miss out on the basic education, because of the new approach.

"This program has something for every pupil," he said.

James Teetzel, principal of the school who pushed for the establishment of the program, said it was easier to sell the idea to the pupils than to the teachers.

Super-city Foreseen

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto architect Monday predicted the growth in the near future of a giant Great Lakes super-city which would have to include Montreal if Canada is to survive as a single nation-state.

John C. Parkin told a meeting of the Canadian Club the sheer size of such a megalopolis would necessitate a far-reaching re-organization of government.

"What we will need then are a series of either three or four levels of government which will reflect firstly, the neighborhood or community, secondly, the city or metropolitan-state and thirdly, the nation-state."

He said other government levels, notably the provincial governments, would become less relevant.

Decision-makers

Men with a tough assignment are Ontario Municipal Board officials A. L. McCrae (front) and R. B. Maguire, here leaving Hastings County Court House last night after northend plaza rehearing. In coming weeks they must sift evidence of 1969 inquiry and latest six-day hearing to reach decision on controversial issue.

Arguments Over

Plaza Decision Rests with Board

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

For the second time in a year Belleville's embattled northend plaza project is back in the shelter of the Ontario Municipal Board.

The hotly-contested issue went behind closed doors with a two-man OMB board of inquiry last night at the end of a six-day rehearing of the $3,000,000 controversy.

On the outside, supporters and opponents of the scheme to make Belleville a regional shopping centre could be in for a lengthy wait.

OMB officials R. B. Maguire and A. L. McCrae, who conducted the new inquiry, last night would not hazard a guess on any date for decision.

However, they noted they have a weightier review assignment than produced by the initial 1969 OMB session which denied the plaza — and touched off the furor causing the rehearing.

The evidence of that original hearing is also pertinent to the rehearing. This must also be scrutinized — in addition to all testimony gathered by the rehearing.

Both officials took with them cautions from the three legal spokesmen for both sides in the long-drawn controversy — city solicitor E. Guss Porter, R. B. Robinson, lawyer for plaza developer Cambridge Leaseholds and Robert Macaulay, opposing counsel for Marchland Holdings.

Legal arguments — consuming the last day of the rehearing and stretching it into its lone night session, included:

● A warning from Mr. Macaulay that no evidence had been introduced on the plaza's economic impact on Belleville's municipal assessment, tax structure or budget, with an accompanying prediction that the project could destroy the city's economic fabric.

● An assertion from Mr. Porter that a booming Belleville is becoming the focal point for rapid and substantial expansion.

● A claim from Mr. Robinson that existing commercial city facilities only meet a part of consumer demand and that a big outflow of spending elsewhere could be recaptured by the new plaza.

They were among statements that flowed with a welter of words in the day-long session that began with Mr. Porter's hour-long summation as the session opened.

A night session which lasted until 8 p.m. became inevitable after Robinson took issue with Mr. Macaulay's arguments — including those on the plaza's economic impact—a key area of the opposing lawyer's rebuttal of the project during an afternoon-long presentation.

The last hours of the hearing were given over to both contesting lawyers as they rebutted each other's claims in argument and counter-argument.

Mr. Macaulay, who called no witnesses during the six-day hearing, took 3½ hours to complete his argument — a warning oration that included statistical predictions of the new plaza's local economic effects.

Mr. Robinson retorted that these were an "advocate's use of figures" as distinct from the statistics of an expert analyst. Such a practice, he warned at one point, "is dangerous in the extreme."

Mr. Macaulay claimed the onus was on the city and Cambridge to produce evidence of economic impact.

Both had failed to do this, he stressed, even though it was obvious such information was among reasons for the provincial cabinet ordering the rehearing.

No new evidence had been produced by the new inquiry, he said.

"We have not had better evidence. We've not even had new evidence. We have had rehashed, old evidence."

This was not what the OMB or cabinet had expected when it ordered the rehearing, he said.

"You've been let down badly," he told the OMB officials.

A key figure in the day-long arguments was a man who never testified at the hearing—Allen Brass, the consultant hired by city council for an urban renewal study.

Mr. Brass, subpoenaed for the hearing, was present but never called. Opposing counsel strongly objected Thursday when Mr. Robinson announced he would not bring Mr. Brass to the stand.

Mr. Macaulay noted the 1969 OMB decision refusing the city's rezoning application to permit the new plaza, mentioned an official plan and urban renewal study was being made.

This indicated OMB interest in having both measures and economic factors discussed.

The rehearing had learned no official plan was available — and then that Mr. Brass would not be called.

But the OMB had anticipated — with a new rehearing — that Mr. Brass would testify, he claimed. Instead, Mr. Macaulay said, he had not had the opportunity to cross-examine Mr. Brass.

The inquiry thus could only guess at what Mr. Brass might have said about locating the project downtown, or on its economic effects to the city.

"My friends knew very well . . . the importance of the man, yet they didn't call him," he charged. He believed it was a "deliberate decision" to keep Mr. Brass out of the witness box.

Mr. Robinson retorted that the issue was academic.

The OMB, he said, now has what it wanted — Mr. Brass' study, which was filed at the rehearing.

Mr. Robinson said he informed opposition counsel last Thursday they could call Mr. Brass, but the consultant was not asked to testify.

He said it was "idle speculation" to say what the cabinet had in mind when it ordered the rehearing.

Mr. Macaulay also criticized city council's handling of the urban renewal study. Council never really studied the report, before cancelling it, he said.

"Before it even got it they decided to cancel if and fire the man (Mr. Brass) that was doing it," he charged.

An economic analysis of area had been presented the rehearing by Richard Hamilton, a consultant named to council by Cambridge Leaseholds, he said.

This meant that council having spent public money for the Brass urban renewal scheme had hired somebody else "whom they had been assured would give them a favorable report before even reading it."

Now, said Mr. Macaulay, the OMB could ask no questions of Mr. Brass on urban renewal. The impact of the shopping centre on the downtown area could not be ascertained from the consultant.

Mr. Macaulay said Mr. Hamilton was imminently qualified to testify on shopping centres but he would not accept him as a planner.

Mr. Hamilton had testified that the shopping plaza would not affect the downtown area. But the Brass report warned that as growth continued elsewhere inaction in the city's core can only result in attendant decline.

Rehabilitation of the area would be relatively easy and inexpensive to implement now instead of 10 years hence.

Mr. Macaulay said the fact that federal attitudes to urban renewal may have slowed should not affect what the Brass report envisions.

"What he is talking about is leadership — and it doesn't have to emerge from the murk. It has to emerge from the politicians."

Counsel, supporting the plaza had said downtown merchants "were not much interested." Yet, said Mr. Macaulay, the merchants were willing to help defray the cost of a conceptual plan.

Mr. Robinson agreed urban renewal was of "greatest significance".

However, he cited a letter from Central Mortgage and Housing to Belleville's city manager last August which warned the municipality must elect to suspend work on any project or continue it aware that federal subsidies might not be forthcoming.

Council therefore had to reach a decision on its urban renewal study project. "Whether Brass was fired out of hand — and I say he was not — we have his material."

Yet, the Brass study didn't "have very much to do" with the issue before the board, he claimed. Mr. Brass was considering the central business district, not the proposed plaza site.

"If Brass was dealing specifically with the issue we are dealing with there might be reason for calling him," said Mr. Robinson.

Mr. Macaulay stressed that the bylaws and agreements covering the plaza project gave inadequate protection to the city. There was no limit to the size of the development—except by inference in the lot coverage. There was no limit to construction height and traffic access also was inferred by what the highways department might propose.

The ordinances provide no siting, buffering, drainage or light controls, he said.

"You're asked to give a blank cheque as regards these bylaws and these agreements," added Mr. Macaulay.

Mr. Robinson counter-claimed a site-plan agreement existed between the city and developer and "we intend to live up to it to the last letter."

A building permit will not be issued until municipal authorities approve plans for the centre.

"We are totally locked in by it (the agreement) . . . And we're going to live up to the agreement and I can give that assurance to the municipality," said Mr. Robinson.

It took almost an hour for Mr. Robinson to present his rebuttal of arguments advanced during the day by Mr. Macaulay.

Moments after he concluded, the rehearing was declared at an end.

E Guss Porter

Belleville Must Be Given Equal Chance to Compete

Belleville is booming and becoming the focal point for "rapid and substantial expansion," city solicitor E. Guss Porter told the Ontario Municipal Board yesterday.

This, coupled with the absence of objecting witnesses, is among reasons for approving a new northend shopping centre, he said.

The current expansive environment of the area is reflected in many tangible ways, the city solicitor summed up for the final phase of the OMB rehearing on the plaza issue.

These include new industries already located — and the promise of more, building permits and real estate transactions.

All of it added together spells "phenomenal and unprecedented" growth, said Mr. Porter.

It is an expansion that is spreading around the Belleville area — taking in places like once totally-rural Prince Edward County.

And this entire area now has easy road access to the northend plaza site said Mr. Porter.

"What does this mean? It means this community is bursting at the seams and growing at an unprecedented rate. It means people, jobs and money — and above all it means a regional commercial potential."

This potential could not be indicated in statistical data prior to 1968, he cautioned — a year before the first OMB hearing turned down the plaza project.

Yet, even that adverse decision agreed the site was "ideally located," and no contrary evidence had been produced by the rehearing.

He said it would be "a decision without equity" for the OMB to disallow the city's application to rezone the North Front Street land bloc, thus opening up the plaza development.

"Belleville must be given an equal opportunity to compete for what can only be described as a highly desirable asset," added Mr. Porter.

The pause in federal financial enthusiasm for urban renewal brought on an end to the city's rehabilitation study in its downtown and Foster Ward.

E. GUSS PORTER

Nonetheless the urban renewal report was available with statistical data — although it only concerned the central business district.

Even if senior governments crystallized their policies on urban renewal immediately it would be "some years before Belleville could go ahead."

"The city cannot afford to sit back and see what will happen or when it will happen" advised Mr. Porter.

Any urban renewal study must take shopping centres into consideration, he said.

"Shoppers want these centres and their demands will be met in one way or another."

The downtown area had parking problems while the urban renewal report indicated apathy among downtown merchants on improvements.

"Downtown redevelopment is not just around the corner. It's many years away and there is need for a regional shopping centre which must be met now," he insisted.

City council, he submitted, would have "been derelict in its duty" had it not done everything possible to make the shopping centre a reality.

Mr. Porter commented on the lack of objections registered before the hearing.

Even Oshawa Wholesale, the big-name objector last year on behalf of Towers Discount Department Store, had not shown.

"It must be remembered, without their objection in the first place, we would not be here today," said Mr. Porter.

"Oshawa Wholesale recognizes there no longer is a valid objection to a new shopping centre.

". . .And in any event they have accomplished their original purpose of delay, only too well," commented the city solicitor. Hence, the company has no need "for these tactics any longer."

It is city council's duty when considering rezoning to consider the broad public interest not one group. The OMB's duty is precisely the same, he added.

This must not be lost sight of in concern that existing merchants — "mainly Towers" will have to adjust to different conditions.

If it turned down the rezoning application, the OMB would be doing something "which time and time again it has said is not its function. It would be regulating the retail trade, or at least attempting to do so."

The new project is a logical concept, said Mr. Porter.

"And its approval is the only equitable solution to this intolerable situation. It must be resolved."

R. B. Robinson

Hearing Is A Mysterious Case

Picton mayor and construction tycoon Harvey McFarland already has a building permit for a Thurlow township shopping centre and is waiting his cue from the fate of Belleville's northend shopping centre.

His "opportunism" is "another example of the potential for commercial development in the Belleville area, R. B. Robinson, counsel for Cambridge Leaseholds told the Ontario Municipal Board yesterday.

Growth is one of two major factors justifying a new shopping centre in the area, Mr. Robinson said in his summation to the OMB hearing of a rezoning application that would permit a new Belleville plaza.

The second is a multi-million dollar outflow of consumer spending in communities with more retail facilities than Belleville.

Existing facilities only meet a portion of Belleville consumer demands, said Mr. Robinson.

Statistics presented the rehearing claimed a trade area of 128,000 consumers could be serviced by the Belleville plaza by 1971.

At present there are only two department stores serving the city area, said Mr. Robinson.

"No wonder there is an enormous demand recognized in this area."

Present merchandizing does not offer the quality and range consumers want, particularly in big-price items, Mr. Robinson claimed.

With Simpsons-Sears as a major tenant the new plaza would stem the flow of escaping dollars from the community.

Cambridge Leaseholds have seen the opportunity of realizing a potential demand not serviced now.

"They could not have continued their interest without real confidence in the potential which exists here," said Mr. Robinson.

R. B. ROBINSON

Mr. McFarland, with a site on the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway boundary of Thurlow is "sitting in the wings. His site is there and ready if we should fail," said the lawyer.

His "opportunism" is "another demonstration of the potential."

Mr. Robinson described the rehearing as "one of the most unusual and mysterious cases I've ever been involved in."

Oshawa Wholesale and the Belleville Plaza merchants have withdrawn objections registered at the initial 1969 hearing which denied the northend project. No witnesses were called to give evidence against the development.

The sole objector was Marchland Holdings.

"If Marchland has an interest in any way affected (by the plaza) we don't know what it is. Are they a front for somebody elee?"

Robert Macaulay

Russian Roulette to Destroy Economy

The proposed northend plaza could pack a lethal punch for Belleville's economy, Robert Macaulay warns.

By consenting to the $3,000,000 project — already once denied — the Ontario Municipal Board could be involving the municipality in a game of financial Russian roulette.

And, he says, the OMB must not reconsider its earlier disapproval of the shopping centre without having before it any expert deductions on how the project could affect the city's assessment, its tax base or municpal budget.

The warnings came as Mr. Macaulay took the OMB rehearing on the controversial issue into its final phases yesterday — with a summation spanning three-and-one - half hours.

For the Toronto lawyer it was his second such oratorical marathon in a year against the plaza.

Yesterday's presentation came almost exactly one year after the end of the 1969 hearing in which he successfully argued the plaza scheme to a standstill.

Throughout the six-day hearing no witnesses were called by the objector to the rehearing — Marchland Holdings — and Mr. Macaulay's final argument was awaited expectantly by proponents of the project.

In an address which lasted the entire afternoon — and forced a night-sitting before the rehearing was finally adjourned — he attacked the claims for the project on a broad front — particularly its economic impact.

The plaza, he charged, could affect between 25 and 55 per cent of business done in the city's downtown core commercial area.

"I also firmly believe that the impact will be so immense that it could destroy the whole economic fabric of the Belleville community . . .," he predicted.

Yet, neither the city, which seeks approval for zoning to permit the plaza project, nor the developer, Cambridge Leaseholds, had produced evidence as to the effect of that impact on the city's assessment, tax structure, budget or debt.

"And I know this board well enough to know it is not going to play Russian roulette with this municipality," he added.

Mr. Macaulay queried statistics supporting the plaza project — painstakingly delving through reports and testimony dating back to the 1969 hearing, to query predictions both for the centre and the Belleville area.

ROBERT MacAulay

Current buoyant expansion — including new industrial growth — was referred to by supporters of the plaza, he said.

What wasn't mentioned was that of 13 new industries in the area, eight of them came because of provincial government industrial equalization grants, recalled the counsel.

"I don't want them not to have them (the industries) but what we're talking about is why they have them," he asserted.

Later, again noting testimony on local expansion, Mr. Macaulay pondered: "Is Belleville right in receiving these funds if everything is so buoyant? That's not what they were designed for."

Once, such industrial grants had been earmarked for distressed areas, he recalled. "Strikes me," mused Mr. Macaulay, "there's a bit of walking on both sides of the street in that approach."

Meantime, the Brass report on urban renewal had warned while Belleville is experiencing a minor boom it "would not be wise to expect it to continue at the same pace" especially if provincial industrial grants are redesignated. Tight money could also be a growth factor.

Mr. Macaulay estimated construction of a new plaza could create a vast surplus of commercial store space in Belleville — besides its affect in cash on existing city merchants.

He refuted the analysis of plaza consultant Richard Hamilton on the affects to department store trade by the northend plaza — effects which could range from 30 to 50 per cent.

Mr. Hamilton said much of the plaza business would be a $5 million recapture of consumer dollars going to other communities.

"His experience won't bail this city out," asserted Mr. Macaulay. "And if he's wrong, this city is in real trouble . . . serious, serious financial problems."

Put Rangers Up Top

Tkaczuk Anchoring Most Potent NHL Trio

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An important part of New York Rangers' success in the National Hockey League this season, which currently has them leading the East Division, can be attributed to their team within a team led by centre Walt Tkaczuk.

Centring a line with veteran Dave Balon and rookie Bill Tkaczuk has anchored the unit to 164 points—the most of any trio in the NHL.

"We're just that—a unity," says Tkaczuk. "None of us is a star by himself. We need each other to succeed."

Balon agrees:

"You can see that against some of the West teams," he said. "With them, everybody is trying to do it by himself. Not us. We work together."

Balon, at 31 is the old man of the line. Tkaczuk, whose next point will be the 100th of his NHL career, is 22 and Fairbairn 23.

General manager and coach Emile Francis brought Balon back to New York for a second go-round last season, trading three players to Minnesota North Stars to get him.

Dave killed penalties for the first half of last season before Francis put him on a line with Tkaczuk and Bob Nevin. The line clicked and Francis was ready to start this season with it intact. Then Nevin was hurt in the first game of the season, giving Fairbairn his chance.

"It took about seven games for us to get going," said Balon. "We started talking to each other on the ice, telling one another what we were doing. That helps a lot."

Tkaczuk, whose name is pronounced K-chook, started last year in a checking line and didn't get many scoring opportunities.

That's all changed now. Some people even pronounce his name properly although most still call him Tay-chuck.

"That's what my first coach called me," said Tkaczuk. "He said, 'that's your name from now on. The other is too tough to remember.'"

The coach's name? Steve Brklacich, a Ranger scout.

"He had some nerve complaining with a name like that," laughed Walt.

The Rangers visit Los Angeles Kings in one of five scheduled games Wednesday night, seeking to extend their current record of 115 consecutive games without being shutout. Kings goalie Gerry Desjardins was the last to blank the Rangers—on Nov. 6, 1968.

The Rangers' record for most consecutive games without being shut out is 117. They set the mark in 1941-42, the last season they finished in first place.

Meanwhile, Montreal Canadiens prepare to renew their old rivalry with Toronto Maple Leafs. The game at the Forum will see the Canadiens going without left-winger John Ferguson who is in a Minneapolis hospital with a possible fractured cheekbone.

Doctors said Ferguson, who was hit in the face by a puck in a game against the North Stars Saturday, will not return to Montreal until a severely-swollen right eye improves.

Leafs goalie Bruce Gamble, who will be making his 25th consecutive start since Johnny Bower and Marv Edwards were sidelined with knee injuries, says he could use a rest.

The 208-pound goalie likes lots of work, "but it's amazing what a difference a day off can make," he said.

Ellis Takes It Easy

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Ellis continued to take things easy, boxing only two rounds Monday after not sparring since Thursday.

But Joe Frazier went five rounds in preparation for showdown heavyweight title match Feb. 16 at Madison Square Garden.

Angelo Dundee, manager of Ellis, the World Boxing Association champ, confined his fighter to two rounds with Stanford Harris of Jamaica.

He was off Sunday and did not box Friday or Saturday although he worked out.

Ellis plans to box Wednesday and Thursday and call it quits.

Ellis and Frazier will have their pre-fight physicals at the Garden's Felt Forum Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. EST.

Rangers Seeking First Flag Since '42

MONTREAL (CP) — The last time New York Rangers finished first in the National Hockey League was in 1941-42.

That same season they were in the midst of establishing the league record for going the most contests without being shut out—117 games.

This season the Rangers currently are in first place—a position they have held since Nov. 7 when they moved past Detroit Red Wings in the league's East Division race—and are two games away from tying their record of most games without being held scoreless by opposing goalies.

Since Kings' goaltender Gerry Desjardins blanked Rangers at Los Angeles, Nov. 6, 1968, New York has scored at least once in each of its last 115 games.

The Kings, and perhaps Desjardins, get a chance to end that streak before it becomes a record when the Rangers visit Los Angeles Wednesday.

The record 117 games, set by New York from Nov. 2, 1940, to Dec. 31, 1942, could be tied at Oakland Friday against the Seals.

If they score against the two West Division teams, the Rangers could be going for a record Sunday afternoon at New York against Montreal Canadiens.

The Canadiens are in a second-place tie with Boston Bruins, each with 68 points, two less than New York, but the Rangers have played two games less than either Boston or Montreal.

While New York scorers are attempting to keep the scoring punch intact, goaltenders Ed Giacomin and Terry Sawchuk are aiming for shutouts to preserve their slim lead in the goaltending race.

The New York pair moved ahead of Chicago Black Hawks netminding duo of Tony Esposito and Denis DeJordy last week and now have a combined goals-against average of 2.28 compared to Chicago's 2.30.

Only one New York goaltender has ever won the Vezina Trophy—Dave Kerr in 1939-40.

Orr One Step Ahead of Sinden

BOSTON (CP) — Most everyone can tell you about the National Hockey League records set by Bobby Orr, but there's one tucked away in the annals of professional hockey that even the young Boston Bruin superstar could have trouble remembering.

But Orr's coach, Harry Sinden, remembers.

That dusty old mark was the most assists in a single professional hockey season by a defenceman. It was established back in the 1961-62 season by non other than Sinden.

He was playing for Kingston Frontenacs of the now-defunct Eastern Professional Hockey League and racked up 61 assists during the season.

It was mentioned to Sinden last week and the Boston coach had even forgotten it.

"Hey is that right?" Sinden asked.

"Does that thing still stand. That's interesting . . . very interesting . . . wait till I tell Bobby. You know I may even have to bench him now."

But Sinden did not bench Orr and Sunday night he picked up an assist as the Bruins thumped St. Louis Blues 7-1. That brought his total to 62 for the season, surpassing Sinden's record by one.

Barclay Plager, playing for Omaha Knights of the Central Professional League, also set up 61 goals in the 1963-64 season, but now Orr holds the mark by himself.

Vancouver Bid Aided By Back Scratch?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Len Taylor, a director of the Vancouver-Garibaldi Olympic Committee, denied Monday that a deal exists whereby the Soviet Union will support the Vancouver bid for the 1976 Winter Olympics in return for Vancouver's endorsement of Moscow as the venue for the Summer Olympics in the same year.

Taylor was commenting on published reports that a reciprocal support agreement was made at a dinner Friday night in Moscow where he and Gordon (Sid) Young, vice-president of the Garibaldi-Vancouver steering commiteee, met with Alexei Romanov, Russia's chief international Olympic committee member.

"There was never any deal," Taylor said in an interview on his return to Vancouver.

"We discussed our bid and we were there to promote it, but no one asked for the Soviet Union's IOC vote for Garibaldi.

"Canada's official position is a dual bid for the Summer and Winter Olympics and Vancouver supports it."

Taylor said the Russians asked him to assess their bid for the summer games against Montreal. He said, in his opinion, Moscow has a good chance because of the natural curiosity about the city, the Soviet Union's rise to a world sports power and the fact it has never had the Olympics.

IOC officials felt the fact that the Montreal bid is not receiving federal government financial support would enhance Moscow's position, Taylor said.

Taylor said there is a strong movement among Eastern-bloc countries to get the summer games for Moscow. Los Angeles and Florence, Italy, are also bidding for them, along with Montreal.

He said he and Young met with IOC delegates from Poland and East Germany, who reacted favorably to the Vancouver presentation.

Chatter Costs Bedard

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Roger Bedard, coach of Montreal Junior Canadiens, was suspended Monday for taking a verbal swipe at officiating in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, The Free Press reports.

Bedard said Sunday there wasn't an honest referee in the league after his team suffered an 8-2 defeat to Toronto Marlboros.

Phil Wimmer, Montreal general manager, will be behind the Junior Canadiens bench tonight in London when they play their final regular season game against London Knights.

Defenceman Greg Burkitt of the Belleville Ellis Printers checks a Cobourg forward in his own end in last night's game at Cobourg. The Ellis Juniors clinched a playoff spot in the Eastern Ontario Junior B league by beating the home team 9-4, stretching their unbeaten string to seven games.

Quinte Schedule Ends

Stinson Construction and Belvedere Hotel finished their seasons on a winning note in the Quinte Hockey League last night.

The construction crew survived taking six of the game's eight penalties to stop Central Taxi, who finished in second spot, 5-2. Rick Denard scored twice and picked up an assist for Stinsons, while Art Deline had two goals and Garry Genereaux one in the third-place finisher's winning effort. Doug Bolte and Tom Pierce were the Taxi squad scorers.

The pennant-winning Belvedere team, which lost only two of their 15 games, came up with a 5-3 victory over Aluminum Star, who finished last among the league's four entries. Bill Goodfellow was top man for the winners scoring two goals and adding an assist for a three point night. Larry Marshal, Elmer Cain, and Jack Gilbey were all credited with a goal and an assist. For the Aluminum Stars, Bill McGuire scored one goal and assisted on another. Errol Johnston and Don Moore had a goal apiece and Ron Pointer picked up two helpers.

Play-offs begin next Monday night as Belvedere Hotel meets Stinson's Construction and Central Taxi takes on Aluminum Star.

Merchants Get Gassed

Marysville upset the Downtown Merchants 5-2 last night in Gas House semi-final playoff action and trail the best three - out - of - five game series two games to one. In the other series Mulroney's and the Mustangs battled to a 1-1 tie to give each of them one win and a draw in the play-offs.

Brian MacCormack had a three-goal night in Marysville's upset win to pave the scoring. Bruce and Wayne Pascoe notched the other goals for the winners, while Ted Schwager and Bob Lloyd were the Merchant marksmen. The losers drew four of the game's nine penalties.

Goaltender Paul Smith of the Mustangs and Claude Carr in the Mulroney nets, held the goal total to a stingy pair to knot that series. Mulroney's, who were buried in the league cellar, have played strongly in the semi-final matches against the second-place finishers.

Bob Mulvihill opened the scoring for the Mustangs with assists going to Jack Garvin and Gary Reid. Mulroney's tied it up late in the game when Terry Casselman converted passes from Kevin Allen and Paul Ford. Mulroney's had five penalties against the Mustang's four infractions.

Soccer Kicking Off

The Quinte area's growing colony of soccer enthusiasts is not waiting for May flowers to test it's kicking powers.

Open practices for prospective Bay of Quinte Soccer Association players begin Wednesday night and will run weekly at the same time (7-10 p.m.) at Quinte Secondary School's gymnasium.

The 1970 association executive was also picked this week.

Familiar soccer supporter Peter Crowle will serve as president, with Bill Letford vice-president.

Other executives are Ken Frost (secretary), Ken Marshall (treasurer), and Bob Rutherford.

"We expect at least an eight-team league this year," noted Frost. "We'll have two teams from Trenton, one from CFB Trenton, Batawa and four from Belleville — Belleville United, Parsons Cleaners, the Quinte Rovers, and a probably new high school entry."

A minor all-star team is another possible league addition.

Last year Bay of Quinte soccer operated with a seven-team format.

Plans tentatively call for the league schedule to open in mid-May.

'Greenes' Fast

Both local entries in the Nancy Greene Ski League were defeated in weekend action, as Oak Hill was defeated by Oshawa and Batawa lost a close meet to the Bethany Ski Club of Peterborough.

Rob Jevons of the Oak Hill Ski Club fared best in the Oshawa meet as his time of 85.5 seconds for two runs was good for fifth place. Other top performers for the local Oak Hill Club were Peter Edwards, John Boyce and Jim Cameron. The next meet for the Oak Hill team is next Sunday morning against the Devil's Elbow Club in Peterborough.

Batawa lost a narrow 118-101 decision to Oshawa that cost them a spot in the league play-offs. John Dekker was the top local skier placing third. Other Batawa skiers who fared well were Bennett Smets (4th), Neil Ackerman (7th) and Leslie Cormack (9th). Oshawa visits Batawa next Sunday at 11 a.m.

Bomb Cobourg 9-4

Junior B's Cinch Play-off Spot

By ERIC EMERSON

Staff Sportswriter

COBOURG — A pair of natural sevens were good enough for the Ellis Juniors to rake in a share of the Eastern Ontario Junior B League playoff pot, as they clinched fourth place by beating the Cobourg Cougars 9-4 last night in Cobourg.

Terry Meagher picked up three consecutive goals — his second consecutive hat trick— to break open a goaltending battle between Ron Jury and Mike Caine. The hat trick combined with his four assists gave Meagher a seven-point night and the Printers their seventh consecutive unbeaten game.

Belleville carried a slim 4-3 lead into the final frame as Cougar netminder Caine was nothing short of brilliant. Cobourg switched tactics however, turning a relatively penalty - free game into a slugfest a la Sunday's 7-4 loss in Belleville. Their strategy met with the same success as Meagher scored three times and Ron Fuller twice.

Coach Floyd Crawford was understandably happy. "You have to give all the credit to the boys themselves. They've played terrific hockey."

John McConnell gave Belleville a first period lead as he broke into the clear at the blue line and beat the Cobourg goalie on the far side. Cobourg later tied the game and went ahead at 4.26 of the second period on a goal by Mike Kelly, who played a strong game for the Cougars.

The teams traded goals before McConnell and Mallory gave Belleville their one goal lead.

Meagher, who had been chiefly responsible for two of the Ellis goals, deflected a shot past Caine at 2.48 of the third period that proved to be the winner.

Ron Fuller picked up three goals and an assist to trail Meagher in the point parade, as he filled in on the power play and for John McConnell who was struck by a high stick in the second period. McConnell returned to action despite a rap in the nose which hampered his breathing.

Reid Mallory had a goal and four assists and McConnell added two goals and a helper as the M-line had a big night.

John Mulvihill and Greg Burkitt were standouts in front of Jury who came up with another strong game making 35 saves. Dalton Lambert sat out the game because of a game misconduct incurred in Sunday's action.

Seven Point Night

Belleville outshot the home team 45-30 and drew 10 of the match's 21 penalties.

The win places the Printers five points behind Peterborough, whom they play in a home-and-home series this weekend. The teams meet in Belleville Friday night at 9 p.m.

Barrie Here Tonight

Mo-Hawks Need to Join Halves

If they can combine Friday's offence and Sunday's defence, Belleville Mo-Hawks stand a good chance of beating Barrie Flyers at the Memorial Arena tonight.

Their last two games have been the first impressive performances by the Mo-Hawks since they embarked on a 30 - day point fast that has seen them lose eight of ten games.

The Mo - Hawks held the Flyers scoreless for 30 minutes Sunday, the first time they have done that in recent memory to any OHA Senior opposition, at home or on the road.

And Friday night the locals led powerful Oakville Oaks 4-3 for 30 minutes of a 7-5 loss, the Mo-Hawks' most active night on the scoreboard in a couple of weeks.

If the Mo-Hawks are beginning to come around from their slump, the recovery couldn't be better timed.

They have been playing most of their games with the services of only a pair of 100 per cent defencemen — Greg Marchen and Lionel Botly. If they can win without Lou Kazowski and Wayne Brown on the blueline, they should be playoff threats when both become lineup fixtures again.

Tonight's 8:30 game with the Flyers is one of those theoretical four-pointers.

A win would leave the Mo-Hawks only two points behind the fifth - place Flyers while a loss would put them six back.

Tonight's game was rescheduled to avoid conflicting with the Quinte Figure Skating Club's annual ice carnival Sunday, Feb. 1.

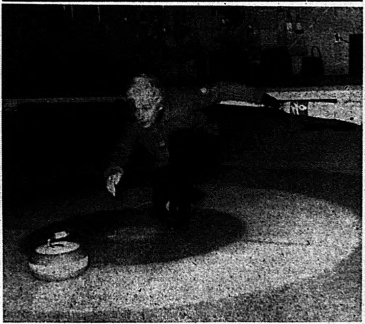
Flyers Suspend McClocklin

BARRIE, Ont., (CP) — The executive of the Barrie Flyers announced today that defenceman Rick McClocklin has been suspended for an indefinite period "for performance detrimental to the hockey club."

In an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game here against Belleville Mo-Hawks last Sunday McClocklin picked up a game misconduct after being assessed a high-sticking penalty. He took exception to the minor penalty and had to be restrained by team-mates from attacking the referee.

Kingston Rink Leads Curling Championships

TERRACE BAY, Ont (CP) —Mrs. K. O'Neil of Kingston representing eastern Ontario at the Ontario women's curling championships here, leads midway through the three-rink, double round robin tournament with two wins and no losses.



Skip Fran Simpson of CFB Trenton shows curling form in the 12th Intelligencer Women's Bonspiel held at the Quinte Curling Club. The Trenton skip saw her rink upset defending champion Ann Acton of Belleville in Monday's opening round of knockout play. Finals in the 24-rink tournament will get underway around 6 p.m. tonight.

Home Rinks Stumble In Intelligencer Bonspiel

The odds against a repeat host Quinte club win in the 12th annual Intelligencer Women's Bonspiel are getting slimmer by the stone.

After a pair of losses in Monday's first round of play in the 24-rink knockout event, defending champion Ann Acton's Quinte foursome today found themselves in consolation play, one loss away from elimination.

That meant only three of 11 Quinte Club entries survived into this morning's opening of "sixes" competition.

Quinte's Gwynn Maud led her foursome against Trenton's Mary Wilson this afternoon, and Jane Sheppard's rink issued the only other Quinte Club challenge for main event honors when they met Napanee's Sally Lambert.

A pair of CFB Trenton rinks skipped by Fran Simpson and Marg Wynn were the the only others still in the running for the Intelligencer Trophy.

Meanwhile, Gwen Sutton's rink carried Quinte Club colors into second event play against Trenton's Shirley Blaind. The other four rinks remaining in Pepsi-Cola Trophy competition this morning were those skipped by Joan Grant (Kingston), Mrs. R. Grenke (CFB Trenton), Marg McPherson (Napanee), and Beth Dunfield (Trenton).

Competition broke off at 3 o'clock this afternoon for a social hour planned by the Quinte Club hostesses.

Ten - end finals were expected to be under way this evening around 6 p.m.

CAN YOU LOSE BY OVER-PRICING YOUR PROPERTY?
ED McKINNEY
J. E. McKinney Realty Ltd.
Many vendors mistakenly think they can't.
If their property doesn't sell, they reason, they can always reduce the price later. Meanwhile, they MAY have made a sale at the high price. If not, they have lost nothing.
Realtors in constant touch with buyers know it is not that simple.
Experience shows that in almost all cases where a property is put on the market at a given time, there are a limited number of good prospects for it. The Realtor tries to locate that "right" buyer whose needs match the property for sale.
When that buyer is located and he backs off because of high price, he is unlikely to be interested when the price is finally reduced. The chances are he will have bought elswhere.
In this way, a property that is otherwise very saleable, remains unsold while the best prospects are by-passed.
The vendor may later have to take a below-market price because the property has been on the market so long it has a bad image with buyers suspicious that something is wrong with it.
Consult a competent Realtor. You may well save many times his fee.

Amputees Get 'Electric' Arms

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Maryland scientists say they have devised a way for amputees to bend their artificial arms, twist their wrists and flex their fingers—all by tensing one set of muscles.

The system, developed in the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Labratory in conjunction with the hospital and medical school in Baltimore, eliminates the need for heavy mechanisms built into artificial limbs, tiring back cables and complicated gadgetry.

The new invention, expected to cost about $800 includes a compact motor-battery pack worn at the waist and a wrist-watch-type arm band with a set of electrodes to measure the voltage produced by tensing the muscles. The motor powers a cable that can be adapted to most artificial arms, hands and hooks.

Woodrow Seamone, who heads the project, says: "Our aim is to make electronics work for amputees in subtle ways. We have made our system as simple as possible because no one wants wires all over his body."

A short pulsing of the muscles twists the wrist, a longer tensing operates the fingers or hook. After releasing a catch, the same muscle action can bend the elbow. Work now is under way to eliminate the manual operation of the catch.

University Papers Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — The university student press in Canada suffers from a credibility gap caused by over-emphasis on politics, David Chenoweth, managing editor of the McGill Daily, said in a brief to the Senate committee on the mass media today.

His brief—a personal document—said the university press has helped work itself into a difficult position in the last decade and it must grow up.

"Due to its excessive political nature, it has created a massive credibility gap, both in its own environment and in terms of the general public."

Mr. Chenoweth said the picture won't change until the student press learns that effective reporting and communication require more self-discipline than has so far been shown.

"The student press must grow up and learn to use moderation and control, not because these may be intrinsically good in all situations, but because they are more effective than constant explosions of anger and hate," he said.

Mr. Chenoweth said that in the case of the McGill Daily, there are two major problems—the credibility gap inherited from the staff's politically excessive predecessors and threats of violence from radical campus groups.

"We are attempting to overcome the first problem and to ignore the second," he said.

Mr. Chenoweth's brief was presented in connection with his appearance at a roundtable discussion with the committee on the university press.

Mr. Chenoweth placed part of the blame for the dislike and mistrust of the student press on the outside media which have given only "stereotyped and superficial" coverage to the student environment. The student press had therefore been forced into a devil's advocate role.

Trying to do too much, campus editors restricted coverage of social, religious and other campus events in favor of political issues ignored by outside media.

Yeowart Says He Received Impression Woman Helped Plot Own Kidnapping

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Former police constable Richard Yeowart said Monday convicted kidnapper Gary Adams had given him the impression that Mary Nelles had helped plot her own kidnapping Sept. 7.

The 26-year-old Yeowart, who resigned from the Metropolitan Toronto police force following his arrest Sept. 13, was testifying on the fifth day of his trial on charges of kidnapping and conspiracy to kidnap Mrs. Nelles.

"The way it was related to me by Adams, I thought that Mary Nelles knew exactly what was going to happen because she helped formulate the plan with Adams," Yeowart said.

Yeowart said he went to Adams' office in full police uniform and in a police cruiser to try and stop the kidnapping, but was offered a $150,000 cut of the ransom.

He said he asked Adams if Mrs. Nelles was part of the kidnapping scheme and Adams smiled and said:

"Everyone has their part."

Yeowart testified he believed the kidnapping was "an extortion in the form of a kidnapping."

He said he also came to the conclusion that Mrs. Nelles was involved because of the knowledge Adams, sentenced last November to 15 years in penitentiary, had about her and her family.

Before Yeowart's testimony, defence counsel Robert Hopkins had told the jury in his opening address he would try to establish Yeowart had been misled into participating and had no criminal intent.

Yeowart testified that Adams, 30, had seemed positive Mrs. Nelles' uncle Marshall Davis would be in Toronto Sept. 7 to pay the ransom and Mrs. Nelles and her husband Cliff also would be in the city.

Yeowart said he asked Adams how he could be sure Mrs. Nelles would be home the night of Sept. 7.

He testified that Adams simply replied:

"She'll be home that weekend."

The former police constable said he, Adams and Ralph Cameron, sentenced to 10 years for his part in the kidnapping, drove to nearby Claremont, Ont., three weeks before the kidnapping.

He said Adams seemed to know exactly where the Nelles' converted schoolhouse home was in Claremont.

Yeowart said Adams told him on this occasion there were only two doors to the Nelles' home. But, the former policeman said he did not know how Adams could have known this only from a photograph he had claimed to have seen.

Yeowart said he believed Adams had "inside information" and thought it must have come from Mrs. Nelles.

The former policeman also said he tried to talk Adams and Cameron out of the kidnapping scheme by pointing out the crime carried a maximum penalty of life imprisonment.

He said he went over the plan with Adams and warned him of its many possible faults: Mrs. Nelles and her husband might not be alone; the car carrying her away from the kidnapping scene could be stopped by police for a minor violation; the ransom money could be marked, and the pickup of the money would be difficult because of police surveillance.

Mr. Hopkins told the jury Yeowart was at no time interested in receiving his $150,000 share of the ransom. And Yeowart testified he had told Adams he did not need the money because he was earning $9,000 to $10,000 a year, was single and lived at home.

Appearing as character witnesses earlier in the day were Yeowart's parents. He sobbed throughout their testimony and at one point tried to get Mr. Hopkins to take his crying mother off the witness stand.

Mrs. Nelles was returned unharmed Sept. 9 after her husband had paid $200,000. The family told the kidnappers they could not raise the $850,000 originally sought.

Five Toronto bachelors—Adams, Cameron, Michael Whiteside, Peter Burns and John Rogan—pleaded guilty last November to kidnapping and received sentences ranging from 10 to 15 years.

Yeowart testified that he had not rushed at Nelles as he returned home the night of the kidnapping, but in fact had tripped as he entered the Nelles home. He said he still had bruises received in the fall five months ago.

He also told the jury that Adams, at a previous meeting, had told him that he had tape-recorded conversations between the two men, and threatened to take the tapes to his superiors if anything went wrong with the scheme.

He told the court that on the night of the kidnapping he entered the Nelles home and turned off a light to warn the Nelles on their return.

When he came back out of the house, he testified that he told his companion Cameron:

"C'mon, let's get the hell out of here. There's someone sleeping in the house.

"When I said this to Ralph, he took off like a rabbit."

Yeowart said he made the statement to scare the others from carrying out the plot. The pair ran back to the three cars that had brought the men from Toronto and told Adams that there was someone in the house.

Adams became enraged, he said, and pounded the roof of the car, saying:

"No, it's impossible. There's nobody in the house. No! No!"

He said the group was then frightened by a passing car and drove off, eventually arriving near a main intersection of Claremont.

He testified that Adams then said he was going to telephone the Nelles house, and that when he returned Adams told the group he had let the telephone ring 20 times and that no one had answered.

But he testified that he continued to argue with the group, hoping they would delay the plan for some time so that it might collapse.

He told the court that the group then heard a siren and left immediately for another meeting place.

At the next meeting, he said, Adams was still banging his fists and the group was frightened of him.

Yeowart testified that the reason he finally re-entered the home was "verbal persuasion" by Adams.

He said he felt he was safer in the house than outside.

And he testified that once back in the house he signalled an approaching car with a flashlight, thinking the Nelles were returning. But he said it was Rogan, one of the convicted kidnappers, checking on the situation.

Yeowart said he continued to try to dissuade Cameron from going through with the plan, and at one point "found myself kneeling on the floor praying they (Nelles) wouldn't come back."

He said he had finally convinced Cameron to leave after a 10-minute wait, but that it was during that time the couple returned.

The trial continues.

Many Police Officials Think Loot Figures Lure Robbers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Does publication of the amount of money taken in a holdup encourage further crime?

Druggists and bankers in Montreal, plagued by many holdups and armed robberies in recent years, think it does and from now on, will not make such figures public.

Many police officials in other cities, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows, think so, too, but they have no plans to impose a blackout on such news—at least, not immediately. A few oppose the Montreal move.

The policy in Montreal was adopted last week by the Quebec Association of Pharmacists and the Canadian Bankers Association. Montreal police agreed to co-operate.

While approving the idea, most police authorities elsewhere said they thought it should be left to the victim to disclose the amount taken in a robbery. It was not clear whether all would go along with individual requests, but the survey showed no indication of adoption of a blackout policy on such disclosures.

A spokesman for the Vancouver police department said publication of amounts taken in holdups does not necessarily encourage further crime. No news blackout is contemplated in that city.

Inspector Andy Little of Calgary said such publicity can help to increase crime but his department has not considered the question. Calgary police sometimes withholds the information at the request of the victim.

Inspector E. R. Roberts of Edmonton said research is needed before his department would consider a news blackout.

Police Chief Arthur G. Cookson of Regina said his department has considered a news blackout but decided that the public is entitled to know what is going on. The information may be withheld at the specific request of the victim.

Ottawa police said they have no set policy on withholding holdup figures.

Spokesmen for departments in the Ontario cities of Sarnia, Galt, Kingston and Oshawa all agreed that publicity can encourage crime but they had no plans for a news blackout.

In Waterloo and Kitchener, police said each case is considered individually and the decision on publication often is left up to the victim.

Toronto police also said they have no plans for imposing a ban on publication of holdup figures.

Valentine's Day IS FRIDAY, FEB. 14

Romans Started Valentine Observance

By LINDA GELDART
Staff Reporter

That day for your heart of hearts is fast approaching — Valentine's Day is just around the corner.

This Saturday to be exact.

A day when sentimentality and thoughtfulness are the keynotes of the day.

Valentine's day is an opportunity to give expression to the feelings that are often not spoken — with a card, flowers, or even a box of chocolates.

Retailers throughout the city have special displays for Valentine's day — from large ornately decorated heart-shaped boxes of chocolates to an endless variety of cards of all descriptions.

Every year, the greeting card industry prints millions of Valentine's Day cards which — appealing to humor or sentiment spell out essentially the same message — "will you be my valentine?"

The celebration of Valentine's Day goes back to the time of the ancient Romans, and a pagan feast honoring Juno, the Roman goddess of women and marriage and Pan, the god of nature.

After the spread of Christianity, the day became a focal point honoring two Christian martyrs, but gradually was overshadowed by the nonreligious customs.

The custom of sending a greeting to a loved one on Valentine's day dates back to the early 1800s on the North American continent, and earlier still in some European countries.

Holiday Called Off

VANCOUVER (CP) — More than 1,600 Canadians who had planned two-week vacations on Spain's Costa Del Sol this year have been notified that their trips have been cancelled.

Wardair Canada Ltd. of Edmonton, the charter airline that was to take the vacationers to Malaga, Andalusia, and Funseekers International Ltd. of Calgary, the travel organization that arranged the package tour, expect to absorb heavy financial losses from the cancellation.

John Paddon of Vancouver, Wardair branch sales manager, said a sudden decision by the Spanish government to impose a punitive landing surcharge had forced the cancellation.

He said he understood the surcharge would amount to about 30 per cent of revenues, or $15,000 a flight.

Priests Said Not Obliged To Renew Vows

TORONTO (CP) — The Roman Catholic diocese of Toronto does not plan to institute an annual obligatory oath of celibacy for its clergy.

Auxiliary Bishop Thomas B. Fulton said Monday a letter received from the Pope late last year dealt mainly with the training of the clergy. He said the Latin text described an annual renewal of pledges of celibacy and obedience to the hierarchy as "desirable" for the spiritual life of priests.

"I do not interpret the Poep's letter as being an order or in any way obligatory, and there is nothing in the wording which would seem to indicate this," said the bishop.

In Rome, the Vatican called a press conference to announce a renewal of priestly pledges.

Someone's Sweetheart

It looks as if two-and-a-half-year-old Debbie Wardle has an admiring sweetheart — in fact there is no doubt when you take a glance at the box of chocolates she received for Valentine's Day. Debbie will tell you that her sweetheart is always one to remember her with a little something every Feb. 14 — as every sweetheart should.

Nixon Today Will Unveil His Anti-pollution Scheme

WASHINGTON (Reuters) — President Nixon today will unveil the government's "now or never" plan to rid American skies, lakes, forests and farmland of pollution in all forms.

His 15,000-word message to Congress will be at least five times the length of routine presidential messages to the legislature.

Nixon is expected to spell out the action he wants taken in sion of "living space" in parks 1970 and also outline the government's anti-pollution role for the next decade.

He is seeking executive action and laws to back up an earlier pledge to wage war on cars, private factories and government plants—all sources of smoke, grit and fumes in the atmosphere—an on chemical pollution fouling the country's rivers and lakes.

Nixon also has said the provi- and forests is one of the prime issues of the decade.

Herbicide Widely Used

WASHINGTON (AP) — A controversial and powerful herbicide used to defoliate Viet Cong jungle places in Vietnam has been used even more extensively in the United States to clear away brush from the countryside, the agriculture department says.

The spray, 2,4,5-T, has been shown to cause birth defects in laboratory animals, but is officially recommended by the U.S. government to rid pastures of brush.

About 3,000,000 acres of U.S. crop and range land have been sprayed in each of the last eight years with 2,4,5-T. However, most of this, more than 2,000,000 acres, involves range or pastureland—areas not directly producing food crops.

NO CHARGE

HUMBOLDT, Sask. (CP) — Free water for Canadian National Railways' diesel engines was the decision of the council of this community 70 miles east of Saskatoon on the CNR transcontinental line. Normal charge is operating cost plus 10 per cent, but Mayor Reg Barnes said the amount of water used by the CNR was so little that there should be no charge.

CRTC Holds Crucial Hearing

TORONTO (CP) — A public hearing of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, described by many broadcasters as the most crucial in the CRTC's two-year history, opens here today.

The commission will consider 16 applications for cable TV licences in the lucrative Toronto market and nine for the Burlington, Ont., area.

The money-making potential of a licence to serve parts of Toronto is indicated by amounts applicants say they are willing to invest—sums ranging from $1,500,000 to $6,200,000.

At least four of the Toronto applicants are among the largest cable companies in Canada —Rogers Cable TV and its subsidiary Coaxial Colorview Ltd.; York Cablevision Ltd., and Metro Cable TV Ltd.

All four already hold cable licences in sections of Toronto. Metro Cable is also applying for a licence in the Burlington area.

Maclean-Hunter cable TV Ltd., owned by the publishing company, licensed for part of Toronto, is also applying for part of the Burlington market.

The commission will also consider a long series of applications for TV and radio licences and licence renewals.

Many broadcasters said Monday the most important aspect of the hearing will be indications by the commission of the direction it wants Canadian broadcasting to take in the 1970s.

The hearing is the first since a controversial decision by the commission last December to ban the use of microwave by cable companies to import United States programs for distribution over vast areas in Canada.

"The Hardest Working Classified Want Ads are the ones that are Written the Best!"

Follow These Helpful Suggestions For Writing A Good Want Ad.

1—IT'S ALWAYS BEST to start your advertisement with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment or room for rent or property for sale, start your advertisement with the location.

2—Be CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete or definite information. Always include "price".

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always insert your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, give a preferred time to have prospects contact you.

4—THE GREATEST READER ATTENTION can be secured for your advertisement by using consecutive insertions.

You can stop your ad in the event of results, and then you pay only for the days it is published.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you would like to know (about your offer). The answer you give will make a good Classified Ad.

6—CLASSIFIED readers are already interested in buying your used or new merchandise. These people have the money and are already in the market to buy. So give them every advantage you can with good ad copy.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL to bring satisfaction do so, not through any lack of readership, but because they are often carelessly worded and do not contain enough information to get prompt action.

You'll Feel Good

Putting an idle household item back into use in someone's else's home will make you feel good, and will put cash in your hand as well.

And the person who buys the item you advertise for sale will also be pleased with the purchase. You can find that with a Want Ad.

Dial 962-9171 to place your Want Ad. You'll feel good about the quick action it will bring. Ask for Classified Ads.
